The volunteers were practically free for the first day A few had to do guard duty, but the rest of the regiment spread itself over the city, a very few of them gave way to the feeling of exhaustion resulting from the nights journey and for a nap. With the great majority of them it was their first sight of Ottawa, and were bound to see as much of Canada's capital as possible. Of course were the central magnet of attraction, and numerous squads of the volunteers inspected the immense buildings in all its departments. Some of the most active climbed to the top of the main tower where they hung like small red spiders viewing the landscape o'er. The House of Commons went into session shortly after three o'clock, and large numbers availed themselves of the opportunity of being present. The officers, by the courtesy of the Sergeant-at-Arms, occupied the Speaker's gallery.

CREPT INTO A QUIET CORNER

Ottawa, besides its parliamentary and other fine public buildings, is noted for the fact that it has more street backs to the square inch than any other place in the world, though the competition does not seem to have much effect on their rates. But the latest attraction is the new electric street railway, which was opened on Monday, and the citizens watched the cars as they flitted by, without any apparent means of locomotion, with the same novel interest the aborigines of former days evinced in the new commonplace steam horse. Ottawa in this respect is only a step in advance of Peterborough, for we fully expect to have our electric railway built this year, or next at latest.

It is safe to say, also, that Ottawa never entertained a better-behaved battalion than the 57th. The men's conduct was almost faultless, and they showed that they knew how to wear Her Majesty's uniform without disgracing it.

When night fell the men were ready for bed and before midnight there were few vacant couches in the camp. There was a wholesale foraging for blankets, the government supply being rather meagre, and some of the late comers had to sleep as best they could.

About one o'clock the camp was awakened by the Highlandman's pibroch, as the Royal Scots of Montreal marched on to the ground and went into tents close to the 57th, in readiness for the demonstration on the morrow.

DOMINION DAY.

The First of July broke bright and fair, but the promise of a fine day was broken early in the afternoon, and the torrents of rain which fell put an end to all out-door sports. Ottawa celebrated Dominion Day in grand style, the military portion of course being the principal. At ten o'clock a great crowd of over five thousand people gathered at Cartier Square to witness the military display. Three regiments took part in the movements—our own Rangers, the Royal Scots of Montreal, and the Governor General's Foot Guards of Ottawa, besides a detachment of the Ottawa Field Battery. It was a pretty and imposing sight. All eyes were concentrated on the visiting regiments. The Royal Scots, in their rich, kilted uniforms, looked quite picturesque and decidedly soldierly. They were almost up to the same strength as the 57th, and an extremely well-drilled body of men. They have a good band also, and a number of pipers who gave frequent "skirls" during the day. The Peterborough Rangers caught the admiration of the crowd by their steady deportment and fine appearance. The battalion never marched better, and in the march past were rewarded with hearty applause. They were evidently the cleanest, brightest corps on the ground. During the review the Royal Scots trooped the colors in good form.

THE STREET PARADE.

Afterwards the brigade marched out upon the streets, the band and three companies of the Guards leading, followed by the Royal Scots, the 57th coming last, but not least. The Guards were under command of Colonel Todd, the Royal Scots of Colonel Caverhill, The 57th paraded just three hundred strong, as follows:—

Lieut.-Colonel Rogers, commanding; Major Bell, Major Edwards, Acting Adjutant, Surgeon Halliday, Paymaster Capt. Howard, Capt. Langford, Acting Quartermaster Forbes.

A Co.—Capt. Mason, Lieut. Tebb, 41 non-coms. and men.

B Co.—Lieut. Schofield, 42 non-coms. and men.

C Co.—Capt. Hill, Lieut. Stevenson, 38 non-coms. and men.

Color Party in charge of Lieut. Orr and Lieut. Saider (attached).

D Co.—Capt. Lesh (whose promotion from the Hastenaney will be gazetted shortly), Lieut. Hayes, 37 non-coms. and men.

E Co.—Capt. Miller, Lieut. Matthews, 43 non coms. and men.

F Co.—Capt. Brennan, Lieut. Forbes (attached). 44 non-coms. and men.

The band preceded the battalion 30 strong under Bandmaster Miller, and needless to say our band gave a good account of itself, and ranked second to none.

The route of march was about a mile and a half long, and at one place the brigade ascended the slopes and marched past just as the great cannons were booming out the noon hour. A party of Parliamentarians, among them Peterborough's representative, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., occupied a position on the steps, and the 57th alone received applause from them. During the entire parade the regiments were frequently given applause, a marked contrast to the silent reception usually accorded the troops in Peterborough. However, from the hearty manner in which our citizens showed their sympathy with the regiment Monday night, it is evident that a military spirit is being instilled into them, and they are beginning to understand the encouragement to the troops there is in a little manifestation of their approval. The men brace up and step out with the renewed briskiness when they get a good cheer and hand-clap.

IN FRONT OF THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

THE AFTERNOON.

After parade the regiments were disbanded and the volunteers were entertained at dinner in the drill shed. Seven or eight hundred men sat down to the tables, and speeches were afterwards made by the Mayor and others.

There were other features of the demonstration. In the forenoon the fire brigade of the city held a parade. In the afternoon there were sports on Landsdowne Park, and on the Metropolitan Park Cornwall and Ottawa lacrosse clubs were billed to play. But the rain put a stop to these amusements. Before they had got nicely started a heavy thunderstorm swept over the city. About ten o'clock the 57th embarked for Peterborough, arriving home in time for those to go to work who felt capable of it. The up trip was a memorable one. Hilarity reigned from one end of the train to the other, and the boys wound up their fun with a grand spiarge. The shrapnel and shampoo were operated actively in the officers' car.

And now the volunteers are home, they will have pleasant recollections of their trip, because they feel that, though they had plenty of fun,

THEY DID NOTHING DISGRACEFUL.

There is satisfaction in the knowledge of one's having done a thing well, and the officers and men of the 57th Battalion can take unction to themselves that they have left a good name behind them in Ottawa and that they will be welcomed back again.

On the other hand Ottawa citizens expressed their pleasure and gratification with the 57th Battalion, and from all quarters came the unanimous verdict that the Rangers were thorough soldiers well officered and equipped who knew how to behave as soldiers.

NOTES.

Sergt. Billings was one of the proudest men in the regiment. He marched erect and firm at the head of the band, as become a veteran of 1837-38 and the Crimea. At Ottawa he fell in with a lot of old soldiers of the regular force.

Capt. Burke, of London Infantry School was in Ottawa Dominion Day.

A general spirit of fraternization was manifest amongst the men of the different regiments, and all the Peterborough boys say they were extremely well used by the Ottawa corps.

The officers of the Guards were indefatigable in their attentions to the officers of the 57th. They received them in proper style, gave them the freedom of their club rooms in the armory, entertained them at luncheon at the Russell House Wednesday afternoon, and following that invited them to a lawn tennis party, at which Ottawa's young and fair were present. They were given a warm send-off, as indeed was the whole Battalion.

Quartermaster Langford performed his duties admirably and as a result everything about the camp ran as smoothly as was possible under the circumstances.

The two "war correspondents" who accompanied the expedition were handsomely entertained by the officers—for which many thanks.

The firemen connected with the battalion had a chance to see the Ottawa brigade working. The Citizen office was gutted Tuesday afternoon. Ottawa possesses a good fire brigade.

The band boys are particularly pleased with the way in which they were entertained by the Guards bandmen. The 57th band thought it did the proper things with the Guards band on May 24th, but the latter more than outdid them on this occasion. Nothing reasonable was left undone that might help the Peterborough bandmen to spend a pleasant time.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES ARE CONSIDERED.

Mr Amyot Has a Round With Sir Hector Langevin. Who Owned That Postoffice Box. Dr. Landerkin Treats the House to Some Poetry

OTTAWA, July 2.—The House has been in committee of supply all day considering the supplementary estimates. On the item of $60,000 for the Kingston Graving Dock, Sir Hector Langevin said it was required to complete that work and he expected that the work would be completed in September or October.

Mr. Gibson said the original plans called for an opening of 48 feet. It was afterwards decided upon report to make the opening 60 feet at no extra charge to the country 20 days after the order in council to that effect was carried. The engineer in charge reported that there was no necessity for making the opening 60 feet, that 55 feet was wide enough and that to increase the opening from 48 to 55 feet would require an extra expenditure of $35,000. How was it that a 60-foot opening would cost nothing extra over a 48-foot one, while a 55-foot opening would cost $35,000?

Sir Hector Langevin said Mr. Gibson was entirely mistaken. Of course an enlargement of the work would increase the cost.

Mr. Amyot said he had asked for the name of the lessee of box 534 in Kingston Postoffice in 1890, but the information was refused him. His reason for asking for this information was that one of the tenderers for the graving dock gave that box as his address. He wanted to know who Bancroft was, believing that the information would give a clue to a fraud upon the country.

Mr. Haggart said the post office officials did not keep record of the names of lessees of boxes.

Mr. Amyot urged that a special inquiry should be made because an unknown party had tendered and secured the contract after entering into partnership with Larkin, Connolly & Co. whose tender was higher. Afterwards large sums aggregating $63,000 were allowed in extras.

Sir Richard Cartwright said the Minister of Public Works ought to be able to say who Bancroft was.

Sir Hector Langevin said the contract was awarded to Bancroft the lowest tenderer, who asked to have Larkin, Connolly & Co. joined with him. Bancroft and Connolly were now completing the work.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked who Bancroft was.

Sir Hector Langevin said the contract was no doubt signed by Bancroft and it would be brought down from the department.

Mr. Amyot said that immense sums of money had been spent by the Government during elections, and it was important to know whether it was public money obtained by the manipulation of contracts.

Sir Hector protested that when the papers were brought down it would appear that there was nothing wrong about the contract. In the meantime he asked the committee to suspend judgment and show him fair play.

Mr. Amyot asked that he be allowed to go to the department early to-morrow morning to get the original papers connected with the contract before some mysterious angel had spirited them away.

Sir Hector excitedly declared that the remark was unworthy of the member for Bellechasse. There was no one to interfere with the papers. He would bring down the originals as I have copies. In the meantime it was unfair to attack him.

Mr. Laurier said that if the Postmaster General could not find out the name of the lessee of box 534 in the Kingston Postoffice in 1889 the management of the postoffice required overhauling.

At Mr. Foster's suggestion the item was allowed to stand until the papers were brought down.

On the item of $2000 to pay James Doug las, surveyor of customs, Toronto, an allowance in addition to his salary for services as acting collector, from Nov 1, 1888, to March 1, 1891, Sir Richard Cartwright said that the office had been held vacant for two and a quarter years as a bribe to a political supporter. The office was kept vacant to suit the convenience of a member of the House, and this action was a direct violation of the spirit of the Independence of Parliament Act. It was altogether at variance with the principles of good government.

Mr. Bowell said that in the main Sir Richard was correct, but the practice had prevailed in the past and no doubt would continue to prevail in the future. The good government in a similar way kept vacant the offices of registrars, bailiffs and others. The Ontario law provided that these offices should be filled forthwith, which the Attorney-General interpreted "when convenient." Besides, circumstances sometimes arise when it is not convenient to fill offices immediately. [Laughter.]

Dr. Landerkin created roars of laughter by reading a prom signed John Small which appeared after the elections, and which apparently expressed the gratitude of that gentleman for his appointment. The poem began:

A union of hearts, a union of hands,
A union that none can sever;
A union of lakes, a union of lands,
A Canadian union for ever.

Mr Clarke Wallace—How about G. W. Badgerow in East York?

THE BREWERS OBJECT.

They Wait Upon Mr. Foster and State Their Grievances.

OTTAWA, July 2.—A deputation of brewers, consisting of E. O'Keefe, L. J. Cosgrave, A. Belle, Thomas Davies, J. E. Mulatt, W. J. Thomas, J. Beattie, T. H. Carling, J. Fraser, London; D. J. McCarthy and G. T. Labatt, Prescott; J. M. Lottridge, L. H. Clark, Palmerston; D. Bowie, Brockville; C. N. Rheinhardt, Thomas Cushing, T. J. Maze and H. A. Ehers, Montreal; J. P. Dawes, Lachine, and H. Stopes, London, England, was introduced to Mr. Foster to-day by Mr. Alf. Boultbee. They protested against the addition of one cent per pound to the duty on malt, making it now two cents a pound. This would increase the cost of beer by about three cents per gallon and on the basis of last year's consumption would give a revenue of about $500,000. The deputation wanted the duty to remain at the old figure of 1 cent. Mr. Foster promised to consider the matter but inasmuch as he requires this increased revenue to make up part of the deficiency caused by putting sugar on the free list, it is not likely the brewers' views will be met. Besides, Mr. Foster stated in his budget speech that the brewers would have a quid pro quo in the shape of increased protection. The import duty on ale, beer and porter in casks was increased from 15 to 15 cents per gallon, and on ale, beer and porter in bottles from 15 to 21 cents a gallon. "That is what is added to the cost of malt liquors by the addition of a cent a pound on malt is added to the imported articles in order to make the equivalent."

The committee on agriculture and colonization this morning heard Mr. H. Stopes, a member of the Central Chamber of Agriculture, London, Eng., on the two-rowed barley question. He said that he was satisfied from what he had seen that Canada could grow the finest barley in the world, and the best fitted for brewing. The English brewers might have to pay a little more for it, but it would be found preferable to any other in the end. He was convinced that Canada could completely capture the English market as far as that product was concerned.

Railways and Canals.

OTTAWA, July 2.—At a meeting of the Committee on Railways and Canals to-day a long discussion took place on an act to incorporate the Montreal & Atlantic Railway Company, which is virtually under the control of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The bill was reported. The next bill on the list was the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway, but as it was 5 o'clock before the first mentioned bill was disposed of it was not proceeded with. Mayor McLellan and Messrs. Roach, Doran, Lottridge and Carscallen of Hamilton were in attendance at the committee waiting until their bill was taken up. It is most likely it will be the first order for to-morrow, and the Hamilton delegates will remain over until then.

THE AFFAIR M'GREEVY.

Considerable Evidence is Put in, But No Bomb Shells

OTTAWA, July 2.—At the Privileges and Elections Committee to-day there was a crowded attendance of both members of the committee and outside visitors. In the absence of Mr. Girouard, Mr. Kirkpatrick was called to the chair. It will be remembered that certain notes and cheques, some of which were material to the closing of the examination of Mr. O. E. Murphy, were in the hands of Mr. Fitzpatrick, one of the counsel for Mr. Thos. McGreevy. Notwithstanding the instructions issued, first by the committee and afterwards by the House, that all these papers should be produced, on Friday last Mr. Fitzpatrick was subpœnaed to appear before the committee with these cheques and notes and certain other documents pertinent to the case. This morning he was in attendance, and after handing in a batch of notes and cheques, he asked that notes dated 1st June, 1883, there being five of them, and 2nd June, 1884, which are supposed to corroborate the payment of money to Mr. Thos. McGreevy, be withheld from the witnesses, Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. O. E. Murphy, until such time as they were on their cross-examination. Several members objected to any of the papers being distinguished from the others, but Mr. Kirkpatrick thought they should. Ultimately it was decided to leave all the papers accessible to members of the committee with the exception of the notes in question, which should not be shown to the witnesses, Murphy and Robert McGreevy, until their cross-examination.

Sir John Thompson complained that the examinations of none of the witnesses were yet concluded to permit of cross-examination, and it appeared to him that their examination was never to be closed. It was shown him by Mr. Geoffrion and others that not until this morning were the papers produced necessary to carry on the examination of these witnesses, and it had yet to be ascertained, after looking into them, if they were all produced or not. From the beginning of the investigation the work of the committee was delayed through the other side holding back documents.

The examination of Mr. E. O. Murphy was continued. He identified another batch of letters as being received by himself from the other members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. in regard to the change of the material in respect to the Esquimalt graving dock in British Columbia. These letters also referred to the lengthening of the dock. The reading of the particular letter from Michael Connolly, which referred to Messrs. Baker and Shakespeare, at that time representing Victoria in the Commons, as a "Pretty brace of pirates," created roars of laughter. They demanded $3000 for their influence with Sir Hector, and Connolly promised them $300 each.

THE DIVORCE BILL.

It Arouses Opposition and is Withdrawn by its Promoter.

OTTAWA, July 2.—Senator Macdonald of British Columbia moved the second reading of his bill respecting divorce to-day. The bill provides that the High Court of Justice in Ontario, the Court of Queen's Bench in Manitoba and the Supreme Courts of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and the Northwest Territories shall have the same powers with reference to an action to dissolve marriage or obtain a judicial separation as if such actions were ordinary causes within its jurisdiction.

Senator O'Donohue raised the point that such a bill would be contrary to the provisions of the B.N.A. Act, which give the provinces the right to establish and regulate courts.

Senator Allen was opposed to the bill and felt inclined to move the six months' hoist.

Premier Abbott said the bill had better be withdrawn, which accordingly the promoter did.

A WONDERFUL TRIAL.

THAT OF FRENCHY, THE NEW YORK JACK-THE-RIPPER.

The Strongest Evidence Consists of Little Drops of Blood, But the Microscope Makes Them Tell Forth Frenchy's Guilt—A Scientific Battle.

NEW YORK, July 2.—It is plain that the trial of Ameer Ben Ali is to be the most remarkable scientific battle on record. The testimony of the public officers, the miserable men and women who haunt the Fourth Ward dives is of slight importance compared with the testimony of the microscope, of chemists and of medical scientists. One hundred slides will be placed under the microscope, each slide bearing an infinitesimal drop of blood, and each drop will be explained and analysed by experts.

Some of these drops will be from the gaping intestinal wounds of the murdered woman, while others will be the corpuscles of blood found on the floor and furniture of room 38 in the East River Hotel, where Ameer Ben Ali is said to have slept that awful night.

Yet other drops of blood to be placed under the microscope were taken from the garments worn by the Algerian when he was arrested.

By microscopic tests it was shown that the dark red spots upon the prisoner's shirt and fingers were made by blood mingled with intestinal fluid. The experts testified that in the scraping from Ben Ali's nails were infinitesimal bits of the very food Carrie had eaten, mingled with blood corpuscles. The woman was old and thin-blooded. The blood corpuscles found upon the person of Frenchy No. 1 were shown to have come from an anæmic person. Carrie Brown was choked to death; then her murderer slashed at her senseless body.

The experts for the prosecution testified that minute inspection of the fine, dried blood upon "Frenchy's" hands and clothes showed that it came from a dead, not a living body.

This is the most terrible evidence that could be brought against Ameer Ben Ali. Beside it the detectives' testimony about bloodstains on the floor leading to his room itself sinks into insignificance. But will it be strong enough to overcome the feeling in the prisoner's favor sure to be created by the absence of the man who led her to the death chamber?

The rumor that Inspector Byrnes has a surprise in store which will be sprung at the proper moment has greatly intensified interest in the case and has given the court deputies no little trouble in handling the large crowd that besieged the doors for admission to the court.

The prisoner's lawyers closely examined every witness and are working hard to save their client. They will claim that it was Shakespeare's companion who committed the crime, after which he made his escape by the skylight to the roof.

A Wicked Man

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 2.—Miss Emma Brumler arrived at New Castle Junction Monday evening very disconsolate. She had promised to marry Lewis Richardson and had started to go to him at Pittsburg, where they were to be married. Richardson contrived to get possession of her pocketbook, rings and watch and left the train near Youngstown. Her pocketbook contained all her money, about $100. In an envelope that he had given her to keep for him she afterwards found the following note:

"On the road, June 29, 1891. Miss Brumler—Your bird has gone west and you are at rest, so deal with me as you think best. But find me first. LEWIS RICHARDSON.

Hippolyte Should Banish Himself.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A number of New York merchants have received letters by the steamer Adirondack, just arrived here from various Haytian ports. The letters state that since the demand made by the French Minister for indemnity for the killing of M. Reignaud, foreigners are treated with consideration, and that the reported assassination of President Hippolyte was made an event of great rejoicing by the people of Hayti. The report, when it reached Hippolyte, had one salutary effect on him, for he immediately ceased his wholesale slaughters and modified the penalty for treason against the Government to exile, over 100 men being banished from the island.

Another Bear Heard From.

MARKDALE, July 2.—Robert Torry's farm is four miles from Markdale and last night about 1 o'clock, Mrs. Torry was awakened by the sheep running in a field near the house. She got up and by the light of the moon saw a bear catch a sheep and trudge off with it and when coming to the fence throw the sheep across and then followed. The family arose and scared the animal off, but the sheep died. Everybody is out with a gun to-day.

Fell From a Fourth Story Window

BOSTON, July 2.—Yesterday afternoon Florence Kennedy, a child of 4½ years, who is on a visit from Brooklyn, N.Y., fell from the fourth story window at 507 Main-street, Charlestown. She struck on an awning over a drug store and rolled off to the sidewalk, and was found to be but slightly injured.

Accident to Montrealers.

MONTREAL, July 2.—News was received in this city yesterday of an accident to Mr. Low Rohdt of the Theatre Royal and Mr. M. J. Jacobs, son of Mr. H. R. Jacobs. Both gentlemen were driving just east of Central Park, New York, when the team became frightened and ran with great speed down the street until Fifth-avenue was reached. Here the wheels came in contact with a dray and the light wagon was overturned. Mr. Jacobs has recovered but Mr. Rohdt has been confined to his bed since the accident.

A Powerful Sermon

BELLEVILLE, July 2.—All records for sleeping in church were broken here on Sunday night. A gentleman went to one of the churches and became drowsy. While in this condition he stretched himself out at full length on one of the comfortable seats and went to sleep. The service proceeded; the audience dispersed; the lights were put out; the church locked up, but on slept the church goer. At last towards midnight, when no had not returned home, the question arose, "where is he?" and as the last that could be heard of him was that he was last seen asleep in the church, the authorities of the church were awakened, the church searched, and there the hero of the longest sleep in church was found, oblivious of his surroundings.

A Slothful Husband.

NEWBURG, July 2.—Mrs. Simon Relyea, a young and attractive woman, who resided at Nilton, Ulster County, eloped on Saturday last with a man named Ham. When Mrs. Relyea left home she told her husband that she was going to Waterbury, Conn., and expressed the wish that he should remain at home. Relyea was suspicious, however, and went with his wife to Fishkill. Here Ham joined the couple and succeeded in filling Relyea with whisky. Relyea fell asleep in a saloon and the couple left for parts unknown. Relyea has obtained a warrant for the arrest of the elopers, and a deputy sheriff is now in pursuit of the pair.

He Will Not Suit.

DUBLIN, July 2.—The Irish Roman Catholic bishops, at a meeting held here yesterday, reaffirmed their former declarations that Mr. Parnell was unfit to be the leader of the Irish people, that he was unworthy of the confidence of the Roman Catholics, and calling upon Irishmen to repudiate him.

Bardsley's Fate.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Ex-City Treasurer John Bardsley was sentenced this morning by Judge Wilson to 15 years' solitary confinement in the Eastern Penitentiary and to pay a fine equaling the sum to which he pleaded guilty of stealing.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Doings of a day in the Queen City.

TORONTO, July 3.—Great preparations are under way for the National Teachers' Convention, and committees are arranging with all the hotels, boarding houses and private families to take in as many of the visitors as possible. They will begin to arrive about the 9th.

A farmer named Arthur Gregory aged 71, of Oxford County, was admitted to the hospital yesterday suffering from a fractured thigh. The injury was sustained while stepping off the steamship Polynesian in Montreal Tuesday on returning from a trip to England.

During June 256 patients were admitted to the hospital and 273 discharged. The number of patients in the institution June 30 was 208. A curious coincidence was that the births and deaths were equal, 14. Nearly 1000 patients received outdoor treatment and medicine during the month.

William and Albert Hulme are brothers, but brotherly love does not rule their actions. Wednesday night during an altercation William drew a knife across his brother's throat, inflicting a painful but not serious wound. William was locked up in Wiltonavenue Station yesterday charged with felonious wounding. The Hulmes live at 91 Cherry-street.

Robert Shearer, 159 Claremont-street, a teamster, was arrested last night on a charge of seduction preferred by a girl named Sarah Winkeworth. The girl says that a child, of which Shearer is the father, was born three months ago, the little thing dying within the past three days. The mother went to Shearer, so the police say, for money to pay for the burial of the unfortunate. This he refused to furnish, and she promptly had him arrested under the Charlton Act.

There was a lively time on King-street near Toronto-street about 10 o'clock last night. A liveryman named William Muir doing business at 264½ King-street east caused the arrest near the corner of a girl named Mary Mills on a charge of stealing two knee rugs from him. When the constable caught hold of Mary she fought like a tiger and the officer had to call the assistance of a comrade to bring the woman to headquarters. Once in the cell she started to yell against time, and at 1.30 this morning she was still shouting.

A meeting of the Board of Regents of Victoria University was held in Wesley building yesterday afternoon. They discussed the projected removal of the college from Cobourg to Toronto without waiting for the completion of their new building here. To move here at present would necessitate the hiring of a building, so the board decided not to move for two years, by which time their own building will be completed.

Captain Ward, of the Dominion Life Saving Station on the Island, and Mr. John Hanlan addressed the special life-saving committee of the City Council, which met yesterday. Both urged the formation of a city life-saving crew. Captain Ward thought that a first-class steam lifeboat ought to be provided and that, in addition to patroling the Bay looking out for drowning accidents, the crew should have police powers. Mr. Hanlan held that the crew should be kept in commission summer and winter, and in addition suggested that an inspection of boats for hire should be made every season in order to see that they were safe and fit to go on the Bay. The committee determined to ask for a grant of $1500 to carry out the suggestions.

The Canadian international team of cricketers, to oppose the United States eleven at Rosedale on July 13 and following days, has been completed. At the meeting last night the resignations of Messrs. Henry and Bengough of Halifax were accepted. The four vacancies were filled by the appointment of Messrs. W. C. Little, Ottawa; Rev. Mr. Terry, London; M. Boyd and W. R. Wilson, Toronto. F. S. Dickey is the spare man.

Toronto, Hamilton, London, Rosedale, Ottawa and Halifax are represented on the team as follows:

Toronto—D. W. Saunders (capt.), P. C. Goldingham, W. W. Jones, M. Boyd, W. R. Wilson.
Halifax—Messrs. Stockwell and Kaiser.
Hamilton—A. Gillespie.
London—Rev. Mr. Terry.
Ottawa—W. C. Little.
Rosedale—G. S. Lyon.

A Bad Runaway.

BARRIE, July 2.—A serious runaway accident occurred on Bradford-street near Allandale. The horses of Robert McConkey ran away and ran into Timothy Conlin's team near Looker's butcher shop throwing McConkey out, but did not do him much harm. McConkey's horses then broke clear of the rig and Harry Collins, driver of Simpson & Co.'s brewery wagon tried to stop the runaway horses and was caught around the right leg by the trace chain and dragged along over 50 yards striking against obstructions in the way and bounced up four or five feet from the ground and dashed down again. He was picked up in an insensible condition and taken to his home in the west end of the town. Dr. R. A. Ross was called in to attend the injured man and found four ribs broken his right leg lacerated and his body severely bruised generally.

Tried to Drown Herself.

OWEN SOUND, July 2.—A few minutes after the steamer Atlantic left Mauitowaning yesterday, a Miss Fleming from near Owen Sound, who was on board in charge of her father, got out of her stateroom window and dropped into the water by the fender rope. Capt. Foote, who fortunately saw the young woman standing on the guard or railing of the steamer near the forward gangway, rushed to the spot, but being too late to catch her before she let go the fender line, he at once reversed the steamer, which was under full headway, and had a boat lowered to the water. The girl was rescued and taken ashore.

Prince George Called Home.

HALIFAX, July 2.—Prince George has received orders to sail for England. He leaves in H.M.S. Thrush on July 14 for Portsmouth. The Bellerophon leaves in August for Prince Edward's Island and Sydney. According to the present arrangement the Bellerophon will not go to Quebec this week. The Canada is expected to leave on the 20th inst for Montreal. H.M.S. Tartar is expected to be commissioned for service on the North American and West Indian Station about July 14.

The Razor Fiend.

HAMILTON, July 2.—William Muirhead, Wentworth-street, was arrested to-day charged with fighting and attacking George Davies with a razor. Muirhead was quarrelling with a man at the corner of Bay and Barton-streets, when Beavis separated in and tried to separate them. For his attention Beavis was slashed on the hand with a razor Muirhead was flourishing like a madman.

Going to Alabama.

BRAMPTON, July 2.—About 30 of the admirers of Mr. McIntyre, night operator and ticket agent at the G.T.R. station, who is leaving for Mobile, Ala., met in the Queen's Hotel and presented him with an illuminated address, a handsome dressing case and a purse with a large sum of money. Mr. McIntyre has been here five years and was highly respected by all who knew him. Mr Bruskey of the Merchants' Bank, Mr. Cruse of the Dominion Bank and Mr. John Huxley all spoke of him in the most complimentary manner.

A Baby Drowned.

COLBORNE, July 2.—The two-year-old boy of Mr. John Kernaghan, who lives on the lake shore south of Wicklow, wandered out to the road, the front gate having been unfortunately left open, and coming to the bridge which spans a small stream crossing the road, walked off into the stream and was drowned.

"Just as Good."

Say some dealers who try to sell a substitute preparation when a customer calls for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not allow any such false statements as this induce you to buy what you do not want. Remember that the only reason for making it is that a few cents more profit will be made on the substitute. Insist upon having the best medicine—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is peculiar to itself.

SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6 371,599 15
Increase over 1889	2 268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889 678 87
Increase over 1889	325 938 25
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514 19
Increase over 1889	687,691 47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109 222 68
Increase over 1889	567 732 71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232.175.69
Increase over 1889	75.649 05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07
" " " " 1886, "	80.452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

Second Class—1 Bert Huston, 2 John Rose, 3 Ellie Hambidge. Senior Part Second—1 Oscar Matchett, 2 Ernie Guthrie, 3 Louis Downer. Junior Part Second—1 Stephen Rose, 2 Harry Mitchell, Willie Guthrie. Senior First—1 Bert Deyell, 2 Frank Stewart, 3 Amy Rose. Junior First—1 Willie Huston, 2 Luella Deyell, 3 Maud Molaurin.

Average for the half year and for June, 35.

School re-opens Monday, August 17.

CLOSING EXAMINATION.—On Monday, June 29, the half year's work was brought to a close by a public examination, at which several of the parents and others in the section interested in education were present. After the examination there was a short entertainment, consisting of music, recitations, readings, etc. The presence of so many visitors on such occasions as these can not fail to encourage the scholars in their work, and is is hoped that on similar occasions in the future, the attendance will be even larger than it was this time.

CROPS AND WEATHER.—The splendid rain of July 1st was very welcome, as everything suffered on account of the dry weather. Hay is a very light crop, but other crops promise to be up to the average, if we are favoured with occasional showers.

SABBATH SCHOOL NOTES.—Cold Springs Union Sabbath School has purchased an organ from Mr. Crosby, through Mr. John Cunningham, for use in Sabbath School, Bible Class and Y.P.S.C.E. meetings. It will certainly make the exercises more interesting and enjoyable.

Grand Closing Entertainment at No. 8

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Last night (June 29th) the residents of this part of Otonabee enjoyed one of the most pleasing entertainments that has ever taken place in our township. The entertainment was given at the closing of the school for the holiday season. There were nearly three hundred persons present, and they enjoyed the pleasures of the evening immensely. The entertainment consisted of choruses, readings, recitations, songs, dialogues, vocal and instrumental music and tableaux, of which the following was the programme:

PROGRAMME.

Opening Chorus—Come where the Lilies Bloom ..... Pupils.
Recitation ..... Spring Time Wishes ..... Six Small Girls.
Song ..... There's a Dear Spot in Ireland ..... Misses L. & K. Wilson, A. Crowley and M. Gillespie Violin ..... Selected ..... Messrs. R. & A. and Miss Wilson.
Dialogue ..... Too Greedy by Half ..... Masters M. Duffus, A. Thompson, J. C. Cary, Sept. ..... Time will Roll the Clouds Away ..... Mrs. M. Galvin.
Chorus ..... Sailing ..... Pupils.
Mouth Organ ..... Selected ..... Messrs. T. Cleary and R. Wilson.
Vocal Duet—The Irish Washerwoman ..... Mrs. M. Galvin and Miss McCarthy.
Reading ..... Selected ..... Mr. T. Cleary.
Recitation ..... Each Season is Best ..... Four Small Boys.
Dialogue ..... Aunt Polly's Lesson ..... Misses A. Crowley, M. Gillespie, L. and K. Wilson.
Violin ..... Selected ..... Messrs. R. and A. and Miss Wilson.
Recitation ..... If I had the Money ..... Misses K. Long, M. and J. Hallihan.
Chorus ..... Old Black Joe ..... Pupils
Mouth Organ ..... Messrs R. Wilson and T. Cleary.
Song ..... We Parted by the River Side ..... Mrs. M. Galvin.
Dialogue ..... Mrs. Buttermilk ..... Misses N. Wilson, K. Scollie, Mrs. A. Wilson.
Song ..... Jenny, the Flower of Kildare ..... Misses F. and K. Wilson.
Recitation ..... The Little Stowaway ..... Miss Jenette Jackson.
Mouth Organ ..... Selected ..... Messrs. T. Cleary and R. Wilson.
Tableau Vivant—The Soldier's Farewell.

The talent employed was entirely of the young ladies and gentlemen and school children of our section, and the parts were all rendered in a highly creditable manner. Some of the performers were loudly encored especially Mr. James Wilson and family for their instrumental music, and a mouth organ selection by Messrs T. Cleary and R. Wilson. The whole management of the entertainment was conducted by our able and efficient teacher Miss M. McCarthy, who has won for herself the esteem of all our people.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. G. Weir, who paid a high compliment to Miss McCarthy for the able manner in which she conducted the affairs of the school, and the rapid progress the pupils had made in their studies during the two years she had charge of the school.

When the programme was completed two handsome presents were given by the teacher as a reward to the boy and girl who sold the most tickets for the entertainment. For the girls, Miss M. Gillespie, obtained the prize, and that intended for the successful boy was won by Master M. Duffus. The chairman in suitable and encouraging words made the presentation, after which the whole company partook of a supper provided by the liberality of the people.

After supper it was moved by Mr. James Wilson and seconded by Mr. Peter Gillespie, that a vote of thanks be given to Miss McCarthy for her earnest endeavour and successful management of this pleasant entertainment. The chairman in putting this motion expressed his belief that the people of school section No. 8 could not by a show of hands sufficiently express their appreciation of Miss McCarthy's worth, therefore he called for three cheers, and they were given as only a united people can cheer.

It was moved by Mr. James Duffus and seconded by Mr Samuel Redmond that a vote of thanks be given to those from the surrounding sections who assisted and patronized the enterprise. This was given with a will.

It was moved by Mr. William Buck and seconded by Miss McCarthy, that three cheers be given to the chairman for his kind assistance. This was given in a rousing manner.

The entertainment of the evening was then brought to a close with select music by Messrs. T. Cleary and B. Wilson, accompanied by a step dance by little three-year-old Vincent Galvin, who brought down the house with his wonderful alacrity, precision, and nicely trained manner. He was encored, but only advanced, bowed politely, threw a kiss to the audience and retired. Miss McCarthy may well be proud of her pupils, who took their parts so well, showing careful training. The truth of the remark of the chairman, that the pupils' mental training was in safe hands with their present teacher, was assented to by all, and hand-shaking and congratulations to her were heard on all sides.

Since the above report was received, the EXAMINER is informed that the net cash proceeds of the concert was $18, which is to be devoted to the purchase of maps and other school supplies.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The picnic arranged to be held on Dominion Day at Magee's Corners, was on account of the rain postponed until Tuesday next, 7th inst, when, weather permitting, it is hoped a large number will be present. Operations begin at 2 o'clock. Tuesday, 7th inst., don't forget.

Eight Thousand Wanted

For Institute Additions to the Central School Buildings.

At a special meeting of the School Board held on Monday evening to receive and consider the report of the special committee appointed to have prepared plans for a proposed addition to the smaller of the Central School buildings for the use of the Collegiate Institute, there were present Chairman Wrighton and Messrs. Stevenson, Bradburn, McKee, Ferguson, Hamilton, Corkery, McKeim and Dumble.

Mr. BRADBURN, chairman of the special committee, presented the report, as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee appointed to procure plans for a four-room addition to the Central School building beg to report that they have received plans from Mr. Belcher and from Mr. Blackwell and they now recommend the adoption of Mr. Blackwell's plans, but at the same time they would suggest that the other architect be paid for his work, as the plans furnished are very similar, they having been altered as suggested by your committee. Your committee also recommend that the architect be not paid the usual architect's commission for the Smead-Dowd contract for heating.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. E. BRADBURN,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

After some familiar discussion as to details of the plans adopted.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. McKee that the Building Committee be instructed to secure tenders for the construction of the addition to the Central school (small buildings) and submit the tenders to this board—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, that the council be advised that the School Board will require, forthwith, for the purpose of making an addition to the smaller Central School building and procuring furniture, the sum of $8,000 in addition to the annual yearly appropriation—Carried.

Mr. DUMBLE brought up the subject of appointing a committee to consider the advisability of adopting the new regulation with regard to the admission of outside pupils to the Institute, and he moved, seconded by Mr. McBain, that Messrs. Dr. Boucher, the chairman and the mover and seconder be a committee to consider and report upon the advisability of admitting country pupils to the Institute upon the same terms as town pupils.

The matter of repairing the roof of the large Institute building which in some places is not water-tight, was informally considered as well as other minor details of repairs to other buildings, after which the Board adjourned.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LUMBERING.—The waters around here present a lively appearance at present, being literally covered with logs. A drive of fifty thousand pieces, the property of the Gilmour Company of Trenton, passed over the slide here a few days ago and are now on the way to Lakefield. This drive is composed of as fine specimens of timber as has passed through here in many years. Then comes a large drive of the Lakefield Lumber Company under the formanship of Mr. Giles Stone. Following this comes several large blocks belonging to the Dickson Company of Peterborough. They are about to run over the dam here now, and in a few days the lakes will be clear of logs. Nor is our local sawmill idle. Mr. C. Young has his logs boomed in a convenient place, and they will be sufficient to keep the mill humming all season, and the lumber yard is filling up rapidly.

LOW WATER.—The water is very low in the river here and continues to fall rapidly, and unless some measures are immediately taken by the Trent Valley engineer to preserve the water for the summer season, the steamboats will soon have to tie up at their docks.

PUBLIC WORKS.—The new swing bridge which is being erected across the canal here, under the supervision of Mr. George Delewry, of Lindsay, will be completed in a few days. A scow is used as a temporary bridge while the new bridge is being built. This is but another proof of the promptness with which the Ontario Government attends to the wants of the general public.

The county bridge across the river here has at last been replanked. The work was well and promptly done by Mr. Wm. McGregor and a staff of men.

The rollers for the canoe slide, which was erected here last summer, arrived last week and were placed in position by Mr. McGregor. This is a vast improvement, and will prove a great convenience to canoeists, who will now be saved the trouble of "carrying over."

Cæsar's famous "Veni, vidi, vici,"—I came, I saw, I conquered—might be an appropriate motto for Ayer's Sarsaparilla. We charge nothing for the suggestion. This great blood-purifier conquers wherever it comes, and is now absolutely without equal in the world.

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

AN ACTOR'S DIVORCE.

He Wants to Get Free from His Mamil ton Wife.

HAMILTON, July 1.—A sensational divorce case, in which a Hamilton woman is defendant, came up before Judge Tuley at Chicago on Saturday. The plaintiff made some dramatic revelations, and if his story is true the case is on a par with the notorious Eva Hamilton scandal.

Richard O'Gorman, an actor in the Straight Tip Company, applied for a divorce from Martha Jane O'Gorman, to whom he was married in 1876 at Hamilton. In his bill O'Gorman alleges that he became acquainted with and was on intimate terms with Miss Martha Jane Jones a year previous to their marriage. A few months previous to the union he received a telegram to come home, that a child was born. Believing it to be longed to him he returned and married the girl. He supported his family until January, 1887, when his suspicions were aroused by the actions of his wife with a physician. Upon an investigation of his wife's history, he claims to have discovered that he was not the father of the child; that the mother of the infant was one Nellie Mitchell, an abandoned woman, and the fa ther was an outlaw. A job had been put up on him, he contends, for the purpose of compelling him to marry Miss Jones. But the actor consented to have the charge changed to desertion, and on that point only he gave evidence. He told the judge that he gave his wife no provocation to leave him, as he gave her as much as $100 a week for support. He said he could prove it by letters and the judge instructed him to produce his letters in court.

HE FOUGHT SNAKES.

A Fierce Battle in Which the Rattlers Got Whipped.

WOLVERINE, Mich., July 1.—John Foster, with two companions, went into the woods near Rondo lumber prospecting. All three got drunk and Foster determined to visit a spot known as the Devil's Kitchen, which is fairly alive with rattlesnakes. He had no sooner reached the bottom of the pass than rattlers crowded around him on every side. His companions were too much frightened to help him and for half an hour he battled alone with club and knife until 19 rattlers lay dead around him. He was bitten in several places and his high rubber boots had been riddled full of holes by the fangs of the serpents. He came to Rondo with 19 snakes tied up in a bundle.

Indecent Assault.

HAMILTON, July 1. A middle-aged man named Francis Graveille was tried before Judge Muir to-day on a charge of indecently assaulting a six-year-old girl named Lily Ogg in Dundas. The prisoner appears to be half witted, the result of a sunstroke. He has friends in Dundas and Greensville, but none of them were to court, so his Honor found him guilty and remanded him until Thursday for sentence.

Traffic Stopped.

NEW YORK, July 1.—A Herald despatch from Montreal, Que., says: "The order of the court appointing Mr. Grinsby sequestrator of the Montreal & Sorel Railway to represent the English bondholders has virtually suspended traffic on that line. Yesterday a train was seized at Sorel by the authorities. The matter, which is exceedingly annoying to the people living along the line and merchants shipping over it, will be immediately tested in the courts."

The Quarantine Removed

WASHINGTON, June 28. The Canadian Government having complied with the requirements of Secretary Rusk's order, imposing a 15 days' quarantine on all sheep and swine entering this country from Canada by itself and establishing a similar quarantine on all sheep and swine imported into the Dominion from Great Britain or the continent of Europe, the Secretary has revoked his order as affecting Canadian sheep and swine. Sheep and swine may therefore be imported into the United States from Canada subject only to the regular inspection of our veterinary officers and to a certificate from the proper quarantine officers in Canada in the case of imported animals showing them to have been duly quarantined.

A Big Fire.

COLBORNE, June 29.—About 12:30 this afternoon fire broke out in a barn owned by G. M. Tisdale. It was entirely destroyed, but was insured in the Phœnix. Cause of fire unknown.

Dropped Dead.

CLINTON, June 29.—A very sudden death occurred here yesterday. Richard Murphy, formerly a merchant of Stratford, was here on a visit to his brother and was standing in the yard before Mr. Ben Churchill's residence talking to some friends when he suddenly fell dead at their feet.

Where it Was Hot

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—The signal service reports that yesterday was the hottest day in San Francisco since 1877, the thermometer registering 92 degrees, or an equivalent of 107 degrees on the streets.

Cruel Whipping by Whitecaps.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., July 1. There was another brutal whipping by Whitecaps in Crawford county Sunday in which a young woman of 18 years was one of the victims. William McGuire and his 18-year-old stepdaughter live near Leavenworth, the county seat of Crawford county. They were suspected of living in adultery, but there was no proof of this charge. Sunday morning 20 masked Whitecaps, all armed with revolvers, went to the McGuire residence, broke down the doors, and seizing McGuire, who is about 50 years old, and the stepdaughter they dragged them to the woods and tied them face foremost to trees. Then the Whitecaps commenced their cruel work of switching them on the bare backs. The young woman shrieked for mercy at every blow until she sank fainting from the pain. She received over 50 lashes and her shoulders, back and hips are frightfully lacerated. McGuire was given about 75 lashes, he also fainting under the savage punishment. After the whipping the Whitecaps notified their victims that if they were found in the county 20 days later they would be hung up by the necks and left for buzzards to pick. This infamous whipping of a helpless, defenceless girl, has created the most intense excitement.

Fireman Injured

MONTREAL, July 1. While Captain Pat Peltier of No. 5 station was working at a fire yesterday, the glass from a skylight over the door dropped out, and falling on his wrist cut it terribly. The blood flowed freely, as the arteries were severed, and the unfortunate had to go to the general hospital to have it attended to.

SIR JOHN'S LAST LETTER.

An Interesting Epistle Written by Him to Premier Robson of British Columbia.

The last letter written by Sir John Macdonald is said to have been one to Premier Robson of British Columbia as follows:—

"EARNSCLIFFE,
"Ottawa, May 19, 1891.

"MY DEAR ROBSON,—It has occurred to me that the present would be an opportune season for your Government to discuss with ours the various questions still unsettled between them. You, I presume, can get away from Victoria with little or no inconvenience, and you will find us here in Parliamentary session until the first of July, or later. We will then scatter until October, and at that season you, I suppose, will be wanted at home. Besides, it will be a pleasant season for your journey.—so, give yourself leave of absence, and Dewdney, you and I can take up and say other unsolved questions that may remain. Herein fail not.

"Yours sincerely,
"JOHN A. MACDONALD."

According to The Victoria Colonist, Mr. Dewdney and Mr. Joseph Pope both vouch that this was his last letter. The subject on which it treats, that of the relations between the Provinces and the Dominion, is one which must soon be dealt with in a statesmanlike manner.

"Mother Goose."

"Mother Goose," was a real character, and not an imaginary personage, as has been supposed. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Foster, and she was born in 1665. She married Isaac Goose in 1693, and a few years after became a member of Old South Church, Boston, and died in 1757, aged 92 years. The first edition of her songs, which were originally sung to her grandchildren, was published in Boston in 1716 by her son-in-law, Thomas Fleet. The house in which a great part of her life was spent was a low, one-story building, with dormer windows and a red-tiled roof, look ng something like an old English country cottage.

Why She Wept.

A lady called on a friend who had only been married a few years, and was surprised to find her in tears.

"I am the most unhappy woman, and it is all on account of my husband."

"Why, your husband lives for you alone. He stays at home all the time; he never goes among from home; he never brings any of his friends to the house."

"Yes," replied the unfortunate woman, putting her handkerchief to her eyes and sobbing convulsively, "that's—what—makes—me—so—miserable."

Anecdote of the Late Premier.

A tale is told of Sir John Macdonald when he was seriously sick in 1870, and was so reduced that his medical attendant would only give him the soft portion of an oyster and a little claret at a time. Sir John, though by no means a great eater, wanted more and asked for more. "You must be contented, Sir John," was the reply, "remember, the hopes of Canada are on you." "Well, doctor," said Sir John, "it's a funny thing if the hopes of Canada rest on half an oyster."—Kingston News.

What In a Name?

A paper complains—the papers are always complaining about something that can't be helped—because more girls are not named Eve, when so many men are named Adam. Oh, well! what mother wants to name her daughter for a woman who married the first man she saw as soon as she saw him? And see the kind of a man she got!

Getting Acquainted.

"How are your new neighbors? Sociable?" "Oh, yes. Very. They've borrowed four pounds of butter, ten eggs, a step ladder and ten yards of hose inside of twenty-four hours."

Go tell it, ye breezes, from desert to sea,
The "Prescription" has triumphed, fair woman is free!

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the one princely remedy above all others. Made expressly for women, it is adapted to her special needs, and fulfils every requirement. No condition so critical as to defy it! No emergency so great as to baffle it! As a woman's restorative and regulator, the "Favorite Prescription" is master of the situation. Positively guaranteed to give satisfaction in all cases, or money paid for it returned. The only medicine for women sold on trial. b

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not cease this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

We have nearly all the requirements of class 'C," and it is possible we will be raised to that class.

Made it Hot for the Doctor.

This morning about 1 30 a fire broke out in the appartments of Dr. Crevier, V. S., over his offices. It is supposed that the fire originated from the explosion of a lamp which had been left burning while the doctor was in the rooms below. The lamp stood near the bedside, and the bed and all the furniture of the vicinity was destroyed before the firemen, who were out promptly, subdued it. The loss is about $150, covered by a policy in the Mercantile, Mr. W. H. Hill, agent.

Sports and Pastimes.

The next few weeks will be quite lively in sporting lines. On the 15th Madoc plays a schedule game of lacrosse here, and on the 10th Port Hope is expected to play a return match. The baseball club has awakened from its lethargy, and the first game of the season will be played on the 13th with the Independents, of Cobourg. On the following Saturday, the 18th, the Excelsiors of Toronto will play here, and it is probable in the meantime that a game will be arranged with Millbrook. These are all home games.

Her Ladyship's Thanks.

His Honour Judge Weller has received the following letter:—

PRIVY COUNCIL OFFICE,
Ottawa, June 27th, 1891.

DEAR SIR,—Lady Macdonald would be obliged by your conveyance to the members of the Grand Jury of the county of Peterborough her grateful thanks for their kind resolution expressive of their regret at the death of Sir John Macdonald, and sympathy with her in her great affliction.

Believe me,
Yours faithfully,
JOSEPH POPE.

His Honour Judge Weller,
Peterborough, Ont.

Echoes of the Trip.

The Montreal Gazette in its report of the military parade at Ottawa Dominion Day, remarks upon the fact that the 57th alone received applause from the Parliamentary party, which it says they deserved, for their marching was splendid, and adds:—"For a country battalion the 57th was a surprise to the Montrealers."

"B" company distinguished itself at Ottawa by organizing a tin horn band, with which they made the streets resound. Everyone enjoyed the fun.

The sergeants of the Guards tendered the sergeants of the 57th and Royal Scots a mess. Sergt. Smith acknowledged the honor on behalf of the 57th sergeants and made quite a speech.

Messrs. Vernon Halliday, W. F. Hamilton, Wm. Armstrong and H. Foote, Peterborough boys, accompanied the Scots from Montreal to Ottawa. Harry Foote has joined the Scots and wore the tasty uniform of that regiment.

The 57th may go to Montreal next year. Both the Scots and the Vics want to come to Peterborough, and the Guards of Ottawa also wish to return.

News Nuggets.

—A meeting of the council of the Board of Trade will be held this evening in the council chamber.

—Merit wins, as the marvellous success of Hood's Sarsaparilla shows. It possesses true medicinal merit. Sold by all druggists.

Personal.

Miss Ludwig, of Montreal, is visiting at Mr. Wm. Lech's.

Miss Sophie Cameron and Miss Mary Paterson left to-day for Belleville for a fortnight's visit with friends in the Bay City.

Mr. Toch. Hualtain was in town yesterday. He has been removed from Toronto to the New York branch of the Bank of Commerce.

Mr. G. W. Haskell, of the firm of Marshall, Field & Co., Chicago, has leased, for a fortnight, "Ivanhoe," Mr. H. Grundy's cottage residence on Stony Lake. Mr. Haskell is delighted with Stony Lake—it is to him infinitely superior in its beautiful and restful seclusion to the bustling stir and loud life of the average American watering place.

Mr. G. H. Allen, formerly representing the Standard Life Assurance Company here, is still pushing the interests of his company in Kingston. A late number of the Whig says: G. H. Allen, inspector of agencies of the Standard Life Assurance Co., accompanied by Dr. J. Herald, left the city to-day for Montreal to close another large loan which Mr. Allen has arranged with Bishop McDonnell in connection with the Roman Catholic episcopal corporation of the diocese of Alexandria. The loan is on the same plan and terms as Archbishop Cleary's loan for Kingston diocese.

St. Joseph's Hospital Social.

A very pleasant and successful social—an appendix to the social on Dominion Day was held in the Hospital grounds last night. There was a good attendance, principally of young persons who spent a most enjoyable evening. A considerable sum was added to the hospital fund.

As an Emergency Medicine, for sudden colds, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral takes the lead of all remedies, a dose or two generally sufficing to stop ordinary coughs and ease the worst. For the cure of throat and lung disorders, this preparation is unequalled.

Resolutions of Condolence

The following resolutions were adopted unanimously at a recent meeting of Court Peterborough, No. 29, C. O. F.—

Moved by Brother S. Milligan and seconded by Brother G. Stenton—That Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, in court assembled, takes this, the first, opportunity to offer to our respected brother James Jackson, its sincerest sympathy and condolence in the great loss he has sustained in the death of his father, and to assure him that his sorrow is shared by this Court, and that a copy of this resolution regularly executed be forwarded to brother Jackson.

Moved by Brother C. Dredge and seconded by Brother W. Hinchcliffe, and resolved: That the members of Court Peterborough, C. O. F., No. 29, wish hereby to place on record their deep sense of the loss they have sustained in the death of Brother Charles J. Ridley, who as a citizen, companion and Forester faithfully lived up to the duties of these several relations; that this Court also desires to convey to his widow and orphaned family its warmest expressions of sympathy and condolence, with the prayer that the Father of the fatherless and the God of the widow may comfort them in their hour of sore bereavement, and that a copy of this resolution duly signed and sealed be sent to Mrs. Ridley.

Moved by Brother G. Carpenter and seconded by Brother W. S. Robinson, and resolved,—That the members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, C O F., learns with the most profound regret of the affliction which has come to our esteemed brother and respected Court Physician, Dr. Yelland, in the removal by death of his wife; feeling especially the peculiar sadness of a bereavement that deprives him of his partner in the full flush of life and in the hope of many happy years of companionship; that the members of this Court tender to him their most sincere and most fraternal expression of condolence and sympathy; and that a copy of this resolution, under the seal of this Court, be forwarded to Dr. Yelland.

Chemong Park Hotel.

The Guest Flag Flung to the Breeze on Dominion Day.

It is probable that no watering place on the continent has so well built an hotel as that of Mr. L. G. Fobert's, of Chemong Park. As a rule, summer place hotels are mere shells constructed of thin boards, through which an enterprising mosquito's beak could be thrust, and through which the sun pours his heat, filling the interior with furnace-like temperature. But Chemong Park Hotel is built of solid brick, and as substantially constructed as though it were in the heart of a city, finished, furnished and equipped thoroughly throughout, the rooms large, well ventilated and cool.

On Dominion Day the Chemong Park Hotel hoisted a brilliant burgee, whose streaming folds, bearing the name of the hotel, indicated that mine host Fobert was "at home" to the public. This flag is a handsome one, and can be seen from a long distance.

The hotel was largely patronized by a large number of guests from Peterborough and elsewhere with the entertainment and courteous attention of Mr. Fobert and his staff. Mr. Alex. Elliott's pavilion was also opened Wednesday, the Sunday school children and the welcome rain attending pretty thoroughly to the christening ceremony. In connection is the grocery shop and supply store, which did a good business on the 1st in spite of the weather. It will be a great convenience to dwellers at the park and excursionists, as a fine stock of first-class groceries is kept. Mr. Elliott is very enterprising, and it is to be hoped that he will be well repaid.

AND ALL WERE DELIGHTED

Mr. John Pope, the obliging and enterprising caretaker of the park, entered into the festal spirit. He had, for the Dominion Day festivities, erected a handsome arch over the steps leading from the wharf, and decorated the evergreen span with flags, etc. Mr. Pope keeps the park and surroundings neat and clean and is pronounced to be the right man in the right place.

Matrimony in North Monaghan

The Barnard-Cumming Nuptials Celebrated.

Dominion day was very appropriately celebrated by Mr. W. A. Barnard, son of Mr. Jos. Barnard, North Monaghan, and Miss Lizzie C. Cumming, third daughter of Mr. W. Cumming, Norwood, who formed a connubial confederation of hearts, hands and fortunes at the altar of Hymen. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's brother, Campbellford, by Rev. S. J. Shorey.

The young couple are very highly respected, the husband in his home, where he is well known and highly thought of. The bride has taught in North Monaghan school section No. 1, and for the past three months in Smith.

Being well thought of, and both being members of North Monaghan Council of Royal Templars, a grand home coming and welcome was arranged. It took place at the residence of Mr. Barnard, which, together with the grounds was gayly illuminated for the occasion. Dinner, to which a large number of guests, including several prominent Peterborough citizens, sat down, was spread in a large tent on the lawn, and followed by toasts and speeches. Then followed a very pleasing feature, the presentation of the following address, read and the accompanying presentation made by the signers to the address, respectively:—

To Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Barnard:

DEAR FRIENDS,—We, the members of North Monaghan Council of Royal Templars, No. 23, desire to take the present opportunity of welcoming you home and of congratulating you both upon the auspicious occasion that signalizes your entrance into the marriage relation. Our congratulations are all the more emphatic and earnest because we know you both so well—know so well your worth as citizens your sterling good qualities as friends and neighbours. More especially would we refer to you, brother Barnard, as a charter member of this council,—to commend your zeal and the interest you have ever shown for the good of the great cause, and we are sure that sister Barnard who is also a valued member of this council, now that she has become a helpmeet to you in domestic matters, will continue to be an earnest assistant to you in your labours for the advancement of the worthy cause of temperance. In pledge of our good wishes and as a token of remembrance we ask your acceptance of this Holy Bible, with the prayer that it may be a lamp to your feet and a light to your path, and that your wedded life may be one of happiness and prosperity, and that you may both live long to labour amongst us and to stimulate us to good works by your worthy example.

Signed on behalf of the council,
HERB. D. WILLIAMSON,
Select Councillor.
LIZZIE FOWLER,
Recording Secretary.

The gift was a magnificent family Bible, a present in beauty and value worthy of the occasion. The happy couple will reside on the Widow Payne farm. Both are very worthy young people and highly respected, and the EXAMINER desires to join their large circle of friends in the heartiest wishes for long life, prosperity and happiness.

Pale and listless girls and prematurely aged women would soon give place to bright, healthy, rosy females if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were used for the ills to which women are peculiarly liable. They enrich the blood, build up the nerves, and restore the shattered system, regulate the periods, etc. Try them and be convinced. Sold by all dealers, or sent post paid on receipt of price—50c per box, or five boxes for $2—by addressing The Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. 6dw24

Killed by the Cars.

RENFREW, Ont., June 25.—Thomas Caldwell of Sydenham fell off an excursion train near here last night and was crushed under the wheels. The body was picked up and turned over to Bertram Bros., undertakers, Harrowsmith. Deceased was 33 years of age.

The Cubby Sleps.

MONTREAL, July 2.—At an early hour yesterday morning another cabman fell off his carriage. This time it was Thomas Daly, and it occurred at the corner of Ontario and St. Lawrence-streets. He was taken to the General Hospital and about 20 stitches were put in his scalp.

CHEATED SIR GORDON.

How a Clever Rogue Is Said to Have Got $2000 from the Baronet.

Lord Bennett, who is at the Richelieu, relates an experience that Sir Gordon Cumming had not long ago. Lord Bennett and Sir Gordon were in a cafe enjoying a bottle of wine. At the next table sat a well-dressed young man apparently deeply interested in a book. Presently he closed his book, paid his bill, and started out of the room. When passing Sir Gordon he kicked his foot quite hard.

"Sir!" exclaimed the young Englishman.

"You wouldn't have done that had you been sober," curtly replied the stranger.

"What do you mean?"

"You attempted to trip me up."

"'Tis a lie!"

"That is an insult and I shall challenge you. Here is my card," and he presented a card upon which was printed: "Baron von Amberg, Belgium."

Sir Gordon immediately handed the man his card and the fellow walked away. "The whole affair happened in a moment," said Lord Bennett, last evening, "and it was quite exciting. We soon left the cafe for home and I was to meet my friend the next day and arrange matters for the affair. When Sir Gordon looked over his cashier's books the next noon he found an item of $2,000 given for especial use.

"'What's this?' asked Sir Gordon.

"'That amount is what you sent for last night.'

"'When?'

"'While playing cards.'

"'But I didn't play cards last night,' exclaimed the excited man.

"'You certainly did, sir, for Baron von Amberg came here for £400 and left his card as well as your order written on one of your cards.'

"Then the cashier showed this card:—

Pay Baron von Amberg 400 pounds.
SIR GORDON CUMMING.

"Would you believe it," concluded Lord Bennett that the challenge was only a clever dodge to get one of Cumming's cards? and the scheme worked beautifully."

ROTATION OF THE GLOBE.

An Experiment to be Made After You Eat an Egg.

When next you chance to eat an egg you can easily make an experiment which is not only productive of much amusement, but also illustrates in a manner so clear and simple that even a child can comprehend it the double movement of the earth, which revolves simultaneously around the sun and on its own axis.

DOUBLE MOVEMENT OF THE EARTH.

Moisten slightly with water the rim of your plate and in the centre paint with the yolk of the egg (you see that you have not far to go for coloring material) a sun with golden rays. Then all that you have to do is to place the empty half shell of your egg on the rim of the plate, and keeping this latter duly sloped and shifting it gradually around so that the shell may always have an inch or two of descending plane before it, you will see the egg shell begin to revolve rapidly on its own axis, at the same time traveling around the plate.

The slight cohesion caused by the water which moistens the plate counteracts the centrifugal force, and so prevents the egg shell falling off the edge of the plate.

HEROIC MRS. GRIMWOOD.

She Lunches With the Queen and May Be Decorated.

LONDON, July 2.—Mrs. F. St. Clair Grimwood, the widow of Mr. F. St. Clair Grimwood, the British Resident of Manipur who lost his life during the massacre at that place in March last, by the Queen's command visited and had lunch with Her Majesty at Windsor Castle this afternoon.

Mrs. Grimwood, it will be remembered, became prominent through the hardships she endured and by her heroic conduct after she escaped from Manipur, in recognition of which the young widow was pensioned and decorated with the Red Cross. There has also been talk of conferring upon her the Victoria Cross, awarded to soldiers, sailors and marines who distinguish themselves brilliantly in the face of the enemy. In this case Mrs. Grimwood would be the only lady upon whom that honor will have been conferred.

The Emperor in Workman's Dress.

LONDON, July 2.—The Emperor objects to having all his movements arranged for him during his visit to England. He has determined to visit the London docks during his stay in the English metropolis. He will go incognito, probably in workman's dress. Everything relating to England's marine power is believed to have a special interest for the Kaiser, who dreams of raising Germany to a front rank as a naval and maritime nation. The English courtiers who have a voice in the Imperial program have tried in vain to divert him from his purpose, but he has failed to take the hints.

The Bishop Matter.

ROME, July 2.—The Pope has written to Cardinal Gibbons declaring that he will never concede to the demands made by Herr Cahensly on behalf of the St. Raphael Societies for the protection of Catholic emigrants in so far as the appointment of national bishops is concerned. The Pope has also refused the petition of the Poles in the United States for the appointment of a Polish bishop.

Bank Discount Reduced.

LONDON, July 2.—The Bank of England has reduced its rate of discount from 3 per cent. to 2½.

Big Market for Rye.

LONDON, July 2.—The Russian rye crop will be bad and there will be no surplus for export. Large German orders have been sent to the United States and Canada. It is reported Russia is also buying in America.

Gored by a Bull.

OTTAWA, July 2.—John Mooney of South Plantagenet, came near losing his life yesterday, and as it is, it is in jeopardy. He was crossing a pasture on his farm when he was chased by a young bull, which broke its tether. The unfortunate man was overtaken before he could reach the next field and knocked down by the infuriated beast and gored severely in the sides, two of his ribs being badly fractured before assistance could arrive. This finally came, two men working on the farm being attracted by Mooney's shouts. The bull was secured with a lasso and a doctor summoned, who attended to the injured man. He was reported in a low state to-day by farmers in to the market from that section.

Adam Brown P.M.

HAMILTON, July 2.—To-day Adam Brown took formal charge of Hamilton postoffice. At 11 o'clock this morning he summoned the employes of the office around him in the open space just behind the wicket and said a few pleasant words to them by way of introduction of himself as their new head. In his own genial way he told them he would expect to find the same energy and attention to duty, the same active and intelligent service which under his predecessor had made the Hamilton postoffice a model for all Canada. Then they gave three cheers for Postmaster Brown, and that was all there was of the installation ceremony. Senator Sanford was present during the proceedings but took no part.

The Prince of Wales at Home.

Guests at Sandringham come and go, invited by the host and hostess, in much the same fashion that governs all country invitations in England, dates being fixed for such visits; but of course it is never etiquette to refuse a royal invitation, no matter what engagement previously made have to be broken.

The routine of life at Sandringham may be generally outlined as follows: The morning is devoted by the prince and princess to their own special pursuits, their guests being free to employ themselves as they like, although it is customary for the princess to send for any one she pleases during the morning, to visit her in her own special sitting room. The guest, on entering the room, must seat himself or herself by royal request—happily the day of standing in royal presence is over—and the visit is entirely informal, although it rests with the royal people to bring it to a conclusion, which is done, every one who knows the princess of Wales says, in such a pretty manner by her that there is no awkward sense of being dismissed. Luncheon is sometimes taken in common, sometimes in separate parties; but the princess invariably invites some of her guests to accompany her in her afternoon drive, ride or walk, and strict punctuality is enforced, the guests always assembling in the drawing-room a few moments before the hour named. Dinner at 8 o'clock is stately and formal, but assembles the entire company, after which there is always half an hour at least of conversation with the princess and her young daughters, now considered in society, in the drawing-room, sometimes music and dancing, while the billiard and smoking-rooms are as informally patronized as in any country-house, the prince being, so every one says, a delightful host.—Lucy C. Lillie in June Lippincott's.

"Rhubarb Pie or Pud?"

I'm sick of rhubarb pie or pud,
It's taste I now since long ago;
I swallow down my daily food,
It isn't more than so-and-so.
But when I've pushed my plate away
The cat escapes, who beside me stood,
Leans over (hear the waitress say):
"Is it rhubarb pie or pud?"

I'm sick of rhubarb pie and pud,
My soul is hankering for a change;
I hope my thoughts are understood,
And that I'll gobble something strange.
The bill of fare doth something lack,
Tho' full of all that's sweet and good,
But still I will not take a whack
At rhubarb pie or rhubarb pud.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of having the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the food we eat, the air we breathe, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

LADIES are good judges of gentlemen's clothes, and some of them even go so far as to "wear the breeches" themselves, when they have invested in a husband. But if every lady who pants after a husband would be wise, she would select only such a man as buys his clothes regularly at DOLAN'S, because she would then know that the style, quality, material and price would fit the pocket-book, as well the suit fitted her husband. THE WORLD'S FAIR.

What Assistance the Government Will Lend—Other Notes.

OTTAWA, July 3.—A deputation from the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario, consisting of R. Vance, Ida, president; Henry Wade, Toronto, secretary; James Rowand, M.P., Dunblane; Ira Morgan, Metcalfe, and Joshua Legge, Gananoque, accompanied by C. Fairbairn, M.P., North Victoria; J. I. Davidson, M.P., South Ontario; J. Featherston, M.P., Peel; R. Beith, M.P., West Durham, and T. D. Craig, M.P., East Durham, waited on the Minister of Agriculture this afternoon to ascertain what assistance they might expect the Government to give intending exhibitors at the World's Columbian Fair to be held in Chicago early in 1893. The deputation asked for free transport for live stock, cereals, manufactures, etc., and the maintenance of a limited number of live stock. This aid was granted in the case of the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. Mr. Carling said he thought there would be no difficulty in getting the Government to take up the matter. In consequence the committees of the several live stock associations will be asked to meet a committee from the Agriculture and Arts Association at once to commence the choosing of animals, etc., as was done in the case of the Centennial.

Ald. G. M. Rose presented Lady Macdonald to day with the resolution of confidence passed by the Toronto Board of Trade.

The bills granting divorces to Arum Rosworm of Ostrey, Isabel Taxley of Hamilton and Thomas Bristow of Bruce were read a second and third time in the Senate to-day. These parties only await royal assent to the bills to become free to marry again.

J. R. Roaf is making an active canvass among the members of the Banking and Commerce Committee in behalf of his bills to repeal parts of the order of Canadian Home Circles and the Ontario Benevolent Society. He is circulating a pamphlet in reply to the adverse report of Mr. Fitzgerald, the superintendent of insurance.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT.

Some of the Members May Speak About It Monday.

OTTAWA, July 3. The House was in Committee of Supply nearly all day passing the supplementary estimates. Afterwards about one-tenth of the resolutions, those necessary to carry on the affairs of State, were concurred in.

At 10 o'clock Sir Hector Langevin moved the adjournment of the House, which was promptly carried, and the Speaker left the House. When the members from a distance recovered from their surprise they found that the House was adjourned until Monday, although it was understood last week that they should sit on Saturday. A peculiar circumstance in this connection is that the House sat on Dominion Day, but will not sit on the 4th of July, the American national holiday.

The I., H. & B. Bill Pass.

OTTAWA, July 3. At a meeting of the committee on Railways and Canals to-day, Sir Hector Langevin in the chair, the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company's bill was first taken up. Mr. Reckman had charge of the bill. Mayor McLellan, ex Mayor Doran and Messrs. Roach, Lethridge and Carscallon of Hamilton were in attendance at the committee. Several clauses were or less important, were adopted and the bill passed the committee with out opposition.

ARE THEY ONE

Frenchy of New York Said to be London's Jack the Ripper.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Frenchy No. 1, the man tried for the murder of old Shakespeare, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. The verdict was most surprising as the crime was peculiarly atrocious and if Frenchy is the guilty party there is no second degree to it.

It is said that documents in his possession have convinced Inspector Byrnes that Frenchy and the London "Jack the Ripper" are one and the same person.

Bradstreet on the Trade Situation

NEW YORK, July 3.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's record the evidences of a week broken by a holiday both in the United States and Canada, which, occurring during the period of midsummer dulness, tends to still further restrict the volume of general business except in a few staple lines. At Boston, Philadelphia, Memphis and San Francisco, rather more than seasonable dulness is reported. At New York, Baltimore, Cleveland and Cincinnati, the volume of goods distributed has been of distinctly up-to-date proportions. From those enterprising centres, Pittsburg, St. Joseph, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago and Duluth, report trade as fair while St. Paul remains conspicuous for more encouraging reports. Wheat crop prospects in the Dominion of Canada continue favorable and exert an influence on general trade, which has heretofore been slow and depressed. Business failures in the Dominion including those for Newfoundland increased 127, or 14 per cent. in six months of 1891 over 1890, while the increase of liabilities was $1,478,253 or 20 per cent.

How Lar' Died.

BROOKLYN, July 3.—The inquest on the body of Theodore Larbig, who was shot by Darwin J. Meserole in the rooms of Mrs. Doris Comstock last Saturday night, was concluded this evening. The jury returned a verdict that Larbig came to his death by a pistol shot fired by Meserole, and that Mrs. Comstock was accessory to the killing.

Fell Against a Buzz Saw.

BUFFALO, July 3. Ernest Voght, 18 years of age, had his head almost cut in twain by a circular saw in the Buffalo box factory this morning. He was employed under the saw bench when his head came in contact with the rapidly revolving saw. A gash in the head long was cut in the skull and the brain injured. He will die.

ESCAPED HIS CAPTORS.

A Young Englishman Outwits the Stouffville Detective.

STOUFFVILLE, July 3.—George Raymer, a young Englishman who has been in this vicinity about two months, is not around to-day, and he is particularly wanted. During his term of residence here he has committed thefts upon Messrs. Ras, Burnett, Story and Forsyth and tried to go through Elias Hamilton's premises.

A couple of days ago another theft was committed, and as the town is supplied with a society for the apprehension and conviction of criminals, it was decided to capture the culprit. Men were sent out in all directions to search for him, and J. E. Addison finally overtook the boy between Claremont and Uxbridge and arrested him. The lad dropped his valise and scampered through the fields, but Addison ordered him to stop or he would shoot. Bailiff Reynolds took charge of the prisoner and Justice Parker next day committed him for trial. Constable Reynolds took the prisoner home, intending to remove him to Whitby jail next day. He was put to bed with Young Reynolds and arose complaining of a headache. He was made to lie down on a lounge until breakfast was ready and meekly did so, getting up once and going to the pump for a drink, coming back dutifully. This created confidence in the kind breast of Mrs. Reynolds, but when she looked again Raymer was gone. Her husband was aroused but failed to find the sly thief, who had made his escape through a neighboring bush.

NINETEEN KILLED.

A Freight Train Collides with a Passenger Train in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—At 3 o'clock this morning at Ravenna, Ohio, on the N.Y., L. & Western railroad, train No. 8, fast express bound for New York, while starting at the depot awaiting orders, was dashed into from the rear by a freight train. A day coach in the rear was completely telescoped, and 19 passengers were killed and 38 severely wounded. Two sleeping cars and the day coach took fire and were entirely destroyed.

Many of the passengers on the train were asleep when the awful crash came, and a number were crushed to death in their berths. A terrible scene followed. There were cries for help from all parts of the train, mingled with dying groans of others whose lives were being crushed out. The steam was escaping from the monster freight engine, and soon flames crowded upon those who were held fast in the debris. In several instances persons slowly burned to death while pleading with their last breath for the help which could not be rendered. The wreck was most complete. It would appear that the accident was due to the carelessness of some one in leaving a switch open.

Hotel Stables Burned.

GUELPH, July 3.—The Wellington Hotel stables, formerly Sprague's livery stable, now owned by D. Martin of the Wellington Hotel were totally destroyed by fire to-night. The flames broke out shortly after 5 o'clock and spread so rapidly that only two horses were got out, some 14 being burned to death. All the cutters which were stored in the loft were completely destroyed, and only a few buggies were saved in a badly damaged condition. The loss will be heavy, as the stable was a very large one built of stone. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

The Professor in Trouble

HAMILTON, July 3.—The tall, round-shouldered doctor, Prof. Boulanger, who has an office in the Royal Hotel buildings and has been here for several months, with grace the Police Court next Friday morning. At the instance of Walter Webb, detective for the Ontario Medical Society, a summons has been issued against the professor for practising medicine without being registered under the Ontario Medical Act.

Crushed to Death

WINDSOR, July 3.—Hector Finney, an engineer on the Great Western Railroad, arrived at the ticket office here last evening just as the ferry boat Hope was leaving the dock. Finding the door closed he rushed through the side door of the office and attempted to jump aboard the boat. Missing his step, he was caught by the hips between the boat and the dock and so badly mangled that no hopes are entertained for his recovery. The injured man is 60 years of age and an old employe of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Taken Suddenly Insane.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 3.—Andrew Row, the wealthy stockman and mine owner of Wasel, Iowa, was taken from the eastbound train at Wascca, Minn., yesterday in a violent state of insanity. He was on his way to Europe. On his person were found drafts on a bank at Spokane Falls for $1000 and $33 in money. He imagines the train ran off the track and thinks he is to be killed. His valise, containing deeds of valuable mining property, was lost or stolen.

Drowned in a Tub.

HAMILTON, July 3.—A sad accident occurred at 230 Catharine-street north yesterday afternoon. A child 18 months old, belonging to James Martin, fell into a tub of rainwater in rear of the house and was dead when found. The father was lying down at the time and Mrs. Martin was in the front of the house with the other children. The little one strayed down the alley way alone, and when Mr. Martin sent one of the other children to look for it, the poor child was found lying in the tub dead, having evidently tripped and fallen into it. The facts were communicated to Dr. Woolverton, by Constable Zeats, but an inquest was deemed unnecessary.

The Milling in Self Defence

NEW YORK, July 3.—Steward Ford of the schooner James W. Fitch, who has been before United States Commissioner Shields for the past few days under examination on a charge of killing Second Mate Neilson, has been discharged, the evidence showing he had killed Neilson in self-defence.

THE TOSSING WATERS.

LAKE ONTARIO WAS CHURNED TO ITS VERY DEPTHS.

Yesterday Was One of the Stormiest Days the Lake Has Seen—For a Summer Sea Nothing Equals It in Thirty Years—Boats Were Cautious.

TORONTO, July 3.—One of the most tremendous summer gales that the oldest inhabitant has ever seen broke over Lake Ontario yesterday. The bay felt it, and at 2 p.m. was one vast tumbling, frothing blanket of seething foam. On the west side of the Island the vicious hurl of the southwest blast drove the nimble waves clean over the bar till they struck with damp knuckles against the cottage doors. The shovel-shaped gusts of wind scooped up the sand from the water front and piled it in great dunes in the front yards, against the fences and on the sidewalks. It came down on the lagoons with a whoo and tore acres of reeds and water lichens out by the roots and strewed them over the bay. It tore through Island Park and in some places strewed the ground knee-deep with broken branches. The regular steamers toiled, pitched and strove with the tempest and it was plain that old Boreas was out on a bowl.

And to add to the wildness of the scene an accident happened which brought the terrors of the deep vividly home to all who witnessed it. Thursday night William Ward, a waterworks employe, had been left on board the big scow at the intake in the lake as watchman. During the night the sea began to rise, and when morning broke the lake was so rough that no one dare put out to his assistance. The waves broke over him, drenching him and chilling him to the heart. He had no food, there was no hope of assistance, the storm increased in fury, the clumsy scow rolled and tumbled, and all the poor fellow could do was to hang on like grim death and mutely watch the group on the sand, who were powerless to help him. At noon the storm was at high watermark and at one o'clock the scow dragged her five powerful anchors and started to ride down the coast, presenting a fearful sight as it staggered and plunged in the mad waters. All Centre Island turned out, men, women and children, and soon all were appalled by hearing the poor fellow shouting, "Help, help, send to the city for a tug." But at that moment the wind shifted and the huge boat was dashed ashore at Centre Island. Ward flung out a rope, which was caught by eager hands, and soon with the assistance of Island Constable Cross and John Grey, John Goodwin and Park Inspector Gibbons he was brought safe and sound to shore. Mrs. Mead offered him the hospitality of her house and the rescued mariner was soon disposing of a hot dinner.

The authorities are generally blamed for not sending out a tug to the rescue of Ward, as there was not a moment from 10 a.m. till 4 in the afternoon that he was not in peril of his life.

The morning trip of the Cibola to Niagara from this port was an exciting one. She had a good load of passengers and when in mid-lake she entered the bulls-eye of the storm. The Cibola lies low in the water and the consequence was that she got quite a ducking. Big seas washed her decks. So frightened were some of the passengers that the majority returned to the city by train, reaching Toronto about 9 p.m. The Cibola got back to her Toronto moorings safely, however, and waited for two hours after her afternoon time for starting to see if the gale would abate. A telegram from her sister ship, the Chicora, at Niagara, stating that she would start for Toronto and that the storm was subsiding, caused the Cibola to once more essay the outward journey. The wind was so high that she couldn't back out satisfactorily and a tug was employed to take her out into open water, when she started and speeded her destination at dark without meeting with any misadventure.

The topmast of the lofty flag-staff at the Custom House snapped off at the cross-trees in the gale of yesterday and fell across the main wires of the C. P. R. telegraph system in Front-street. A large gang of men were engaged for three hours in removing the wreck, and to do so had to cut the cables, thus severing C. P. R. telegraphic communication east and west for some time.

THE OCEAN AGROUND.

The Eurydice, Which Went to Her Assistance, Also Encounters a Mishap.

That old sea dog, Capt. Powers, met with his first mishap on the big lakes Thursday night, when his staunch propeller the Ocean, went ashore two miles west of Pickering harbor and began to bump about as if she would break every bone in her body. She was bound from Montreal to this port with a general cargo, and the Eurydice of Toronto was telegraphed for. That steamer, Capt. Jackson, ran down the shore and took off the Ocean's load, and thus lightened the latter boat drove further up on the sands and filled with water.

The removal of the cargo was a perilous undertaking in a howling gale, but it was successfully accomplished by daylight, whereupon the Eurydice made this port. On making Geddes' Wharf the high sea running at the time dashed her against the head of the pier, knocking a patch of skin off her nose, smashing in her gangway and tearing away her starboard fender rail.

Capt. Jackson stated that the Ocean will not be a total loss, but that there would be enough of her left to swim out with. The Ocean is owned by her Captain, Mr. Geddes, and Mr. A. McKay, the latter a Hamilton whanlinger. Nobody was injured but the sailors had a terrible night of it.

Another Buzz saw Victim.

STOUFFVILLE, July 3.—A most melancholy accident occurred Tuesday at Leary's sawmill, lot 1, con. 5, Whitchurch. William Waider, the head sawyer having that morning sharpened the saw, was oiling the machinery previous to making a start, when his feet slipped and he fell, the saw severing the arteries of his left arm. Medical attendance was promptly obtained and the arteries were tied up, but owing to the great loss of blood death ensued at 9 p.m.

Another Broken Leg

ELMIRA, Ont., July 3.—While Henry Dengis, hostler at the hotel here, and Henry Mahn, a youth of the town, were wrestling to-day the former received a fracture of both bones of the leg just above the ankle. He was conveyed home and surgical aid secured.

A Whale Trankfal.

PARIS, July 3.—Mr. Mercier, the Canadian delegate, has received 300 decorations and titles from the Pope to be distributed among Papal Zouaves in Canada.

The Fate of Monuments

PRINCE ALBERT, Saskatchewan, July 3.—The tablets to be erected here in memory of the volunteers who fell at Duck Lake in 1885 have been lying at Montreal for some time and an effort is now being made here to raise the necessary money to secure them and end a long difficulty.

Eggs Take a Terrific Drop.

ARTHUR, Ont., July 3.—One of D. D. Wilson's egg waggons upset near here the other day and 800 dozen of eggs were smashed into one big mess. Abel Chambers, who was driving, miraculously escaped, though falling among the horse's feet.

She Chased Them.

WOODSTOCK, July 3.—Mrs. Perry the other night was alarmed by some men who came to her door and demanded admittance. They threatened to break in the door and she fired a revolver through the panel, striking one of the men, who then made off.

Another Drowning.

COLLINGWOOD, July 3.—The tug McIntosh brought to Meaford to-day the remains of a young man named Cooper, a fisherman who was accidentally drowned by the upsetting of a canoe at Point au Baril.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

HE IS PROVING HIMSELF TO BE A PETTISH CRANK.

It Was Arranged That He Should Review the Troops at Wimbledon, but He Telegraphed that He Wouldn't Do It—He is the Royal Growler of Europe.

LONDON, July 3.—Before Emperor William left Rotterdam to-night the latest phase of the official program for his reception in England had not received its approbation. Since the first draft was submitted to him he has busied himself with upsetting arrangements from the moment of his arrival at Port Victoria to the date of his farewell on the 13th. In his latest imperious intimation telegraphed to-day he declines to review the volunteers at Wimbledon, the greatest popular function in his honor after the progress to the Guildhall. The report says his refusal is absolute and that he dropped a remark, which was repeated to the official circle here, that he did not want to look at tradesmen masquerading as soldiers. As the abandonment of the review is likely to be resented as an indignity by the volunteers, 22,000 of whom were enrolled to take part in the review, it is proposed to substitute for the review a march past at the Horse Guards if His Kaisership can be induced to tolerate the spectacle. But the ceremonial aspects of the visit trouble the Government less than the political. The first five days of his sojourn the Emperor passes within comparative seclusion at Windsor. Lord Salisbury goes to Windsor to-morrow and will remain there until the eighth.

The pageantry associated with the Emperor's visit now ill-conceals a fact of serious political import. On the eve of his starting on his tour the Emperor declared that the Dreibund had been renewed and Premier Rudini proclaimed an entente with England. The Government here refuses to give explicit response to questions in the House of Commons on the nature of the commitments of England, but the universally accepted belief in diplomatic circles is that Lord Salisbury is pledging the country further than he dares to reveal, and that his stay at Windsor is likely to involve the gravest practical consequence to the nation. The Opposition, dissatisfied with the emptiness of the explanation of the Government, mean to go thoroughly into the question when the Foreign Office estimates are reached, but they will probably fail to draw out the desired information. Some inkling of the real position, it is hoped, may be got from the speeches at the Guildhall banquet. If the Emperor is permitted to exercise his tendency to utter frankness something will become known; but the official opinion is that Lord Salisbury will succeed in tutoring him into some kind of formal declaration that will disclose something.

The growing popular impression that the Emperor's visit will result in complications in England's foreign relations will tend to modify the warmth of the Emperor's reception.

TERRIBLE STORM.

It Sweeps Over Germany Dealing Death and Destruction.

BERLIN, July 2.—A terrible storm of thunder, hail and rain passed over a large part of Germany last night, causing immense damage to property and loss of life in the villages of Suchteln, near Dusseldorf, Rade and Sittard. In the Crefeld District, also near Dusseldorf, the storm was especially severe, and the thunder and lightning terrific. Many houses were completely wrecked and the inmates buried in the ruins.

Thirteen bodies have already been recovered. Army surgeons have been sent to the scene of the disaster to aid in the work of rescue. It is yet too soon to form any estimate of the total number of lives lost. At Brunswick the storm assumed the proportions of a cyclone, and the inhabitants report last night as being one of the most terrible in their experience. The streets are filled with wreckage, houses were demolished and others badly damaged, while many thoroughfares are turned into miniature rivers.

The hailstones were unusually large, and as a consequence it is estimated that 100,000 panes of glass have been broken. In the neighborhood of Sprottau, in Prussian Silesia, the hail was so large that the grain in the fields was literally cut to pieces. At Sanct Ruprecht, near Gratz, the capital of Styria, in Austria, a waterspout burst over the town with fearful force, sweeping away the cabins of two peasants. Nine were drowned.

HIS DAY IS DONE.

Parnell is Practically a Back Number in Ireland.

LONDON, July 3.—Mr. Parnell's marriage has not helped him as he and his friends last week confidently hoped it would. The action of the Irish bishops yesterday in reaffirming their declaration that Mr. Parnell was unfit to be the leader of the Irish people shows that no quarter will be given him by the clergy. This is considered to be the final blow to Mr. Parnell's cause, and the reception which he met with at Carlow yesterday shows that the people have ceased to pay any attention to him. At Myshall Mr. Parnell addressed a meeting at which only 30 persons were present. Archbishop Walsh has written a letter to Thomas Sexton, M.P., expressing the prelate's gratitude for the splendid services rendered by Mr. Sexton and his colleagues in Parliament during the discussion of the Irish land bill. The Archbishop says although they did not win success on every point they still gained enough to redeem the bill from being a curse rather than a blessing.

THE IMPERIAL POWER.

It Will Help to Send Thrifty Scots to British Columbia.

LONDON, July 3.—[illegible] House of Commons yesterday Mr. [illegible], Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the Government was willing to advance $250,000 to British Columbia to promote the emigration of desirable families from the Highlands of Scotland to British Columbia.

Firemen Killed.

BERLIN, July 3.—While volunteer firemen were trying to extinguish the flames in a burning house at Dargun to-day the structure collapsed and four firemen were killed and five were dangerously injured.

Drowned While Fishing.

ALMONTE, Ont., July 3.—William A. Holliday, who was drowned here while fishing, was 24 years of age. He fell out of a boat, by what means cannot be learned, but it is thought he tripped over his fish line. His body was recovered in a few minutes, but all efforts to resuscitate him proved in vain.

The Parents Approve This Time.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Gertrude Potter, daughter of O. W. Potter, will soon be married to F. Lee Rust of Boston, a student at Harvard. Miss Potter's name appeared in the newspapers some time ago. She fell in love with a young man who carried morning papers and her wealthy parents tried to break the engagement. It was broken and the lover was sent to Joliet for theft. In a bill which he afterwards filed in court he charged Mr. Potter with conspiring with several others to land him in the penitentiary. The fellow sued for $100,000 and the action is awaiting trial.

C.P.R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, July 3.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company return of traffic earnings from June 21 to June 30, 1891, $486,000; 1890, $426,000; increase for 1891, $60,000. Earning New Brunswick Railway included both years.

What Does it Mean?

"100 doses one dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

LADIES are good judges of gentlemen's clothes, and some of them even go so far as to "wear the breeches" themselves, when they have invested in a husband. But if every lady who wants after a husband would be wise, she would select only such a man as buys his clothes regularly at DOLANS, because she would then know that the style, quality, material and price would fit the pocket-book as well the suit fitted her husband. And if it didn't exactly fit him, why she could "try it on" herself.

Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " 1886, "	89,452 07
" " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

OUR HOBBY

For a few days will be
HOSIERY.
Many ladies have complained to us that they find it hard to get Hose that will retain the color and give good wear. They have tried our Hosiery and like it well.
We have a bonanza for you this week.
We succeeded in clearing out large lines of Fast Black Hosiery and Black and White Hosiery. We would never be able to get through the quantities this season unless we sold them at away down in price.
If you buy before seeing these bargains, you will make a mistake.
Think of it! Beautiful Seamless Hose worth 25c. for 12½c. and Hose worth 30c. to go for 15c. It will pay you to lay in a stock for next summer.
A visit to our Hosiery Department during the next few days will be of advantage to you.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

What Assistance the Government Will Lend—Other Notes.

OTTAWA, July 3.—A deputation from the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario, consisting of R. Vance, Ida, president; Henry Wade, Toronto, secretary; James Rowand, M.P., Dunbiane, Ira Morgan, Metcalfe, and Joshua Legge, Gananoque, accompanied by C. Fairbairn, M.P., North Victoria; J. I. Davidson, M.P., South Ontario; J. Featherston, M.P., Peel; R. Beith, M.P., West Durham; and T. D. Craig, M.P., East Durham, waited on the Minister of Agriculture this afternoon to ascertain what assistance they might expect the Government to give intending exhibitors at the World's Columbia Fair to be held in Chicago early in 1893. The deputation asked for free transport for live stock, cereals, manufactures, etc., and the maintenance of a limited number of live stock. This aid was granted in the case of the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. Mr. Carling said he thought there would be no difficulty in getting the Government to take up the matter. In consequence the committees of the several live stock associations will be asked to meet a committee from the Agricultural and Arts Association at once to commence the choosing of animals, etc., as was done in the case of the Centennial.

Ald. G. M. Rose presented Lady Macdonald to day with the resolution of condolence passed by the Toronto Board of Trade.

The bills granting divorces to Adam Brownworm of Osprey, Isabel Taxley of Hamilton and Thomas Bristow of Bruce were read a second and third time in the Senate to-day. These parties only await royal assent to the bills to become free to marry again.

J. R. Roaf is making an active canvass among the members of the Banking and Commerce Committee in behalf of his bills to incorporate the order of Canadian Home Circles and the Septennial Benevolent Society. He is circulating a pamphlet in reply to the adverse report of Mr. Fitzgerald, superintendent of insurance.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT.

Some of the Members May Speak About It Monday.

OTTAWA, July 3.—The House was in Committee of Supply nearly all day passing the supplementary estimates. Afterwards about one-tenth of the resolutions, those necessary to carry on the affairs of State, were concurred in.

At 10 o'clock Sir Hector Langevin moved the adjournment of the House, which was promptly carried, and the Speaker left the House. When the members from a distance recovered from their surprise they found that the House was adjourned until Monday, although it was understood last week that they should sit on Saturday. A peculiar circumstance in this connection is that the House sat on Dominion Day, but will not sit on the 4th of July, the American national holiday.

The T., H. & B. Bill Passes.

OTTAWA, July 3.—At a meeting of the Committee on Railways and Canals to-day, Sir Hector Langevin in the chair, the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company's bill was first taken up. Mr. Ryckman had charge of the bill. Mayor McLellan, ex-Mayor Doran and Messrs. Roach, Lottridge and Carscallen of Hamilton were in attendance at the committee. Several clauses, more or less important, were adopted and the bill passed the committee without opposition.

ARE THEY ONE?

Frenchy of New York Said to be London's Jack the Ripper.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Frenchy No. 1, the man tried for the murder of old Shakespeare, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. The verdict was most surprising as the crime was peculiarly atrocious and if Frenchy is the guilty party there is no second degree to it.

It is said that documents in his possession have convinced Inspector Byrnes that Frenchy and the London "Jack the Ripper" are one and the same person.

Bradstreet on the Trade Situation.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's record the evidences of a week broken by a holiday both in the United States and Canada, which, occurring during the period of midsummer dulness, tends to still further restrict the volume of general business except in a few staple lines. At Boston, Philadelphia, Memphis and San Francisco, rather more than seasonable dulness is reported. At New York, Baltimore, Cleveland and Cincinnati, the volume of goods distributed has been of distinctly moderate proportions. Even those enterprising centres, Pittsburg, St. Joseph, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago and Duluth, report trade as fair while St. Paul remains conspicuous for more encouraging reports. Wheat crop prospects in the Dominion of Canada continue favorable and exert an influence on general trade, which has heretofore been slow and depressed. Business failures in the Dominion including those for Newfoundland increased 137, or 14 per cent. in six months of 1891 over 1890, while the increase of liabilities was $1,478,282, or 20 per cent.

How Larbig Died.

BROOKLYN, July 3.—The inquest on the body of Theodore Larbig, who was shot by Darwin J. Meserole in the rooms of Mrs. Dovie Comstock last Saturday night, was concluded this evening. The jury returned a verdict that Larbig came to his death by a pistol shot fired by Meserole, and that Mrs. Comstock was accessory to the killing.

Fell Against a Buzz Saw.

BUFFALO, July 3. Ernest Voght, 13 years of age, had his head almost cut in twain by a circular saw in the Buffalo box factory this morning. He was employed under the saw bench when his head came in contact with the rapidly revolving saw. A gash 8 inches long was cut in the skull and the brain injured. He will die.

ESCAPED HIS CAPTORS.

A Young Englishman Outwits the Stouffville Detective.

STOUFFVILLE, July 3.—George Raymer, a young Englishman who has been in this vicinity about two months, is not around to-day, and he is particularly wanted. During his term of residence here he has committed thefts upon Messrs. Rae, Burnett, Story and Forsyth and tried to go through Elias Hamilton's premises.

A couple of days ago another theft was committed, and as the town is supplied with a society for the apprehension and conviction of criminals, it was decided to capture the culprit. Men were sent out in all directions to search for him, and J. E. Addison finally overtook the boy between Claremont and Uxbridge and arrested him. The lad dropped his valise and scampered through the fields, but Addison ordered him to stop or he would shoot. Bailiff Reynolds took charge of the prisoner and Justice Parker next day committed him for trial. Constable Reynolds took the prisoner home, intending to remove him to Whitby jail next day. He was put to bed with Young Reynolds and arose complaining of a headache. He was made to lie down on a lounge until breakfast was ready and meekly did so, getting up once and going to the pump for a drink, coming back dutifully. This created confidence in the kind breast of Mrs. Reynolds, but when she looked again Raymer was gone. Her husband was aroused but failed to find the sly thief, who had made his escape through a neighboring bush.

NINETEEN KILLED.

A Freight Train Collides with a Passenger Train in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—At 3 o'clock this morning at Ravenna, Ohio, on the N.Y., L. & Western railroad, train No. 8, fast express bound for New York, while standing at the depot awaiting orders, was dashed into from the rear by a freight train. A day coach in the rear was completely telescoped, and 19 passengers were killed and 38 severely wounded. Two sleeping cars and the day coach took fire and were entirely destroyed.

Many of the passengers on the train were asleep when the awful crash came, and a number were crushed to death in their berths. A terrible scene followed. There were cries for help from all parts of the train, mingled with dying groans of others whose lives were being crushed out. The steam was escaping from the monster freight engine, and soon flames crowded upon those who were held fast in the debris. In several instances persons slowly burned to death while pleading with their last breath for the help which could not be rendered. The wreck was most complete. It would appear that the accident was due to the carelessness of some one in leaving a switch open.

Hotel Stables Burned.

GUELPH, July 3.—The Wellington Hotel stables, formerly Sprague's livery stable, now owned by D. Martin of the Wellington Hotel were totally destroyed by fire to-night. The flames broke out shortly after 8 o'clock and spread so rapidly that only two horses were got out, some 14 being burned to death. All the cutters which were stored in the loft were completely destroyed, and only a few buggies were saved in a badly damaged condition. The loss will be heavy, as the stable was a very large one built of stone. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

The Professor in Trouble.

HAMILTON, July 3.—The tall, round-shouldered doctor, Prof. Boulanger, who has an office in the Royal Hotel buildings and has been here for several months, will grace the Police Court next Friday morning. At the instance of Walter Webb, detective for the Ontario Medical Society, a summons has been issued against the professor for practising medicine without being registered under the Ontario Medical Act.

Crushed to Death.

WINDSOR, July 3.—Hector Finney, an engineer on the Great Western Railroad, arrived at the ticket office here last evening just as the ferry boat Hope was leaving the dock. Finding the door closed he rushed through the side door of the office and attempted to jump aboard the boat. Missing his step, he was caught by the hips between the boat and the dock and so badly mangled that no hopes are entertained for his recovery. The injured man is 60 years of age and an old employe of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Taken Suddenly Insane.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 3.—Andrew Row, the wealthy stockman and mine owner of Wasel, Iowa, was taken from the eastbound train at Wascoca, Minn., yesterday in a violent state of insanity. He was on his way to Europe. On his person were found drafts on a bank at Spokane Falls for $1000 and $300 in money. He imagines the train ran off the track and thinks he is to be killed. His valise, containing deeds of valuable mining property, was lost or stolen.

Drowned in a Tub.

HAMILTON, July 3.—A sad accident occurred at 230 Catharine-street north yesterday afternoon. A child 18 months old, belonging to James Martin, fell into a tub of rainwater in rear of the house and was dead when found. The father was lying down at the time and Mrs. Martin was in the front of the house with the other children. The little one strayed down the alleyway alone, and when Mr. Martin sent one of the other children to look for it, the poor child was found lying in the tub dead, having evidently tripped and fallen into it. The facts were communicated to Dr. Woolverton by Constable Zeats, but an inquest was deemed unnecessary.

The Killing in Self Defence.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Steward Ford of the schooner James W Fitch, who has been before United States Commissioner Shields for the past few days under examination on a charge of killing Second Mate Neilson, has been discharged, the evidence showing he had killed Neilson in self-defence.

THE TOSSING WATERS.

LAKE ONTARIO WAS CHURNED TO ITS VERY DEPTHS.

Yesterday Was One of the Stormiest Days the Lake Has Seen—For a Summer Sea Nothing Equals it in Thirty Years—Boats Were Cautious.

TORONTO, July 3.—One of the most tremendous summer gales that the oldest inhabitant has ever seen broke over Lake Ontario yesterday. The bay fe t it, and at 2 p.m. was one vast tumbling, frothing blanket of seething foam. On the west side of the Island the vicious hurl of the southwest blast drove the nimble waves clean over the bar till they struck with damp knuckles against the cottage doors. The shovel-shaped gusts of wind scooped up the sand from the water front and piled it in great dunes in the front yards, against the fences and on the sidewalks. It came down on the lagoons with a whoo and tore acres of reeds and water lichens out by the roots and strewed them over the bay. It tore through Island Park and in some places strewed the ground knee-deep with broken branches. The regular steamers toiled, pitched and strove with the tempest and it was plain that old Boreas was out on a howl.

And to add to the wildness of the scene an accident happened which brought the terrors of the deep vividly home to all who witnessed it. Thursday night William Ward, a waterworks employe, had been left on board the big scow at the intake in the lake as watchman. During the night the sea began to rise, and when morning broke the lake was so rough that no one dare put out to his assistance. The waves broke over him, drenching him and chilling him to the heart. He had no food, there was no hope of assistance, the storm increased in fury, the clumsy scow rolled and tumbled, and all the poor fellow could do was to hang on like grim death and mutely watch the group on the sand, who were powerless to help him. At noon the storm was at high watermark and at one o'clock the scow dragged her five powerful anchors and started to ride down the coast, presenting a fearful sight as it staggered and plunged in the mad waters. All Centre Island turned out, men, women and children, and soon all were appalled by hearing the poor fellow shouting, "Help, help, send to the city for a tug!" But at that moment the wind shifted and the huge boat was dashed ashore at Centre Island. Ward flung out a rope, which was caught by eager hands, and soon with the assistance of Island Constable Cross and John Grey, John Goodwin and Park Inspector Gibbons he was brought safe and sound to shore. Mrs. Mead offered him the hospitality of her house and the rescued mariner was soon disposing of a hot dinner.

The authorities are generally blamed for not sending out a tug to the rescue of Ward, as there was not a moment from 10 a.m. till 4 in the afternoon that he was not in peril of his life.

The morning trip of the Cibola to Niagara from this port was an exciting one. She had a good load of passengers and when in mid-lake she entered the bully-eye of the storm. The Cibola lies low in the water and the consequence was that she got quite a ducking. Big seas washed her decks. So frightened were some of the passengers that the majority returned to the city by train, reaching Toronto about 9 p. m. The Cibola got back to her Toronto moorings safely, however, and waited for two hours after her afternoon time for starting to see if the gale would abate. A telegram from her sister ship, the Chicora, at Niagara, stating that she would start for Toronto and that the storm was subsiding, caused the Cibola to once more essay the outward journey. The wind was so high that she couldn't back out satisfactorily and a tug was employed to take her out into open water, when she started and reached her destination at dark without meeting with any misadventure.

The topmast of the lofty flag-staff at the Custom House snapped off at the cross-trees in the gale of yesterday and fell across the main wires of the C. P. R. telegraph system in Front-street. A large gang of men were engaged for three hours in removing the wreck, and to do so had to cut the cables, thus severing C. P. R. telegraphic communication east and west for some time.

THE OCEAN AGROUND.

The Eurydice, Which Went to Her Assistance, Also Encounters a Mishap.

That old sea dog, Capt. Powers, met with his first mishap on the big lakes Thursday night, when his staunch propeller, the Ocean, went ashore two miles west of Pickering harbor and began to bump about as if she would break every bone in her body. She was bound from Montreal to this port with a general cargo, and the Eurydice of Toronto was telegraphed for. That steamer, Capt. Jackson, ran down the shore and took off the Ocean's load, and thus lightened the latter boat drove further up on the sands and filled with water.

The removal of the cargo was a perilous undertaking in a howling gale, but it was successfully accomplished by daylight, whereupon the Eurydice made this port. On making Geddes' Wharf the high sea running at the time dashed her against the head of the pier, knocking a patch of skin off her nose, smashing in her gangway and tearing away her starboard fender rail.

Capt. Jackson stated that the Ocean will not be a total loss, but that there would be enough of her left to swim out with. The Ocean is owned by her Captain, Mr. Geddes, and Mr. Æ. McKay, the latter a Hamilton whardinger. Nobody was injured but the sailors had a terrible night of it.

Another Buzz saw Victim.

STOUFFVILLE, July 3.—A most melancholy accident occurred Tuesday at Leary's sawmill, lot 1, con. 5, Whitchurch. William Walder, the head sawyer having that morning sharpened the saw, was oiling the machinery previous to making a start, when his feet slipped and he fell, the saw severing the arteries of his left arm. Medical attendance was promptly obtained and the arteries were tied up, but owing to the great loss of blood death ensued at 9 p.m.

Another Broken Leg.

ELMIRA, Ont., July 3.—While Henry Dengis, hostler at the hotel here, and Henry Mahn, a youth of the town, were wrestling to-day the former received a fracture of both bones of the leg just above the ankle. He was conveyed home and surgical aid secured.

A Whole Thankful.

PARIS, July 3.—Mr. Mercier, the Canadian delegate, has received 300 decorations and titles from the Pope to be distributed among Papal Zouaves in Canada.

The Fate of Monuments.

PRINCE ALBERT, Saskatchewan, July 3.—The tablets to be erected here in memory of the volunteers who fell at Duck Lake in 1885 have been lying at Montreal for some time and an effort is now being made here to raise the necessary money to secure them and end a long difficulty.

Eggs Take a Terrific Drop.

ARTHUR, Ont., July 3.—One of D. D. Wilson's egg wagons upset near here the other day and 800 dozen of eggs were smashed into one big mess. Abel Chambers, who was driving, miraculously escaped, though falling among the horse's feet.

She Chased Them.

WOODSTOCK, July 3.—Mrs. Perry the other night was alarmed by some men who came to her door and demanded admittance. They threatened to break in the door and she fired a revolver through the panel, striking one of the men, who then made off.

Another Drowning.

COLLINGWOOD, July 3.—The tug McIntosh brought to Meaford to-day the remains of a young man named Cooper, a fisherman who was accidentally drowned by the upsetting of a canoe at Point au Baril.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

HE IS PROVING HIMSELF TO BE A PETTISH CRANK.

It Was Arranged That He Should Review the Troops at Wimbledon, but He Telegraphed that He Wouldn't Do It—He is the Royal Growler of Europe.

LONDON, July 3.—Before Emperor William left Rotterdam to-night the latest phase of the official program for his reception in England had not received its approbation. Since the first draft was submitted to him he has busied himself with upsetting arrangements from the moment of his arrival at Port Victoria to the date of his farewell on the 13th. In his latest imperious intimation telegraphed to-day he declines to review the volunteers at Wimbledon, the greatest popular function in his honor after the progress to the Guildhall. The report says his refusal is absolute and that he dropped a remark, which was repeated to the official circle here, that he did not want to look at tradesmen masquerading as soldiers. As the abandonment of the review is likely to be resented as an indignity by the volunteers, 22,000 of whom were enrolled to take part in the review, it is proposed to substitute for the review a march past as the Horse Guards if His Kaisership can be induced to tolerate the spectacle. But the ceremonial aspects of the visit trouble the Government less than the political. The first five days of his sojourn the Emperor passes within comparative seclusion at Windsor. Lord Salisbury goes to Windsor to-morrow and will remain there until the eighth.

The pageantry associated with the Emperor's visit now fill conceals a fact of serious political import. On the eve of his starting on his tour the Emperor declared that the Dreibund had been renewed and Premier Rudini proclaimed an entente with England. The Government here refuses to give explicit response to questions in the House of Commons on the nature of the commitments of England, but the universally accepted belief in diplomatic circles is that Lord Salisbury is pledging the country further than he dares to reveal, and that his stay at Windsor is likely to involve the gravest practical consequence to the nation. The Opposition, dissatisfied with the emptiness of the explanation of the Government, mean to go thoroughly into the question when the Foreign Office estimates are reached, but they will probably fail to draw out the desired information. Some inkling of the real position, it is hoped, may be got from the speeches at the Guildhall banquet. If the Emperor is permitted to exercise his tendency to utter frankness something will become known; but the official opinion is that Lord Salisbury will succeed in tutoring him into some kind of formal declaration that will disclose something.

The growing popular impression that the Emperor's visit will result in complications in England's foreign relations will tend to modify the warmth of the Emperor's reception.

TERRIBLE STORM.

It Sweeps Over Germany Dealing Death and Destruction.

BERLIN, July 2.—A terrible storm of thunder, hail and rain passed over a large part of Germany last night, causing immense damage to property and loss of life in the villages of Suchteln, near Dusseldorf, Rade and Sittard. In the Crefeld District, also near Dusseldorf, the storm was especially severe, and the thunder and lightning terrific. Many houses were completely wrecked and the inmates buried in the ruins.

Thirteen bodies have already been recovered. Army pioneers have been sent to the scene of the disaster to aid in the work of rescue. It is yet too soon to form any estimate of the total number of lives lost. At Brunswick the storm assumed the proportions of a cyclone, and the inhabitants report last night as being one of the most terrible in their experience. The streets are filled with wreckage, houses were demolished and others badly damaged, while many thoroughfares are turned into miniature rivers.

The hailstones were unusually large, and as a consequence it is estimated that 100,000 panes of glass have been broken. In the neighborhood of Sprottau, in Prussian Silesia, the hail was so large that the grain in the fields was literally cut to pieces. At Sanct Ruprecht, near Gratz, the capital of Styria, in Austria, a waterspout burst over the town with fearful force, sweeping away the cabins of two peasants. Nine were drowned.

HIS DAY IS DONE.

Parnell is Practically a Back Number in Ireland.

LONDON, July 3.—Mr. Parnell's marriage has not helped him as he and his friends last week confidently hoped it would. The action of the Irish bishops yesterday in reaffirming their declaration that Mr. Parnell was unfit to be the leader of the Irish people shows that no quarter will be given him by the clergy. This is considered to be the final blow to Mr. Parnell's cause, and the reception which he met with at Carlow yesterday shows that the people have ceased to pay any attention to him. At Myshall Mr. Parnell addressed a meeting at which only 30 persons were present. Archbishop Walsh has written a letter to Thomas Sexton, M.P., expressing the prelate's gratitude for the splendid services rendered by Mr. Sexton and his colleagues in Parliament during the discussion of the Irish land bill. The Archbishop says although they did not win success on every point they still gained enough to redeem the bill from being a curse rather than a blessing.

THE IMPERIAL POWER.

It Will Help to Send Thrifty Scots to British Columbia.

LONDON, July 3.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the Government was willing to advance $250,000 to British Columbia to promote the emigration of desirable families from the Highlands of Scotland to British Columbia.

Firemen Killed.

BERLIN, July 3.—While volunteer firemen were trying to extinguish the flames in a burning house at Dargun to-day the structure collapsed and four firemen were killed and five were dangerously injured.

Drowned While Fishing.

ALMONTE, Ont., July 3.—William A. Holliday, who was drowned here while fishing, was 34 years of age. He fell out of a boat, by what means cannot be learned, but it is thought he tripped over his fish line. His body was recovered in a few minutes, but all efforts to resuscitate him proved in vain.

The Parents Approve This Time.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Gertrude Potter, daughter of O. W. Potter, will soon be married to F. Lee Rust of Boston, a student at Harvard. Miss Potter's name appeared in the newspapers some time ago. She fell in love with a young man who carried morning papers and her wealthy parents tried to break the engagement. It was broken and the lover was sent to Joliet for theft. In a bill which he afterwards filed in court he charged Mr. Potter with conspiring with several others to land him in the penitentiary. The fellow sued for $100,000 and the action is awaiting trial.

C.P.R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, July 3.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company return of traffic earnings from June 21 to June 30, 1891, $486,000; 1890, $426,000; increase for 1891, $60,000. Earning New Brunswick Railway included both years.

What Does it Mean?

"100 doses one dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

LADIES are good judges of gentlemen's clothes, and some of them even go so far as to "wear the breeches" themselves, when they have invested in a husband. But if every lady who pants after a husband would be wise, she would select only such a man as buys his clothes regularly at DOLANS, because she would then know that the style, quality, material and price would fit the pocket-book as well the suit fitted her husband. And if it didn't exactly fit him, why she could "try it on" herself.

SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84

Increase over 1889	75 649 03
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143.961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07

A Meritorious Memoir.

A Clever Essay Written by a Fifteen Year Old Boy—The Kind of Students Turned out by Our Collegiate Institute.

The following clever memoir of Longfellow, whose works formed the literature study of the last Institute term, was written by Master John Van Every, and very highly praised at the closing entertainment on Tuesday evening. What adds to the merit of the production is that it was prepared in four days—the pupil who had prepared an essay on the subject being compelled to be absent from town the time of the closing:—

On the 24th of March, 1882, the American nation was plunged into mourning. There had been suddenly taken from her a son, in the maturity of his powers, whose position in literature had been fairly won and universally recognized. No wonder the Americans' hearts were saddened at the loss of one so closely connected with their new-born ideality, one who had succeeded so wonderfully in the formation of a new taste, and in overcoming those difficulties which invariably characterize a primitive people. The American race had been transferred, half-grown, from a land of inspired song, and set face to face with tasks whose nature left no time for the play of the mind. The destiny that directed this transference "robbed them of the magic of tradition, the wealth of romance, the suggestions of history, the sentiment of inherited homes and customs and left them to create a poetic literature for themselves." If Longfellow cannot be said to have been the creator of this literature, no one will deny him a most important place in its early development.

Longfellow was of Puritan descent. Born in 1807, the son of a refined father and a pious, zealous and amiable mother, he showed that he had inherited his mother's gentle and religious nature and his father's studious habits. He was sent to college in Brunswick, Maine, there associated with his eminent confrere, Nathaniel Hawthorne, graduated when but nineteen, was appointed Professor of Modern Language, and immediately shipped off to Europe to prepare himself by study and travel for his new duties. He sojourned some time in France, Spain and Italy, returning to his Alma Mater at the age of twenty two. There he lived a number of years of perfect happiness, congenial labor, and scholarly associations. When twenty-seven he was appointed Professor at Harvard and was allowed a year's journey in Germany to supplement his knowledge of that language. At Harvard his lot was still more fortunate and happy, and he had ample leisure for purely literary work.

Longfellow has himself mentioned his aim in writing poetry. In the prelude to his first selections he seems to hear a voice calling him away from the visions of childhood to higher and holier themes. The voice says:—

"Look, then, into the heart and write!
Yes, into life's deep stream.
All forms of sorrow and delight,
All solemn voices of the night
That can sooth thee, or affright,—
Be these henceforth thy theme."

But by his subsequent writings, he proved that he was not adapted to this special ideal. It was not in his nature to dwell on the darker side of life. His life was peculiarly free from the difficulties that ordinarily beset the life of authors, and consequently his poems were also destitute of deep sorrow and passion. To him, sorrow and delight blended, forming sweet and harmonious sounds. He says:

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

His view of death was extremely mild. For him it had no terrors. At the death of his little daughter Fanny in Sept. 1848, he wrote the following words:—

"There is no death! What seems so is transition:
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call death."

As we have already noticed his life was singularly fitted to the development of his sweet nature. He had no enemies and while he lived, his poems were free from adverse criticism. Popularity was the result of his labors as a poet, and to-day, perhaps, no other writings are so dearly cherished by the Americans. His works were also widely read in the Old World and his name ranks above all American literatures.

It was very natural that Longfellow, whose aim was to arouse a first interest in American poetry, as an expression of beauty and sentiment, and to afford his countrymen something more varied and human than the meditations on nature, which necessarily characterized those artists who preceded him, to go outside of his own land for inspiration. As already stated before assuming the duties connected with the professorship of modern languages at Brunswick he had an opportunity of drinking at the fount of German sentiment, so peculiar to the German literature. The authors whose influence made itself most felt in the formation of his early tastes were Richter, Heine, Uhland and Goethe. On his second return from Europe he wrote a collection of poems entitled "Voices of the Night." These express in a marked degree the German sentiment with he which had become imbued.

At Rotterdam, Longfellow experienced the first and greatest sorrow of an exceptionally fortunate life. Here his wife fell ill, and shortly afterwards died. As Longfellow was of a shy and retiring nature, he disliked the expression of his inmost feelings. Consequently we can never fully know the effect of this blow, but that she always remained a sad and tender memory, is seen from the following piece:

"With a slow and noiseless footstep
Comes that messenger divine,
Takes the vacant chair beside me,
Lays that gentle hand in mine."

Although opinions may differ as to the relative length of time his various compositions may continue to be read, our opinion is that he will always rank high as a graceful lyrist. The tasty flavour of his lyrics is their strong characteristic. For a display of tender grace, listen to him singing on the occasion of the 50th birthday of his friend Agassiz, the first stanza of which is:

"It was fifty years ago,
In the pleasant month of May,
In the beautiful Pays de Vaud,
A child in its cradle lay."

It will be unnecessary to accumulate examples of this prevalent trait of elegance, as his poems are full of it. Some of his lyrics are very melodious, for example "The Day is Done" and "The Bridge." These short selections were often spontaneous and at times are full of intense feeling. We find his susceptible nature so thrilled with the meditation of Night as to exclaim: "Peace! Peace! Orestes-like, I breathe this prayer
Descend with broad winged flight,
The welcome, the thrice-prayed for, the most fair,
The best beloved Night!"

In addition to music and sentiment, they show that they are the works of a masterhand. His artistic skill and the labour he bestowed on all his poems enabled him frequently to give the effect of harmony. In numerous instances we find the sound, the language, and the versification harmonizing with the thoughts and the feelings. In the Arsenal he says:—

"The bursting shell, the gateway wrenched asunder,
The rattling musketry, the clashing blade;
And ever and anon, in tones of thunder,
The diapason of the cannonade."

Very many of his lyrics are picturesque and imitative, as the stanza just read would indicate, while others have a pensive or melancholy tone that strongly impresses us, as—

"How often, O, how often,
I had wished that the ebbing tide
Would bear me away on its bosom
O'er the ocean wild and wide!

For my heart was hot and restless,
And my life was full of care,
And the burden laid upon me
Seemed greater than I could bear."

He has somewhat lowered the standard of some of his lyrics by tacking on at the end some moral. At the close of the touching description of the Village Blacksmith, he says:—

"Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought:
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought.

His greatest works, those that will no doubt remain fixed in the hearts of the American people for all time, are his idyls. Of these Evangeline is the greatest. The beauties of this work can be best expressed in the following quotation from Stedman's "American Poets:" "A beautiful, pathetic tradition of American history, remote enough to gather a poetic halo, and yet fresh with sweet humanities; staged with provincial color, which he knew and loved, and in the course taking on the changing atmospheres of his own land; pastoral at first then broken into action, and afterward the record of shifting scenes that made life a pilgrimage and dream. There are few dramatic episodes, there is but one figure whom we follow—that one the most touching of all, the betrothed Evangeline searching for her lover, through many years and half an unknown world. There are chance pictures of Acadian fields, New World rivers, prairies, bayous, forests, by moonlight and starlight, and midday, glimpses, too, of picturesque figures, artisans and farmers, soldiery, trappers, boatmen, emigrants and priests. The poem already is a little classic, and will remain one, just as surely as the 'Vicar of Wakefield,' 'The Deserted Village,' or any other sweet and pious idyl of our English tongue."

There has been much discussion over the metre of Evangeline, namely the dactylic hexameter. Longfellow borrowed this metre from the classics, and it is on account of certain imperfections due to the fact that the basis of English metre is accent, not quantity, that it has been condemned. One cannot but feel that to the measure is in part due that touch of melancholy which pervades the tale. If this poem pleases its readers, if it can be read without any difficulty, it ought not to be subjected to an unfair comparison with any classical piece.

Longfellow wrote but one good drama, "The Spanish Student." Dramas were not in his line. He hated no one, was not possessed of malevolent humour, and had no just notion of a plot. Perhaps he would have been successful if he had studied and trained himself, as others have done, by continual practice.

Like every man, Longfellow had his fixed habits, and these habits often became faults. Everything to him suggested an image, and he generally expressed the comparison in the form of a simile. After a while his similes became formal and a little monotonous. Another unconfrolled habit was that formed in youth, namely, of moralizing in his most beautiful poems. Lastly, the literary flavour of his works is both a fault and a merit. As a fault, it made him the least national and the least creative of American poets. On the other hand, Longfellow's library was his storehouse of themes, from which he drew some of his choicest gems. Although his poems are simple, he could, if he wished, make them abstruse. On the fiftieth anniversary of his graduating class, he read before them a poem entitled "Morituri-Salutamus," which in allusion and general atmosphere is strongly marked by abstruse scholarship.

Longfellow is truly a poet of the sea. He loved to write about the storms, the lights and beacons, the mist and the fog-bells. Take, for instance, out of hundreds of examples, this stanza:—

"The twilight is sad and cloudy,
The wind blows wild and free,
And like the wings of sea-birds,
Flash the white caps of the sea."

He is also a poet of the children, as in "The Children's hour," "Children" and "To a Child." Again he loves night, and in many cases tells us the influence it had on him, as:—

O holy night! From thee I learnt to bear
What man had borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of care,
And they complain no more!

In conclusion, Longfellow was not perhaps a deeply inspired poet. He had neither imagination nor originality to any great extent. But he can lay claim to artistic skill, as we have endeavoured to show. Time will not permit us to notice the lofty conception he has of ideal morality as seen in the Psalm of Life," and of character ideal as seen in "Evangeline." He frequently attains to sublimity in Nature, as:

"Softly the evening came. The sun from the western horizon
Like a magician extended his golden wand over the landscape
Twinkling vapors arose, and sky and water and forest Seemed all on fire at the touch, and melted and mingled together."

Lastly, his sense of humor was slight. One of the best examples is in the "Birds of Killingworth."

There is a wide diversity of opinion as to the relative place Longfellow holds American poets. One thing cannot be denied, his name is a permanent part of American literary history. I think we are safe in saying that in future ages his name will be honoured, not only as an early representative of American song, but as one possessing rare poetic genius.

As a result of his efforts, we may be assured that his successors will meet a grateful welcome whereas his predecessors were met with apathy or suspicion. What a pleasure to know he departed this life without personal enemies.:—

"He is dead the sweet musician!
He is gone from us forever!
He has moved a little nearer
To the Master of all music,
To the Master of all singing."

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The Diamond Dyes
The foe defies.

Crude enterprise
Is not wise,
In making dyes
That all despise.

We realize,
Without surprise,
That Diamond Dyes,
Have gained the prize.

Though jealous eyes
May plans devise
To advertise,
And heave great sighs,—

In Diamond Dyes
All recognize,
Without disguise,
The truth concise.

The message flies,
The world replies,—
"Give us supplies Of Diamond Dyes."

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Australian Commonwealth.

The Australian Commonwealth will have grand results but the results of using Burdock Blood Bitters for diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood surpass all expectations. Dyspepsia, headache, billiousness, scrofula, etc., are promptly cured by B.B.B. dw

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. REMINDERS OF DICKENS.

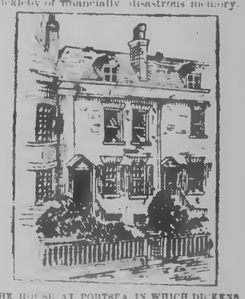
SOME OF THE OBJECTS ASSOCIATED WITH THE NOVELIST.

CHARLES DICKENS was born at Portsea in the house shown in the accompanying cut. It is 387 Commercial road, Mile-end, Landport, and is now occupied by Miss Grace Pearce. This house may stand for the one Dickens had in mind when sketching the small patrimonial property of Mr. Nickleby of financially disastrous memory.



THE HOUSE AT PORTSEA IN WHICH DICKENS WAS BORN.

It is believed that Dickens' father moved to Chatham in 1817. The House on the Brook was another of the Chatham homes of the Dickens family. Perhaps no popular author has concealed less personal reverence from his admirers than Dickens, except so far as his career can be believed to supply an antetype for his imaginative creations. It would be satisfactory to identify family houses as the origin of that hatred for building which inspires the speech of the cobbler to Mr. Weller in the debtor's prison. But this cannot be done.

Simultaneously with his father's incarceration for debt, young Dickens was sent to the blacking manufactory carried on by the Lamerts under the name of Warren. This is the amiable Mr. Warren mentioned in "Pickwick," into whose soul envy would have been struck by the lustre professionally imparted by Boot-Weller, who used the mixture of Day & Martin. Warren was noted for his advertisements, many of them rhymed, so that to his housemaid was attributed the exclamation, made on her meeting a literary gentleman: "Law! sir, we keeps a poet." Warren's advertising cuts were to be seen in all the provincial newspapers of England, on the covers of magazines and periodicals, and on the blank walls of London and its suburbs. In this series of the Lamert period, as against the experience reproduced in that of Copperfield at Murdstone & Grinby's

It is interesting to see what the boy's ideal like who never knew those Murdstone & Grinby experiences and on whom the amiable publican and his spouse so condescendingly bestowed a pot of beer, declaring the twopence that should have been paid for it. The boy looked like our vignette.

The last sheets of "Edwin Drood" were written in the chalet at Gad's Hill, whose picture is given here, that story which still awaits a Poet to complete it, for all the end seems clear to every fond reader of Dickens, and this end is not the same for each reader.

EASY AS ROLLING OFF A LOG.

How a Canadian Country Girl Fills in the Time.

How few of the inhabitants of this city would refrain from exclaiming, in their cultivated, languor-begetting style of articulation:

"Aw! How that peripatetic tintinnabulating reporter of The World can publish such a shockingly slang phrase as 'As easy as rolling off a log,' is really beyond my conceptibility."

Few there are, if any, who have witnessed or experienced the act of "rolling off a log." Therefore it would be difficult indeed for them to imagine all the beautiful poetical motions one assumes in the soul-stirring amusement.

Picture to yourself a young girl at that delightful, love-awakening age between sixteen and seventeen, seeking for her amusement along the shores of Buckhorn Lake the grace-giving occupation of "Rolling off a Log." Head bare, feet and arms also. Dress of some soft white material that suggested the drapery of a ballet girl rather that a resident of that rough, wild locality.

She stood a moment, while a merry, merry smile rippled over her pretty brown face, on the shore selecting the log that was to accompany her for half an hour's innocent but wildly exciting enjoyment.

Near by a bullfrog dropped off his mossy couch into the water with his dull guttural: "Daddy, here's your cow!"

She laughed outright at the frog, and before the echo had ceased its laugh she had lighted lightly on a huge pine log that had drifted lazily near the shore. Her weight caused it to pause and quiver and swing around in that restive way an untrained horse does when first saddled. This stood had neither saddle nor curb. She extended out her arms, gracefully fluttering them at times to act as a balance. Poising on one foot, swaying her lithe body, she at length brought the log to gentle submissiveness.

Allowing her arms to drop to her sides, she stood with such a delightful look of sweet expectation mingling with mirth on her face that an inaudible whisperer whispered to me what a heavenly charm there must be in "Rolling off a log."

The log moved slowly around. She made no effort to stop it this time, but with a pretty daft movement with her bare foot she caused it to turn faster. Plump, splash, down she went under the cool water. With a spluttering, bubbling noise up she popped as quickly as she had disappeared. Swimming to the end of the log, she placed her two hands on the end of it and with the most adroit movement conceivable she brought herself to a standing position on the log a little from the end. Then it showed its inclination to throw its saucy rider. Turning first from side to side, it made an effort to roll over. Then one end tried to sink, but with fearless steady steps she gained the centre, and with all the skill of a trained horsewoman she brought her plunging horse to perfect quietness.

A moment she looked down into the water as if she loved it. Raising her dripping brown head she gave a light spring, jumping from the log a short distance. This action sent it rolling around with great rapidity. Down she came again and immediately began as if running. Around and around went the log, faster and faster went the little feet until leg, feet, ankles, arms and girl seemed one delightfully living kaleidoscopic scene begotten for the express purpose of intoxicating me mentally and physically. Around and around they went. With an occasional little shout of joy she would jump from the log only to alight again to twirl, twirl, until at last the velocity was so great that when her feet touched the log she was shot with such sudden and deadness into the lake that I expected to hear of her next in Australia. I watched the log continue its mad rolling and wondered why I had not in my eager search for fun thought of that bewitching, sublimely educating game, "rolling off a log."

It was brought back to reality by a bubbling laugh that told me she had come back from where she had gone to with such agility. Swimming to the shore, she shook the water from her ballet-like skirts, singing in a clear, ringing voice:

"I should have hung my skirts on a hickory limb and never went near the water."

That was how I learned not to think as slang "as easy as rolling off a log."

As I sit and watch the city girls in their ungainly habits canter by on their sleek trained horses, my mind flits back to that little sprite with her conglomerated poetry of motion. When any of the readers of this hear the words "As easy as rolling of a log," dut it not slang. Speak of it as a sport. You young people who anticipate a summer among the lakes would do well to start a club called the "Rolling off a log club."—Nancy Nugen in The World.

Pigmies vs. Giants.

Lilliputian as they are in size (being no larger than mustard seeds), they achieve results that their Brobdingnaglan opponents utterly fail in. We refer to the efficacy of the powerful preparation known as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, compared with that of their gigantic competitors, the old-style pill. Try the little giants when dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, biliousness or any kindred ills assail you, and you'll make no mistake—they'll disappear at once. o

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

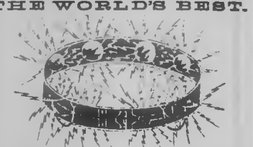
BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—193 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

What About the Money for Parks?

A great many persons are interested in Mrs. Nicholls' magnificent bequest for public parks, so much so that at an early date a meeting is to be called to form a society pledged to the exclusive use of hawley bros' teas, which are of such excellent quality that the public health will be benefitted and the national interest subserved by their universal use—particularly their splendid 50 cent tea. dw

A New Street Railway Enterprise.

An Electric Railway Proposed from the North to the South of the Town

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Barr, general Canadian manager of the Edison General Electric Company, and Col. Frazer, representing a syndicate of six or seven, waited upon the Manufacturers' Committee of the Town Council in reference to their application for a franchise from the town for an electric street railway. It is proposed, in the beginning at least, to run a track (the application covers a double track) from Hilliard's down George street, and on far enough to make the southern terminal practically the exhibition grounds and the cemetery. Though it would be premature to mention the facts in detail, a perfectly matured scheme was presented for consideration, all arrangements having been made for the generation of the electric force. The matter was talked over pretty exhaustively, and the committee took it into serious consideration, and it is probable that the plans in a more detailed form will be presented to the council as well as the results of the deliverations and investigations of the committee. It will also be necessary to send deputations to St. Catherines, Ottawa and Buffalo where electric street railways are now in operation with marked success. It is likely that prompt action will be taken on both sides as it is the desire of the syndicate which waited on the council to have the railway in operation early in September.

Cæsar's famous "Veni, vidi, vici,"—I came, I saw, I conquered—might be an appropriate motto for Ayer's Sarsaparilla. We charge nothing for the suggestion. This great blood-purifier conquers wherever it comes, and is now absolutely without equal in the world.

Presentation and Address.

Mr. J. A. Prentice Honored by His Royal Templar Associates.

As noted in the EXAMINER a few days ago, Mr. J. A. Prentice has been promoted to a position in the head offices of the G. N. W. Telegraph Company, Toronto. He leaves town on Monday evening. In view of this event, the local council of the Royal Templars of Temperance, of which Mr. Prentice had been recording secretary for over a year, decided to signalize the departure of an energetic, indefatigable and successful fellow worker. Accordingly, Mr. Prentice was decoyed to the Royal Templars' hall. Here he found about fifty or sixty of the members present. The following programme was first presented in a very pleasing manner, after the opening ode and prayer by Rev. Mr. Thom, of Mark Street Methodist Church, Ashburnham:—

Pianoforte Solo.....Miss Edith Hall
Address.....Mr. Barton Earl
Recitation, "Just One Glass."....Mr. Cochrane
Pianoforte Solo.....Miss Cochrane

Pianoforte Solo.....Miss Cochrane
Recitation, "The Diner."....Mrs. Goldsmith
Address.....Dr. Goldsmith
Reading, "Cooking a Husband."....Miss E. Sanderson.

At the conclusion of the programme Miss Sanderson read the following address:—

To MR. J. A. PRENTICE.

DEAR BROTHER,—The intelligence of your proposed removal from our midst, received on Tuesday evening last, was no less unwelcome than startling. This evening, we, the members of Peterborough Council No. 97 R. T. of T. wish to unite in an expression of sincere regret that circumstances have made it necessary for you to sever immediate connection with our circle.

The true faithfulness and unflagging energy which characterized the discharge of official duty have commanded the admiration of all; while to those of our number with whom the fraternal relation has ripened into friendship, your removal brings a keen sense of personal loss. We ask your acceptance of this badge which we hope will be worn as a token of our lasting esteem. The earnest prayer of our hearts is that He who directs the path of those who commit their ways unto Him, may go with you and Mrs. Prentice into the new home,—the consciousness of His abiding presence be a never failing help and shield—and that in some other section of our Order, with its environment of "Hope, Love and Truth," you may find abundant opportunity for the exercise of those gifts and graces which have so endeared you to our circle.

Signed on behalf of the Council.
S. R. Armstrong, S.C.
M. J. Sanderson, P.C.

Peterborough, July 3rd, 1891.

The present was a beautiful Royal Templars' badge, the presentation of which was made by Dr. Fife in a very neat speech.

Mr. Prentice was thoroughly entrapped and surprised, yet he soon recovered, and acknowledged his thanks for the gift and the kindly sentiments of the address in a very feeling and effective little speech.

Mr. Prentice leaves behind in Peterborough a wide circle both of personal and business friends. In the latter respect he has done very much to promote the interests of the company he represents in Peterborough. It was entirely due to his actions and exertions that Peterborough enjoyed during his term the telegraphic advantages of a metropolitan city. He had a line run to his house, had an instrument put in, with a competent operator always on hand, so that any time of the day or night business or other telegrams could be despatched and received. Mr. Prentice did all this at his own instance and primarily at his own expense, and the interest he showed in the public welfare as well as that of the company resulted in a very gratifying increase of business during his incumbency. Mr. Prentice deserves well of the business men of Peterborough, who will doubtless remember him with grateful feelings. His promotion by the company is only a partial recognition of his faithful and efficient services.

Darkness in the Midst of Light.

In this age of progress and learning, it is simply astonishing that people know so little about themselves physically.

Thousands content themselves with the idea that there lives a class of men specially appointed to take care of them when troubles assail, and when the hand of disease bears down so heavily, "Go for the doctor," is the command given when we are out of gear physically. This in nine cases out of ten, is quite unnecessary. It should be remembered that the great majority of our troubles spring from an imperfect condition of the great nerve system and the brain; and that from these troubles soon come forth other serious and dangerous symptoms. The brain is the most wonderful of organs; it is the seat and citadel of the soul, and made up of millions of little cells. From these proceed the nerves to every part of the body. The music which these little cells play, is the substance of our life, mind and soul. If their healthy action is disturbed, it goes badly with us. To all those who suffer from brain and nerve troubles let it be known that in Paine's Celery Compound they have a brain and nerve food, which gives strength and new vigor and life to the weakened system. It is the only discovery, the only means known whereby this work can be accomplished. It does a work that the physician cannot accomplish, and best of all, the cure is permanent. Paine's Celery Compound is the wonder and admiration of all who have used it.

The A. O. A. Meet

A Visit to the Camp Ground—Notes of the Meet.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

Leaving Lindsay in the pouring rain on the morning of Dominion Day with a full crew, three pics, and with plenty of hard coal in the bunkers, we set out for the proposed camp site on the historic waters of Pigeon Lake, caring little for externals. We reached Bobcaygeon and fair weather about noon, and after looking through, and assisting the chief engineer in exchanging the usual civilities with the lockmaster, steamed away for "Big" island, the south end of which had been chosen for the camp during this year, and which has been thoroughly underbrushed and cleaned up by the members of the Bobcaygeon canoe club and their friends. Arriving at the island we found that the fires of last week have badly scorched the grass and trees on the island which may, perhaps, necessitate a change to Jacobs' (or Crowley's) island, a beautiful spot, with waters perfect for cruising and sailing, and where a sheltered paddling course may be obtained in any weather. The camp will open on Saturday, 18th July, with Col Cotton, of Kingston, in command, and will last for two weeks, the first of which will be taken up with cruising, the latter being devoted to the regatta, at which every event will be keenly contested. From a member of the Bobcaygeon canoe club who accompanied us on the trip to Jacob's Island, and who kindly consented to be interviewed, we gathered the following information: Mr. Archibald of Montreal, the present holder of the Northern division sailing trophy, will be on hand to defend his hard won prize, and parties from Brantford, Berlin, Kingston, Galt, Toronto and other places have signified their intention of being present. These with the local canoeists from Peterborough, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon and Lindsay should make the meet the largest yet held by the association.

Cruises will be made to Sandy Lake and Buckhorn, both of which will take canoeists through waters unsurpassed for beauty of scenery in our northern lakes, and it is fully expected that Mr. Smiff of Bobcaygeon will issue a daily morning edition of his journal in time to reach the camp with the early morning coffee.

But, but by no means least, we learned that Mr. J. T. Robinson of Bobcaygeon has undertaken the camp store and commissariat department, and it is enough to say that the hungry canoeists will be well attended to without having to forage himself.

The steamer "Maple Leaf" will make close connection with the "Esturion" and will remain at the camp each night leaving in the morning in time to connect with the Esturion at 6.30 a.m.

The year book will be issued in a few days and will give full information as to rates and routes.

Pale and listless girls and prematurely aged women would soon give place to bright, healthy, rosy females if Dr. Williams Pink Pills were used for the ills to which women are peculiarly liable. They enrich the blood, build up the nerves, and restore the shattered system, regulate the periods, etc. Try them and be convinced. To the Ministers of the Christian Churches.

Memorial from the Joint Committee of the Knights of Labor, the Single Tax Association, the Trades and Labor Council, the Women's Enfranchisement Association, the Eight Hour League, and the Nationalist Association.

REVEREND SIRS,—We take the liberty of addressing you on what we cannot but feel to be a matter of most momentous importance, not merely from a social, but also from a religious point of view. We need scarcely remind you that the conditions at present existing in society are anything but satisfactory, nor do we see any tendency for them to become any better, unless great improvements are made in our laws.

The transformation in the methods of producing wealth during the past two centuries have been so extraordinary that, in many departments, we produce ten, twenty or a hundredfold what could be produced a few centuries ago.

What comes of that abundance? Does it go as the reward of industry to the toilers? Does it go to the men to whose industry it is due, to the men who work ten hours a day, and the woman who work twelve or fourteen hours a day, or are we maintaining some method seriously unjust, whereby the laborer is deprived of the proper reward of his industry?

The increase of population on this continent is one of the wonders of history. In a hundred years the population of this country and of the neighboring republic has increased from less than four millions to seventy millions—nearly twentyfold. At the same time the urban population has increased with ten fold greater rapidity. The effect, consequently, is that there is less available land for each. In our large cities, therefore, we see people crowded into back alleys, close, stuffy tenements, often whole families being compelled to crowd into one apartment, till it is impossible to observe properly the decencies of life, and anything like the development of a full-orbed manhood—morally and physically—or the proper enjoyment of the blessings of existence, are utterly out of the question.

We take the liberty of asking what is the teaching of Christianity respecting these two facts, namely: The abundance in products caused by industry, and the scarcity in land caused by the crowding of population? Does Christianity teach that those who by their industry cause abundance should be punished with scarcity, while another portion of society should be endowed with the power to appropriate a large share of the product, not because they had aided in any way in begetting that product, but mainly on account of the monopoly of land, especially in the larger centres of population.

That is the law of this country to day, and it is to this regulation that we desire most earnestly to call your attention.

To many of us this question is of the most momentous importance. On what principle can it be justified, that those who industriously and beneficently bring forth products in lavish abundance, should obtain only scarcity—poor homes, coarse clothing, degraded social standing, inadequate education, while other men and women who neither toil nor spin enjoy exceeding abundance.

Is this Christianity? Is this rendering to everyone his due? Is this honesty, or is it spoliation? Is this the righteousness that we are exhorted so earnestly to seek and to follow? What prospect to the most of us does the future offer? Every increase of population but increases the tribute that labor must surrender for occupying the earth. Wherever population is likely to centre, there awaits the speculator to extort from us the products of our industry. Every increase of population, increases his power to appropriate and our compulsion to yield up our product. His growing fortune is the measure of our misfortune, his exaltation involves our degradation. No matter how many years we may continue this payment, no matter how many millions we may surrender, our obligation never diminishes or draws nearer an end. No matter how much we may increase the productiveness of our industry, the regulations at present in force will place us under a tribute as great that it will always keep us and our successors impoverished.

We cannot suppress the thought that we are living under conditions radically and terribly unjust. Brought into life; into this universe, with its immense possibilities and its wondrous surroundings, can we be satisfied with the regulations that now exist, regulations that must doom us and our successors, to be the mere drudges of society, to degrading servitude, and deprived of those advantages of culture and refinement that should be our desert, excluded from that higher learning, that intellectual prowess, "which doth so ennoble the man," and subjected to an injustice that excludes us from our fair share of the advantages of the civilization we should enjoy.

When we look at the glorious character of the teaching of Christ, heralding its dawn with the angelic chorus of peace and goodwill to men, appealing at once to the deepest sensibilities of the soul and the loftiest conceptions of the intellect, basing its foundation deep on the principle of justice, erecting its structure into righteousness and truth, crowning all, surrounding all, permeating all, with the dominance of love, calling on men everywhere to yield up their souls in loyal fealty to their highest convictions of duty, and ever endeavoring to weave humanity into one glorious bond of harmony and brotherhood; when we look at this and then behold the hideous contrast in our social conditions, we cannot but feel that this subject is by all means transcendently the most important to which we could ask your attention.

Instead of equity we find iniquity; instead of society developing symmetrically, we see the growth of two monstrosities—millionaires at one end of society and tramps at the other; instead of honesty, we find one part of society living by the spoliation of the other; instead of each toiling for the benefit of all, we find one portion oppressed, doubly burdened and impoverished, while the other luxuriates in special privileges.

We appeal to you as the evangels of a Holy Gospel—the ostensible leaders in ethical culture. Are we asking too much when we appeal to you to raise your voices with us in earnest protest against the injustice that now weighs with such terrible burden on so large a portion of God's children?

Respectfully yours,
F. F. TITUS,
Chairman Joint Committee.

Norwood's Dominion Day.

Lacrosse, Picnics, Socials.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Dominion Day was celebrated in Norwood in spite of the rain. A lacrosse team arrived from Madoc in the morning, and at 3 o'clock crossed sticks with the Juniors of this place. A large gathering turned out on the grounds and encouraged the contestants during the game. The home team had decidedly the best of it, although some of the Madoc boys were superior players of the national game. C. Livingston and D. Fraser succeeded in scoring three straight goals for the home team and the game was concluded without further scoring. The representatives from Madoc were a gentlemanly lot of fellows and have left a good impression on our people. They departed on the midnight train.

The Methodist picnic which was to be held in Grover's grove, had to be postponed on account of the rain.

The postponed picnic in connection with the Methodist Sunday school took place on Thursday afternoon and evening. Tea was served about five o'clock, after which athletic sports were held on Spring street till dark. Ice cream and a short programme in the church wound up this very enjoyable treat for the children.

Fair weather gladdened the drooping spirits of the Presbyterians in the evening. At 6 o'clock the band was on the grounds surrounding the Presbyterian church and ere long a very large number had gathered, and were enjoying ice cream, strawberries and cake. The evening was spent very pleasantly, as is usually the case at a lawn social.

Miss Renwick, Miss Stephenson, Mr. Geo. Ross and Mr. Duncan Anderson, ex-pupils of the Norwood High School, are back to the village for their holidays.

A large number of entrance pupils are in town putting in their best efforts on examination papers.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Carmichael Sunday last.

Mr. Fred Clarke, of Peterborough, is spending a few days in town.

The East Peterborough Farmers are in session to-day. This forenoon the Farmers' Institute held its annual meeting, and this afternoon the Agricultural Society have a director's meeting.

A MONSTER FARM.

A Big Canadian Pleasure Ground on the Detroit River.

WINDSOR, July 3.—Undoubtedly the largest transfer in the history of Windsor in Essex county was consummated to-day. The purchasers are several well-known residents of Detroit and Brooklyn, N.Y. Property involved in the deal consists of a total of 709 acres and includes Sol White's farm of 309 acres in rear of Brighton Beach; the J. C. Patterson farm of 135 acres across the road and fronting on the river, as well as Sol White's two adjoining farms on the front, of 130 and 135 acres respectively. The price paid for the various farms approximates $70,000 and the purchasing syndicate has well-developed ideas on the future disposition of the property. When asked just after the papers had been passed what use so much property could be put to the head of the syndicate replied: "We will make it the most beautiful spot on the Canada shore. It will be laid out in the shape of a park, with winding roads similar to Menlo Park in New Jersey or Orange, N.J. We will have a boat landing at foot of the street and will sell lots to those who want a nice suburban home."

Among the latest real estate transfers to come to the surface is the J. C. Patterson farm of 400 acres, occupied by Chappell's Hotel, on the river front. The purchasers are also Detroiters, but as the deals have not been made out the purchase price could not be ascertained.

Escapes On a Flaw.

AMHERST, N.S., July 3.—Rev. A. B. Staples, the eloquent young pastor of the Baptist Church, who has been on trial on the charge of seducing Miss Terrie, a girl under 21, under promise of marriage, was acquitted to-day on a technicality, the judge telling him that he only escaped penitentiary by accident. It will be remembered that when the girl found herself in trouble she compelled Staples to fix a day for their marriage. When the hour came he asked a day's delay, and that being granted he took advantage of it to elope with a buxom young widow.

Tried to Commit Suicide.

UMEMEE, July 3.—While the train due here at 1.23 o'clock was crossing the millpond a young woman named Millie McCann attempted suicide by jumping from the train into the water, but was rescued by the train hands and others. She is supposed to be suffering from temporary insanity.

Where Footpads Are.

DETROIT, July 3.—Last evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, as James A. Robinson, in company with a lady, was driving along the boulevard, his horse was stopped by two unknown men between Cass and Grand River avenues. He tried to free himself, but finally saved the valuables of himself and lady by paying the men $5 each.

Arm Broken.

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., July 3.—William Heppher had his arm broken by falling from a tree while taking down swings on Dominion Day.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BIGGLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PIERRE MOSHER, 99 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

BLOOD WILL FLOW.

Unhappy Chili Will Soon be Torn by Fierce Battle.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A despatch to the Herald from Coquimbo, Chili, dated June 29, says: The new president of the government party has been elected. The provinces in South Chili, all under Balmaceda's control, voted Saturday. Balmaceda's candidate, Vicuna, was chosen as his successor. This is only the general report of the vote. The final result will not be made public until July 25. Between now and then Balmaceda will remain in office and will hesitate at nothing to stamp out the revolution. He is in the fight to the bitter end. There will be no compromise. Either he must fall or the insurgents will have to make an unconditional surrender.

This town is alive with warlike scenes. Everything points to a fierce fight at a very early date.

News reaches here that all the insurgent fleet, excepting the Esmeraldi, are in rendezvous at Caldera, 200 miles to the north, the port where the Blanco Encalada was sunk. Their purpose is, without doubt, to attack Coquimbo at once. It seems that the insurgents have been encouraged by the report emanating from here of dissatisfaction among the supporters of Balmaceda. They hope to be joined by hundreds of deserters as soon as they make a descent upon this place. If this is so it will make a big difference in the coming fight.

It looks as if the insurgents and Balmacedists would be in conflict by July 1 or 2. There are 7360 Government troops in this town. Much less than one-half of these are regulars. The rest are volunteers. They are not to be much depended on. It is from their ranks that most of the deserters to the other side are gathered. There is no telling what the strength of the insurgents at Caldera is. It is reported they have 8000 troops well armed, and that only for lack of ammunition they could put a much larger force in the field.

I have just been informed that an attack by both land and sea upon Coquimbo may be looked for. Balmaceda's officers here are making every preparation for a savage resistance. They are trained men and good fighters. The weakness of the Balmaceda army is in its volunteers.

Nobody Knows Him.

ORANGEVILLE, July 3.—The despatch from Chicago telling of the arrest there of a man named Rice alias Rodgers, a druggist of this town for smuggling opium, is all wrong. There is no such man in the drug or any other business here. He evidently gave a wrong address to throw the police astray.

WHITE EARTH, Minn., July 3.—The chiefs of Minnesota Chippewa Indians are in council here preparing a letter to the President setting forth their grievances. They claim they were swindled out of 1,000,000 acres of land.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and ard hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sore, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

THE NEWS OF EUROPE.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S WELCOME IN ENGLAND.

One of the Most Gorgeous Spectacles of Modern Times The Contest in Carlow Unveiling a Memorial to a Fenian Martyr General Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, July 5.—The Emperor William arrived at Port Victoria, near Sheerness, yesterday. He was enthusiastically received by the crowds assembled to witness the landing of the Imperial party. All the British warships anchored about Sheerness fired salutes of 21 guns.

Previous to the arrival of the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, the Prince of Wales and his eldest son, the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, both in the uniform of Prussian Lancers; the Duke of Edinburgh, in the uniform of a Prussian general; the Duke of Connaught, in the uniform of a colonel of German hussars, and other members of the Royal Family gathered on the pier at Port Victoria to await the arrival of the Imperial visitor. The Duke of Portland, Master of the Horse, was in charge of the arrangements made for the reception of the Emperor. Also present on the pier were the German Ambassador, Count von Hatzfeldt, the British Ambassador at Berlin, Sir Edward Malet, and Admiral Sir John Commerell, Sir John McNeill and Colonel Carrington, the three last named being specially attached to the Emperor during his stay in England. The Hohenzollern was sighted about noon. She was escorted by the Princess Wilhelm and other German war vessels. When the German yacht and her escort were abreast of the first of the British war vessels the latter thundered forth an ear-splitting salute from their guns.

The German Emperor was first seen upon the bridge of the Imperial yacht. He wore the uniform of a British Admiral and was accompanied by a staff sparkling with gold lace and decorations. Upon landing the Emperor kissed the Prince of Wales, and, after luncheon on board the Hohenzollern, the royal party started for Windsor by special train.

Upon the arrival of the train at Windsor it was seen that the structure was superbly decorated and that a guard of honor furnished by the Scots Fusilier Guards was mounted at the depot. Here the Princess of Wales and the other royal princesses were assembled. The Emperor was greeted by the princesses in the most cordial manner, after which, in reply to an address, the Emperor, in good English, said: "I am very much obliged to you for your kindness in coming here to welcome me to your old town again. I am very much pleased to find myself here."

After some further exchange of compliments the most important members of the imperial party, together with the royal princes and princesses entered state carriages, and the emperor's carriage, in which the Prince and Princess of Wales were also seated, leading the procession, which was composed of about a dozen splendid turnouts, drove slowly towards Windsor Castle, escorted by a detachment of the Life Guards.

A halt was made at Guild Hall, where the Mayor of Windsor presented the Emperor with an address upon the part of the municipal authorities. To this address the Emperor replied: "I am very much obliged for your kind address and for the allusion to my grandmother, who has been very kind to us both before and since we ascended the throne."

The Emperor was enthusiastically received by the crowds of people who had assembled to greet him.

Upon their arrival at the Castle the Emperor and Empress were received by Queen Victoria at the state entrance with much pomp and ceremony. The Queen warmly embraced both her visitors.

William Is An Early Riser.

Emperor William rose early at Windsor Sunday and took a short ride, returning to breakfast with the Queen and the Royal Family. Immediately after he started in a carriage for the Victoria Barracks, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and the Duke of Clarence. The Emperor was in the undress uniform of the Corps Garde, bedecked with Prussian orders and wore a plumed helmet. The Prince of Wales was in the uniform of a colonel of the Life Guards. It being a semi state occasion only the military attaches of the German Embassy and the English equerries attendant upon the Emperor followed the royalties. The carriages of the royal party were preceded by mounted police and outriders. On arriving at the barracks square the Emperor found the Life Guards drawn up in line with the Scots Guards in the rear. He shook hands with the commanding officers and then inspected the troops, passing up and down the lines and minutely scrutinizing the equipments of the soldiers. This business over the troops escorted the royalties to Trinity Church. The Emperor on entering occupied the royal pew in the central aisle, the other royalties and a number of members of the Emperor's and Queen's households filling the pews in the rear, and the troops and guards occupying the galleries. The interior of the church presented a brilliant spectacle of dress and yet harmonious colors the white robed choir in front of the altar and the rows of glittering uniforms in the centre with the sombre background of civilian attire. The Guards' bands played Mendelssohn's march while the royalties were entering. The succeeding hymns were sung to band accompaniment after the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers." The sermon was delivered by the Queen's chaplain, Arthur Robins, who referred to the self-denying lives of Christian record, mentioning General Grant, Count Von Moltke, General Gordon and Father Damien. The service over the congregation stood while the royalties left, the Emperor and royal party driving back to the castle. While the Emperor was at Trinity the Queen, the Empress and Princess Beatrice drove to a private chapel at Frogmore, attended by ladies of the household. The Bishop of Ripon officiated.

At luncheon, which was served in the banqueting hall in the castle, the German Emperor and Empress met the bride and bridegroom of to-morrow, Prince Aribert of Anhalt and Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein. The great table was laid with the massive gold plate which the Queen permits to be displayed only on special occasions. After luncheon the Queen and the Imperial party proceeded to the east terrace of the castle to listen to the Guards Band. Some 15,000 people had assembled there, among whom the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught moved.

The Emperor looking on beside the Queen at the window of the terrace. In the afternoon the Emperor and Empress and the Prince and Princess of Wales drove to Cumberland Lodge to visit Prince and Princess Christian, returning in time for the family dinner party. The day concluded with a sacred concert in St. George's Hall. Madame Albani and the principal soloists received the personal congratulations of the Emperor and Empress.

It is reported that the Wimbledon review has been rearranged, the Emperor gratified at yesterday's reception accepting the program without further cavil.

DROWNED AT HAMILTON.

Another Member of the Leander Rowing Club Meets a Watery Death.

HAMILTON, July 5.—Six members of the Leander Rowing Club went out for a spin early this afternoon in the new Leander war canoe, and when about a mile from the Hamilton beach the heavy sea capsized the craft and spilled its occupants into the water. The waves were running high nearly all the afternoon and as very few boats were on the bay the unfortunates were compelled to cling to the upturned canoe for over one-half hour before being seen. In the meantime one of the six named Maitland Young, jr., weakened and lost his hold on the boat. His companions were unable to assist him and the young man went down before their eyes. The remaining five were just able to cling to the boat until rescued by a party of men who put out from the beach as soon as they observed the men in the water. Young was a son of Maitland Young, accountant, of this city, and who was formerly superintendent of the Hamilton & Northwestern Railway. The deceased was about 27 years of age and was employed as clerk in the Bank of Hamilton. He is the third member of the Leander Club to lose his life by drowning this season and is the second of the Bank of Hamilton clerks who has come to grief in this manner. The body has not been recovered.

THROUGH A TRESTLE.

SERIOUS WRECK IN WEST VIRGINIA SATURDAY.

Fourteen Killed and Sixty Injured—Many Railway Accidents Elsewhere—A Railway Train Crashes Into a Street Car—A Long List of Fatalities.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 4.—The worst wreck ever known in this part of the state occurred about 8 o'clock this morning on the Kanawha & Michigan Railway, eight miles west of here. At least 14 persons were killed and 58 others were injured. The passenger train for Columbus pulled out from here with two carloads of excursionists, among them the Order of United American Mechanics, who were going to Pocas. The wreck occurred on a high trestle. The sleepers had caught fire during the night and burned so that the rails spread under the train. The engine, baggage and mail car passed over safely, but the two coaches were thrown from the track. After running some 40 feet on the sleepers, the forward car toppled to the left, the rear one to the right and the forward car turned completely over, landing right side up. The other fell some 20 feet, turning upside down and one set of trucks fell on top of it, crushing the car to splinters. Under this car most of the dead were found. Surgeons and a relief train were sent at once. The scenes among the dead and dying were heartrending. One little baby lost father and mother. One man's head was severed at the mouth and the head was fished out from under the wreck several hours after his body was found. It is feared there are one or two bodies yet under the wreck. Fifty-eight persons have been counted who are injured, and a number walked away before they could be seen. Of the entire number of passengers but one, John Norvell of this city, escaped without a scratch. He was in the mail car.

One of the most pathetic incidents of the accident was that of the annihilation of the Welcher family. Mr. Welcher, his wife and little child were on their way to Point Pleasant to visit friends, being their first trip outside of the city for years. Mr. Welcher was instantly killed and his wife was brought here a few hours later so badly injured that she died shortly after her arrival. Their little child, aged about 2 years, was somewhat bruised and bleeding, three fingers of its right hand being cut off.

The train was the passenger train No. 1, which left Charleston at 7.30 this morning for Columbus. It was composed of the engine, combination mail, express and baggage car and two day coaches. It being a holiday and excursion rates being sold to all points on the road both cars were filled with passengers. Probably 75 or 80 persons were in the two coaches. Among the passengers were the Charleston Lodge of the Order of United American Workmen and their friends, who were going to Pocas to celebrate the fourth. There were also a large number of Kanawha & Michigan workmen aboard going to their homes along the line to spend the day with their families.

The funeral train, which left the scene about 1 o'clock, presented a ghastly sight, in one car were nine corpses lying on cots and shrouded in white linen. In every car were numbers of injured, and in many of them the long forms enshrouded in white indicated only too plainly the result of the wreck.

What caused the burning of the trestle is not known, but it is supposed to have caught from cinders dropped by an engine that passed up after midnight. Only a few ties were burned. The engineer saw the smoke, but thinking it was fog rising from the creek went on. Persons living in the neighborhood saw smoke, but thought it was from camp fires of persons who had been fishing there.

THE VICTIMS BURIED.

Street Car Wrecked by a Locomotive—Several Persons Badly Hurt.

ELMIRA, July 5.—The neighboring city of Corning presented a sad spectacle to-day, as on such has ever since the news of the railroad disaster was telegraphed from Ravenna, Ohio. On the through trains Saturday and Saturday night 18 of the men from Corning injured in that wreck arrived and were met by crowds of people numbering thousands. They were tenderly taken to their homes and cared for in the best possible manner. Seventeen bodies also arrived, all but one, Henry Gilbert of Big Flats, being from Corning. Five were identified, but 12 bodies were unrecognizable, although it is known that they represent the earthly remains of young men, whose names have already been published. The funeral of these unidentified dead took place to-day, the services being held in the Howard Academy. The hall was overcrowded and a portion of the floor gave way. Fortunately the accident was not serious, and a panic was averted by the action of a few cool headed ones. The Rev. Father Colgan read the service of the Catholic Church and delivered a feeling sermon. The Rev. John S. Bacon, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, also spoke.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Yesterday a Northwestern freight train struck a street car on the Rockwell-street crossing squarely on the side and knocked it several feet. The following were injured: An unknown man, who died later; Patrick Martin, hurt about the head and internally, may die; Frank Becker, bruised about the head and breast; F. P. Witt, head cut and bruised on left shoulder; Wallace Boyd, left leg crushed and internally injured. Everything goes to show that the accident was due to gross carelessness on the part of the men in charge of the railway crossing.

The Operator Blundered.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 5.—By the blunder of Telegraph Operator Kitridge at the New England Station here two freight trains running in opposite directions came together on the New England road near Bradley's. The locomotives were smashed with eight freight cars. All hands escaped except Fireman Edward Muxselle of Hartford, who was pinned under the overturned tender and killed. Kitridge fled.

A Costly Freight Wreck.

ST. PAUL, July 5. A freight train on the Omaha line came in collision with a work train near Menlota. The freight was derailed and 30 of its cars were destroyed by fire. The engine was also wrecked. Several of the trainmen jumped into the Mississippi River to escape death and swam ashore. It is reported three tramps were burned to death. The loss to the Omaha company in burned freight is $50,000.

Railroad Accident in Germany.

BERLIN, July 5.—A special train between this city and Reichenhau ran off the rails. Many people were injured.

BADEN POWELL ARRIVES.

He Will Have a Conference With the Premier at Ottawa.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Sir George Baden Powell, the English Behring Sea commissioner appointed to arbitrate the sealery question, arrived by the Etruria to-day. He left on the 7 p.m. train for Montreal. He will spend a few days in Ottawa in consultation with Premier Abbott and Minister of Marine Tupper. Thence he will proceed to Vancouver, where he will be joined by the commissioner on behalf of Canada, Dr Dawson, and the course will then be direct for Behring Sea.

SUPPOSED MURDER.

A Steamship Fireman Charged With Deliberately Drowning a Companion.

MONTREAL, July 5.—Joseph Cullen, fireman on the steamship Oxenholme, was arrested this evening on suspicion of murder. It appears that at an early hour this morning he and a brother fireman named James Kernan were returning to their ship. In doing so they had to cross the footpath over No. 1 canal lock, when, it is alleged, Cullen threw his comrade into the water. Kernan drowned before help could reach him. A preliminary inquiry will open to-morrow.

W. H. GLADSTONE DEAD

THE OLD MAN ELOQUENT LOSES HIS SON.

The Aged Statesman Reached the Death Chamber Too Late.—The Result of the Blow it is Feared May Prove Serious—Plunged in Grief.

LONDON, July 5.—William Henry Gladstone, eldest son of William E. Gladstone, the great English statesman, died here yesterday, aged 51. He was for several years in Parliament and was a Lord of the Treasury from 1859 to 1874, and was a Deputy-Lieutenant and Justice of the Peace for Flintshire at the time of his death. Of recent years W. H. Gladstone had lived practically in retirement. For some time he had suffered from brain disease and paralysis of the right side. His physician, on Thursday, removed a tumor which had been pressing on Mr. Gladstone's brain. The patient, however, sank rapidly after the tumor had been removed. Mrs. Gladstone, Miss Gladstone and the deceased's two brothers, Herbert and Stephen, were present at his death, which occurred at the residence of Lord Blantyre, his wife's father. This morning the veteran statesman left Lowestoft, where he had been recuperating, for London, being summoned to the sufferer's bedside. Unhappily, Mr. Gladstone reached this city too late to be present at his son's death. Mr. Gladstone's grief upon reaching the death chamber was really terrible in its intensity. On account of his enfeebled health and advanced years his relatives and friends feel anxious as to the result.

Friday night at Lowestoft, where Mr. W. E. Gladstone was slowly convalescing from recent illness, the night was one of intense anxiety. By order of the Postmaster-General the telegraph office was kept open throughout the entire night and telegrams were constantly passing to and fro between Mr. Gladstone and those of his family who were watching by the side of his son's deathbed. Early in the evening telegrams from Mrs. Gladstone and her children arrived at Lowestoft couched in despondent language, and at midnight their tone left no doubt that death would not be far before the rising of the sun. At 8 o'clock Mr. Gladstone, sick in body and sore at heart, boarded the train at the little Lowestoft station and proceeded to London. Early as was the hour many of his neighbors who had heard of his sorrowful journey were present at the station to mark their respectful sympathy with the old commoner. As the train moved out on its way to London these people uncovered their heads and so remained until the last carriage had disappeared. Although the train was run by special telegraphic orders which justified a high rate of speed, Mr. Gladstone arrived at Lord Blantyre's residence only to find that death had anticipated human love and human effort. The scene which followed the meeting of Mr. Gladstone with his wife and children was more than affecting. The grief of the father was terrible.

Many persons called on Mr. Gladstone today to condole with him upon the death of his eldest son. Mr. Gladstone has received telegrams of condolence from the Queen and the Prince of Wales. Mr. Gladstone manages to retain his health in spite of the severe shock caused by the news of his son's death.

Other Obituary Notes.

Ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin of the United States died at Bangor, Maine, Saturday night at 8.15 o'clock. He was down town in the afternoon and went to the Tarratine Club rooms, where he was playing pedro, when his head fell forward on his chest. A gentleman remarked: "The senator seems to feel badly." Mr. Hamlin said: "I do." The men gathered around him and he was taken to a lounge, doctors summoned and all was done for him in human power, but it failed, and he passed away peacefully.

THE M'GREEVY SCANDAL.

Mr. Murphy Tells How He Helped to Elect Robert McGreevy.

OTTAWA, July 4.—No one but members of the committee and representatives of the press were admitted to the meeting of the Committee on Privileges and Elections this morning. This was found necessary owing to the crush of visitors which were in attendance during the past few days and which to some extent interfered with the proceedings of the committee. Mr. O. E. Murphy was again put on the stand and his cross-examination by Mr. Osler was continued. Witness said that in 1889 he spent considerable money to secure the election of Robert McGreevy for the Local Legislature in Quebec. The money was not his own. He would have spent about $3000 in all. He said that Thomas McGreevy informed him that he (Murphy) would never get a contract again from the Public Works Department, as he (McGreevy) would see that his tender would not be accepted. To this Murphy replied that when the department next got his check he would get the contract. Referring again to the documents which were handed over to Mr. Tarte, witness said that they were not given for publication, nor did he give any orders that they should be published at any time afterwards. Mr. Tarte was given the documents, he being a good Conservative, with a view to showing them to Sir John Macdonald so that Robert McGreevy might be justified of the charges made against him by Thomas McGreevy. He (Murphy) had no personal ends to gain. Mr. Tarte afterwards asked himself and Robert McGreevy if he could show the papers to someone else besides Sir John Macdonald, and we therefore gave him liberty to show them to Sir Adolphe Caron.

The Privileges and Elections Committee sat till 2 o'clock.

Spurgeon Seriously Ill.

LONDON, July 5.—Mr. Spurgeon is rather seriously ill. His malady is gout of a kind which his doctor calls furious. The latest bulletin represents him as slightly better, but his general condition is such as to cause anxiety.

Mr. Spurgeon has experienced a sudden increase of kidney congestion, accompanied by nausea, drowsiness and prostration.

Mr. Spurgeon's physicians say that the patient is in a most dangerous condition and that the utmost care is required. The deacon of the Tabernacle arranged for constant prayer meetings in the Tabernacle to-day.

A Horrible Charge.

ELIZABETH, N.J., July 5.—Rev. Edward Ransford, assistant rector of Christ Episcopal Church, was arrested this afternoon charged with assaulting two boys, Isaac Opie and Walter Williams. The boys were not members of his congregation but were of the party of youths whose conviction of a series of robberies caused such a sensation in this city in April last, and who the reverend gentleman took under his care.

A Statue for the Late Premier.

OTTAWA, July 5.—A delegation from the Sir John Macdonald Memorial Committee waited on Speaker White yesterday and asked if Parliament intended erecting a statue for the late Premier, or if it would aid them in doing so. Mr. White, as a matter of course, said that Parliament could not take any action as a Parliament. If anything was done in that direction it would have to be done by the Government, and then presented to Parliament for ratification.

The N. Y. Tribune Scorched.

NEW YORK, July 5.—At an early hour this morning a fierce fire broke out at No. 9 Spruce-street. As it was next door to The Tribune office, and fed as they were by paper and other inflammable material, the flames caused considerable excitement for a while. Abraham Frank, a 13-year old newsboy, who was sleeping in the basement, was burned to death.

LADIES are good judges of gentlemen's clothes, and some of them even go so far as to "wear the breeches" themselves, when they have invested in a husband. But if every lady who pants after a husband would be wise, she would select only such a man as buys his clothes regularly at DOLANS, because she would then know that the style, quality, material and price would fit the pocket-book as well the suit fitted her husband. And if it didn't exactly fit him, why she could "try it on" herself.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

ARE NOT a Purgative Medicine. They are a BLOOD BUILDER, TONIC and RECONSTRUCTOR, as they supply in a condensed form the substances actually needed to enrich the BLOOD, curing all diseases coming from POOR and WATERY BLOOD, or from VITIATED HUMORS in the BLOOD, and also invigorate and BUILD UP the BLOOD and SYSTEM, when broken down by overwork, mental worry, disease, excesses and indiscretions. They have a SPECIFIC ACTION on the SEXUAL SYSTEM of both men and women, restoring LOST VIGOR and correcting all IRREGULARITIES and SUPPRESSIONS.

EVERY MAN Who finds his mental faculties dull or failing, or his physical powers flagging, should take these PILLS. They will restore his lost energies, both physical and mental.

EVERY WOMAN should take them. They cure all suppressions and irregularities, which inevitably entail, cankers when neglected.

YOUNG MEN should take these PILLS. They will cure the results of youthful bad habits, and strengthen the system.

YOUNG WOMEN should take them. These PILLS will make them regular.

For sale by all druggists, or will be sent upon receipt of price (50c. per box), by addressing

MONDAY, JULY 6 1891.

Metrical North Monaghan Mems.

Our Poetic Reporter's Rhyming News Budget.

I will try Mr. Editor, to send you some news,
Done up in short verses, your readers to amuse;
For I find the good people of Monaghan all read,
The Peterborough EXAMINER, and it's just what they need.
It contains all the latest, from home and abroad
And its ads. are all genuine, for it won't print a fraud;
But I guess I am getting away from my text,
And the Monaghan readers will be feeling quite vexed.
The first thing I'll speak of is J. Forster our reeve,
And I hope he won't think that I'm pulling his sleeve;
But I think all your readers will readily agree
That he should come first, as he's next to an M. P.
He's as jovial a man as you'd e'er wish to mees,
And I hope he won't think that I'm pulling his sleeve;
Then comes Brownscombe and Johnston, both councillors of fame,
With McIntosh and Dunlop, all bearing a good name;
They are all gallant men, and ready to fight,
For the good of our township, and I think they are right.
But now I will pass to my friend Mr. Payne,
Who smiles as he looks on his fine fields of grain;
He is secretary treasurer of school section one,
And his duties he never was known to shun.
Then there's Sargisson Sanderson, and Davidson A.
With W. A. Barnard just over the way;
And Georgie Young, jr., and Georgie Young, Sr.,
Whom you never will find in any misdemeanour.
Also Campbell and Davidson, trustees of our school,
Are never found lagging behind like a mule;
But before I forget I'll say a word here,
About Mr. J. Barnard our fine auctioneer.
Mr. Barnard's a man, well known no doubt,
He's a sort of bronzite, and not very stout;
He's a fine auctioneer, to bring in the cash,
And is liked by his bidders, as he never gives scash;
So if you intend to sell out in the fall,
Just call and see Barnard, for he satisfies all.
And now there's another I wish here to mention,
And that is J. Moore of medium dimension;
Mr. Moore is a man that deals in fat cattle,
And last month he shipped a car load to Seattle
And now I will tell of our little brick school,
Where many's the time I got flogged with a rule;
Well there it stands yet, but repaired in and out,
Which adds to its appearance without any doubt;
Miss Eva M. Dobson now teaches this school,
And delights in good order, so children keep cool.
And now we have come to that blessed Grange hall,
That has caused such a racket about nothing at all;
But our grangers are brave and will fight for their own,
So, Jimmy, keep still and leave them alone.
But instead of the hall I will speak of our band,
With Mr. Herb. Williamson, the chief in command;
We feel justly proud of our musicians, you bet,
For a finer lot of boys I never have met.
While the music they render is catchy and sweet,
The kind you won't tire of, if you'd listen a week;
So if you intend to have a big "spree,
(Picnic or excursion); they're the boys you should see.
Now wake up my friends and give them a chance,
For they don't ask your money to be paid in advance;
And you know very well that without a good band,
Picnics are dead beats all over the land.
But now I must speak of just a few others,
And the first on my list is the Williamson Bros;
The boys are musicians, not unknown to fame,
And for your next concert just put down their name.
Or if you're in need of a piano or organ,
Just call on their father and he'll give you a bargain;
For [illegible] twenty years he's been travelling
I'm told,
And his name a well known in every house hold.
He also represents E. Bronsall, Bowmanville,
Whose fine marble works all orders will fill;
So if some dear relative has gone with the blest,
Just order a monument and show where they rest.
But excuse me a moment, I've forgotten some one,
Oh yes! I know now, its G. Webber & Son;
They like Mr. Moore, are herders I believe,
And keep the choicest beef, your hunger to relieve.
They live on the farm once owned by "Bill" Fair,
So if you want to see them, you'll find them right there.
But now I must bring my epistle to a close,
And I guess you will say "it's time, the dear knows;"
But I thank you Mr. Editor, for the space you have given,
And I'll vote for you next time, as sure as you're livin'.

For the cure of female weakness, suppressions, nervousness, bearing down pains and all those peculiar ailments that make woman's life almost unbearable, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. TORONTO TOPICS.

Suicide of an Old Man—Death of Judge Drew.

TORONTO, July 6.—The body of an old man named George Hopkins, who lived in the rear of 26 Cornwall-street, was found floating in the Don river near the lower bridge about 12 o'clock Saturday. The body was taken to the late home of the deceased in the patrol wagon.

Hopkins was last seen on the bridge Saturday morning and it is supposed that he jumped into the river. He was about 60 years old and was a pedlar at one time, but lately has been despondent.

Judge Drew of Guelph, died yesterday at his home in that city. Saturday he was in Toronto on legal business and as usual put up at the Queen's Hotel. Mr. Richmond, the clerk, last night informed a reporter that he never in recent times saw the Judge in better spirits and they had a long chat over old times and prominent jurists and politicians who had passed away. Judge Drew returned to Guelph Saturday night, and up to 11 o'clock was reading aloud to his family from a daily paper. Before retiring at 11.30 he called up a friend in Galt on the telephone and had a pleasant conversation, but at 12.15 he took ill and died instantly.

THE CHAIR OF DEATH.

The Electrocution at Sing Sing May Take Place To-day.

SING SING, N.Y., July 5.—It has been a very quiet day in and about the prison, and except for the unusually large number of newspaper men in town no one would think that anything unusual was about to occur within the walls of the dismal old prison. The large tribe of newspaper men who have invaded the town for the purpose of trying to get some information about the electrocution of Smiler, Wood, Jugigo and Slocum, which is apt to occur any time after midnight to-night, have taken possession of the leading hotels in the town.

The four condemned men have abandoned all hope and are preparing to meet their doom, probably within the next 24 hours. The Rev. Father Cecoden visited the four men to-day. When he left the four unfortunates seemed calm and resigned to their fate. Some time afterward Smiler broke out into singing a hymn. After he had finished singing the place again became as still as death.

A FATAL SUNDAY SAIL.

A Nephew of Mr. D. Creighton Drowned at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, July 5—A sad boating accident occurred on the bay here this afternoon, which resulted in the death of Thomas A. Taylor, one of the most promising young business men of the town. He with a party of young men went out in a yacht. When about four miles from town and a half mile from shore, the boat leaned over and Thomas Taylor, who was standing on deck, slipped and rolled under the fore boom into the water. As soon as the yacht could be reversed, William Murray jumped into the river and swam to Taylor's assistance. He succeeded in reaching him and kept him afloat for some time. Meanwhile, the boys in the boat came up again and one of them managed to catch Murray's hand while Murray had hold of Taylor's, but the weight was too much for him and Taylor sank.

Deceased was a nephew of Mr. D. Creighton, manager of The Empire, and was employed as manager of the drug store here of W. J. Manley of Yonge-street, Toronto.

THE BEST IN YEARS.

Immense Crops Promised Throughout the Northwest This Year.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5.—Telegraphic reports of the crops from a number of principal places throughout Manitoba and the Northwest indicate that the prospects are brighter than ever before in the history of the country and foretell a harvest that will rival the immense one of 1887. From all quarters comes word that wheat, oats and barley are much further advanced than ever before at this season of the year, wheat being in places at least ten days ahead of 1890. The growth is vigorous and healthy and it is beginning to head out. The yield will in all probability be an immense one. Hay is plentiful and root crops, especially potatoes, never looked better. The weather is very favorable and the few storms which have prevailed in circumscribed districts will make no appreciable diminution in the expected average, nor perceptibly affect the percentage of area under cultivation. Never before were prospects of abundant harvest so gratifying, never before were farmers so satisfied with the outlook.

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Try them. Sold by all dealers, or by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Address Dr. Williams Med Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

The Australian Commonwealth.

The Australian Commonwealth will have grand results but the results of using Burdock Blood Bitters for diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood surpass all expectations. Dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, scrofula, etc, are promptly cured by B.B.B. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Glynn, Wilfred, Ont. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus. dw

It Saved His Life.

GENTLEMEN,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved by life. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. Francis Walsh, Dalkeith, Ont. dw

ONCE USED, ALWAYS USED.—This is a fact as regards Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses from its wonderful efficiency in curing chapped hands and making the skin smooth and soft. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 514

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose. Try them. dw

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

PICTURES SHE MADE WHILE THE PRINCE PLAYED BACCARAT.

The Lives of the Royal Husband and Wife Contrasted—A Woman Who Has Won the Admiration of the World—Two Recent Drawings from Her Brush.

Many times during the past twenty-five years the private lives of the Prince and Princess of Wales have been brought into striking contrast, and many have been the comparisons drawn. The Prince has been prayed for by the religious and blushed for by the respectable. The Princess has been held up as a model of wifely conduct and as an embodiment of all the domestic virtues. Exactly how much she has learns from her gay husband no one knows, although her sad face and weary smile suggest much. She has ignored his conduct when she could, and when she could not she has endured it with a silent and haughty indignation that has won her the love and admiration of all the world.

Two pictures in an English magazine for July will furnish a fresh text for a sermon on the different characters of the two. The Prince has just come out of the baccarat scandal with his royal feathers a trifle bedraggled, and has had his ears saluted with the jeers of some of his subjects in England while the newspapers have conveyed to his eyes harsh condemnations of his conduct from his own people which must have sounded strangely in an atmosphere continually perfumed with adulation.

It seems that while the Prince has been away "deer-stalking" and gambling with personages who lend him money the Princess has been devoting herself to painting and drawing. She is a woman of intelligence far beyond the very material mind of her husband, and her efforts with the brush have born better fruit than her mother-in-law's endeavors with the pen.

These two pictures are from drawings made recently by the Princess. They are published with her permission, and are the first that have ever escaped from her sketch-book into view.

A Bourbon That Prince Napoleon Liked

When Prince Napoleon visited New York City thirty years ago, Gen. Sickles was organizing his Excelsior Brigade at Camp Scott, Staten Island. Many French residents had enlisted in the Fifth Regiment, that wore the uniform of the French Zouaves and among them were some who had served with the prince in the Crimea. When he paid a visit to the camp they recognized him at sight, despite his incognito, and hailed their Plon-Plon as an old comrade. Camp drill was suspended for the day, and the prince was royally entertained. In the absence of the general, who had gone to the field with the first recruited regiments, Maj. Olmsted "did the honors."

The major deplored sadly that the camp afforded no wine.

"Bah!" he said hopefully, "we have some rare old whisky, if your highness—" and he passed the bottle to his guest. Plon Plon sampled the whisky and helped himself to another drink.

"What kind of whisky did you say it was?" he asked, smacking his lips.

"Bourbon, your highness," responded the major proudly while his French comrade at arms stood at rest.

"Ah!" said the prince, with just a suspicion of a twinkle in his eye, "I never thought I should love the Bourbon so well." New York Tribune.

Ex-Editor Hurlburt's Nemesis.

"I will bring Hurlburt to justice yet, and will prove him a perjurer," impetuously exclaimed Gladys Evelyn, the actress, as the London Court of Appeals the other day announced its decision against her appeal for a new trial in her breach of promise case against

WILLIAM HENRY HURLBURT.

William Henry Hurlburt. Sir. Edward Ebenezer Kay, one of the Justices, had incidentally exasperated the actress by remarking in connection with the decision.

"No decent woman could believe that a man was going to marry her who would write such letters as those received by the plaintiff."

What a Monkey Wrench Is.

Monkey wrench is the name applied to a tool, a sort of spanner with a movable jaw. Some etymologists account for the origin of the name by "reasoning a la fact that a monkey's jaw is movable also." The monkey wrench was invented some years ago by a poor mechanic whose name is Charles Moncky. He sold his right for a song, and is now working for the assignee of Buckley. His invention has made millions of dollars for those who were able to place it upon the market.—Harper's Young People.

Iowa's Boy Soprano.

Master Livingston Bryant, son of W. A. Bryant of Cedar Falls, Iowa, gives every promise of equalling the remarkable career of Master Blatchford Kavanagh. The little fellow is but ten years of age and is small for his years, but he has a remarkable voice, and, considering the limited amount of training he has had, he uses it with remarkable skill. While his singing lacks the cultivated finish that was the chief charm of young Kavanagh's efforts, there is in his voice a vibrant quality of tone that moves and delights the sense of the hearer and hints gently of the possibilities that lie before him. "Tony," as he is generally called, is now out on a tour with the Iowa State Band. At the close of his present engagement he will be sent to Chicago for a thorough course of vocal culture. Master Livingston Bryant is an Iowa boy, having been born at Cedar Falls, where his father is a lumber merchant. He takes his given name from his mother's maiden name, who is the daughter of the late Rensselaer Livingston, of Livingston Manor, N. Y., and a descendant of William Livingston, four heirs of whom signed the Declaration of Independence. He is employed by Wells Fargo Express.

LIVINGSTON BRYANT

A Pretty Billiard Shot.

In this shot the difference between the playing of an amateur and a professional billiardist is well illustrated. As is generally understood, the professional looks ahead and figures out what the position of the balls will be when his carrom is made; the amateur looks only to the carrom. In order to make this play correctly, as shown in the diagram, the cue ball is struck on the left side and under; it is also "deadened," so that no matter with what force the first object ball is struck the cue ball travels but a short distance. In this case it carroms on the second object ball, No. 3, and rests there while the first object ball travels to the upper cushion and comes back to where the cue and first object balls are, as shown by the dotted lines. An amateur would use a straight English on the cue ball and strike the first object ball very hard; he would make the carrom all right probably, but the second object ball would be driven to the right cushion with force and then back to the left, leaving the balls scattered. The art of "deadening" the cue ball has never been acquired by amateurs and by but few professionals.

How to Live Within Your Income.

A sensible man wise in his generation said he—of his kind has admitted that the only way for a man to save money is to give it all to his wife and let her manage it for him. Women and when one says women he does not mean butterflies—have a horror of debt, and will manage to live inside their income be it ever so limited. This Utopian man adds further that he has since he made his wife master of the exchequer, no unexpected bills coming in at unseasonable and embarrassing times, but everything is done on a cash basis, and something is being laid up for the future.

The Best Life Policy.

It's not the Tontine plan, or Endowment plan, or Ten Years Renewable Plan. It's not adding your few dollars to the hundreds of millions that the insurance companies boast of. Its a better investment than any of those. It's investing a few dollars in that standard remedy, the "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung troubles. a

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. For Many Years.

We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for many years in our family and find it an excellent medicine for all forms of summer complaint. John A. Valens, Valens, Ont. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Price 35c., sold by all dealers. dw

Everybody Likes It.

Wm. Dredge, Eilen street, Barrie, Ont., says: One bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil brought back appetite which other Emulsions away; removed cough entirely, and gained five pounds. It tastes just like cream, the oil being perfectly disguised. Sold by all druggists. dw

Worth Nearly a Million.

A million dollars in gold is considered a large sum, but when a man is doubled up with rheumatism, until life is a burden, Royal Rheumatic Remedy is worth more than his gold. It relieves him of pain and gives him a new lease of life. dw

Self Application of Electricity

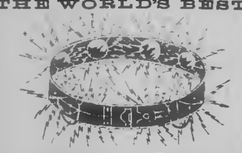
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—183 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The Lock Works Holidays.

The Lock Works employees have begun longing for their holidays. They have put on an extra spurt and got a good supply of stock ahead and the managers have consented to close down the works for the present week, beginning to-night. It is also necessary to close in order to do some needed repairs to the machinery.

What About the Money for Parks?

A great many persons are interested in Mrs. Nicholls' munificent bequest for public parks, so much so that at an early date a meeting is to be called to form a society pledged to the exclusive use of hawley bros.' teas, which are of such excellent quality that the public health will be benefitted and the national interest subserved by their universal use—particularly their splendid 50 cent tea. dw and confectionery shop will be found to be the best place in town for confectionery of all kinds, ice cream, Jersey cream, and cooling drinks of all kinds, etc. Meals and luncheon supplied at all reasonable hours. A first class baker and confectioner has been employed, and Mr. Potvin is prepared to fill all orders for wedding and every other sort of cakes in a most satisfactory manner. Goods delivered free to every part of town. 425 George street, Welsh's old stand. 614

Willow and Wicket.

The team of colts which went to Port Hope Saturday afternoon to play the second eleven of Trinity College school, met with defeat. The complete score cannot be given to-day, some of the score sheets having been mislaid. The colts were beaten by six wickets. In their first they only scored 28 against the school's 58, and in their second made 50, the school running up 20 for 4 wickets in their second. This left them ten to make to win by six wickets. The complete score will be published to-morrow.

The Lock Works Excursion.

The excursion of the lock works employees on Saturday was a very pleasant affair in spite of the weather—especially the better halves of it, the ladies and the afternoon. The round trip was made from Chemong to Lakefield. At Buckhorn a stay of three hours was made, and here dinner was partaken of. The journey was then continued, and the fine weather coming on in the afternoon the 250 excursionists had a most enjoyable wind up to their day's enjoyment. The excursionists have to thank the energetic committee for the success that attended their efforts to promote the pleasure of the party, not forgetting Mr. John Watt, confectioner, who managed so capitally the refreshment department.

St. Andrew's S. S. Picnic.

The annual picnic of St. Andrew's Sunday School will be held at Chemong Park on Thursday, July 9th. Being a cheap trip we hope EVERYONE will reserve Thursday for the excursion, and come, as all will be welcome. The train leaves the station at 5.30 a.m. Tickets can be procured on the platform. Adults, 40c.; children, 20c. Come all. 3d4

A Bill Like a Plumber's.

Mr. E. W. Ecombe, taxidermist has received for professional treatment two specimens of the gar pike or bill fish, from the river Trent of the unusual length of four feet. McGinty must have a hard time "at the bottom of the sea" if the bill fish is the submarine counterpart of our terrestrial mosquito.

St. John's Organ Recital.

The selections to be performed by Dr. Davies at his recital on Thursday next will include, Offertoire in D minor, Batiste; Finale to 3rd Symphony, Mendelssohn; Gavotte from "Mignon," Ambroise Thomas; Overture, "Pique Dame," VonSuppe; Mendelssohn's "Cornelius" march, and others. We trust that the musically appreciative will read, mark, learn, etc.

An Aylmer Street Improvement.

Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, contractor has under way three new houses on Aylmer street, south, modern style and well laid out, of brick and well built. These houses are for sale and parties intending to buy will do well to see them, any alterations to suit buyers can be made. Good outbuildings and a capital lot in good locality. For particulars apply to WM. FITZGERALD, Dublin street. 333

Police Court Paragraphs.

There were two charges of infraction of the license law before the court this morning, Mr. Edwards, prosecuting. T. Cavanagh was charged with selling liquor after prohibited hours—11 a.m., on the night of July 1st. A fine of $20 was imposed. J. Carew was charged with selling liquor on Sunday, June 28th. Three witnesses were examined without bringing out any evidence, and the case was enlarged to procure the attendance of witnesses. A vagrant and a case of wife beating were also dealt with, the latter charge being withdrawn, the husband promising amendment.

The Highest Praise.

"Imitation" is said to be "the sincerest flattery" and when Peterborough artisans are sent for from cities the highest possible praise of their work is implied. This morning Messrs. H. W. Watson & Son, decorators and painters, sent two men to Hamilton to decorate the new buildings of the Bell Telephone Company in that city. One of the managers of the company was in Peterborough a few days ago and was so well pleased with specimens of the decorative art of Watson & Son in town. This is that order of which the firm as well as the town may be proud, result'd.

Advertising Hustlers.

Advertising is a science in this progressive age, and the schemes resorted to are ingenious as they are varied. The other day a bachelor clergyman of the town received a package through the mail, which on opening he found, contained a sample of Nestle's Milk Food with an accompanying circular requesting him as a favor, whenever opportunity offered, to make favorable mention of the food among his congregation. There was no intimation that Nestle's Milk Food was a specific for ministerial weaknesses, but the young clergymen thought it such a good joke he could not refrain from telling his friends. It is an instance of how far keen-witted advertisers can push their designs. The cloth even is not above being made serviceable to them.

A Round Thousand Dollars

Is the result of the St. Joseph's Hospital social on Dominion Day. The returns were completed this morning, and the above is the grand total, a very creditable one, considering the unfavourable, and in fact forbidding, nature of the day. Following are the results of the labor earnings by wards: No. 1 Ward, $104; No. 2 Ward, $111; No. 3 and 4 Wards, $103; No. 5, (Ashburnham) $112 55; No. 6, (Otonabee), $34 40. The mahogany bedroom suite brought a return of $362 25. The gate receipts were $107.25; these, with the proceeds of booths, etc., on the grounds, made a total of $1,000, a pretty good day's work, which reflects credit upon the energetic rector, Rev. Father Rudkins, the committee that assisted him, and the public, who showed their appreciation of the beneficent work done for the suffering, regardless of creed or colour, by St. Joseph's Hospital. Miss McNamara, of No. 1 Ward, won the silver watch for having sold the largest number of tickets for the bedroom suits—over $140. The drawing for the suite will take place at the Murray street school room to-night.

An Outside Opinion.

Mr. G. J. Boyd, editor of the Chatsworth News, was one of the delegates to the I. O. G. T. Grand Lodge meeting, and as a result of his visit the following enthusiastic paragraph appears in his paper:—"We had the pleasure of visiting Peterborough recently as a delegate to the Grand Lodge of I.O.G.T., and must say that we were most favorably impressed with the appearance of the town, and the general department of its citizens. Peterborough is unquestionably the foremost rising inland city in Ontario, possessing more large labor-employing manufactories than any other place of its size. It also has the advantages of being free from debt, comprising railway lines, first-class water power, fine educational facilities, handsome and substantial churches, hospitals for the sick and wounded of all denominations, creeds and nationalities, and a wealthy, sober and industrious population. The two large agricultural implement works and lock works employ about 2 600 hands, and the Edison Electric Works, now in course of erection, the buildings of which will cover thirty acres of ground, will employ another 2 000 hands at least. It possesses three good printing offices from which are issued three daily papers, the Times, Review, EXAMINER. To the proprietor, Mr. Robertson, of the first named of which we are indebted for the most courteous and kindly fraternal treatment, even to an offer to drive the visiting press members of the order around the city, an offer we regret being unable to accept. As we said before Peterborough is a sober and industrious town, possessing, however, many well-regulated hotels—some higher priced, but none better than the Morgan House, at which it was our good fortune to be billeted. Mr. Morgan, the host, who is every inch a gentlemen, has the happy faculty of making his guests at once feel at home and the pleasant attention bestowed upon them by the servants indicates the character of host and hostess and the excellence of the hostlery. The Morgan House was pronounced, by the I.O.G.T. delegates who stayed there the best "dollar a day" house they had ever put up at, and we endorsed their opinion."

The young men's rally was attended by a large number of young men Saturday night. Mr. Walter Anderson gave a short and impressive address on the topic "The Lord my Helper."

Mr. Walter Wesley led the Consecration meeting Sabbath morning. All present were blessed.

Owing to the unfavorable weather no open air service was held, but Mr. Thos. Cochrane gave a very helpful talk in the rooms.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, Lindsay, addressed a crowded meeting last evening at the Gospel and Song service. It was a time of blessing to all.

OBITUARY—It is with feelings of profound sorrow that it becomes our painful duty to record the death of Mrs. Alex. Lockey of Cavan who died at the family residence July 1st 1891. The deceased was a native of County Down, Ireland, and came this country nearly half a century ago. She was always ready with willing hands to help in sickness or other emergencies. She was the mother of five children three in the United States, following different occupations, one daughter and one son at home. The funeral took place on Friday, July 3rd, at 2 o'clock p.m. and proceeded to the place of interment where many friends gathered to witness the last of an old neighbor. The surviving husband and children will have the profound sympathy of the entire neighborhood in their sad bereavement.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT.—Prof Studdaby held on entertainment in S. S. No. 5 on Wednesday evening, July 1st, and considering it being Dominion Day, and also a heavy shower, which was an impediment to the ladies, a very good audience gathered. The following are some of the prominent features: Excellent instruction in drawing, well worth the admission, instruction in chromation, the science of colors, the number of simple colors, their combinations, etc., showing the errors of former philosophies, etc., very interesting. He mingles through his exercises wonderful illusions, etc. We mention the slate mystery, very good, mystic reading, seemingly reading, sealed writing while blind folded, songs and violin selections were skillfully executed. The Prof. is also a good ventriloquist. The above will convey but a faint idea of the excellent features given by the professor, and when an opportunity presents itself all should hear him.

Mr. Samuel Might, Cavan, has been moving buildings, and so has Mr. David Wood.

Mr. Walter Bryne is now away on vacation.

We learn that Miss Maud Needler has returned to her home in Lindsay. We hope that her sojourn amongst us was a pleasant one.

A brick house at Centreville was struck by lightning on Tuesday night, but the fire was by assiduous efforts extinguished. Damage—chimneys, etc., destroyed.

Our Separate Interests.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR—We are again electrified with the astounding news that the long talked of street railway for Peterborough is really to be built, and that before the snow flies.

One of your contemporaries says, very truly, that a place of the pretensions and prosperity of this town does not want any slow, irregular service.

No indeed, sir. Not so long as there is so much pauper and depreciated labour in our midst, to assist not only in making a street railroad of the most improved and perfect description, but also to show other corporations how easily a lot of innocent working men may be bought with fair promises and false representations, and paid back with the husks of pretensions, which they will have the extreme pleasure of chewing after the snow flies, whilst those who have duped them and sold their labour to co-operative designers will enjoy the prosperity which they have acquired by their insidious, cunning and crafty stratagem. Surely by this time the workingmen of Peterborough have learnt a lesson which should be a warning to them in the future. They must surely realize that, notwithstanding the fact that Peterborough is daily becoming of more importance as a manufacturing centre, their condition is far from becoming improved thereby, and that their past experience in reference to recent industries established in the town, has been of such a character as to assure them, that when it came to a matter of dollars and cents, their interests were very far from being identical with those who so urgently impressed upon them the necessity of acceding to their plans for encouraging those industries to come to Peterborough, and at the same time ignored the fact, that in order to insure to the workingmen a fair share of the prosperity they talked of, it was necessary that some provise should be made to prevent the Bi-comers from imposing upon them, which they have not only been allowed, but encouraged to do in a very marked degree.

In conclusion I would say to the working men: The monopolist and money grabber have got the trip on you this time, and they will keep you down, unless you have the perception to see, that singly you are powerless to combat with the evils you are suffering from, but in unity you will possess a power and influence in your land, which cannot fail to carry to a successful issue, all reasonable and lawful methods which you may adopt, for the purpose of securing for yourselves a fair share of the product of your day's toil. Thanking you Sir for your continued and valuable space, I remain

Yours truly,
K. OF L.

Harness Twisted into Rhyme.

Friends, to claim a first-class poet's place, I dare not to aspire,
But the odor from the leather seems to fan poetic fire;
So I threw my two-edged knife aside, and dropped my awl and ends,
To twist my harness into rhyme and give it to my friends.
I will sound no self-toned trumpet of imaginary note,
I will give plain business statements, yes, and clinch them with true facts.
To know the worth of men and work, time proves their value best,
For fourteen years my name and work have stood the public test.
My steady aim has been the best of leather to procure,
And first-class workmen with strong arms,
to draw the stitches sure,
No half-tanned spongy leather used, concealed by polished wile
To please the eye, but on the draw will stretch out half a mile.
My make of harness yields its fruits, perfection stamps my name,
Both far and near, when tried and proved, to me fresh orders came.
From the Pacific to the Atlantic I have sent my style and make,
Back the sound of praises; reaches Devlin's harness wins the cake.
When the Grand Junction road was made,
and the Missing Link likewise,
The teamster's orders in short time exhausted my supplies;
In orders rushed, and why? because they pleased in every case,
The horse might draw itself to death, but could not break a trace.
Public opinion bears it out, it is not selfish pride,
The appreciation of my work has spread both far and wide.
To prove how every set was prized that was shipped from my store,
New orders came in flattering words—send on a few sets more, Unto you brave sturdy farmers, I my harness recommend,
Every line for farming purposes I exactly understand.
You require no shining buckles, square, oval or oblong,
But a plain set made of leather, real tough,
durable and stong.
You may trust unto my harness drawing off large stumps or stones,
For your strongest horse can't break it, with its muscles, flesh or bones.
But perhaps you own a buggy and require a stylish set,
I can shine you up like lord or prince, come farmers dont forget.
Ladies and gentlemen of wealth, you wish for style, I know.
When driving out for pleasure, you desire to
to make a show.
If my silver mounted harness your light pacers decorate,
All the crowd will gaze and wonder, if the Queen is out in state.
Unto you cab and buss-owners, I have got one word to say,
In your business high ambition show and fashion bears the sway,
I can deck your span of beauties off with shining harness new,
That would make our great Lord Stanley feel proud to ride with you.
I have trunks and nice valises to protect your clothes from thelves,
Warm clothing for your horses only minus legs and sleeves,
Robes and rugs to give you comfort when wild storms of rain do blow, Whalebone whips to make the lazy or the balky horse to go.
Unto customers both old and new, thanks I extend to all,
You will find it to your interest by still giving me a call,
At one hundred and thirty-seven Hunter street now don't forget,
To leave orders or to purchase, you will find me here you bet

W. J. DEVLIN.

"Excuse me, George, but when I saw you a year ago, your face was covered with pimples; it seems to be all right now." "Yes, sir; that's because I stuck to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood medicine in the world. I was never so well in my life as I am now."

A REMEDY FOR LA GRIP.

REV. DR. TALMAGE'S BRILLIANT FRIDAY EVENING LECTURE.

A Big Dose of Cheerfulness Will Help Keep the Scourge Away, and Spring, With its Cleaning Rains and Bright Sunshine, Will Do the Rest.

While our skillful and beloved physicians are engaged in battling the Grip in persons already prostrated, I prescribe for those who have not yet been touched by it a big dose of cheerfulness. All the doctors will tell you that a depressed mental state is an invitation to this distemper. No amount of determination can keep it back, but morbid apprehension will help its advance. In a few days it will all be gone. God will pour out of the heavens an ocean of Spring sunshine, and, with the awakening flowers, will give prosperous hygienic conditions. The April rains will cleanse the streets without any expense to the city government, and the dust washed from the air, the time of universal sneeze will expire. What a lesson we have had as to the fact that health is perishable, and that the strongest and the stoutest cannot stand up under the power of sickness, and that it is most important that we use for good purpose our physical energies while they last, since any hour they may collapse.

But the doctors, thank God, are on the track of the microbes which cause the most of the disorders that for thousands of years have assailed the human race. It took six thousand years to find that the physical disorders were caused by parasites. This discovery having been made, the next step will be to invent a medical artillery with which to bombard these destructive infinitesimals. God help the doctors in their magnificent work, more like that of our blessed Lord than that of any other profession. Instead of belittling or harshly criticising their attempts at cure, let us cheer them on, for the leaves are now somewhere growing or the bark is somewhere standing or the powders are somewhere now being compounded which will emancipate the human race from invalidism. Because such a catholicon hasnot been found, despair not.

The world rolled round at least five thousand six hundred years before the countess of Chincon, the wife of a ruler, had the chills and fever, in Peru, and by chewing some of the bark of the tree, warmed the chill, cooled the fever and extirpated her illness, and so discovered quinine, that magnificent drug that has blessed all nations, making many parts of the earth inhabit able that would otherwise have been without population, and has been a medicine that prolonged human life and disappointed cemeteries and wrought such wonders of pharmacopeia that the British rule in India is said to have been founded on cinchona bark. If more than five millenniums were exhausted in search of quinine, be not surprised that the world has had a long search for antidotes and specifics yet to be found. Some of these young or old doctors will, after a while, rush out from their laboratories or dispensaries or hospitals shouting, Eureka—I have found it. Found what? The complete cure for Grip, for cancer, for consumption, for all styles of human malady. If this is not true, then the Bible is not true; for it promises, over and over again, that all wrongs shall be righted and all maladies cured, and that, as the world started with a garden, so it will close with a garden.

I do not believe that the world is to be a failure or that the human race is going to succumb to the attack of epidemics. Human life must be prolonged. The cradle and the grave must be set further apart. Some of our descendants in their hundred and fiftieth year will yet read without spectacles. Dentistry has improved the world's mastication, and the old-fashioned turn-key that did its terrific work in our boyhood has been put away amid the torturing instruments of the Spanish Inquisition. Cookery, elevated into a science, has ceased to be the foe of digestion. Ventilation has changed auditoriums from scenes of strangulation and asphyxia into places of healthful respiration. Gymnasiums have improved the world's muscle. Physiology and Anatomy and the laws of health are a part of the common school curriculum, and the prospect is that the average of human life, instead of being as now about thirty-seven years, will be fifty, and after a while seventy, and then a hundred.

Passing from the subject of health, I come to one of municipal interest. Last Monday, steps were taken toward the consolidation of New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island and all the surrounding towns and villages into one great city. But that is a matter that ought not to be decided by legislature. A question of such importance ought to be submitted to the votes of the people. If the majority of the citizens in Brooklyn and Staten Island and our neighboring places wish it, so let it be. If they do not desire it, their negative ought to prevent the consolidation. New York has most certainly the right to offer the hand and heart in marriage but Brooklyn ought to be free to decide whether or not she will be the bride. Whether the day of one government over those cities and neighboring towns shall come or not, we are now, and will always be, practically one city, and the future is very bright.

I know that the theory is abroad that great cities are great evils, but I do not accept the theory. They have sometimes enacted great wrongs, but all the great movements for the world's betterment have either been started by, or found their best patronage in, the cities. Where was American liberty born? In the Independence Hall of a city. Where was the cradle of American liberty rocked? In the Faneuil Hall of a city. What were the homes of letters for earlier ages? Athens, the Graecian city; Alexandria, the Egyptian city. When the American government was to be defended and re-established in 1862, from what place came the largest means for fitting out ships of war and clothing the troops that went to battle? From the Cities. Where are the mightiest secular and religious printing presses? In the cities. The larger the city, the greater the opportunity. At this gate of the sea, we are yet to be a great American London. Yea, and mightier than London, because we will have more room to develop, and from a population made up of many nationalities and the conjunction of the best points of all those nationalities, we will be started on a career of grandeur and greatness that never opened before any other people. After the death of Alexander the Great, among his tablets was found a plan for building cities in Asia and filling them with Europeans, and cities in Europe, and filling them with Asiatics. He thought, by intermarriage all the known earth might be brought into affinity and kindness. So in this great city yet to reach from Yonkers to Brighton Beach may there be demonstrated the truth, that God hath made of one blood all nations, and that they may be brought into a harmonious brotherhood by the power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the dominant spirit of which is peace and good will to men. May these cities which have protected us in such pleasant homes be in perpetual blessing. As the cities go, the country goes. From these great active centres of power, may there descend upon all the land the most Christian influences. What we have received of advantage from those who went before, let us transfer to those who come after. Lord God of our fathers make us worthy of a noble ancestry.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

A HEIDELBERG PROFESSOR.

Famous Karl Knies, Who Had but One Enemy in the World.

Karl Knies, who recently celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the professorship of political economy in Heidelberg, is a type of a class which other countries than Germany do not know. He is a famous man, although he has behind him only a life of still usefulness. He is so modest that a quick word causes him to blush like a girl, yet under his rusty black hat there is a wealth of knowledge which but half a dozen other men in studious Germany can equal. For forty-five years he has devoted all his days and half of his nights to collecting, systematizing, and explaining of the great truths of political and economic history, but no man has ever heard a boast from his lips or a reproof for the idlest questioner among the 1,100 idle questioners in Heidelberg. He numbers his pupils by the thousands, his followers are scattered over all civilized countries of the globe, and his name is hardly less honored than the fame of his predecessor at Heidelberg, Karl Heinrich Rau, Germany's Adam Smith. Still he works on with all the energy of his youth. Six o'clock in the morning finds him at his study desk. At 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon he is at his post in the lecture room. At 5 o'clock he may be seen trudging up the steep mountain side to get new strength for his evening's work. Students who clatter along the narrow Plock Strasse after midnight hush their voices as they pass under the lighted window of his little second-story flat, for they know that the old man has not yet exhausted the row of small lamps which are placed on his table every night to illuminate his way through the labyrinths of his investigations. He does all this because he is a German professor.

Karl Knies has travelled the rough, up-hill road as all German professors travel. At the university he studied political economy and civil government. Upon graduation he taught political economy as a privat-docent, then as an extraordinary professor, and finally as a fully accredited professor. Throughout the starving years of his early career he did not once dream of turning aside because the road was hard. In 1852, while toiling upward on a salary of a few hundred a year, Knies brought out his "Political Economy from the Historical Point of View." It was an epoch-making work. Still he trudged on. A professorship with a considerable salary and many perquisites was offered to him on the condition that he would cease advocating liberal ideas distasteful to the Government. He rejected the offer. One day Heidelburg wanted a man for Rau's place and it turned to Knies. He accepted the call. A few years later he published his most celebrated work, "Money and Credit," in which he smote the great arch-Socialist Marx hip and thigh. In it he also showed such an amazing store of knowledge of jurisprudence, history, and the whole literature of political economy that all learned Germany made its obeisance to him. There was a sudden demand for his rejected work. "Political Economy from the Historical Point of View," a new edition was published, and Germany discovered that it had been neglecting one of its greatest scholars.

Since then Knies has been very prosperous for a German professor. His bashfulness and modesty have been only increased by prosperity. After analyzing in a recent work certain theories of English, French, German, Swedish, Danish, Italian, and Spanish authorities he apologizes to his readers for ignoring the Hungarian literature "because he has unfortunately had no time to master the language."

Knies probably has had but one enemy and has hated but one man. The enemy whom he hated was Bulmericq, professor of international law, who died a few months ago. Bulmericq was a man of international reputation. He was imported from Russia, and had many Russian ways which rendered him a terror to the quiet little professional colony of Heidelberg. He could brag faster than a dog could trot, and did it. His favorite expression was: "Gentlemen, I have made Heidelberg the centre of my science." Knies did not take to the usurpation of the great Bluntschli's chair by this sort of a man. During the interval between Bluntschli's death and Bulmericq's arrival he had got together a lot of hearers for his lectures on civil government, which belonged in Bluntschli's department. When Bulmericq came Knies showed his disapproval of the foreigner by clinging tightly to civil government. Bulmericq tried hard to get the lectures, but Knies hung on as a puppy hangs on to a root, and to the day of the death Bulmericq remained helpless in the matter.

Knies's delightfully kind, modest, loyal personality has drawn to him the love of all Heidelberg students. The most belligerent White Cap or Yellow Cap corps student becomes gentle in his presence, and scribbles innumerable pages of illegible notes at his lectures "just to please the old man."

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used four bottles CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. P. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

A GORGEOUS SCENE AT WINDSOR CASTLE YESTERDAY.

The Most Magnificent Wedding Spectacle Witnessed in England in Many Years.
The Elegant Costumes of the Bride.
The Notables Who Were Present.

LONDON, July 6.—The marriage of Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein and Prince Aribert of Anhalt, who is 27, took place this morning at St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.

Windsor Castle and its neighborhood were fairly alive with people. Not since the marriage of the late Duke of Albany has the castle been crowded with so many distinguished people, and not since that event has St. George's Chapel been so crowded with members of royal families. The decorations of the chapel were grand. The stalls of the knights of the garter were set a side for some of the most important guests and the Bray and Rutland chapels were fitted up as retiring rooms. The route followed by the procession was the same as that taken at the wedding of the Duke of Albany. This route was lined on both sides with troops and at the castle guards of honor were mounted at every available point. The royal standard of Great Britain from the highest tower of the castle floated proudly over the whole, while here, there and everywhere were dazzling uniforms, gorgeous staff and state carriages containing diplomats, statesmen, generals, admirals, princes of minor degree and high church dignitaries.

The first section of the procession contained the bridegroom's family. The second section consisted of 12 state carriages, which conveyed to the chapel the Emperor and Empress of Germany and the Imperial party, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Prince Henry of Battenburg and his wife and the Princess Beatrice, the Princess Louise and the Duchess of Fife. The Prince of Anhalt, the bridegroom wearing a German uniform, with his attendants, formed the third section of the procession. The Queen of England in the most elaborate of all the carriages, surrounded by life guardsmen, magnificent horses, cuirasses and helmets flashing brightly, formed the fourth joint of the procession. The Queen was greeted everywhere with the wildest acclamations of loyalty. The bride accompanied by her father, Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, and by her brother, followed the Queen.

At the chapel door the guests were received by the Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Latham, who ushered them with much ceremony to places about the altar. In the front of the altar a dais was erected that was covered with a blue velvet carpet with the Order of the Garter and the royal arms interwoven in its centre. Upon this carpet were velvet and gold seats for members of the imperial and royal families. The banners of the Knights of the Garter over hung the seats of the other important guests. Besides plants and flowers there were no other decorations inside the chapel. The Prince of Wales entered escorting the Empress of Germany, who wore a sea green moire antique.

The Emperor of Germany followed, escorting the Princess of Wales, whose bodice was sparkling with German and English orders and who wore a splendid parure of diamonds. Next came the Queen of England, who wore a simple black dress plainly though gracefully made.

The Queen wore a beautiful diamond coronet but with the exception of that there was little or no ornamentation about the Queen's attire.

Ten minutes later the bride arrived supported by her father and brother.

The Archbishop of Canterbury performed the marriage service which was simple and made only a brief exhortation.

The Princess' Clothes

The wedding dress worn by the bride is of satin, the texture being very beautiful and the tone a warm and lovely cream tint. The front of the skirt is covered with two very deep flounces of white Honiton lace, which was designed by the late Prince Consort for the Queen, and was afterwards worn by Princess Christian at her wedding. The design is floral. The train, very much gored, hangs in very graceful folds, and is rounded at the back into the shape that some milliners call the "spoon" and others the sabot. The whole of the dress is bordered with orange-blossom. The lace in front falls over this ruche of orange-blossoms. The bodice is trimmed with lace like that on the skirt. The bodice buttons upon and a girdle of orange-blossom hides the junction, falling in long ends over the back, one slightly longer than the other—a little touch that shows true art. The sleeves are very new, being made of the lace lined with silk muslin only and allowing the arms to be seen through. The wedding veil is in similar beautiful lace as that which trims the dress and is the veil worn by Princess Christian at her marriage.

The going-away dress is in white sicilienne, trimmed with white ostrich feathers and a little white lace. She will wear a white bonnet, with a little lace on it and a cluster of white feathers, with a spray or two of white heather introduced. The sunshade is also white, the traveling dress of Royal brides in England being restricted to this color. There will be a white traveling cloak, also trimmed with feather. A special dress has been prepared for the bride's entry at her new home in Germany. It is of the finest cashmere, a very lovely shade of golden-fawn. The skirt is made very simply, and has for trimming a band of golden-fawn silk embroidery, with circles of the cashmere introduced upon a ground of silk net, through which the lining of pale pink silk is visible. The upper parts of the bodice and the collar are in similar embroidery, the back being quite plain, while across the front fastens a wide band of the fawn cashmere, forming a pretty folded belt. An evening dress is in yellow Irish poplin. On the skirt is a deep flounce of silk muslin, matched exactly as to shade. There are two bodices to accompany this dress, which is made with a rather long train. Both bodices are cut low, but one is higher on the shoulders than the other. The sleeves are short and made of poplin, veiled with silk muslin. A very pretty evening dress is in white veloutine, a silk with a thick rib in it, trimmed with coffee-colored lace, which is turned up round the waist and turned down round the shoulders of the low bodice, where clusters of large yellow buttercups form the trimming. On the skirt the lace is arranged in deep vandykes, with a cluster of buttercups at the lower point of each. The lace falls over the white silk sleeves and its deep coffee-tint serves admirably to bring into harmony the white of the silk and the rich yellow of the flowers. A dinner dress is trimmed with some fine old Venetian point, a present from the Queen. Two rows of this costly lace trim either side of the front of the skirt, the dress being composed of Gobelin-blue brocade, with a leaf design in warm cream color. A band of lace runs around the edge of the skirt. It also trims the bodice, on which it is arranged in two points, a few folds of the brocade crossing these at the waist. Another dinner dress is in a flame-colored brocade with design in cream-color. It is trimmed with Brussels lace, the large and handsome design of which is well displayed upon the front of the dress, which it entirely veils. The bodice is also trimmed with the lace, which is a present to the young Princess and her mother.

Many of the other dresses are of the useful kind which can be worn either in the afternoon or in the evening, and for this purpose are supplied with two bodices, one half-high for the evening (a shape that is more used in Germany than in England), and the other made quite high for day wear. Among them is a black silk grenadine, the skirt bordered with a wide band of black silk woven in with the material. At the edge is a little flounce of vandyked black lace, put on over a pinked-out frill of black silk, and headed with a narrow galon of jet and gold. The high bodice is trimmed with blonde, and the sleeves are covered with it. The basque is bordered with gold galon. The half-high one is made with elbow sleeves. A white china silk dress, embroidered in shades of coral pink, sage green, turquoise blue and silver, is made up over blue silk.

GLADSTONE'S BEREAVEMENT.

Liberals Fear That it May Hasten His Political End.

LONDON, July 5.—The Liberals are so anxious lest the effect of W. H. Gladstone's death may be to undermine his father's health that they are urging the leaders of the party to take every possible step to hasten the general elections, fearing that delay may be disastrous, and that if the elections are belated they may come at a time when the party is at a disadvantage in having lost its great leader.

The Queen and the Prince of Wales are among those who have sent letters of condolence to Mr. Gladstone upon the loss of his son.

The Dead March in "Saul" was played in the Hawarden Church to-day, and the rector referred in feeling terms to the bereavement their illustrious fellow-member had suffered. Many of the congregation were in tears.

Many persons called on Mr. Gladstone today to condole with him upon the death of his eldest son. Among the callers were the United States Minister and Mrs. Lincoln.

Mr. Gladstone manages to retain his health in spite of the severe shock caused by the news of his son's death.

DISASTER ON A WARSHIP.

Big Gun Explodes, Killing and Wounding Several Officers and Men.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., July 6.—The British warship Cordelia, Capt. Harry J. Grenfell, 10 guns and 2430 horse-power, has just returned to this port after a most disastrous trip to sea for target practice with her big gun. Captain Grenfell reports that while practising with one of the Cordelia's six inch breech loading guns, the latter exploded, killing Lieut. William Hillyer, Lieut. Gordon and four seamen, and wounding three midshipmen and ten seamen. The Cordelia is a single screw corvette, built of steel and iron and cased with wood. She is attached to the Australian station.

Loss of the Steamer Dunholme in the Channel.

LONDON, July 6.—A large steamer sank in the Channel off Dover Sunday night. The steamer Kinloch landed at Gravesend part of the crew of the sunken steamer, which was the Dunholme, bound from Middlesboro' to Rio Janeiro. The Dunholme was sunk at 3 o'clock in the morning two minutes after a collision with the Kinloch. Seventeen of the persons on board at the time of the collision are missing.

The captain, mate, two sailors and three firemen of the Dunholme are saved. They state the Kinloch struck the Dunholme at 2.50 a.m. in a thick fog. There was no time to lower the boats. The Kinloch assisted them as far as possible.

Spurgeon Improving.

LONDON, July 6.—Spurgeon is slightly better and some hopes are now entertained of his recovery. The internal congestion has somewhat diminished, and the delirium is milder.

Another Montreal Failure.

MONTREAL, July 6.—G. F. Burnett & Co., wholesale clothiers of Montreal, have been served with a demand of assignment by A. F. Gault. The liabilities are about $100,000 direct and indirect. The principal creditors are: Gault Bros. $16,000, Weston Woolen Mills $4000, H. H. Wolfe $6000, J. Fisher, Sons & Co $2500, and J. Macdonald & Co., Toronto, $1600.

Fatally Injured at a Barn Raising

LUCKNOW, July 6.—At a barn raising on the farm of Thomas McKeith, 12th con., Ashfield, an overlay slipped and struck Donald McLean on the neck, injuring his spine. The lower part of McKeith's body from the waist down is powerless and doctors give no hope of his recovery.

BY A VOTE OF 100 TO 80.

PARLIAMENT DECLINES TO MAKE BINDING TWINE FREE.

A Lengthy Discussion on the Question Before the Vote is Taken—Mr. Dewdney's Amendment to the Northwest Territories Act.

OTTAWA, July 6.—Mr. Dewdney introduced a bill to-day to amend the Northwest Territories Act. The 11th section, which permits the official use of the French language in the Territories, and which Mr. McCarthy introduced a bill last year to expunge, is amended in accordance with the resolution passed on that occasion. That resolution declared it expedient "That the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories should receive from the Parliament of Canada power to regulate after the next general election of the Assembly the proceedings of the Assembly and the manner of recording and publishing the same." The use of French in the courts is preserved.

Binding Twine.

The House discussed for the greater part of the day a resolution of Mr. Mulock, declaring it expedient that binding twine should be placed on the free list. He gave figures to show that the farmers of Canada were compelled to pay about 3 cents a pound more than those of the United States. In the county of York about 176,348 acres were under crop. If two pounds of twine per acre were required it would appear that the farmers of York had to pay for twine $10,580 more than it was worth. When sugar was placed on the free list last week the price at once fell a couple of cents. It was reasonable therefore to suppose that if twine were placed on the free list the price of it would fall too.

Mr. O'Brien claimed that the prices were about the same in the United States and in Canada. He pointed out that it was the duty on raw sugar which was removed. The raw material of binding twine was already admitted free. Therefore, it was quite in accord with the national policy that the duty should be retained on manufactured binding twine.

The debate was continued on these lines.

The Vote.

The vote was taken at 1 a.m.. The resolution was defeated on a party division of 80 yeas to 100 nays, leaving the Government a majority of 20. Mr. Tarte voted with the Opposition and Mr. Savard with the Government.

Mr. Ingram has given notice that he will move that in the opinion of the House a sum of money should be set apart by Parliament to be offered as a reward for the invention of the best acting car coupler, calculated to obviate the accidents which in past years have resulted in so great loss of life.

In the House to-day Hon. Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, said it was not the intention of the Government to introduce legislation prohibiting the export of wild fowl.

A Boiler on the Schooner Worts Collapses

HAMILTON, July 6.—The schooner James A. Worts of Toronto, bound from Ashtabula to Hamilton with a cargo of coal for the gas company, was making her way through the canal yesterday. When a short distance from the yacht club house the boiler collapsed, the deck sinking beneath it and there was a loud noise like an explosion. The smokestack was blown onto the piers, a piece of it striking Jacob Corey and injuring him severely. Frank Bongdere, one of the sailors, got scared and jumped into the canal, but was rescued. The boiler was near the bow and the staysail was burned, the foresail was badly scorched and a hole was burned in the side of the schooner.

Corey was badly hurt. When a doctor examined him it was discovered that two of his ribs were broken.

The Worts is owned by Sylvester Bros. of Toronto.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THEIR LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.

Yesterday's Preparations for the Electrocution at Sing Sing.

SING SING, N.Y., July 6.—Under the light of the July stars four men wait death with palpitating hearts. The clocks of the steeples in the village of Sing Sing have sounded the hour of 12 and now their lives are in the hollow of one man's hand. A signal from Warden Brown and Jagigo, Wood, Slocum and Smiler, one or all four, just as he wills it, must walk thirty paces and, sitting in a stout oak chair, ornamented with wires and backed by strange contrivances, must pay with their lives the penalty of black and hideous crimes.

Only two electricians will be present—Captain Hibbard of the prison staff, and E. F. Davis, who ran the machine at Auburn. If any hitch occurs these men will be held to a strict accountability.

Mr. Davis promises that there will be no hitch or blunder. He has learned lessons from Auburn.

When these lines reach the breakfast tables this morning, at least one of the four murderers awaiting execution in the silent chamber of Sing Sing Prison will, in all probability, have sat in the chair of death.

The Electrodes to be Used.

The kind of electrodes to be used in the execution is still undecided. It will depend upon the place of contact to the body finally selected. Electrodes are the metal plates which perfect the passing of the electricity to the body. Wires are attached to them. It is reasonably certain that the positive electrode will be placed upon the crown of the head.

This was done with Kemmler. The electrode necessary for this is composed of two oval cups, a metal one being placed in rubber. Filling the space between and the hollow rubber is a sponge which is wet with salt water.

The style to be used with these men differs but slightly from the Kemmler electrode, which so mutilated his head. The crown of the head is to be cleanly shaven so that the contact may be perfect. If the negative electrode is placed at the base of the spine, for which the death-chair is best equipped, a cup will probably be used.

One Electrode Upon the Leg.

It is quite likely that upon at least one of the victims the negative electrode will be placed upon the calf of the left leg. In that case a different style will be used. This sort is made of brass, moulded to conform to the part of the leg to which it will be attached.

Thickly imbedded in a stiff plate from four to six inches square are bluntly-pointed rivets of equal length. A salt wet sponge which assists in conducting the current is pressed into the interstices so that a soft mass is formed. The plate is bound so tightly that the rivets make a firm impression in the flesh.

Experiments in Order, of Course.

The warden has not decided the order of execution, but it will be probably the same as that of their cells from the passage way leading to the execution room. If this plan is followed the order will be one, Jugigo; two, Smiler; three, Wood, and four, Slocum. This plan would prevent the necessity of the men passing before their fellows as they leave the prison for the last time. Only the commotion in the corridor and the clanking of the doors will tell an inmate that perhaps he will be the next one led away. Two keepers who have been in constant attendance upon the man will get them ready for the last acts in the judicial killing.

Prompt Work Expected.

All signs point to prompt work and efficient work. The men yesterday were ready for the sacrifice, resigned to the worst. Contrary to the expectation of those who have been nearest them, not one shows any signs of weakening as the fatal hour draws near.

Two—Wood and Slocum—are upheld by the consolations of the Catholic Church, as furnished them by the faithful and zealous Fathers Creeden and Lynch and the good Sisters of Charity.

Smiler, who claims to have accepted the truth of the Protestant faith, has ceased his weeping and wailing since the fact came home to him that all hope was gone. His two visits from his wife and babe, the woman he wronged and the infant stamped with everlasting infamy, have apparently given him a new lease of manhood, and the keepers believe that he will now go to the chair with a brave mien and unfaltering step. Smiler is in the hands of Prison Chaplain Edgerton, who believes that he will make no cowardly scene at the final moment.

The Stolid Jap.

As for the "Jap," Jugigo, whose animal habits and low intelligence have placed him almost outside the pale of sympathy, he has refused to accept any aid from priests or parsons and will go to the execution chamber unsupported by any religious belief.

The men ate their breakfast yesterday as usual with a good appetite. It consisted of eggs, fish, steak, bread and butter, fruit, potatoes and coffee. The dishes came back well cleaned. For dinner they each partook of a section of choice roast beef and vegetables. This is the last regular meal of the day—perhaps it is the last that one or more of them may ever eat. But if any one should ask for anything the request would be granted.

The men smoked cigarets constantly through the day. Up to 3 o'clock in the afternoon Principal Keeper Connaughton and Fathers Creeden and Lynch were the only ones from the outside world to pay a visit to the condemned. They conversed with each in turn and found them cheerful. But in the case of Slocum and Wood it was a serious cheerfulness. They have given up all hope of further delay and feel that at last they stand face to face with death. Wood has been serious for weeks. Slocum only recently showed that he appreciated his awful position.

Two Thousand Volts For Each.

Two thousand volts of electricity will be forced into each prisoner. So say the electricians. In the case of Kemmler it is acknowledged that only 1300 were employed, and many believe that the dynamo was only run up to the notch of 700. Strange to say, although all news of the impending tragedy has been kept from the other 1600 convicts, not one of them but knows that this is execution week, and no many seconds after all is over the signal will be flashed from man to man and even the name of the dead be known. It is a queer mystery this mystery of prison signaling. What will be done with the bodies? Quicklime and the prison graveyard, says the law, unless the relatives claim them. There is no indication that Mrs. Smiler will make any claim for her husband's body, and there is no talk that the others will escape annihilation.

Replenishing Whitstable Flats.

LONDON, July 6.—Two million young oysters have been laid down in Whitstable Flats. This has not been done any too soon, for an oyster famine was impending for next season.

It is estimated that the terrible frosts which occurred during the winter have destroyed about £30,000 worth of Whitstable oysters, but luckily the favorite natives which lie deepest have suffered least. The supply of seconds, however, has been almost stopped. They have to be brought to the country when young, and kept in these waters for a year before they are fit for use.

LADIES are good judges of gentlemen's clothes, and some of them even go so far as to "wear the breeches" themselves, when they have invested in a husband. But if every lady who pants after a husband would be wise, she would select only such a man as buys his clothes regularly at DOLANS, because she would then know that the style, quality, material and price would fit the pocket-book as well the suit fitted her husband. And if it didn't exactly fit him, why she could "try it on" herself.

The Capital We Possess.

All men around us are furnished with a certain amount of capital-life it is called. Their present and future condition depends upon how this capital is expended and used. Some spend it very rapidly by habits and ways which induce suffering and disease, while others husband it too closely, and tie up the treasure in such a way that its value becomes impaired. In both cases this capital known as life or health calls for repairs. It often becomes clogged and rusty; imperfections and breaks occur which call for prompt attention, else large leakages are the result and our important capital flies away. Note some of the breaks and leakages,—overworked, restless brain; nerves weak and unstrung; headaches; imperfect circulation; melancholia and moroidness, as well as dyspeptic troubles. Always bear in mind when such troubles arise that Paine's Celery Compound is your great restorer and renovator. It will remove every ill, and enable you to grasp anew a full share of perfect life, strength, happiness and peace of mind which all earnestly desire. Paine's Celery Compound is no ordinary medicine; it is nature's remedy, and its worth is now firmly established and recognized.

Preparing for the "Glorious Twelfth"

General Outline of the Day's Celebration in Peterborough.

The spirit of the "Glorious Twelfth" is in the air. The old in the order are young again, and the young are younger. The local brethren are looking forward to the great day that will dawn on July 13th — the twelfth comes on the 13th this year — when the town will be full of enthusiasm and visitors. The brethren will be present from Cobourg on the south, to Kinmount on the north, from Bethany in the west, to Marmora in the east, and from all the intermediate territory in the vicinity of the Hub; and with the brethren will comes their wives and sweethearts, their sisters, their cousins and their aunts, and the town will be full of people that day. Besides we shall have distinguished visitors brethren high up in the order, such as Mr N. Clarke Wallace, Grand Sovereign of British America, Mr. John White, P.G.M., Rev. E. F. Wilson, of "more on" fame, Grand Chaplain; Rev R. W. Leitch, D. G. C.; Rev. Dr. Wild, of Toronto, and others. Both the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railways will issue single fare tickets. Altogether the agglomeration of attractions will draw a great multitude, who will have to be entertained, fed and housed. Hotel accommodation will be at a premium, and restaurateurs and cooling drink vendors will be kept busy.

The local brethren are busy getting ready for the occasion. The sight of a load of evergreens like a cargo of new hay, passing through the streets at noon to-day was the herald of the work of preparation. There will be four, or in reality, seven arches. The True Blues' arch will span George street at the intersection of Brock; the Prentice Boys will raise their arch at the Simcoe street crossing of George, and the Orange lodges will erect a quadruple arch at the Morgan House corner, that is, a group of four arches will span each of the four crossings. These arches, as well as the others, will consist of a wooden frame work, covered with evergreens, and decorated with flags, banners and Orange insignia and emblems.

The route of the march has yet to be decided, but it is agreed that the gathering of the clans and the speeches will take place at Central Park.

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Try them. Sold by all dealers, or by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Address Dr. Williams Med Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Farmers are rejoicing over the abundant showers of rain, looking back at all their grumbling and discontent as being uncalled for.

The Presbyterian excursion to Orillia was a very enjoyable one. The new Presbyterian and Episcopalian churches and the new asylum were visited there and are well worth seeing.

A large party of our citizens both ladies and gentlemen are camping at Jacobs Island, Pigeon Lake and enjoyed their trip very much via. Chemong.

Mr. Brown, hotel-keeper here, has friends and tourists visiting him from Northumberland and Hastings county, being a very quiet home like house.

The great excitement and bustle at present is the active preparations for Emily district of loyal Orangemen, in contemplation of carrying off the palm on the 12th of July at Peterborough.

Our band comprising eighteen members in their new navy blue uniforms trimed with gold, are in active and diligent preparation. The uniforms of the Britons and county lodges are something gorgeous.

The county fife and drum bands are rehearsing the Fermanagh Boys, Protestant Boys and King William loud enough to be heard in Peterborough. Let every one look out for the Emily and Omemee boys, "wet or dry."

The Division Court office has been removed to the rear of Doctor Thompson's drug store. In absence of the clerk, Mr. J. D. Thornton, for a few weeks on business and pleasure trip combined, all business has been left in charge of the "Doctor."

The L. O. L. Emily district will parade to each respective church on next Sabbath.

"FRENCHY" CONVICTED.

The New York "Jack the Ripper" Found Guilty.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Ameer Ben Ali, alias 'Frenchy No. 1,' has been found guilty of slaughtering the hag Shakespeare. When the jury came into court, from the cage at the back of the court room came the tall, slender, round-shouldered, shambling Algerian. He was scared. He had been mumbling prayers since the jury went out. People have a fashion of doing this when in peril of their lives. It was a dramatic scene. The thunder was rumbling without and the lightning spread its violent light, and was gone before one could think. Joseph Bartells, the foreman, announced the verdict, the 12 men standing together. He was pale. There was just the suspicion of a tremor in his voice as he said:

"Guilty. Guilty of murder in the second degree."

There was no attempt to disguise the astonishment that all felt. Nearly every man present felt certain that Frenchy would be found guilty in the first degree or, failing that, be acquitted.

At the request of Mr. Friend, the Recorder remanded the prisoner until Friday, July 10. At that time a motion for a new trial will be made. If that be denied, Ameer Ben Ali will be sentenced.

THE ARTLESS MAIDEN.

It is Now Her Inning as Against the Manish Girl.

The artless young woman has come into fashion once more. A few years ago it grew to be the correct thing for a girl to know a great deal about the world and its ways. Society became filled with tender maidens who could talk horse and dog like stable boys, who would take a hand in a stiff game of poker, and confessed to depending upon the invigoration of cocktails in the morning.

This type enjoyed a reign of several seasons, but like all things in society, it grew monotonous, and a change was required. It has come in the old, familiar, artless girl who was in vogue before the supremacy of the racy young woman. Now, instead of talking glibly about "Del's," fair, Marjorie informs you that she really never has been in the place and wouldn't know how to act if she found herself there. Instead of telling about gay winters at Nice and exciting "seasons" in London, she declares that she was kept very quiet while abroad, and saw only a few of mamma's friends.

Instead of dashing into a horse car and staring boldly about at the faces of all the other passengers she steals in gently and allows her eyelashes to trail low upon her cheeks, not even raising them as she coyly drops her fare into the conductor's hand. In the theatre she reads her programme between the acts, instead of gazing about the house, and she keeps close hold of the chaperon's hand when going to and from the carriage.

Of course this modesty is effective. It always was more charming to men than was the dashing recklessness of the other type, and its only drawback can be that it lacks the appearance of genuineness.

For the cure of female weakness, suppressions, nervousness, bearing down pains and all those peculiar ailments that make woman's life almost unbearable, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and bring a glow of health to sallow cheeks. All dealers, or by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Everybody Likes It.

Wm. Dredge, Ellen street, Barrie, Ont., says: One bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil brought back appetite which other Emulsions away; removed cough entirely, and gained five pounds. It tastes just like cream, the oil being perfectly disguised. Sold by all druggists. dw

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose. Try them. dw

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Glynn, Wilfred, Ont. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

A Canadian Favorite.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus, diarrhœa and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept in the house. For 35 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 3w251

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus. dw

It Saved His Life.

GENTLEMEN,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved by life. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. Francis Walsh, Dalkeith, Ont. dw

ONCE USED, ALWAYS USED.—This is a fact as regards Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses from its wonderful efficiency in curing chapped hands and making the skin smooth and soft. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 614

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

That distressing cough, that is one of the symptoms of hay fever, is cured by Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. dw

Low's Sulphur Soap is an elegant toilet article, and cleanses and purifies the skin most effectually dw

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

BELLE OF ALL EUROPE.

THE FAIR LADY BROOKE OF RECENT NOTORIOUS FAME.

Her Person Fairer Than Her Name, for That is Linked With Tales of Unwarranted Attention, Smitten Princes and a Duel for Her Sake.

Lady Francis Evelyn Brooke is said to be the handsomest woman in Europe. This alone would make her an object of interest. The fact that she is held responsible for the explosion of the Gordon-Cumming scandal makes her still more interesting. Lady Brooke missed being a viscount by being born a girl. She comes from a family which had a most singular streak of luck for two generations in the abundance of female and lack of male offspring. Consequently, although there were plenty of children, the viscounty of Maynard became extinct in 1865. Had Lady Brooke's father lived five months longer he would have been viscount anyway, but he went to the grave in January, and the old viscount, his father, followed in May, borne down by weight of years and daughters. So that, according to the English rule, Lady Brooke was not even of noble birth. But she amply made up for the extinction of the Maynard name by marrying Lord Brooke, son of the earl of Warwick and descendant of the red-suitable kingmaker.

PEACH AND CREAM COMPLEXION

Lady Brooke is enjoying her twenty-ninth summer. She does not look it. She preserves the peaches and cream complexion, often met with among the pure British aristocracy, as fresh as ten years ago. Her eyes are grayish blue, her hair a light brown, and her features just relieved from chilling regularity of outline by a gentle tilt of the nose, at once suggestive and saucy. Her ladyship is of medium height, and a form that as yet shows no tendency to that nightmare of the British matron embonpoint. Everybody who meets Lady Brooke raves about her eyes. They would redeem a homely face. With features that can be called beautiful they are irresistible. No one understands dress better than Lady Brooke. She is never overdressed. Perhaps she errs a little too much in the other direction. But there is the excuse in her case that neck, shoulders and face, she can stand both the glare of the ballroom, and the light of moon, without danger of damage to her attractions. She does not go out too much. And perhaps this is one reason why she keeps her youthful bloom unimpaired, at the same time that she preserves the interest that frequent appearance in public might impair.

THE HUSBAND INDULGENT.

Lady Brooke has a most indulgent husband. Lord Brooke is a member of parliament of whom nobody ever hears. He is a complaisant individual, proud of his beautiful wife and Alderney cattle and dearly loving a fox hunt or a steeplechase. He is about eight years older than his wife, to whom he owes his seat in parliament for Colchester. When the election contest was going on, about two years and a half ago, Lady Brooke drove about the borough in a four-in hand, stopping at the houses of tradesmen, talking pleasantly with their wives, and in some instances patting the cheeks of the children—when they were clean. She won her way to the hearts of the people who knew little about Lord Brooke, but who did know and love the lively, Miss Maynard Brooke, however, might as well have remained at home, so far as any signs are up parent of his presence in the house of commons. Indeed, he is seldom there, or any where else but at Easton Lodge, Essex, while his better half is doing the London season. Lady Brooke has, of course, entree to the best society. The duke of Cambridge, cousin of the queen, and commander in chief of the armies, dined with lord and Lady Brooke, a few days ago, in the full glare of the baccarat scandal, and present also were the marquis and marchioness of Salisbury. Lady Brooke first met the prince of Wales in 1886, at a dinner given by the marquis of Carmarthen, in the town house of the duke of Leeds. The prince was introduced by the marquis, and immediately began to show the most marked attention to Lady Brooke. His conduct in this respect attracted general notice, and no doubt remained that the lady had made a deep impression on his royal highness. It was also noticed that Lady Brooke treated the prince with more than usual amiability in the following summer the Prince of Wales was a frequent visitor at Dunmore Lodge when Lord Brooke was known to be away from home. And he was also a frequent and favorite guest when Lord Brooke was there, for his lordship seemed pleased rather than otherwise to see the heir of the throne dancing attendance on his wife.

ENSLAVED A PETTY PRINCE.

Lady Brooke paid a visit to the continent, with her husband, in 1886, and was introduced to the German emperor and to the Austrian kaiser, as well as the usual flock of princelings. In Berlin, where the court circle includes a number of lovely women, Lady Brooke was confessed to be the reigning star. The young Prince Gonthier, of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, went half insane over her. He is a boyish fellow, with a lumpy sort of face. Lady Brooke seemed amused by his ardor and devotion. He followed her about Europe on a hopeless chase, which ceased to be amusing when it set tongues to wagging about her ladyship. A quiet hint was therefore given to young Gonthier to stop his foolishness, or somebody would tell his father. The youth was stubborn, but the hint was soon followed by an order that he did not dare to ignore. Sir Edward Malet, the British ambassador, had notified Bismarck of the youth's infatuation. Prince Gonthier, among other follies, is said to have sent Lady Brooke a bouquet of flowers in a holder of gold and pearls. How the young man got the money for his extravagance is a mystery, as the sixty-nine principalities is hardly able to support the reigning prince. Lady Brooke refused to accept the young man's presents and he went home in disgust. By the recent death of his father he is now himself sovereign of the homestead. Two officers of the Imperial Guards at Berlin fought a duel in 1886, it is said, on account of Lady Brooke. Neither was seriously hurt.

In Vienna, also, Lady Brooke was the centre of attraction, and had she been single and willing she might have become the wife of the present heir to the Austrian throne, the Archduke Franz. At a state ball the various archdukes were rivals for the honor of her hand in the dance, and among them was Prince Rudolph, who committed suicide a few months later, in January, 1889. Whether Lady Brooke deserves to be called the most beautiful woman in Europe is, of course, a matter of taste; that she is no lovelier than many Canadian women is certain. Indeed, her attractions largely consist in the possession of qualities usually peculiar to the well-bred woman on this side of the water, and which have gained hearts for so many of our countrywomen. Lady Brooke's part in the baccarat scandal was the betrayal to Gordon-Cumming, by a taunting remark, of her knowledge of the stain on his honor. It is supposed that the prince of Wales gave her the information, contrary to his pledge of secrecy.

SIFTINGS.

Sir Charles Dilke is very fond of fencing, and in one of the rooms of his London house he has a choice collection of old swords and handsome rapiers.

The new Earl Granville is a pale-faced lad of nineteen. He is at present a student at Eton, and cannot take his place in the House of Lords until he attains his majority.

Lucas Paez, an aged resident of Barcelona, in Spain, is the head of a family of 279 persons. He has thirty-nine living children—sixteen daughters and twenty-three sons.

Lotta has been on the stage since 1856, when she appeared before a San Francisco audience at the American Theatre. Her fortune is estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

Sir. John A. Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, is an omnivorous reader, and his house is the first destination of all the new books received at the Parliamentary Library in Ottawa.

The President of France, who is of course the best paid official of the Republic, receives a salary of $120,000 a year, to which is added $60,000 for household expenses and $60,000 for traveling.

One of the finest artists of the day in Spain, is a woman—Mme. Anselma Lierroix. She has a studio in Paris, and the work of her brush is said to be so admirable as to place her at the head of the woman artists of the present decade.

The late Lord Granville was a fine specimen of the old-school English statesmen who appeared born to rule their countrymen. He was one of the few connecting links that bound the statesmen of the early days of the century to those of the present decade and decadence.

After the Quarrel.

Jack the Disconsolate—Why are you so anxious to make it up? You know we will quarrel again in an hour.

Perdita the Imperturbable—That's just why I want to make it up.

Harsh But ——?

"Ho," said a well known statesman, "I shall never believe that woman has the proper judgment and sense to cast a ballot, or interfere in politics, while she is so weak-minded as to passively suffer, year after year, from diseases peculiar to females, when every newspaper she picks up tells of the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription. Not to take advantage of this remedy is certainly an indication of mental weakness!"

There is a wholesome kernal of truth inside the rough shell of this ungallant speech. The "Favorite Prescription" is invalable in all uterine troubles, inflammations, ulcerations, displacements, nervous disorders, prostration, exhaustion or hysteria. For run-down, worn out women, no more strengthening tonic or nervine or known. b

The Best Life Policy.

It's not the Tontine plan, or Endowment plan, or Ten Years Renewable Plan. It's not adding your few dollars to the hundreds of millions that the insurance companies boast of. Its a better investment than any of those. It's investing a few dollars in that standard remedy, the "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung troubles. a

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a consulting electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Last night Chief of Police Keasel acting on a telegram received from Chief Thos. Bell, of Campbellford, arrested one Albert Crouther, on a charge of criminally assaulting, on July 1st, a little girl Elizabeth Barkes, who was in a wood near the town with a younger sister. A young man tried to get the younger to sit on his knee, but she declined and ran away. The man then seized the elder sister, and according to Chief Bell, outraged her shamefully. The child's description of her assailant led to the arrest of the prisoner who was removed to Campbellford on the mid-day G.J.R. train in charge of Chief Bell.

Presbytery of Peterborough.

The Sederunt Held in St. Andrew's.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in St. Andrew's church this morning, Rev. Mr. McEwan, Moderator, in the chair. There were present, Rev. Messrs. McEwan, Ewing, Cleland, Carmichael, Thompson, Anderson, Bennet, Hyde and A. McWilliams, ministers; Messrs. Roxburgh, Graham, Armstrong and Pringle, elders.

After routine the commissions were read of Messrs. W. D. Roxburg and Pringle as representatives and their names were added to the roll.

The clerk, (Rev. W. Bennet), Mr. D. Oswald and Mr. Burns of Janetville were appointed to look after the church property of Janetville.

Messrs Carmichal and Anderson, ministers, and Mr. Graham, elder, were appointed a committee to draw up a minute in reference to the retirement of Rev. Mr. Bell.

The clerk reported that the Assembly had granted leave to the Presbytery to take Mr. Oswald on trial for license, leave to Rev. Alex. Bell to retire from the active ministery, and that Mr. McWillim's request for retirement had been declined.

The next meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope, on Sept. 22nd at 9.30 a.m.

The delegates to the General Assembly, Rev. Mr. Bennet and Messrs. Graham and Roxburgh, reported, and the morning session of the Presbytery adjourned, the benediction being pronounced by the Moderator.

The members of the Presbytery were entertained by the ladies of St. Andrews' to a substantial luncheon spread in the school room.

Notes Among the Oddfellows—Otonabee Lodge Officers.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held at Stratford, beginning 12th of August. Each of the Peterborough lodges sends representatives.

The Grand Encampment meets at Galt on the 28th of July. The Canton will attend, and the delegates are Dr. Bell, P. C. P., of Hiawatha Encampment No. 66, and Thos. Workman, of Mt. Hebron Encampment No. 58.

The meeting of Otonabee Lodge Monday evening was of unusual interest. Besides the installation of officers, reports were read, all being of a most satisfactory nature. The finances and membership of Otonabee lodge show a marked advance during the last term. There is a good sum in the bank over and above all liabilities, and the list of members is constantly growing. The officers and members look forward to a prosperous future.

The officers were installed by Bro. S. Clegg, D.D.G.M., assisted by Bros. J. R. Reid, P.G.M., of St. Lawrence lodge, Brockville; Dr. Bell, P.G.M., Otonabee lodge; A. McFarlane and D. H. Moore, P.G., Peterborough lodge; John Nugent, P.G., Otonabee lodge. The officers for the ensuing term are:—

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

Two Companies Want Right of Way for an Electric Line.

Between Them the Town Ought to Get an Advantageous Offer—Full Text of the Propositions—A Long List of Proposed Improvements—A New Industry that Makes Modest Demands.

The meeting of the town council Monday night was an unusually heavy one. There were present Mayor Stevenson in the chair, Councillors Kendry, Langford, Meldrum, Moore, Dawson, Hall, Bradburn, Davidson, Cahill and Kelly.

A large number of communications and petitions were disposed of.

An application was read from Thos. Lash and 13 others, asking for a hydrant on Dublin street between George and Aylmer street —Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Mr. J. G. Hampton, superintendent of the North American Telephone Company, applied for permission to erect poles on certain streets. This matter was dealt with later.

John Widner's application for remission of taxes was referred to the Charity Committee.

A communication was read from the Secretary of the School Board enclosing a resolution passed by the Board making a demand upon the town for $8,000 in addition to the yearly appropriation, for the purpose of building public school additions. — Referred to the Finance Committee.

A resolution passed by the County Council was read, in which the Council agreed to grant $150 to the West Riding Agricultural Society, and $150 to the East Riding Association, on condition that the Town Council grant $300 to the former.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. E. A. Peck, on behalf of the Chamberlen estate, applied for a check for balance of purchase money of park lots in the southwest end of the town, amounting to $6,814.15.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From the County Attorney, enclosing a copy of the Grand Jury's presentment at the recent assizes, in which it was urged that the town and county unite in erecting a poor house for the benefit of the paupers who are now compelled to go to gaol.—Received.

From Mr. Joseph Pope, on behalf of Lady Macdonald, returning thanks to the council for its resolution of condolence. — Received.

Messrs. Hatton & Wood sent in a communication on behalf of Mr. D. Belleghem, asking that he be heard with reference to a matter in which it was claimed he was being put to a hardship.—Received.

Constables R. H. Adams, Chas. McGinty and Jos. Stewart applied for two weeks' holidays.—Referred to the Police Committee.

Joseph Crow and 28 others asked for a hydrant at the corner of Cedar and Cross streets.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Mrs. John Harvey's application for a sidewalk on Reid street, from Sherbrook to Wolfe, was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Jennie Greer, of 512 Aylmer, called the council's attention to the condition of the old man James McComb, for whom she had cared for a number of years, but as she was physically and financially unable to continue it, she asked the council to remove the old man to a suitable place—Referred to the Charity Committee.

A number of residents of Gilmour street asked for three hydrants on that street.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

J. H. Yelland and others asked for a hydrant at corner of Dublin and Harvey streets for fire purposes.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A communication was read from the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, calling the council's attention to the fact that no action had been taken with reference to their communication regarding the Perkins Manufacturing company, whom they proposed bringing here. They presumed from this that the council did not want the new industry, but they thought nevertheless their own works ought to be exempted from taxes as much as any new industries, and they asked the council to consider the matter—Referred to the Finance Committee.

The same company applied for permission to grade Murray street, between Downey and Donegal, under the supervision of the street inspector—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Thos. KENT called attention to his communication of last December with reference to his claim for damages through accident to his sleigh at the C.P.R. track. He asked the town to make good the damages. The matter was referred to the town solicitor.

Mr. Arthur Rutherford applied for a sidewalk on a new street opened out in the south end, in front of what was known as Rutherford Terrace.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

THE ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY.

The following letters were received:

The petition of Samuel Insull and John Insull, of the city of New York; John Kreusi, of the city of Schenectady; M. Frances, of the city of Brooklyn, M. D. Barr, of the city of Toronto and John Langton, of the town of Peterborough, sheweth.

That your petitioners are desirous of constructing an electric street railway in the town of Peterborough and for this purpose ask your honourable body to grant them and their assigns the exclusive franchise for the use of those streets in the said town that may be required by them for such railway for the term of thirty years from the date on which they commence the operation of the said railway, together with the right to place where required the wires and poles for the transmission of the electrical energy and such rails, ties, turnouts and other appliances as may be required for the construction and operation of the said railway.

The said franchise to be granted on the following conditions:

1. That your petitioners shall construct and put in operation during the year 1891 that part of their railway on George street from Smith street to Lake street.

2. That your petitioners shall after putting down their rails grade and pave and thereafter during the time the said railway is operated by them maintain in good repair that part of the streets used by them, extending for a distance of ten inches on each side of the rail.

3. That they shall when a single track is put down, lay the same in the centre of the street and when a double track is laid or intended to be laid, put the same down so that the centre line between the tracks shall be in the centre of the street.

4. That the railway and the plant used in operating the same shall be exempt from taxes during the term of the franchise to be granted.

5. That the fares to be charged shall be as follows:—Ordinary fares including transfer tickets over any lines operated or controlled by them within the limits of the town or the village of Ashburnham not to exceed 5 cents

Workingmen's tickets to be used between 6 and 7 o'clock a.m. and 5 and 7 p.m. at the rate of six tickets for 25 cents.

School children's tickets for children under twelve years of age at the rate of eight tickets for twenty-five cents.

6 That at the expiration of the said term of thirty years the town of Peterborough is to be at liberty if so desired to acquire said railway with the plant, etc., at a price to be agreed upon between them and your petitioners or the persons or company then controlling said railway, the price to be based upon the cost of the same and the good will, but exclusive of the franchise, provided that if such price cannot be agreed upon between the parties that the same shall be fixed by arbitrators appointed in the usual way.

7. That in case the town shall not elect to take over the said railway, the rights to be granted your petitioners shall be extended for another period of thirty years with the same rights to the town of acquiring the said railway at the end of such term.

Respectfully yours,
H. M. FRANCIS,
For the Syndicate.

THE OPPOSITION.

PETERBOROUGH, July 4th, 1891.

To the Mayor and Council of town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—Having obtained a charter for the construction of a street railway in the town we now have to request that you will pass a by-law authorizing our company to construct, maintain, complete and operate, and from time to time to remove and change as required, a double or single iron railway with necessary side tracks and turn-outs to the passage of cars, carriages and other vehicles adopted to the same, upon and along the streets of the town.

We propose to commence work immediately and to have part of the road in operation by the end of the year.

Your obedient servants,
A. P. POUSSETTE
A. STEVENSON,
(For the Company.)

TELEPHONE POLES.

Mr. HAMPTON, whose application had been read previously, said his company was running a telephone line from Belleville, through Hastings and Norwood, to Peterborough, in connection with the Bell Telephone Company and the C. P. R. Telegraph Company, and they asked permission to erect poles on Park street from the boundary to King street, down King to George, and up George to Charlotte, in order to connect with the Bell and C. P. R. Companies' lines.

Mr. KENDRY said that this was a scheme on the part of the Bell Company and the Rathbun Company, who had united to shut out the local company, and he did not think it fair that they should be granted a privilege that the local company did not have.

The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

The street railway matter then came up for discussion.

Mr. POUSETTE said his company had said all in their communication they wished to say, and did not lay down any conditions, but left it to the council to attach any reasonable conditions they chose. This company was composed of well know citizens of the town whose bona fides in this matter was undoubted. They intended to begin building the line at once, and they thought they were entitled to first consideration in the granting of the franchise.

Mr. HAZLITT said they had not their charter, but the fiat had been issued for it, and they now simply asked for the franchise. The company was composed of men who had always carried out what they undertook.

In answer to Mr. Hall, as to how much of the line they proposed to finish this fall, Mr. Hazlitt said that it was a matter of too great importance to be answered impromptu, and they rather wished the council to affix the conditions and they would meet them.

Mr. MOORE said that the granting of a street railway franchise for such a term of years was a very important matter and the town's interest should be carefully guarded. There were a great many points which demanded careful consideration, and he did not think it wise to grant the franchise first and make our conditions afterwards. Ottawa had a great deal of trouble over its electric railway, and it might be well to get information from them. He moved, seconded by Mr. Langford, that the mover, seconder and Councillors Hall, Cahill and Davidson, be a committee to consider the applications to this council for a franchise of the streets of the town for a street railway with power to visit such towns or cities as they may think proper, to ascertain the terms and conditions of franchises granted and contracts made with street railway companies and report to this council.

Mr. BRADBURN objected to the words "any town or city they think proper." It might lead the committee to Europe.

The resolution was altered to read "to visit Ottawa if they think proper," and adopted, the understanding being that a special meeting of the council would be called in about a week to receive the report.

A QUESTION OF SEWERAGE.

Mr. D. BELLEGHEM was then heard with reference to his communication. He said he had been summoned before the Police Magistrate for a breach of the Sanitary by-law, but the Magistrate had held the case over in order that he might apply to the council for aid. He asked for permission to run the sewerage of his establishment into the creek, as the present pits were required to be closed up, and earth closets would not do in his case.

Mr. DAWSON moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the request be granted, but others objected that it was contrary to the bylaw and dangerous to health. The Mayor said that no harm was done by sewerage going into the creek, in spite of what the doctors said, for the refuse was carried right away by the water and no one ever complained of it.

Mr. Kelly moved instead that the Chief be instructed to stay proceedings against Mr. Belleghem for the present, but Mr. Kendry, Mr. Moore and others said such a course would stultify the council, and besides other citizens had incurred great expenditure in complying with the law, and why should Mr. Belleghem be exempt? Mr. Moore held the bylaw had done a great deal towards cleansing the town, and it should not be over-ridden.

Mr. Davidson withdrew his resolution and Mr. Kelly's was passed.

GRANT TO THE PARK.

Mr. J. H. ROPER addressed the council on behalf of the Agricultural Society, asking for the usual grant of $500 towards the maintenance of the Court House Park. On motion of Mr. Davidson the matter was referred to the Finance Committee, on the understanding that the secretary of the society should furnish the council with a detailed statement of the expenditure of the $500.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. DAVIDSON read the report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of the following accounts:—W. J. Morrow, $45.93; M. McFadden, $32.00; S. W. English, $3.65; G. D. Mitchell & Son, $1.25 and $2.50; C. N. Brown, $2.50; C. Young, $20.00; T. Fitzgerald, $1.00; Dickson Co., $9.88, $14.32, $20.10, $16.00, $15.12 and $20.00; Mr. Martyn, $42.00.

With reference to the stock in the Midland Railway Company, the committee asked time for further consideration.

The committee recommended that the two dwelling houses purchased from Mr. James O'Brien be sold by auction, time and place to be fixed by the committee.

The report was adopted.

A BIG LIST OF IMPROVEMENTS.

Mr. Langford read this report:—

TO THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the following work be done during the coming year:

1. Sidewalk on Townsend street, from C.P.R. to Bay, 300 ft.
2. Sidewalk on Aylmer street, from Townsend to Dalhousie, 400 ft.
3. Sidewalk on George street, from C. P. R. to Perry, 900 ft.
4. Sidewalk on Sherbrooke street, from Aylmer to Bethune, south side, 400 ft.
5. Sidewalk on south side Lake street, from Lock street west, 600 ft.
6. Sidewalk on Paterson street, from Park street to railway crossing, 300 ft.
7. Sidewalk on Antrim street, from Harvey to Water, 200 ft.
8. Sidewalk on south end of George street, 100 ft.
9. Rink street, the drain to be cribbed from the Midland railway to the Bay.
10. Reid street, to be water tabled from Sherbrooke to Park, also Wolfe street from Rubidge to Park.
11. Townsend street, to be water-tabled from Park to Bethune.
12. Sidewalk on Townsend street, from Stewart to Rubidge, 250 ft.
13. Sidewalk south side of Perry street, west of George, 400 ft., also from Stewart to Park on Perry, 100 ft.
14. Sidewalk east side of Reid street, from Simcoe to Scott, 200 ft.
15. Cribwork on Water street, to be raised to the present grade of street and railing placed thereon.
16. Waterford street, sidewalk London to McDonel, 400 ft.
17. Sidewalk on Dublin, from Water to Harvey, 100 ft.
18. Sidewalk, Waterford street, north from London, 200 ft.
19. Harvey street watertabled from McDonel to the river.
20. Sidewalk south side of Brock street, from George street, 200 feet west.
21. Sidewalk on west side of Stewart street, from Brock to Murray, 400 ft.
22. Sidewalk on Brock street, north side, Stewart to Rubidge, 400 ft.
23. Cedar and Walnut streets, sidewalk three feet wide, about 1200 ft.
24. Sidewalk on Scott street, Rubidge to Reid, north side, 200 ft.
25. Sidewalk, Hunter street, south side, from the river west, 400 ft.
26. The bill on Smith street to be taken down to the grade struck by the town engineer, cost not to exceed $250.
27. Sidewalk, George street, east, from Methodist church to Dublin street, 600 ft.
28. Sidewalk, Water street, west side from McDonel to Dublin, 600 ft.
29. Sheridan street, to be water tabled.
30. Drain to be constructed on Aylmer, from Charlotte south, about 250 ft.
31. Sidewalk, south side of Charlotte street, from Bethune to Stewart, 300 ft.
32. Sidewalk, King street north, Stewart to Reid, 500 ft.
33. Sidewalk, Rubidge street, west side, Dalhousie to Sherbrooke, 400 ft.
34. Sidewalk, Conger street, 200 ft.

It is estimated that the work recommended above will cost about $4,200.

It is recommended that the Street and Bridge Committee be empowered to purchase gravel, wherever suitable terms can be made.

Your Committee also recommend that the culverts along the line of the creek on Aylmer and other streets be enlarged and some additional ones be constructed, as owing to the spring freshets those in use at present are badly damaged and not sufficiently large to carry off the volume of water which comes down, thereby causing each year considerable expense for repairs.

Your committee would further recommend that a tile drain be laid on Charlotte street from the boundary east to the creek, the council of North Monaghan having agreed to lay the drain westward from the boundary line.

The report was received for the present, the councillors wishing some time to consider it, action being deferred till another meeting.

MORE HYDRANTS.

Mr. CAHILL read the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, recommending that the Water Company be requested to extend their water pipes from Townsend street along Park and Lake streets, to connect with the mains on Aylmer and George streets, and that three hydrants be placed on this extension, where directed by the Committee.

The report was adopted.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Mr. HALL, chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, made a verbal report with reference to the firm of Patterson & Corwin, street car manufacturers, of St. Catharines, who had agreed to move to Peterborough on condition that the town grant them the use of 5 acres of land, and put up for them three single story wooden buildings, one 200 x75 feet, another 150x75 feet, and another 60x40 feet. They promised to employ at least thirty hands and pay out three hundred dollars a week in wages. It was estimated that these terms would cost the town about $10,000, and Mr. Hall did not think the people would grant it. He thought the company's conditions were rather high, and if they would accept 2 acres and say the two smaller buildings at a cost of $5,000 the ratepayers might pass such a by law. He asked the authority of the council to make the proposition to the company, and on motion the matter was left in Mr. Hall's hands to further negotiate with Messrs. Patterson & Corwin.

MISCELLANEOUS MOTIONS.

Mr. KENDRY gave notice of motion that he would ask for a return of all town moneys expended in connection with the Edison works.

Mr. HALL moved, seconded by Mr. Bradburn, that the chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee be registered to ascertain the cost of a stone crusher and steam roller for street purposes and report to this council—Carried.

Mr. DAVIDSON moved that the Sewerage Committee of last year be re-appointed this year, Mr. Meldrum replacing Mr. Rutherford. The motion was adopted.

Mr. KENDRY brought up the matter of the disputed territory at the junction of George and Smith streets, which has been before the council for years, and he moved that Mr. Denne be given $100 for his right to that part now occupied as a public street.

After some discussion the motion was lost and the council adjourned.

Life a Battle Field.

An ambitious boy when asked what life was, replied in this beautiful and characteristic manner:—'Life is a battle field on which we fight for fame." But we have often been impressed with the thought that a very poor fight, indeed, can be made unless one have perfect health; and this blessing can be obtained only by the most excessive care of the physical organs, particularly the stomach. When this important organ ceases to perform its functions properly, good health is out of the question, unless Beecham's Pills are resorted to. They are a certain remedy for all stomach troubles. If your druggist does not have them, send 25 cents to B. F. Allen Co., 365 and 367 Canal street, New York. w28 1c4.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

DEATH DEALING CYCLONE

A PENITENTIARY DEMOLISHED AND ITS INMATES KILLED.

Ten Meet With Instant Death and Thirty-five Others are Dangerously Wounded —Indescribable Scenes of Horror in a Louisiana Town Yesterday.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 6.—A terrible cyclone struck this city at 6 o'clock this morning passing from southwest to northeast. The cyclone was 300 yards wide and ricochetted along its course like a cannonball devastating as it went. In the city no one was killed, though several persons were seriously injured. The State Penitentiary was partially wrecked. Ten convicts were killed (7 white and 3 colored, including one murderer) and 36 injured

The convicts were at work in the Jeans pants factory, third story of north wing when the storm struck the building and entirely demolished the second and third stories. There were many narrow escapes, several of the guards being blown into the yard. The damage to the buildings will reach $30,000.

There were 40 prisoners at work in the pants factory at the time of the crash and of that number six were killed and 22 wounded and horribly crushed. On the second story or central floor was the hospital, where 20 sick persons lay under medical treatment, of which number four were killed and 14 seriously if not fatally injured. The fire alarm was sounded and the entire fire department was summoned to the scene and together with the citizens and prison officials, aided by the uninjured prisoners, worked vigorously for the rescue of the unfortunates who lay, some dead and others dying, confined under the great heap of debris that was thickly strewn over every quarter of the premises. Scenes of the greatest imaginable horror greeted the rescuers, and pitiful wails, death's groans and cries for help from men buried by massive heaps of brick and mortar could be heard arising from every part of the wreck. Of the 36 wounded about six are expected to die before morning, and the recovery of several others is extremely doubtful.

YOU CAN'T BULLY ME.

Mr. Murphy Gets Hot Over Mr Osler's Cross-Examination

OTTAWA, July 6.—At a meeting of the Privileges and Elections Committee to-day there was a large attendance. Mr. Geoffrion protested that while Mr. Osler had access to the books the same privilege was refused him (Geoffrion).

The committee decided to have all the relevant portions of the books assorted and then place them at the disposal of both counsel.

The cross-examination of Mr. Murphy was continued in regard to the $700 paid for Thomas McGreevy's election in 1887 in notes.

Mr. Osler: Have you an entry in your diary with reference to any of these notes?

Witness: I don't know.

Mr. Osler: Well, will you look?

Mr. Murphy looked but could not see entry.

Mr. Osler: Look in diary from May 1 to 8, 1885.

Witness did so but found nothing.

As the cross-examination proceeded, Mr. Osler's questions became more and more searching and imperative, but Mr. Murphy grew more emphatic and defiant. "You can't bully me here," said he. "I have my rights before this committee and I have no counsel to protect me."

At a meeting of the Public Accounts Committee to-day Mr. Mulock complained that some of the most important papers asked for in regard to the contract of the Langevin block were missing. They were promised for next meeting.

THE MACDONALD MEMORIAL.

Premier Abbott and Speaker Lacoste Promise to Aid the Testimonial.

OTTAWA, July 6.—A deputation from the Macdonald Memorial Committee consisting of C. H. Mackintosh, M.P., Sir James Grant, Archdeacon Lauder, Thomas MacFarlane, Dr. Valade, Rev. Dr. Ryckman, Dr. Thorburn and Sandford Fleming waited on Premier Abbott to-day. The deputation pointed out that the present Geological Museum was too small and in constant danger of destruction by fire, which would mean an irreparable loss to the country, and that the Government should assist in the erection of the Macdonald Memorial Institute by paying for a wing to the proposed Institute, into which the museum might be placed.

Mr. Abbott said the Government had not considered the matter of a Macdonald memorial as yet, but personally he approved of the idea. He assured the deputation that he would do all he could to co-operate with them.

The deputation then interviewed Speaker Lacoste of the Senate, who suggested that the deputation should bring the matter before both Houses of Parliament by petition. He believed the vote in both Houses would be unanimous.

The League's Testimonial.

LONDON, July 6.—Permission has been obtained by the Imperial Federation League to erect a monument in St. Paul's Cathedral to the late Sir John A. Macdonald. Lord Brassey has consented to act as treasurer of the fund to be subscribed to pay for the erection of the monument.

An Echo of the Potts Failure.

DETROIT, July 6.—Judge Reilly this morning rendered his decision in the case of the Bank of Montreal et al vs The J. E. Potts Salt and Lumber Company. Judge Reilly has held that the mortgages given by the J. E. Potts Salt and Lumber Company to the Bank of Montreal and numerous other parties are valid. This decision sustains the corporation in its discrimination of certain of its creditors whom it chose to prefer and leaves the unsecured creditors $700,000 less of assets out of which to satisfy themselves.

ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY

Saturday's papers announced the glad tidings by which our progressive town will surpass many pretentious cities. It being intended to have at least two-and-a-half miles of the finest Electric Street Railway in Canada, in operation by September. This added to our large manufacturing industries and rail way facilities, present and prospective, must place Peterborough far in advance of any other town or city in Central Ontario.

Notwithstanding the above, which in itself is sufficient to cause owners to advance the prices of their properties, I intend to fulfil my promise to sell Lots and House and Lots until 15th inst. at discount from old prices of from 5 to 40 per cent. After that date the prices will go up as sure as the sun will

DOOMED MEN DIE.

FOUR MURDERERS IN THE FATAL CHAIR.

The Deadly Current Ends All Dread Tragedy Enacted Within the Walls of Sing Sing While Others Sleep Slocum The First to Meet His Fate

SING SING, N.Y., July 7.—James M. Slocum, Harris A. Smiler, Joseph Wood and Schibuk Jugigo were sent to their doom at the prison here this morning by means of electricity. The approximate time of the arming on of the current in each case was: Slocum 1 40, Smiler 5.10, Wood 5.50, Jugigo 6.05. The prisoners had received some intimation before hand that the executions were to take place this morning and they were prepared for them. They went to the execution chair bravely and met their fates without a struggle. They offered no resistance, but rather assisted the keepers when they were bound to the chair.

It was the fairest day of summer in this beautiful but prison cursed village of Sing Sing. The atmosphere was the perfection, neither too hot nor too cool was the temperature. The sun has played tag and coquetted with flimy clouds. A two-reefed breeze has swept across the yellow Hudson and stirred up the turbulent Tappan Zee.

What a day to woo mankind and make one in love with nature! What a sorry day in which to write him on the page of life!

The Last Night on Earth.

What song is this that rings from prison walls and fills with melody this gloomy chamber? Whose voice is it that with sweet ring of the love feast and the prayer meeting sends forth from yonder grated door of hard chilled steel the old familiar strain and the old familiar words:

He will gather the wheat in His garner,
But the chaff he will cast away.
And oh, where shall we stand in the judgment
Of the great harvest day?

It is the voice of Smiler, more safe twice! Ingamist and an exponent of the Salvation Army. Tearful Smiler it was a week ago, whimpering, whining Smiler, who said that he was not fit or ready to die, was bogged and prayed and wept that he might be spared from capital punishment.

It's bold Smiler now—bold on the last full day that he will see on earth—bold in the face and in the teeth of death.

The Doomed Quartet.

He is very fond of this hymn, is Smiler, and sings it often. He sings it with a voice steady and not unmusical. Slocum and Wood, marked to die not far in time from him, listen with pleasure to the strains, and sometimes join in, modestly and most unmusically in a sort of humming accompaniment.

But in another cage the frail, gigantic form of the terrible Jap Jugigo, dark faced, sunken visaged, dominant in nature, sits in wrapt silence. He seems more like some big, gaunt simian than a man. The atmosphere about him is repellant, sinister. His huge jaws are locked as he clinches his teeth together, and there is a glitter in his eyes which the death watch like not.

For four days he has been studying the pictures in an illustrated magazine, and two of the pictures fascinate him. Hour after hour they chain his attention. Hour after hour his eyes devour them. One is the picture of a peasant girl sitting in a chair, leaning her head upon her hand. The other is the picture of a man sitting upright in a chair, a picture of no particular moment to you or me. But they are the only two pictures of chairs within the covers of that book. The chair. Ave, that's the rub. And yet they said the Jap had lost his reason.

What panorama is spreading through that shallow yet cunning brain? What pictures do these chairs paint in his devilish intellects? What purpose does he conceal? What secret plans may he have in store when Authority opens wide the grating of his cell and bids him come to his chair, where Death sits as on a throne? What may a sudden rush of passion not impel him to commit when the supreme moment comes?

Pickles and Sardines For the Jap

The three men with the outward sign of possessing souls were cheerful and resigned as usual. Wood, especially, seemed ready and anxious to go.

"I think it is better for me to go now," he said, "for I must go some time, and now I am prepared to go. I may not be so well prepared again."

Quite a philosophy for an ignorant negro, was it not?

Smiler sang songs, read aloud from his prayer book and sometimes read and sometimes sang words from the Book of Psalms. At the proper places Slocum and Wood would respond with the amens. In such manner, varied with reading and solaced by the fumes of pipe and cigaret, the men passed most of their time. But the Jap sat silent and stared at those pictures with the chairs with malevolent eyes.

They ate a simple tea. Jugigo asked for his favorite sardines and supplemented this with a request for pickles.

"Pickles?" said Warden Brown, when the request was carried to him. "Yes, let him have pickles if he will." He has a most abnormal appetite the Jap, and his craving for sardines and other fish food seems well nigh insatiable. Incredible as it may seem he ate four boxes of sardines at one sitting and they are not liliputian boxes by any means.

So he revelled in pickles and sardines.

The First to Die.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the warden entered the cell of Slocum, who killed his wife, Nellie, with an ax on the night of Dec. 1, 1888, and notified him that the hour of his execution had arrived. In order to prevent the others from knowing that the first man had left the cell the exit therefrom was made as quietly as possible. The warden had clad Slocum in a new suit of cheap black diagonal cloth trousers of a dark pattern, a white shirt, a turn-down collar and a black cravat. As the prisoner seated himself in the chair and leaned back the warden's assistant stepped for ard and drew across his chest and under his arms heavy straps, which were securely fastened to the back of the chair. Then about his wrists and over his arms they drew other straps, which they buckled closely, so that no straining under the influence of the current of electricity could threw the body into ugly contortions or move it from the position in which the two electrodes pressed against it and formed the circuit through which the current from the dynamos would be playing. His legs were quickly strapped to the legs of the chair.

The last straps to be put in place were the ones across the face. They were belts rather than straps. One was drawn across the beard of the prisoner and partly over his mouth, but not so far as to prevent speech.

The other was fastened over his eyes and pressed down over his nose.

The Part Played by the Figure 4

When the straps were all in place the figure "4" shown in his head was loosened and brought down so that the electrode fastened to the end of it at the base of coil spring rung in front of his forehead. When the sponge in the electrode was adjusted the figure "4" was clamped in place and the electrode was fastened in position by a strap passing about the head. Then the second electrode was put in place. It was very like the first, a copper brass band with a sponge stretched to fit under salt. The right leg of the prisoner's trousers had been split up the side, so that the electrode could be bound to the calf of the leg. It was fastened in place. Two wires representing the negative pole was attached to it at the back by a small thumb screw of brass. The wire ran down through the floor to the other execution's chest, to the wall to which it was fastened. The wire from the figure "4" hung from a curved rod extending over the top of the chest and hanging above the prisoner's head. The prisoner had no word during these preparations, but went through them solemnly, giving the deputy warden no assistance as he could by placing his arms and legs in a loosened position as they were located. Dr. McDonald, who was in full charge of the scientific features of the execution, stood directly behind the chair as the preparations were completed. Close to the accident doctor's right hand stood a bucket of salt water in his hand. It was a long necked one with a handle on the side, such as usually engineers for oiling. With it he wet the sponges of the two electrodes. The preparations consumed only two or three minutes. When everything was in play Dr. Daniel and Dr. Southwick took over the straps. As the doctors finished their quick inspection of the straps they nodded to Dr. McDonald.

The Signal of Death

He stood just behind the chair, a stop watch in one hand, a white handkerchief in the other. The handkerchief fell from his hand and fluttered to the ground. Three feet away from him stood Electrician Davis with his hand on a switch controlling the death current. He was the expert of the outfit, and it was for a war when the current would first flow. At the electric current into the circuit passing through the executioner's body. The timing on of this current was in charge of the unknown executioner within the chest. He stood with his right hand on the switch ready to throw on the current. Dr. McDonald held his watch in his left hand, his right hand resting on the shoulder of the executioner. Every eye was fixed on the doctor's watch. Every ear was strained to catch the signal. Every nerve was at stretching tension. Every edge pressed deep into the yielding flesh of the face and gripped the clothing tightly. The expression of the face was lost under the broad bands drawn across the eyes, nose and chin, but the skin exposed to view turned a purple red as they started forward. The spectators drew about the chair, standing on the rubber mats for safety, and the physicians compared notes on the physical phenomena presented. Dr. McDonald fixed his eyes on the stop watch in his hand and watched it tick off minute fractions of seconds. When it marked 30 seconds he nodded to Electrician Davis, who stood with his hand still on the switch waiting for the signal. It had been decided that to wait for the executioner in the chest to respond to a signal to stop would mean a loss of time which would make the duration of the current uncertain and destroy some of the scientific value of the experiment, so the electrical apparatus had been so constructed that when the current was turned on the exact circuit it would be thrown out of both the chair and the executioner's chest by the operation of Electrician Davis' lever. So when Dr. McDonald nodded the electrician threw the switch but across the board and the current ceased to flow through the apparatus of death. The effect on the body of Slocum was almost instantaneous. From a position of great muscular activity it suddenly subsided in hollow-chested collapse. Instead of straining against the straps it hung against them limp and unsteady.

The Experiment a Success

A moment of uncertainty followed. Would the dead man appear to revive as Kemmler had done? Would his chest heave and his lips give forth the sound of breathing? The experts at Auburn had said that the current turned on Kemmler was too weak that it had been turned off too soon. Through the body a steady current of 1600 volts, twice the strength of the average current that passed through Kemmler's body, had been running. It had been on for 25 seconds, 5 seconds longer than the current in the Kemmler case. Would the man move or would he give the sickening suggestions of returning life that had horrified the spectators at Auburn? The seconds passed slowly—how many of them is not known—but in less than a minute there came between the lips of the pallid face hanging in the death harness a rush of air which whistled between the half-clenched teeth and ended in a half sigh, half groan. Only once did the lungs seem to contract. Quickly as Dr. McDonald could raise his hand to give the signal the electrician threw the switch, the electric current rushed through the death circuit and the body in the chair stiffened again against the straps. The time of the contact was not made public. Dr. McDonald has the record of it. The stop-watch did not regulate the length of the contact this time.

The Body Began to Smoke.

The same unhappy event that brought the Kemmler execution to a close made a sudden end of Slocum's experience in the death chair. The skin and flesh of the leg, and almost immediately afterwards the skin of the forehead, began to smoke. Dr. McDonald again signaled the electrician to turn the switch. The current was withdrawn and instantly the body collapsed again. This time there was no response from the muscles. The figure hung silent and motionless in the straps. There was no doubt that Slocum was dead. The electrician had signalled the engine and dynamo to stop and the whirring sound that had sounded so clearly to the waiting ears of the watchers through the silent morning air had died away.

The warden's assistants stepped forward and loosened the electrodes. One by one the straps which confined the body to the chair were unbuckled. Unlike those of Kemmler Slocum's remains were so limp that they would have slipped from the chair, as the last strap was unfastened, had not the attendants held them in place. Kemmler's ghastly remains sat upright chair when the straps were removed and glared into the face of the execution chamber. Slocum's remains were carried to the adjoining apartment, where they were laid on a long table for the autopsy. While the body was being removed the witnesses discussed correctly the singularity which his execution bore to the Kemmler case, a singularity which seemed to relieve the latter execution of the odium of bungling which it had suffered in the minds of many.

Another Wire Accident.

Another delay was caused in making preparations for Jugigo's execution. The executioner was called upon to repair one of the wires, as Maggie Digman, one of his three wives, on April 28th, had been attended by Dr. Lewis Balloch of the state prison ever since his confinement, and this morning the Rev. Mr. Lowe attended him in company with the chaplain. The cell was next to the cell of Jugigo. The salmon Slocum the warden had chosen for Wood, but in front of all the condemned men's cells iron screens had been drawn so that none of them could see before him which of the others had been summoned. The warden passed around the corridor which shut in Jugigo and summoned Smiler. He came out of his cell step and emerged only supported by Mr. Edgerton on the one side, Lowe on the other. He betrayed no fear as he faced the witnesses in the execution chamber and looked for the first time upon the death chair. Like Slocum he stepped forward with submission and seated himself, placing his hands on the arms of the chair and waiting for the attendants to bind him. He had an offer to make any final speech. Unlike Slocum, none of the four men made any final remarks.

The attendants were at once seized with the straps again. Smiler sat calmly looking about him while the bandage was drawn across his eyes. Again the straps and buckles were inspected and again approved. Again the executioner's head fell, the electrician threw his switch, and in a moment more the straps tightened under the straining of taut muscles as the electric current shot through the body. The second in this case, as in Kemmler, with terrible consciousness. The second in each of the cases the current was turned off but only for a space sufficient of the man in mechanic began to come and the current was turned on once more. As in the case of Slocum it burned the flesh. Then it was shut again and after a delay which showed there was no chance of a revival the body was inspected and taken to the autopsy room.

The Third to Die.

Wood, the colored man, who killed Charles Rankin, his colored, a fellow employee on the New York aqueduct, was third to be executed. He came willingly, accompanied by the two priests and went through the ordeal bravely with substantially the same results. The only difference in the arrangement of his case was the attaching of the negative electrode to the left leg instead of the right. The reason for this change was that there was an ulcerated sore on the right leg at the calf. The first contact in Wood's case as in others did not seem to be fatal and it needed a second, and this was continued until the flesh was singed. To relieve the physicians of the necessity of pronouncing the fatal moment, one of the

A Travelling Dairy.

Useful Innovation Made by the Ontario Government—Professor Dean's Work Begun Practical Instruction in the Art of Butter Making.

To the Honourable John Dryden, our enterprising minister of agriculture, belongs the honor of conceiving the idea of sending a travelling dairy through this province to give farmers, their wives and families practical instruction in butter making. For this purpose Mr. Dryden asked a small sum of money from the legislature during its last session in March, and since that time he has given the matter a good deal of thought and attention.

PROGRAMME OF MEETINGS.

The work of arranging the programme of meetings and carrying out the many details necessary to ensure success was entrusted to President Mills, who six years ago organized the Farmers' Institutes of this province which he has ever since arranged and carried on yearly with great success. President Mills undertook this work with his usual determination and made such satisfactory arrangements that the Travelling Dairy bids fair to be a grand success and prove of incalculable benefit to those farmers who attend the meetings held in their district.

NO COMPETITION WITH CREAMERIES.

The honorable minister does not wish to do anything either in opposition to or in competition with our creameries or cheese factories. His desire is rather to encourage the factories and creameries by every legitimate means in his power, believing as he does that we must have a large quantity of a high and uniform quality of butter before we can satisfy the demands of the British market. His object in connection with the Travelling Dairy is to assist the farmers and their wives to make good butter for their own use, and for the local market; to instruct them in the feeding of cows; the handling and testing of milk, the handling and skimming of cream, the working and packing of butter, etc., in a word to assist them as far as possible by simple object lessons and lectures to make butter which will command the highest price in any market, thus proving a source of profit to those who handle it and a constant delight to the travelling public, who are now compelled to eat so much poor butter.

PERSONS INTERESTED.

Farmers and their families, country storekeepers, in fact every inhabitant of every city, town and village, who ever buys or uses a pound of butter. The demand for a high quality of butter is ever on the increase. It remains with the farmer to make good butter to suit the popular taste.

Mr. Dean, professor of dairying at the Ontario Agricultural College, who, by the way, is a graduate of that institution, will take a leading part at all the meetings. Prof. Dean has a thorough knowledge of dairying, is a fluent and popular speaker, and a man well fitted to stimulate farmers to be more careful and systematic in their work. He will be accompanied by Mr. S. F. Brown and N. J. Palmer, B.S.A. Mr. Brown is both a scientific and practical buttermaker; finishing his course at the O. A. C. three years ago, he then moved to the dairy state of Wisconsin, where he assisted in the management of a dairy farm, and latterly has had charge of the experimental department of the O. A. C. dairy, where he has made an excellent quality of butter.

Mr. Palmer, a graduate of the college this year, who has since been giving special attention to butter making, and the management of milk and cream, will assist Prof. Dean and take notes of the proceedings at all the different meetings.

OUTFIT FOR THE WORK.

The appliances for the Travelling Dairy consist of a twenty bottle Babcock milk tester, for testing samples of milk furnished by any who desire to know the quality of their cows' milk; a No. 2 daisy churn, a lever for the worker, cream can, setting cans, thermometer and other utensils necessary for successful butter making. Four or five gallons of cream and some ice are required for each meeting. This is arranged for ahead, and supplied by some one near at hand who after the meeting is over gets the butter in return for the cream.

FIRST MEETING.

The first meeting was held at Islington on Tuesday June 30th, and proved a success in every way. Islington is a thriving village on the C. P. R. about ten miles west of Toronto, the centre of a rich agricultural country and surrounded by prosperous farmers some of whom have private families, but most of them ship their milk directly to Toronto. The town hall having been engaged for the occasion, proceedings commenced about 9 30 a.m. There was a good attendance, not a few ladies being present. The chairman opened the meeting with a short address, introducing Prof. Dean, who, being called, addressed the audience. He was glad to see so many intelligent ladies and gentlemen present. He always liked to address the cream of the farmers. He then briefly described the object for which the Travelling Dairy was instituted, viz., to stimulate the farmers to make better butter for the local markets. One great difficulty that farmers have to contend with is that the price of the articles they sell is fixed, and also the price of those they buy. Under these conditions we must first ascertain the cost of production, and second, produce a better article. At the present rate of progress Canada may supply nearly the whole British market with butter and cheese. To do this, however, we must produce a first class article. Prof. Dean showed by means of a chart the amount of fertilizing material taken from a farm by the sale of grain as compared with dairy products, after which he dwelt at length on the care of milk and cream for buttermaking.

DISCUSSION.

Question. When new milk is worth 10c. per gallon, what is skim milk worth per 100 lbs. for feed?

Prof. Dean—20 to 25c. per 100 lbs.

Q. Is ensilage injurious to cows when fed in large quantities?

Prof. Dean—No, not if the ensilage is well made and not too sour. We fed our cows at the College Dairy last winter 50 lbs. ensilage, 5 lbs. bran, 5 lbs. clover hay per day.

Mr. Corydon—I have fed as high as 90 lbs. per head per day with no injurious effects.

Q. What is your ration, Mr. Agar?

Mr. Agar—3 gals. equal parts oats and pea meal, 40 lbs. clover hay, ½ bush. mangels per day.

Mr. Wood—I feed 1 bushel cut oat straw and clover hay equal parts, ½ bush. pulped mangels, 4 qts equal parts pea meal and bran morning and evening, with one bushel cut hay and straw at noon.

A voice—I feed only twice a day.

Q. Do you recommend brewer's grain for milk cows?

Prof. Dean—No, unless it is fresh, and then only in small quantities.

Q. What causes ensilage to become sour?

Prof. Dean—Organisms floating about in the air attack the corn when put into the silo, changing the plant sugar to acid.

Q. Is under ripe corn more apt to make sour silage than that more matured?

Prof. Dean—Yes; matured corn is not so susceptible to the attacks of these organisms as younger corn.

Q. If it takes 20 lbs. of milk on an average to make one pound of butter at 25 cents, is there not more money either in cheese at 9 cents per pound, or in milk for consumption at 10 cents per gallon?

Prof. Dean—Yes; more direct cash as 20 lbs. milk made into butter is worth 25 cents, while made into cheese at 9 cents per pound would be worth about 27 cents, or sold directly to the consumer would bring 20 cents. But in butter making the skim milk is retained, which has a large feeding value and contains valuable plant food.

MAKING THE BUTTER.

While this discussion was going on Mr. Brown was churning and soon had the butter ready for inspection in the churn which, after being examined by all who desired, was washed thoroughly, then taken out, salted, worked and made into neat prints, which were greatly admired by those present.

Fifteen samples of milk supplied by different farmers were then tested with the Babcock tester, which also proved satisfactory. The percentage of fat found in the different samples was as follows:

(1) 3.5%	(6) 3.4%	(11) 3 1
(2) 3.4	(7) 3 4	(12) 3.5
(3) 3.5	(8) 3 4	(13) 3.0
(4) 3 4	(9) 4 4	(14) 4.2
(5) 3.3	(10) 3 8	(15) 3 2

All the different dairy utensils were then shown and their use explained, after which the meeting broke up, all expressing themselves as highly satisfied with what they heard and saw. Although this meeting lasted for over three hours the interest was sustained until the close.

Presentation at the Cheese Board.

The President and Late Secretary Handsomely Remembered—A Large Board of Trade—Prices.

The usual business monotony of cheese board meetings was ruffled on Tuesday by an event which was the first of the kind in the history of the Board. This was the presentation to the late secretary, Mr. Warren Taylor, and the President, Mr. J. M. Drummond, of flattering addresses and handsome testimonials to the personal worth of these gentlemen and the value of their services to the cheese industry of this district. Before the business began Mr. Thos. Blezzard, M.P.P., came forward and said he had a very pleasant duty to perform. Buyers and sellers alike felt proud of the eminent position to which the Peterborough Board had attained, for which the chief credit was due to their president and late secretary, who had worked long and faithfully in the interests of the Board. The Board felt deeply indebted to these gentlemen and would show its appreciation of their services in this practical way.

Mr. M. E. Sanderson, recording clerk of the Board, then called Mr. Drummond and Mr. Taylor forward, but the latter being absent he was represented by Mr. Samuel Edwards, the present secretary and salesman representing the same factotory as Mr. Taylor is connected with. With Mr. Moloney, of Douro, on their right, and Mr. Stewart, of Otonabee on their left, Mr. Drummond and Mr. Edwards took their seats and Mr. Sanderson read the following address:—

To Messrs. W. Taylor and J. M. Drummond:

GENTLEMEN,—We, the members of the Peterborough Cheese Board, take advantage of Mr. Taylor's retirement from the duties of Secretary, which he has efficiently and faithfully performed almost since the organization of the Board, to recognize the value of, not only his services, but also of those of Mr. Drummond, who has for ten years consecutively, most ably and devotedly performed the duties of President. We desire to bear unanimous testimony to the zeal, earnestness and ability which you have shown in promoting both the interests of this Board and the interests of the cheese trade in this district and at large.

We have always found you at the post of duty, always courteous and obliging, yet always anxious to protect the interests of the Board.

Therefore we would take this opportunity of showing you in some tangible manner our appreciation of your services and our respect for you as gentlemen and fellow members. In token whereof we beg the acceptance, by Mr. Taylor, of this gold-headed cane, and the acceptance by Mr. Drummond, of this gold watch chain and fob, coupled with the wish for both of you of many years of prosperous and useful life.

Signed on behalf of the Board,

THOS. JOHNSTON, M. E. SANDERSON,
SAMUEL EDWARDS, JNO. MOLONEY,
JOHN S. CREES, GEO. STEWART.

Mr. Moloney presented Mr. Drummond with the rich and beautiful watch chain, and Mr. Stewart handed Mr. Edward the cane, a very handsome ebony gold headed stick. They were accompanied by printed copies of of the address on cardboard.

Mr. Drummond, briefly expressed his thanks, saying also that he felt all the credit should go to Mr. Taylor, who was the father of the Board and had fought for it all through. He was glad to see the patrons sticking to the Board, making their task as officers very light. They all felt proud of the Peterborough Board, which was one of the best in the Dominion, and he hoped they would all be spared to meet often together for business.

Mr. Edwards replied in behalf of Mr. Taylor, who he felt sure would highly appreciate the gift.

Bidding then began on the Board of 5 449 boxes offered, last half of June make. The Board was as follows:—

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an

HOW TO HANDLE A BOAT

EDWARD HANLAN GIVES HIS EXPERIENCE AND OPINIONS.

The Great Oarsman Tells Boys How to Train and How to Row a Boat—A Valuable Contribution to the Literature of Athletic Science.

CAN give no better advice to boys and amateur oarsmen, as to how they should row or train for a sculling race, than to tell my early experiences and the regimen and rules of exercise I followed to get myself into condition. In 1872 I began life as an oarsman. Like all beginners, I put myself into the hands of a trainer. I had the idea that training meant tearing yourself to pieces with exhausting work and literal starvation, and this seemed to be my trainer's idea, and for a long time I was foolish enough to follow his methods. After he had got my system into much worse trim than it was before I began to train, I rebelled, and since that time I have followed my own ideas regarding training, with the result that instead of breaking down at the end of five or six years, absolutely unable to row a decent speed, I am physically as capable as I was in my early life

The Best Method of Training.

After I had begun my own training, my ideas regarding this important part of rowing matters underwent a complete change. Instead of starving myself and doing hard work I built up my constitution by light work and eating what my system craved in the way of more substantial food. When I am in training I eat what I desire excepting, of course, condiments and other indigestibles. The first thing to do in training is to get the blood in condition. Any physician will give you medicine that will cleanse the blood by regulating the stomach and liver. When these organs are in good conditions, the rest is easy.

It is difficult to prescribe proper training to suit everybody. All beginners are not constituted alike. Food for one youth would be gall for another. No two men are alike in their habits or desires. The first thing to do when a young man decides to prepare for the sliding seat is to study his own constitution well. He ought to understand the cravings of his stomach first and last of all. If his stomach fails him, that settles him. There are hundreds of athletes who put themselves in excellent condition on two meals a day. I would not advise any beginner to try this plan unless he feels certain he can stand it. There must be moderation in food, as there must be moderation in exercise. But the youth who starts out with the idea that he must starve himself to get into condition, will come to disaster. Nourishing food, no matter how much, if well digested, is what every beginner wants if he would put himself in good physical shape. It makes but little difference when the food is taken, providing it be taken at the usual time. A good breakfast for a lad in training can be had of oatmeal porridge, cracked wheat, brown bread and butter, a steak or chop and a little fruit. Drink cold water, if necessary, but it is better to drink nothing at all while eating. For dinner, which should never be eaten after 6:30 P. M., a piece of beef or mutton, as large a your hand, with potatoes and other vegetable and brown bread. Don't eat too much, and never touch dessert, except it be fruit. Always drink one or two tumblers of water on going to bed and upon rising in the morning. Never forget to take a nap of an hour or two in the middle of the day. Many cannot do this, but it is of a lasting benefit to a man in training. Get at least nine hours' rest at night. Avoid warm drinks as your would a plague. Tea or coffee are specially injurious to many, just as cold water and pure cream are helpful to all. Salt, pepper, spice, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and mustard are all hurtful, and, if used at all, should be used with great moderation. How true is Rousseau's saying: "The stronger the body, the more it obeys; the weaker the body, the more it commands." To be trained too much or too fine, as the saying goes, is worse a hundred times than no training at all.

Professional trainers invariably give the beginner too much to do. They will make him do the most absurd things, which in the end pull the lad down so fine as to make him as weak as a kitten. It will take a trainer a full year to understand a man's constitution; and, in the meantime, he will probably butcher him physically. That is why I claim it to be a great risk to put yourself in charge of a man whose method of training may not suit your constitution at all.

If the young man who starts out to train and row uses whisky and tobacco, he must break himself of both habits. These habits are positively injurious to a good sculler.

How I Train Myself.

I will give you a short account of how I train myself. I arise at six or half-past six, walk one mile, running perhaps two hundred yards at a stiff speed, sufficiently to get my wind. Then I return and take a light shower-bath, after which my man rubs me down with flesh gloves, rubbing in all directions. Afterwards he goes over me with his hands and then fans me dry with a towel. I then rest for twenty minutes before sitting down to breakfast. I eat for this meal some fruit and a small steak, and drink a glass of milk and cream. After sitting around for an hour, I go for a two or three miles walk. Then I go to my boat-house and am rubbed down. After this I take a spin over the course, rowing from twenty-six to thirty two strokes a minute. This is simply an exercise row. The rubbing process is gone over again when I return. For dinner, I have roast beef or mutton, sometimes a fowl, with vegetables. I rest until half past two, take a walk, and then go for another exercise row. Once or twice a week I take a "spectator" over the course. One thing amateurs should bear in mind, never leave your race on the river, that is, never row six races a week before the day of the race comes. It stands to reason that no man can row as hard as he is able, each day, and be in better condition the day of the race than when he began training. More races have been lost by "leaving the race on the river" than I can name.

The Best Style of Rowing.

As to style of rowing. In 1876 I entered my first great race and won it. When I arrived at Philadelphia there were assembled all the great oarsmen in the world. I became a laughing-stock for them because of my style of rowing and my rigging. The prevailing rigging for sculls then was the eight-inch sliding seat, outriggers not less than five inches long, with blades five-and-a-half inches wide, and foot-board having an angle of twenty degrees. I went there with twenty-six inch sliding-seat, nine-and-a-half foot oars, with 4x and-a-half-inch blades, and an angular foot-brace at a forty-degree angle. I was, indeed, the laughing-stock of all the oarsmen. When the race came off I won by several lengths. Since then, this rigging has advanced the speed of racing a minute a mile. I then went to England, and they laughed there; but I beat them out of sight. All England then used my rigging. I met Trickett in England and won $500,000 for my friends on this race. Then I defeated Laycock in the same way. I then went to Australia and was defeated by Beach through a collision with a steamer. The Australian climate undermined my constitution, and I was defeated several times there, but I could never get the Australians to meet me in neutral waters.

A Remedy For Uneven Chances.

I think there ought to be a mechanic's amateur race for workingmen, who have got to work at out-door exercise. I do not think that where a fellow is confined to the office from ten o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon, that he has the chances or the constitution that a man possesses who is out in the open air from seven o'clock in the morning until six at night, inhaling the fresh air wherever he is; and for this reason I think there should be a mechanic's amateur race and a gentleman's amateur race in all the different associations of amateur oarsmen in this country. Young fellows in banks and clerks in a store have not got the chance to compete with men who do that physical work of which I have just spoken. I find also in the four-oared crews of this country, they are not seated, as a rule, rightly. In four crews out of every six you will see a tremendous, heavy, strong, able-bodied man, perhaps weighing one hundred and ninety or two hundred pounds, at the stroke of the boat; and the next man to him will weigh about one hundred and sixty or one hundred and sixty-five. Number two will weigh about one hundred and forty, and the poor little fellow at the end one hundred and twenty-five pounds. This way of seating the men in the boat is not correct. The men should be as nearly equal in weight as possible, and the heaviest man, if any, should be placed in the centre of the boat. Yet I believe in having the best man at the stroke, if it is possible to get him. Wherever there are four men, and no great difference in the rowing, the two heaviest men should be in the centre of the boat, and the lightweights at each end.

(To be Continued.)

A Romance.

She was fair—and my passion begun!
She smiled—and I could not but love!
But when from afar I detected catarrh,
No beauty my passion could move!

In despair she sought doctors in vain,
Till she learned of "Humanity's boon;"
Now her breath is as sweet as the dew
Which falls upon roses in June.

To night as we sit in our home,
And I kiss her sweet lips o'er and o'er,
We bless Dr. Sage in our bliss,
For the joy that he brought to our door.

There is no disease more trying to friendship than catarrh! The constant effort to clear the throat and nose, the foul breath, all the features of the disease, make it as much dreaded by the friend as by the victim. Humanity has cause to bless Dr. Sage for his "Catarrh Remedy." The manufacturers offer to forfeit $500 for any case they cannot cure. o

For the cure of female weakness, suppressions, nervousness, bearing down pains and all those peculiar ailments that make woman's life almost unbearable, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and bring a glow of health to sallow cheeks. All dealers, or by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Everybody Likes It.

Wm. Dredge, Eilen street, Barrie, Ont., says: One bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil brought back appetite which other Emulsions away; removed cough entirely, and gained five pounds. It tastes just like cream, the oil being perfectly disguised. Sold by all druggists. dw

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose. Try them. dw

The Best Life Policy.

It's not the Tontine plan, or Endowment plan, or Ten Years' Renewable Plan. It's not adding your few dollars to the hundreds of millions that the insurance companies boast of. Its a better investment than any of those. It's investing a few dollars in that standard remedy, the "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung troubles. s

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

For Many Years.

We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for many years in our family and find it an excellent medicine for all forms of summer complaint. John A. Valens, Valens, Ont. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Price 35c., sold by all dealers. dw

Worth Nearly a Million.

A million dollars in gold is considered a large sum, but when a man is doubled up with rheumatism, until life is a burden, Royal Rheumatic Remedy is worth more than his gold. It relieves him of pain and gives him a new lease of life. dw

EVERYBODY ADMIRES SOFT, WHITE HANDS.—And every lady ought to use Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses, as it makes the skin soft and smooth. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6-4

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them. dw

Occasional doses of a good cathartic like Burdock Blood Bitters are necessary to keep the blood pure and body healthy. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you want to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The Street Railway Matter

The committee of the council to whom was referred the matter of the two applications for a street railway franchise, Messrs. Hall, Moore, Lyngford, Cahill and Davidson, met last night and gave the matter due consideration, and to secure further information to enable them to deal intelligently with the matter, it will be necessary to visit some place where electric street railways are actually in operation. Accordingly, it is expected that two of the members of the committee will go to Ottawa this evening to begin the investigation.

40 and 50 Cents.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. 1d1w

The Parnellite Candidate Crushed.

The McCarthy Candidate Captures Carlow

(Special Cablegram to the Examiner.)

DUBLIN, July 8.—The election in Carlow yesterday for successor in parliament to the late O'Gorman Mahon resulted in a crushing defeated for the Parnellite candidate Hammond the McCarthyite candidate receiving 3,755 votes while Kittle, Parnellite, received only 1539.

"Excuse me, George, but when I saw you a year ago, your face was covered with pimples; it seems to be all right now." "Yes, sir; that's because I stuck to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood medicine in the world. I never so well in my life as I am now."

School Estimates Brought Down.

An Increase of More than $600 Over Last Year—$13,387 Required From the Town—More Books for the Library.

At the meeting of the School Board Tuesday evening there were present Mr. Chairman Wrigston and Messrs. Barnham, Hill, Denne, McKee, Ferguson, Hamilton Corkery, Bradburn, McBain and Dumble.

The minutes being read, Dr. Burnham objected to their being adopted as the last special meeting was, he said, illegal. The bylaws required notice being given for these meetings at least one day previously, whereas the last meeting was called only in the forenoon of the day on which it was held. In consequence he had not been able to attend. Mr. Denne seconded the motion.

Mr. Chairman WRIGSTON said he called the meeting as soon as requested by several members of the Board, and the meeting could not conveniently be delayed. At any rate it was simply a rule of the Board concerning the time of notice, and might be evaded if found convenient.

Dr. BURNHAM enquired if the water had been put in the West Ward School.

Mr. DUMBLE said it had not, but he understood it was because the Water Company was so hard pressed with work just now. It would be put in as soon as possible.

Mr. HILL complained that the Property Committee had not carried out its instructions to have the West Ward school closets cleaned.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following report of fees was read:—Collegiate Institute $150; Public School for May $21; for June $16 50; Kindergarten $14.

Total	$ 18,387 00

Dr. BURNHAM further stated that last year the demand was $17,309, some $878 less than this year, but during the present year the Board had been put to extra expense, for instance a new teacher in the Collegiate Institute and other things. The bill for repairs alone was $1500, of which $1,180 had already been spent.

The estimates were adopted.

CONTRACTS LET.

Mr. Bradburn read the report of the Building Committee as follows:

GENTLEMEN.—Your Building Committee beg to report that having advertised for tenders for the excavation required for the new school, they received four, and that they have accepted the tender of Messrs. Mather & Renwick, it being the lowest received—price $120 for plans and specifications and 20c. per yard for extra.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

Mr. Dumble reported receipts from the school entertainment in the market building to have been between $46 and $47.

MORE BOOKS FOR THE LIBRARY.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Hill, that $100 be appropriated for the purchase of standard English authors for the library of the Institute, the books to be purchased on the recommendation of the principal of the Collegiate Institute and the committee on Supervision.

Dr. Burnham moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Denne, that each pupil be charged a fee for the use of the books to be purchased by this Board, such fee to be fixed by the Supervision Committee.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

The Board then adjourned.

News Nuggets.

—The Orangemen of the town will attend a special service in the George street Methodist church Sunday evening next at 4 o'clock.

—The band played in the park for a short time last evening. There was quite a large crowd present.

—The worst cases of scrofula, salt rheum and other diseases of the blood, and cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Help the Band.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I saw a notice some time ago in your paper about saxaphones for our band. Now, sir, I think that the citizens should take this matter up in earnest and see that the band gets them at once. When we think of the time and trouble every bandsmen has to put in during the year—rehearsals twice or thrice a week all the year round—to make themselves proficient, so as to be able to give us such grand concerts as they do during the summer months in our beautiful little park, we surely should try and give them the unanimous support that they deserve. I am sure all those who had the pleasure of listening to our band as they left for Ottawa the other evening must have felt proud of such an organization. I think it was the best balanced band that ever left Peterborough. Who will be the first to take this matter up and raise the necessary funds to purchase the instruments required by our band? I will contribute my share.

The buyers present were Messrs. Cook, Cluxton, Hodgson, Flavelle, Wrighton and Fitzgerald. Liverpool quotations were 43s.

Mr. Cook started off with a bid of 8s. for the board, Mr. Cluxton advancing to ½ for the Peterborough board and Mr. Fitzgerald to ¼ for selections, Mr. Cluxton to ⅜ for the same, Mr. Cook to the ½ and Mr. Cluxton the same figure for the board. Mr. Cook farther raised a sixteenth for the Peterborough board, and Mr. Cluxton again advanced one eighth for selections, and at 8 11/16 took Keene, Cherry Grove and Pine Grove. He then offered 8¾ for the balance, Mr. Cook going a sixteenth better and Mr. Cluxton advancing to 8⅞ for further selections, at which figure there was knocked down to him Warminster, Ormonde and Lakefield. Mr. Cook then offered 8¾ for the balance of Peterborough section and selections from Victoria section. Mr. Cluxton bid 8⅞ for selections and Mr. Cook 8¾ for the same, taking Shearer, Central Smith, Warsaw, Westwood, Oakdale, Missing Link Norwood, Melrose Abbey and Peterborough. Mr. Fitzgerald offered 8¾ for further selections, Mr. Cook going a sixteenth better, and Mr. Cluxton advancing to 8⅞, Mr. Cook 8 1/16 and Mr. Cluxton to 8¼, and at this figure he took Brickley, Bobcaygeon, Mariposa, Cambray, Scotch Line, Dunsford and Maple Leaf. Mr. Fitzgerald's bid of 8¼ for further selections was followed by the same offer by Mr. Cook for the whole board, and all the unsold factories accepted except Rosseneath, Fenelon Falls, Lorneville, Minden, Stanhope, Kirkfield and North Brook.

CAVAN DRAIN.—This gigantic scheme, incorporated in a township bylaw, was quashed by the Judge of the Civil Pleas Division Court. Soothsayers had predicted such a fate, but the council, I suppose, had no faith in the mystic prophecy. However, that may be, we have, as a municipality, the costs of this extensive muddle to settle. It is useless to speak of the many pros. and cons. of the drain, but we cannot but sigh when we think of the expenditure of as much money in costs as would have almost built one of our roads through the swamp.

100 Doses One Dollar

An Exciting Chase.

Since the "Cruiser" has been lengthened twenty feet and a brass new name has been awarded to her, and the machinery of the "Mary Ellen" has been placed six feet towards her stern, it has been a subject of discussion as to which of the two is now the faster boat. Even $100 to $50 has been talked of by sports as fair stakes to be put up as backing for their respective favorites. On Tuesday the 30th, both steamers were locked together at Young's Point. The "Golden City" passed out first the "Mary Ellen" followed having about two boat lengths and a half between them. Clearing the river both put on a spurt. A funeral procession on the road was passing and from those who attended it, we have the following:—It was evident that both boats were doing their best, the black smoke arose from the stacks, steam poured from the funnels, and the contest was very hot, keen and exciting. We who have read of the Naval combat between the Kearsage and Alabama, could in some measure compare the struggle. At Red Rock the "Mary Ellen" had gained enough to bring her nose close to her rival's flanks. Another cloud of smoke arose; some said it smelt as though coal oil was being used, others thought pork was being burned—but no, both boats were burning slabs, and slabs only. See now "Mary" has overtaken and is running fairly abreast of the "City," and both hold their own and are doing their level best. And so for five miles the chase was kept up; now they approach each other, salute, and veer off, the "City" to starboard and the "Mary" to port. It is suggested that a grand regatta be gotten up between the two boats, each boat to carry a limited number of passengers, while the "Sunbeam" carry a crowd of spectators, and the "Undine" carry the umpire. For tickets, see posters and handbills.

A STORMY PASSAGE.

A CANADIAN LINER IN THE TROUGH OF THE SEA.

The Beaver Line Steamship Lake Superior Dismantled—Her Passengers Terrified and Lose all Their Effects—One Man Maimed for Life.

MONTREAL, July 7.—The Beaver Line steamship Lake Superior, Captain Stewart from Liverpool, Friday, June 26, got into port this afternoon. The Lake Superior had come through a frightful hurricane which even in the dead of winter has not often been surpassed in violence. Thirty-three saloon, 25 intermediate and 134 steerage passengers were on board. On Saturday afternoon a southeasterly gale sprang up and increased in fury as the hours wore on until on Sunday morning, about 8 o'clock, it was blowing as a terrible hurricane. Waves lashed over the decks, sweeping every loose article overboard, and the coal cargo shifted twice in the midst of the storm, and the boat listed amid the cries of the frightened passengers. A cattleman named Cyrus Gracie had occasion to go along the forecastle deck. Before he had gone a few feet the ship gave a sudden dip, and a barrel of oil came rolling along, jamming Gracie among a quantity of lumber and smashing his leg almost into a pulp. A heavy sea then struck the ship, tearing open a port, and hundreds of tons of water rushed into the hold. The water was with difficulty bailed out and the ship saved. The damage caused by the hurricane was frightful. The passengers lost nearly all their belongings and the steerage passengers especially suffered severely. The hurricane lasted for nearly three days.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Debate on the Budget Continued—A Question of Privilege.

OTTAWA, July 7.—In the House this afternoon Mr. Laurier, rising to a question of privilege, said that the instructions given the Minister of Public Works to bring down all the original papers in connection with the Kingston graving dock had not been fulfilled. He repeated the order was not fulfilled. The Minister promised to bring all these papers without restriction. Mr. Mulock had asked for all the tenders. The Bancroft tender was produced, but not the Larkin-Connolly tender. This was unfortunate, because he had no hesitation in saying on his responsibility as a member of the House that the Bancroft tender was signed in the handwriting of Michael Connolly. He knew Michael Connolly's writing perfectly well, because as counsel for Mr. Tarte last summer he had over 50 of Connolly's letters in his hand. He also read a letter to Mr. Gobeil, secretary of the department, dated Russell House, Ottawa April 4, 1889, signed A. C. Bancroft, saying he had entered into an agreement with Larkin, Connolly & Co., whom he had pleasure in recommending as a reliable firm. This letter, he had no hesitation in saying, was in the handwriting of Michael Connolly. It was therefore all the more important that all the tenders should be brought down. He would make no charge now, but it was evident that there was a gross fraud on the department. He insisted on the production of the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Sir Hector Langevin said he thought all the papers had been brought down, but he would at once write to his deputy to send all the original tenders.

Mr. Tarte asked the Minister to bring down the Bancroft check.

Sir Hector Langevin said he could not produce the check because the custom is for the finance department to cash the check when the contract is signed and keep the money.

Mr. Tarte: "Did the Minister ever see Bancroft?" [Cries of "Order, order."]

Sir Hector Langevin said the question was not a fair one. He would bring down all the papers in connection with the contract.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked if the Government would bring down a list of the shareholders of the Winnipeg & Hudson Bay Railway Company before the bill granting it $80,000 a year was read a third time. It was important to know who they were subsidizing.

Mr. Dewdney said he would inquire whether there was a list.

Dr. Montague resumed the debate on the budget.

The debate was continued by Mr. Charlton.

Mr. Desjardins (L'Islet) moved the adjournment of the debate, which was carried.

Notes.

The bill to incorporate the Whirlpool Bridge Company, which proposes to build a railway near Niagara Falls, was defeated in the Senate to-day.

Mr. Taylor has given notice that he will enquire whether it is the intention of the Government to have a monument of the late Sir John A. Macdonald erected on the parliament grounds at Ottawa. If so, when and where will the same be erected?

Carpenter's bill respecting the St. Catharines & Niagara Central Railway was passed in Railway Committee this morning. This bill provides among other things for the extension of the issue of debentures to $30,000 per mile. A deputation from Toronto will wait upon the Government to-morrow to ask for a subsidy on the road between Hamilton and Toronto.

PANIC IN THE BANQUET HALL.

An Exciting Scene at Windsor Castle—Inspecting the Life Guards.

LONDON, July 7.—After breakfasting with Queen Victoria at Windsor, Emperor William drove to the park, where he watched the musical ride of the Life Guards. The Emperor said it was one of the finest military spectacles he had ever seen.

There was an exciting scene at the royal banquet given at Windsor Castle last night in honor of the Queen's Imperial grandson. A large waterpipe burst in the banquet hall while the Queen was entertaining the Emperor and a party of distinguished guests. The hall was almost flooded with water. It was found necessary to summon the fire brigade, who eventually succeeded in turning the water off.

The Emperor has presented Queen Victoria with a life-size oil painting of himself in the uniform of a British admiral standing on the bridge of a vessel. The picture is surrounded by a gold frame.

TALKS FOR THE FARMER.

TIMELY HINTS OF VALUE TO CANADIAN AGRICULTURISTS.

When and What to Feed the Horse—A Pertinent Query into the Net Returns for Milk Sent to the Factory—Destroying Weeds.

Less hay, for the sake of economy and the benefit of the horse, could be given to most horses. Where hay is the chief ration it makes a severe tax upon the digestive system and disturbs the stomach and makes the horse spiritless and clumsy. This is seen more particularly with farmers' horses. Good horses breeders give but 10 to 12 lbs per day and that in one or two feeds. Horse car transportation companies make a large use of corn and use some oats and bran. Many have a prejudice to corn as it is very heating, but it is the best feed for horses at heavy work. It should be given very sparingly to horses that are only used occasionally. For road horses, nothing is considered equal to oats, which are the most costly food. Horses should be watered before feeding and never immediately afterward, as this causes indigestion and often colic. Three-quarters of the hay and half of the grain ration should be fed at night and hay and grain mixed. A horse does not sleep much and has all night to eat. In the morning give half of the rest of the hay and grain and the other half at noon. Horses that do a good deal of road work do better on two feeds a day and most of that at night. For farm and draft horses a good grain ration is one feed of oats and the rest of corn with a little bran. A valuable food that is much neglected in the East is barley. It is as cheap as corn and much cheaper than oats, while according to the amount of nutriment in it, it is worth $3.38 more per ton to feed than oats. It has nearly the same nutritive ratio as oats and it is strange that it is not used more. In California it is fed a great deal to horses and also in Germany and other foreign countries.

The Net Return.

The net return per 100 lbs. of milk supplied the factory or creamery is a point that every dairy farmer should know. He should insist that full information relating thereto be furnished at the annual meeting. He should also set about ascertaining the cost of producing milk, which is especially important in the development of winter dairying. As a Canada correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman lately pointed out, he (the patron) will then be much more likely to insist that the factory and his herd are both "run right," in order to lengthen as much as possible his line of profit. Putting the six months' summer keep of the average Ontario cow on pasture at $12.60, as ex-Governor Hoard calculated at the Woodstock dairy convention, her 2,700 lbs. of milk at say 70c. per 100 net, would return her owner $6.30 profit. If he let her run idle all winter, that narrow profit margin would soon turn into loss. In various Western Ontario cheese factories the best returns to patrons varies as much as from 64 to 75c. Dairying must be brought down to a business basis, and the sooner the better.—London Farmer's Advocate.

Eggs For Hatching.

It is not by any means a matter of indifference how eggs shall be kept from the time when they are laid until the period of hatching. The shorter the period that intervenes the better. It is a good plan to keep them in some kind of meal, as bran, thoroughly dry, and to stand them on end, the large end downward. The shell on the large end is thin, and therefore easily affected by evaporation or atmospheric influences. The egg should not be laid for any length of time on one side, for then there is danger of injury through the shifting of the membrane partition between the egg substance and the air chamber at the end. Too much attention, however, cannot be given to having the eggs set as early as possible after they are laid. This, more than anything else, ensures success in hatching, where the other conditions are proper. When eggs are sent long distances, it is their age quite as much as anything else that so frequently causes failure. In selecting eggs for hatching, those of good medium size are likely to give results more satisfactory than eggs either very large or very small.

Seasonable Rhymes.

Plump within the pod the peas are,
Currants gleam in garden tracks,
Vessels on the open seas are Ripe with anglomaniacs.
Mejons from the southern states are
Hither hying fast and thick,
In the schools the graduates are Counted ripe enough to pick.

To the seaside now the flirts are
On their summer mission bent,
And the athlete's laundried shirts are Sentenced to retirement.
Feathers dropping from the hen are,
Dogs with muzzles now appear,
And the pedal parts of men are Looking positively cuir.

Now the cholera morbus germs are
Whooping up their season's "biz,"
And the divers brands of worms are Perforating nature's phiz:
Hammocks 'neath the branches swung are,
Fans are flapping fitfully,
Wire doors and windows hung are,
And the iceman ought to be.

Destroying Weeds.

Some weeds ripen early, and unless attention is given to their destruction before harvest, they perfect their seeds and thus prepare material for a fresh crop, either on the same ground or on some other part of the farm where they will be carried in the manure. The contest with weeds will not avail so long as they are allowed to ripen on any part of the farm. The effort in such a case is somewhat like that of a general who gave much attention to the defence of certain portions of the fortifications, while in other parts they were entirely neglected. In such an event but one result is to be looked for, that is, that the enemy would get over the wall. Weed-destruction, to be effective, must be fitful or spasmodic. That determination must be brought to bear upon it which is the outcome of a settled purpose, that means their obliteration, so far as this can be effected to the extent of so breaking their power that they cease to be a potent factor in robbing the farmer of his gains.—Canadian Farm Journal.

Blinders on Young Horses.

Never use a pair of blinders with your young horses. These are the cause of many spoiled horses and serious runaways. They prevent a horse getting a full view of objects that might frighten him and a partial view of a thing is what scares him. There is no beauty in them and they are often of positive injury to the eye. So off with them at once and let your horse have full sight and he will be a better and more trustworthy traveller.

That Summer Young Man.

He is an awfully nice boy, says Ruth Ashmore in The Ladies' Home Journal. He may wear a very gorgeous blazer, and he may talk athletics in the afternoon and sentiment at night, but he is off for a vacation. Won't you just remember that? You are a pretty girl, and a bright girl, and he likes to laugh and talk with you, take you out rowing, teach you to play tennis, and at night sit on the veranda and tell you how a man really can love. All of this is delightful. But will you please be good enough to remember that love worth having does not come in a week or a month, and that in his watch-case there may be the face of a girl whom he loves with all his heart, and whom he thinks about every night before he closes his eyes. You are just part of his vacation; and won't you be wise enough to make him a part of yours? If, when his vacation is over, he should come to your home, what was merely a summer acquaintance may ripen into a friendship. Well, that's another thing. But just for the sunshiny time don't allow yourself to think too much about what the summer young man says or does.

Care of Dish Cloths.

An objectionable habit with many otherwise neat housekeepers is that of keeping the wet dish cloth, sink cloth, or floor cloth in the sink closet. They are often put there half washed, hung in a mass, and sometimes one over the other, or thrown on the floor. They soon become offensive, if not actually rancid, and do much toward making the sink closet a hot-bed of disease germs. They should be well cleansed and rinsed after every using and then hung to dry in a light airy place.

A small folding towel rack, fastened under the sink shelf, or to the lower frame of the sink, so that it may swing under it if the sink be open underneath, will be found convenient for these cloths after they are dried. They will be kept in much better condition here than when [illegible] a best.

THE TUPPER PROPOSALS.

FOR A PLAN OF IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

The Establishment of a Small Preferential Duty Within the Empire The High Commissioners of the Colonies to be Privy Councillors

LONDON, July 8.—Responding to Lord Salisbury's demand for a plan of imperial federation Sir Charles Tupper has submitted to the Council of the Imperial Federation League a series of definite proposals. These embrace the admission of the High Commissioner of Canada, Australia and South Africa to the Imperial Privy Council and the Imperial Cabinet while holding positions in the Federal Cabinets of the respective colonies; also the establishment of a small preferential duty within the empire against foreign goods. This Sir Charles Tupper believes would give the colonies a needed voice in Imperial affairs, and at the same time make the unity of the empire a matter of mutual interest. Sir Charles contends that it is neither prudent nor right to expect the colonies to contribute to an Imperial defence fund in view of what the colonies have done or are doing to strengthen the position of the Empire. In connection with this argument Sir Charles instances Canada's immense outlay to strengthen British interests in North America and the seat in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway and the St. Lawrence canals. The High Commissioner had the honor of submitting these proposals before the largest and most influential meeting the Council of the League ever held. The council unanimously decided to appoint a committee representing all parts of the Empire to consider the proposals and to prepare a definite plan for the federation of the Empire to submit to Lord Salisbury.

The Board of Trade returns show an expanded Anglo-Canadian trade. During the first six months of the current year the exports to Canada reached £2,856,098, an increase of 19½ per cent compared with the same period in 1890. The imports from Canada reached £1,731,909, an increase of 14 per cent. Increases were general throughout the list.

DIAMONDS FOR PERLEY.

Witness Murphy Speculates in Gifts of Jewelry Interior Department Investigation.

OTTAWA, July 8. At the meeting of the Privileges and Elections Committee to-day Mr. Murphy's cross-examination was resumed. Nothing was elicited from the cross-examination. Mr. Geoffrion commenced the direct examination. The witness swore that he was directed by the firm to come to Ottawa on January 24, 1887, with $200 to pay to Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department. Perley refused the cash, but would take a present. Mr. Murphy then paid $100 of this money to a clerk in Perley's office. Then he proceeded to Montreal with the remaining $100, $15 of which he spent on the train. With the balance, $1855, he purchased jewelry from Henry Birks, in St. Francis Xavier street, and expressed it to Mrs. Perley in Ottawa.

Subsequently he saw Mr. Perley, who displayed one of the rings and rebuked the witness for spending so much money. He also said that on one occasion he met a clerk in Mr. Perley's office in the Windsor House here. The young man asked for a loan of $50. The witness gave him a $100 bill. He did not know the young man's name nor had he seen him since.

Mr. Murphy was discharged until Tuesday. He stated that he was going to Quebec. On returning here he will visit the Public Works Department to see whether he can identify the young man who received the present.

An investigation into the management of the Interior Department took place to-day at the Public Accounts Committee. It was shown that money was paid in an irregular way to certain officials for extra work. Mr. Burgess, the deputy of the department, was examined and admitted that this was the case.

On motion of Mr. Geoffrion it was directed that subpœnas should be issued for the attendance of Joseph Lenard and Fabien Vanasse of Le Monde (Sir Hector's newspaper) and also for the production of Hon. Thomas McGreevy's bank books and checks.

Perley Will Reply.

Mr. H. F. Perley was seen to-night and said: "I have heard of the evidence given by Owen E. Murphy this morning. I have been in my lawyers and asked to be called before the committee to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. I have a perfectly good answer to it all, perfectly good, and read very easy indeed. I prefer to say nothing till I give my statement before everybody at the committee."

TORONTO TOPICS

Escape From the Central Two Sudden Deaths of Business Men

TORONTO, July 8.—John Sinclair, of the firm of John Sinclair & Son, crockery merchants, died suddenly at his residence in Dufferin street this morning. The cause of death was heart failure.

Two prisoners in the Central Prison escaped at 11 o'clock yesterday in the most barefaced way. They scaled the wall with two guards looking at them from the tower on the wall. Shots were fired, but they got away all right and soon distanced their pursuers. Their names are James Dean, alias Cornell, and James Dickenson. The latter was sentenced from Kingston. Only a short time ago Dean made his escape, but was captured at Welland and returned.

Charles Rogers, principal in the furniture firm of Charles Rogers & Sons, 97 Yonge street, was apparently in good health yesterday and visited the factory in the afternoon, but in the evening complained of feeling a pain in his chest. This morning at 8 o'clock he was found dead in bed. The deceased was seventy-six years of age and came to this country from Glasgow, Scotland, in 1861.

Incident of the Kaiser's Visit A Burning Vessel Wrecked on a Desert Island and the Crew Suffer for 103 Days—Railway Wreck in Russia.

LONDON, July 8.—Empero. William this afternoon took leave of the Queen and left for London, where he will occupy a suite of apartments at Buckingham Palace. The object of the Emperor's visit to London was to be present this evening at the grand "Command" performance at the Royal Italian Opera.

The gala opera performance this evening was the finest spectacle ever witnessed in London. The interior of the opera house was lavishly festooned with roses, and on the front of each of the two hundred boxes were three huge bouquets of red and white roses. Several thousand pounds were spent for flowers alone. The royal box, consisting of five boxes thrown into one located at the centre of the first tier, was a bower of exotics and was draped with bright yellow and gold satin, surmounted by an enormous Prussian eagle. The audience was composed of the best known of the aristocracy. The men were in uniform, or court dress. The women were ablaze with diamonds, the display of which was unprecedented. It was after 9 o'clock when the Emperor and Empress, escorted by a troop of cavalry, arrived at the theatre.

To-morrow the Emperor and his party and the Royal family will hear the "Golden Legend" at the Albert Hall, and the same day the Imperial traveler may visit the naval exhibition. The great event for London of the Emperor visit will be the passage to and from Buckingham Palace on Friday next of the Emperor and his party on their way to Guild Hall. Business along the route of the procession will be practically suspended, and windows overlooking this route are selling at high prices.

Served Up in Gold.

LONDON, July 8.—A state banquet was given in St. George's Hall last evening. The guests sat at a table 150 feet long, upon which was displayed gold candelabra and the whole of the royal plate, valued at £3,000,000. Besides a full muster of royalties there were present Lord Salisbury, Lord Kimberley, Count Von Hatzfeldt, the Russian Ambassador, Lord Hartington, the Duke and Duchess of Portland.

ALLEGED HOME RULE.

Lord Salisbury Will Appeal to the Country on This Issue.

(Dunlap-Imlzel Cables.)

LONDON, July 8.—Lord Salisbury has finally decided that he will make his appeal to the country on the question of local government for Ireland, the measure completing the legislative program of the Ministry, and will with the other measures of his administration constitute the record on which he will base his claims for a new lease of power.

Chief Secretary Balfour is confident that the passage of the Irish Land Purchase Bill, now before the House, will pave the way for the success of the Government Home Rule measure at a not later date than August of next year, in which case the general elections would occur in the autumn.

A leading feature of the new measure which will at once be introduced on the reassembling of Parliament early in January, will be the adoption of Mr. Chamberlain's idea of provincial councils, which the Marquis of Hartington is also said to favor.

In this way Lord Salisbury proposes to crown and complete the achievements of his administration, thus following in the footsteps of his great conservative predecessor, Disraeli, who won one of the most signal victories of his own career by adopting as his own a leading liberal measure.

A BATTLE WITH SLAVE TRADERS.

A Series of Bloody Battles on the Upper Congo.

LONDON, July 8.—Advices from the Congo Free State announce a series of bloody battles were fought on the Upper Congo and Aruwimi Rivers in January and February last between the state troops and the Arab slave traders. The slavers were routed everywhere and were suing for peace when the advices were sent.

The Dudley Jewels.

LONDON, July 8.—Edward Wilkinson, clerk, confessed to-day that he was instrumental in stealing the Countess of Dudley's jewels which were stolen at Euston Station four years ago. Wilkinson says he had two accomplices, one of whom is dead. One of these accomplices, according to Wilkinson's story, attracted the attention of the servant, who was carrying the jewel case, while the other stole the jewels. The latter, he says, were subsequently sold at Amsterdam, and he (Wilkinson) received $10,000 as his share of the robbery. Wilkinson was remanded to enable the police to make further investigation.

To Sail for Home To-Day.

LONDON, July 8.—Hon. Messrs. Mercier and Shehyn arrived in London last night from France and left this afternoon for Liverpool, whence they sail by the Allan liner Parisian to-morrow. Mercier expresses complete satisfaction with the result of his mission. He says that the temporary loan of four million dollars, which he negotiated with the Credit Lyonnais and the Banque de Paris et de Pays Bas, will enable the Government to proceed with its program of public works, etc.

Poison in the Macaroni

BERLIN, July 8.—The family of a carpenter named Nunne at Witten, after partaking freely of macaroni at dinner, were taken with symptoms of poisoning and were soon prostrated. Medical aid proved unavailing and the father and two children have died from the effects of the poison, while the mother and three remaining children are in a dying condition.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

SOME STRONG LANGUAGE USED BY MEMBERS.

Minister Bowell and the Orange Order—The Government Pays Mr. Osler—Seagoing Vessels and the Upper Lakes—No Subsidies to Railways in 1891.

OTTAWA, July 8.—In the House to-day Sir Hector Langevin said in reply to Mr. Coats, worth that the Government has not taken into consideration the advisability of deepening and enlarging the canals along the St. Lawrence River, to allow of seagoing vessels coming up to ports on Lake Ontario.

Sir John Thompson, replying to a question, said that Messrs. Osler and Henry were employed as counsel by the Public Works Department in the Tarte enquiry in order to elicit all the facts. If it were found to inculpate any one they would assume the role of public prosecutors. He was not prepared to say what remuneration they would receive.

Bowell Replies to Charlton.

A lively dispute arose between Mr. Charlton and the Minister of Customs. In a previous debate Mr. Charlton had said that Mr. Bowell got into the Government through the active efforts of the Orange order exerted through deputations waiting on the late Premier.

Mr. Bowell having then characterized the statement as a falsehood, Mr. Charlton thought proper to rise to-night to a question of privilege, and supported his assertion by the recorded statement of James Beaty and one Reynolds, an expelled member of the Orange order.

Mr. Bowell explained who Mr. Charlton's authority was, and pronounced Mr. Charlton's statement as quoted, "False as hell," and worthy of a member who, while promoting Christian legislation, would make a false affidavit for the purpose of damaging the character of a brother member, referring to Mr. Charlton's affidavit last session regarding Dr. Hickey's timber limit transaction.

Mr. Charlton indignantly asked Mr. Bowell to quote the false affidavit alleged to have been made by him.

Mr. Bowell referred him to last year's Hansard and to Mr. Charlton's affidavit about Mr. Hickey, the late member for Dundas, to whom Mr. Charlton had apologized and expressed regret for having made assertions proved to be untrue.

Clarke Wallace explicitly denied that Mr. Bowell owed his appointment to Orange influence and expressing surprise that Mr. Charlton would reflect on an order of which he had recently expressed an ardent desire to be a member.

Mr. Charlton denied the impeachment, when Mr. Wallace offered to give his authority, which he afterwards did, mentioning the name of Mr. J. L. Hughes of Toronto.

Sir Richard Takes a Hand.

Sir Richard Cartwright concluded to take a hand in and gave it as his opinion that Mr. Bowell owed his position to his services in getting up a big Orange procession in Montreal—a demonstration which nearly led to a riot.

Mr. Bowell characterized this statement as equally false with the other. On the contrary he had objected to the procession and tried to persuade brethren not to get it up. He (Mr. Bowell) had always done his best to preserve the peace and promote harmony between races and creeds in this country, just as Sir Richard Cartwright and his friends had always done their best to stir up sectional hostilities. The Minister of Customs took occasion to assure Mr. Charlton that in the future as in the past he would not be allowed to attack members and reflect on their personal character without receiving a Roland for his Oliver.

OTTAWA, July 8.—A deputation consisting of Dr. Ollie, president, Capt. Neelon, vice-president of St. Catharines & Niagara Central Railway, Ald. McGuire and Cuff, Dr. Elliott and M. Y. Keating of St. Catharines, Ald. Shaw, Hall and Orr, Major McFadden, Hector Cameron, Nicoll Kingsmill, Toronto, Charles Wilson and Mr. Macpherson of Port Dalhousie and Messrs. McKay, Ryckman, Costsworth, Cockburn, Dimson, Henderson, Gibson, Clarke Wallace and Senator McKindsay waited on Premier Abbott and Mr. Bowell to-day to ask aid for the St. Catharines and Niagara Central Railway. The deputation was introduced by Mr. Carpenter. They asked for the usual bonus of $3,200 a mile over the 38 miles from Hamilton to Toronto. They said the Government had already recognized the road by bonusing it as far as Hamilton, and there could be no further construction without additional aid, that the $460,000 already invested would be practically thrown away unless they reach Toronto.

Sir Abbott said that the Government had not departed from its policy of aiding railroads, but that the remission of three millions of revenue on sugar made it impossible to give assistance this year. He promised, however, to consider the matter next session.

As to Grand Juries.

A return was brought down in the Senate to-day giving the replies to the circular addressed by Sir John Thompson to all the judges of the country asking their opinion on the abolition of grand juries. A summary of the replies gives 48 in favor of abolition, 41 against abolition and 12 doubtful. Among those in favor of abolition are Judges Gwynne and Taschereau of the Supreme Court, Chancellor Boyd and Judges Sinclair and Senkler. Among those against abolition are Hon. Oliver Mowat, Chief Justice Hagarty, Chief Justice Galt, Justices Falconbridge, MacMahon, Ferguson, Street, Robertson and Rose, and Judge Benson. Among those classed as doubtful is Chief Justice Armour.

The select committee on amendments to the Dominion Election Act met this morning. After some discussion the final date for receiving declarations was fixed at August 15, peremptorily to come into force this year, and the time for publication of the lists was extended to September 15.

In the Senate to-day Premier Abbott, in reply to Hon. Mr. Flint, said it was not the intention of the Government to reimpose an export duty on sawlogs and timber taken from Canada to the United States in view of trade negotiations which will be resumed at Washington in October.

FIXED HIM IN A CHAIR.

And Endeavored to Blow Open the Station Safe During Burglary at Strathroy

STRATHROY, July 8.—About 1.30 this morning, as Mr. J. H. Kinder, night operator at the G. T. R. station here, was about to enter his office at the station, after having turned the semaphore, he was suddenly pounced upon by three masked men, who seized him and pushed him into the ticket office. They then demanded that he should at once open the safe, two of them holding him between them with pointed persuaders at each side of his head. This, Kinder said, it was impossible for him to do, as he was not entrusted with the secret of the combination. Kinder was then placed in a chair in the waiting room, tied with a rope and told that if he made any outcry he would be shot. The burglars then proceeded to work on the safe, drilling a hole on the top and filling it with powder. The first explosion did not operate with the desired success, and a second was tried, with the same unsatisfactory result, and the cracksmen then turned their attention to the till, which they forced open and were rewarded with about $30. They also searched Kinder, but found nothing but his watch which, they left behind. About an hour after their departure Kinder released himself and made his way to the residence of Mr. Seymour and gave an alarm. The thieves are still at large. A brace and three chisels left behind were identified by S. Humphries as having been stolen from his shop. While burning around to observe the burglars at their work Kinder was struck on the head with a revolver by one of them and told to look the other way. He is suffering considerably to-day from the blow and terrible nervous strain to which he was subjected.

THE CARLOW ELECTION.

Parnell's Candidate Receives an Unmerciful Whipping at the Polls.

DUBLIN, July 8.—The result of the election held yesterday at Carlow for a successor in Parliament of the late O'Gorman Mahon resulted in a crushing defeat for the Parnellite candidate in the district which Parnell admitted was his stronghold and where, he said, if he was defeated, he would admit that he had nothing left to fall back upon in political life. The result was: Hammond (McCarthyite candidate), 3765; Kittle (Parnellite), 1539.

Speaking at Carlow after the result of the election was made known, Parnell said he was not disheartened and that he would continue to consolidate the independent men of every Irish county and city.

The campaign was marked yesterday by many exciting incidents. Near Rathmore schoolhouse an effigy of Mrs. Parnell, or, as it was called, of "Kitty O'Shea," was hung on a tree.

Escape of Aeronauts.

LONDON, July 8.—A balloon which was sent up to-day from the grounds on which the Naval Exhibition is being held encountered a storm after ascending to a considerable height and fell on Bepley Heath. It struck a cottage with great force and partially wrecked the building. An inmate of the cottage named Lee was buried under the balloon and was nearly suffocated by the escaping gas before he was rescued. The three occupants of the car attached to the balloon luckily escaped without injury.

Slaughtering the Innocents.

COLOGNE, July 8.—A sensation has been caused here by the discovery of a number of child murders at a baby farm kept by a widow named Scholese. The death of six babies has been traced to inanition. The investigation is not yet finished.

Russian Railway Horror.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 8.—In a collision between a passenger train and a freight train near Warsaw to-day six persons were killed and a number injured.

Dr. Zintgraff Wounded.

BERLIN, July 8.—A dispatch from Cameroons, West Africa, announces that the German explorer, Dr. Zintgraff, who, with an armed escort, is exploring the interior of the country, has been repeatedly repulsed by the natives. Dr. Zintgraff, the dispatch adds, has been wounded, and his escort have completely lost courage.

Hard on the Clubs.

LONDON, July 8.—A London magistrate to-day fined Mr. Wells, proprietor of the Pelican Club, for selling tobacco and spirits to non-members. The magistrate declared that even supplying members of the club was illegal. If the decision is confirmed it will close half of the clubs in London and most of the clubs in the country.

Russia in Afghanistan.

LONDON, July 8.—A Calcutta dispatch says that much anxiety has been caused in India by the discovery that Russian merchants have succeeded in getting a foothold in Afghanistan. The exact route followed is not yet known.

Doings of Royalty.

LONDON, July 8.—Prince Christian lunched to-day with the Kaiser, the Prince of Wales and other German and English royal personages. After lunch they all embarked on launches and proceeded up the Thames.

Schools for Workpeople.

LONDON, July 8.—The Berlin Social Democrates are so well pleased with their schools for working people that efforts are being made to extend the system both in Berlin and other large cities of Germany.

Fortifying Heligoland.

BERLIN, July 8.—The Emperor has ordered that work on the proposed fortifications of the Island of Heligoland shall be begun next week. The work will be supervised by the officer who had charge of the fortifications of Metz.

They Will Try to Agree.

LONDON, July 7.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Fergusson said that communications had passed between Great Britain and France respecting the maintenance of the status quo in the Mediterranean, but the communications are not suitable for public discussion.

The Ritualistic Case.

LONDON, July 8.—The appeal of the Bishop of Lincoln against the decision of the Archbishop of Canterbury in regard to ritualistic observances, which has been before the House of Lords for some time, was concluded to-day. Judgment was reserved.

Fitzsimmons Convicted.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 8.—Fred Fitzsimmons, alias A. G. Budd, the Canadian cracksman, was this afternoon convicted of robbing Skelly's dry goods store at McKeesport last winter. Fitzsimmons and several accomplices are now being tried on a second burglary charge. The idea is to give the Canadian a thoroughly bad character to aid the prosecution in his approaching trial for the murder of Detective Gilkinson.

Chinese Emigration.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The last Congress passed a resolution instructing the President to negotiate with Mexico and Great Britain to prevent the entry of Chinese laborers from Canada and Mexico into the United States. From diplomatic correspondence just published, it appears Great Britain received the proposition favorably and referred it to the Canadian Government.

Crushed to a Jelly.

QUEBEC, July 8.—The ambulance was called out this afternoon to assist a poor boy named Stanislas Bernard, who got his head smashed under a yacht lying on a slip at the Custom House for repairs. The boy was working under the yacht and accidentally knocked one of the stanchions holding it in position. The yacht careened over on the boy's head. Death is expected every moment.

The Victims Buried.

SING SING, N.Y., July 8.—What was left of the bodies of Slocum, Jugigo and Wood were placed nude in rude pine coffins to-day. Quicklime was put both under and upon the remains in the coffins. The graves were levelled off so that no traces should be left of them. There were no religious ceremonies, as the law prohibits them in such cases. Smiler's body was handed over to relatives. Convicts to-day cleared up the death chamber and put it in order for the next electrocution.

Jews Must Not Settle in Jerusalem.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 8.—The Porte has issued orders prohibiting orthodox Greeks from using the northern entry of the holy grotto at Bethlehem. It is expected Russia will enter a protest against this prohibition.

It is officially stated that the Porte will not permit Jewish emigrants to settle in Jerusalem. The Porte will only allow the entry of pilgrims.

The Free Press Wins.

WINNIPEG, July 8.—The libel suit, Martin v. Free Press, an action of Ex-Attorney-General Martin for criticisms on contract between Local Government and Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway, after three days' trial concluded this evening in a unanimous verdict for The Free Press.

It Seems to Be Going on About as Usual.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 8.—The steamer Danube arrived here last evening with a collection of seal catches of the Victoria fleet. These amount to 18,000 skins. Several American schooners were also spoken with good catches.

ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY

Saturday's papers announced the glad tidings by which our progressive town will surpass many pretentious cities. It being intended to have at least two-and-a-half miles of the finest Electric Street Railway in Canada, in operation by September. This added to our large manufacturing industries and rail way facilities, present and prospective, must place Peterborough far in advance of any other town or city in Central Ontario.

Notwithstanding the above, which in itself is sufficient to cause owners to advance the prices of their properties, I intend to fulfil my promise to sell Lots and House and Lots until 15th inst. at discount from old prices of from 5 to 40 per cent. After that date the prices will go up as sure as the sun will rise because the properties are now offered much under value.

Buy now and you will make money by doing so.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355 92
Increase over previous year	2 421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6 271,599 15
Increase over 1889	2 268,888 60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078 87
Increase over 1889	325 938 35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514 19
Increase over 1889	687,691 47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109 222 68
Increase over 1889	567 732 71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	225,175 69
Increase over 1889	75,649 05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07
" " " 1886, "	80 452 97
" " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1891.

THE total revenues of the United States for the fiscal year just ended were $401,530,716, or about $1,500,000 less than for the previous year. There was a falling off of about $10,000,000 in Customs receipts. The expenditures for the year amounted to $388,696,824, or no less than $70,000,000 more than during the preceding year. Of this increase $17,500,000 is chargeable to the pension list. The aggregate of the interest and non-interest bearing debt of the United States is $1,006,806,560, and the interest charge last year was $37,127,201.

HERE is a sample of Conservative newspaper argument: "Canadians are now getting sugar at five cents a pound, and it is refined in Canada. That's Conservative policy. When Mr. Laurier was last in power they were paying from 9 to 12 cents a pound, and it was refined in the United States. That was Liberal policy." Now, as a matter of fact, the reduction in the price of sugar is due to the removal of tariff, and tariff reform is what Liberals are clamouring for, and the good, sympathetic Tories are struggling to obstruct. High taxation is the Tory policy; free trade the Liberal policy. Hon. Mr. Foster yielded to the logic of Liberal argument when he removed the duty from raw sugars.

THE state of Mr. J. G. Blaine's liver may possibly have a very important bearing upon the result of the next presidential contest in the United States. The condition of Mr. Blaine, there is reason to believe, is more serious than was at first reported. He is physically broken, and his mental powers sympathize, it is said, with his bodily infirmatives. The Philadelphia Times, whose editor is a close personal friend of the Secretary of State, lately made the announcement that while it is possible that Mr. Blaine may recover from his present enfeebled condition, there seems to be little to warrant the hope that he will be strong enough to enter into the national contest in 1892. If nominated for President he would fret himself, his friends say, into prostration, unless he could be in the forefront of the fight. Nothing but physical disability could prevent, it is believed, Mr. Blaine's nomination next year for the Presidency, for his splendid gifts and abilities lift him high above the level of living American statesmen. So far as can be learned, though, at the moment everything relating to his health seems to point to his retirement from political conflicts.

MR. LAURIER let some of the wind out of Dr. Montague's oration on Tuesday in a neat way. The latter, as is his wont, argued against closer trade relations with the States on the ground that the farmers and other people over there are desperately poor. He observed that Mr. Laurier was smiling, whereupon Mr. Laurier replied that he was smiling to think that the Government which Dr. Montague supports should have sent delegates to obtain a trade treaty from so impoverished a nation. When Tories take to Dr. Montague's line they leave themselves open to a good many retorts. It the American farmer remarks the Globe is hard up, what becomes of the story that a high tariff is just the thing to enrich the farmer? And how is it that no American farmers cross the line to enjoy the immense prosperity of their Canadian brethren, whilst on the other hand thousands of Canadian farmers are emigrating to the States to participate in his misery? If Dr. Montague would stop occasionally and do a little thinking he would feel ashamed of himself. It is quite true that agriculture in the older portions of the United States has suffered, but it has not suffered any more than agriculture in England, and Dr. Montague would not infer from the distress in England that a free British market is of no benefit to Canada. But before going abroad in search of poor farmers, the Tories should look at home and ask themselves if their policy has prevented depreciation in the value of land, reduced the mortgage debt, or added a cent, except in short crop years, to the price of any single commodity which the soil yields.

Harvey.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Harvey Council met on July 6th, all the members being present. Minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. Communication read from E. Pearse, county treasurer, re lot 8, con. 9, sold for taxes. A petition was read from Wm. Finlay and eleven others, requesting the council to open up the road allowance between the east halves of lots 19 and 20, con. 19 Harvey. The clerk was instructed to enquire if Gilmour & Co. would grant a site for a road 4 chains in length on the west end of the east half of lot 30, con. 17, to connect with a new road north on the centres of lots 30, 31 and 32, con. 17, Harvey. Orders were drawn on the treasurer as follows:—Mixer Rsicord, for work done on road, $7; John Tate, expenses incurred taking Jas. Perault to the Orillia Asylum, $10 30; Miss Orr, clothing for Jas. Perault, $8 08; Wm. Barcroft, expended on roads, $5; S H. Crow, for putting railing on Geodenough's bridge, $2 50; D. R. Montgomery, expended on roads, $10; Lewis Parker, expended on roads, $15. On motion the council adjourned to meet at the town hall on Monday, 17th August next.

For the cure of female weakness, suppression, nervousness, bearing down pains and all those peculiar ailments that make woman's life almost unbearable, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and bring a glow of health to sallow cheeks. All dealers, or by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Dr. Williams Med. Quinte Exhibition.

It Will Likely Die a Natural Death—Some Effort Will be Made to Hold a Small Two Days Show and If This Scheme Fails a Poultry Fair With It's Hold

(Belleville Ontario.)

On Saturday the directors of the Quinte Exhibition held a meeting in Ald. Ponton's office and after some discussion this resolution was carried: Moved by Mr. Peterson, seconded by Mr. Graham, that owing to the refusal of the Freehold Loan & Savings Co., of Toronto to allow the Society the use of the grounds for a three days show for less than the sum of $600, payable in advance which amount the Society cannot afford in its present financial position to pay:—Resolved, that the regular May of Quinte District Exhibition cannot be held this year but that the regular West Hastings Agricultural Fall Show be held on other grounds and that the President Mr. Bigger, Mr. Leavens, Mr. Garbutt, Mr Farley and Mr. Hurley be a committee to arrange for and secure such necessary grounds and settle all necessary preliminaries for such fall fair to be held in the city of Belleville."

Ald. Ponton was seen by a reporter to-day in reference to the action of the directors. He says that the society are quite unable to pay the loan company $600 for the use of the present grounds this year and rather than let the year pass without some effort to an exhibition how ever small it was decided to look up other grounds where a two days show can be held. The cricket field, Coleman's field and the ground opposite Zwick's island will be looked over by the committee, who will report on Saturday, 16th. If any of these grounds are settled upon, temporary buildings will be erected, but the exhibition will be largely held under canvas. If the directors cannot settle upon this means of an exhibition, a poultry fair will be held in the fall as in Smith's Falls. The idea is to hold a large show of poultry, both dead and alive, on a Saturday, either on the market square, hospital square or in some other convenient locality. It is also proposed to have similar shows on different Saturday of sheep, horses, fat cattle, etc. In Smith's Falls, where such a scheme is carried out, it has proven a great success and a benefit to the town. Carloads of cattle and poultry are brought in and besides securing prizes, it affords exhibitors a ready market for the sale of their goods. Most of the fairs of any importance in Ontario are dying a natural death. Kingston has gone to its grave yard. The Great Central at Hamilton is no more and with the disappearance of Belleville, the show business will be almost wiped out. Trenton and a great number of the smaller towns find it impossible to meet the expense of an annual exhibition. The people do not give it support they should. After a visit to the Toronto exhibition citizens generally come home disgusted with the annual fry and instead of supporting a home institution, would rather belittle it. The directors of the Quinte have made a gallant and commendable fight against all kind of obstacles, and they have not been half thanked for their trouble and expense.

Ashburnham Council.

Street Improvements Considered—Accounts Paid.

At the Ashburnham council meeting on Monday night, Messrs. Burnham, Wand, Troop and Craig were present, and a large company of spectators. After routine permission was given the Ontario Telephone company to erect poles on Driscoll street.

Five paysheets amounting to $551 02 were ordered to be paid as well as the following accounts:—

Dickson Co.	$200 96
Ed. Clancey	2 30
Jas. Peters	10 00
Review P. Co.	7 10
W. Yelland (wood)	7 63
C. K. Moore (charity)	9 00
J. C. Sullivan	10 00
Burt & Co.	4 00
Mr. Craig, salary to July	56 25

Some matters of street improvements were referred to the Street Inspector and committee.

Mr. McWha's complaint of the water flooding his garden, was referred to the Street Inspector with instructions to have a culvert built to remedy the matter.

A similar complaint from Mr. McGregor was referred to the Street Committee, as well as several other minor matters.

No matter what may be the ills you bear from indigestion, a dose of Ayer's Cathartic Pills will ease you without question. Just try them once and be assured; they have much more dyspeptics cured. You'll find them nice and amply worth the price.

A Long Bridge.

The long bridge which has just been opened across the Bay of Quinte, at Belleville, connecting the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, cost nearly $100,000, and is the longest highway bridge in Canada. With its embankment approaches it stretches 2 913 feet, the length of the bridge proper being 1871 feet. There are thirteen steel spans of 98 feet each, two of 148 feet each, one of 68 feet, and one draw span of 238 feet. The structure was first projected in 1873, and soundings having been taken, it was estimated that a wooden bridge would cost $125,000. As it was thought impossible to raise this amount the project was dropped and was not taken up again until 1886. In the following year the present company obtained its charter, and in August, 1889, the work of construction was begun. Belleville will doubtless reap great benefit from the opening of this direct highway of communication with the rich Prince Edward peninsula. The Bay City can boast of having the longest bridge in Canada and the greatest amount of marital infliciety of any town in Canada.

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Try them. Sold by all dealers, or by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Address Dr. Williams Med Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. HOW TO HANDLE A BOAT.

A Perfect Shell for a Race.

Concerning the selection of a racing shell, my idea of a perfect craft is, thirty-one feet long, ten and one-half inches wide, five and three-quarter inches depth of centre, three inches in the bow and two inches aft. A boat must be built to suit the weight of the person who has to row in it. Too much weight in a craft means more displacement than is required, and superfluous displacement means additional resistance and more difficulty in propelling the racer. The beginner must first master the art of rowing his shell on its proper water lines. To do this he must acquire a regular movement. When he comes forward with his body, which is, of course, facing aft in the boat, he will notice that at the beginning the stern of the craft dips down until the water works up on the canoe about a foot. Now, if the stern goes down, the bow, of necessity, must come up. It must be plain, therefore, that the boat is not travelling on the lines it is built to run on. By bringing the body into a certain position so as to reach well forward for the stroke, the weight is lifted from the foot-brace, and, as a natural sequence, from the stern. Practice this for a few weeks and soon you will learn to imitate the pendulum of a clock in your movement, and you will find that your boat goes through the water easier and more gracefully. America is away behind Australia in the matter of race boats. There they have a perfect system of bracing a craft so as to give it wonderful strength. A boat that is not constructed strongly will twist lengthwise before half its time is up. The concaved gunwale of Australia strengthens the boat more than anything we put in it. The Australian shell is also braced by triangular braces. They believe that a heavy skin and a light frame is better than a heavy frame and a light skin. That is where they are right. A boat of heavy frame and light skin will not keep its proper lines in the water as well as one with a light frame and heavy skin. In America the boat-builders ought to try to understand that a rib running from one end to the other is much superior to the perpendicular rib which is in vogue. A triangular piece of whalebone from gunwale to keelson, would be better than a near rib running on the skin to the gunwale and keelson.

A Point About Your Boat.

The beginner should also remember another important thing. Always insist on the builder furnishing a long slide for the seat. If the seat touches the after end of the slide, the speed of the craft is sure to be checked or retarded. In the old days with the short slides many oarsmen won heart disease. You never hear of heart trouble with the long slide. In making the stroke, be careful not to fall onto the seat too heavily. This is calculated to sink the craft in the water more than is necessary. A great many professional oarsmen pound the seat in that way, and suffer in consequence. I think it absolutely essential to the success of a beginner to be measured for his boat the same as one has to be measured by his tailor. He should be high seated so as to afford ample room to put his feet in play. The rig of the boat is everything. There cannot be speed where comfort is not. You cannot expect a six-footer to row as low down as a man five-feet six-inches high. The tall fellow wants more room than the short one, though American boat builders don't think so. Half of the success of the Australian oarsmen is due to the high rig of their boats.

How Amateurs Should Row.

Amateurs should row so that in taking the forward movement the arm-pits should be directly over the knees, bring yourself forward to get in that position without throwing the shoulders forward, a slight pull of the feet will bring the body forward in the correct position. Then all muscles have full play. Racing nowadays is mostly with the lower part of the body, which is taking the strain from the trunk. This is giving greater speed with less muscular exercise. Amateurs should be careful not to over-train. What will train one man will not do for another, and an amateur must regulate diet and exercise to meet his own personal requirements.

Edward Hanlan in the Ladies' Home Journal.

"Hot Waves" and Hurricanes.

M. Tacchini, of Rome, reporting the results of his solar observations during the past winter, states that "during the first three months of 1891 the phenomenon of spots and faculæ was much more pronounced than in the previous three months, and, by reason of the greater activity of the sun, the number of the days without spots has been much smaller than before." During the month of February, he says, a great activity was manifested on the solar surface in respect to each kind of phenomena. Even metallic eruptions were observed.

Upon the most plausible theory yet advanced of the terrestrial effects of an increase in solar activity we should expect that the mean temperature of the present summer will be very nearly up to the normal, and that the heat will be exceptionally great toward the close of the season. If the sun's total radiation of heat at any period is divided into twenty-two hundred million parts, the earth's share is only one part, but while we get so small a portion of the solar radiation, a very insignificant increase may easily make very considerable differences in the meteorological conditions of the entire globe.

Judging by the weather anomalies of the last winter in the North Atlantic basin, there is also reason to expect that the hurricanes of the tropical oceans will be more numerous and more violent between July and October, 1891, than they have been for two or three years. The researches of Weldrum, Balfour, Stewart and others have long since indicated a probable connection between cyclones and variations of solar activity, these storms apparently increasing in force and frequency as sunspots increase. For two or three years there have been but severe tropical hurricanes in the Atlantic. But this ocean cannot long enjoy such immunity from this disastrous visitation. All vessels now sailing from northern ports and likely to remain in the tropics till August should therefore be prepared to encounter these tempests.

Points of Progress.

A new college of agriculture is to be established at Mildura, Victoria.

An underground railway for Berlin is being discussed by German engineers.

It is estimated that at least 1,000,000 pounds of rubber are annually used for bicycle tires.

A ship canal to connect Venice with the Gulf of Spezia is under discussion. It will be about 170 miles in length, and will cost $250,000,000.

Coal in the province of Almeria, in Spain, is so clear that there is great rejoicing over the discovery of an inferior quality in a large vein near Albanchez.

The telephone cables laid beneath the streets of Berlin are estimated to meet the requirements of 30,000 subscribers, the present number being 15,000.

The Trend of the Fashions—The Latest Styles and Materials—What Bright Women are Doing in Various Callings All Over the World.

"A girl who sits ungracefully is a rarity," said an artist. "The sex's poses in a chair are instinctively and unconsciously sightly. Then why will not girls practise a good carriage? They spend hours of prayer and effort over their hands and their make-up, yet everybody knows a fine figure is the most important requisite of all. Any face can be rendered attractive by expression. Any face for which we care becomes beautiful to us. But even love can only soften dislike to regret over a round-shouldered, hollow-chested form. Good carriage induces a good figure. It at least throws such lines as you have into an adjustment of harmony. It will make your dresses fit better, last longer and look finer while they last. A head well carried comes soon to be 'well-poised.' Shoulders well squared back fill up your bodice and improve your silhouette as well as your profile. Hips well balanced make your gowns drape gracefully in spite of your dressmaker. Feet that 'come down' to the ground prettily come near to being pretty feet. Even an ugly hand escapes criticism if well used. A short neck is forgotten if the head moves well. If women would spend their time bathing, rubbing, and exercising they would have something to show for it. Instead, they sit around in 'tanks,' or make themselves hideous over night. They use washes, prescriptions, and pills, and they don't half wash. Oh, yes, that is true. Many women, especially those addicted to greases, do not half wash. Absolute cleanliness—sweet, wholesome, dainty cleanliness—is the best and only safe cosmetic in the world."

The Language of Gloves.

People who know about gloves use a complicated vocabulary. They call the piece of leather a glove is made out of a trunk. The side pieces to the fingers they call fourchettes, and the little pieces that join the fourchettes to the gloves they call quirks, or sometimes gussets. The binding up and down the opening for the buttons and buttonholes they call the slit welt, and the top welt is the piece which is added to the top of the glove. When they get to talking about glove seams they make a number of nice distinctions in stitches. They call it an in-seam when the edges are turned in and sewed through the inside. They talk about a prick seam when one edge is lapped over another. Oftenest of all they speak of the overstitch when the edges of the leather are sewn through and round. The welt seam is like the in-seam, except that it has a third piece of leather in the middle. If you look on your street gloves you will find it accomplished. There are ever so many kinds of glove buttons and hooks, and there are people who like most of them. When a glove is too tight there is no sort of fastening that seems adequate to the occasion. There is one sort of glove which has no fastening at all. The kid is gathered a little at the wrist, and looks comfortable and slightly puffy. The Biarritz glove fastens with something that is called a bandalet, and is really a buckle.

The Best Life Policy.

It's not the Tontine plan, or Endowment plan, or Ten Years' Renewable Plan. It's not adding your few dollars to the hundreds of millions that the insurance companies boast of. Its a better investment than any of those. It's investing a few dollars in that standard remedy, the "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung troubles.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Everybody Likes It.

Wm. Dredge, Ellen street, Barrie, Ont., says: One bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil brought back appetite which other Emulsions away; removed cough entirely, and gained five pounds. It tastes just like cream, the oil being perfectly disguised. Sold by all druggists. dw

For Many Years.

We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for many years in our family and find it an excellent medicine for all forms of summer complaint. John A. Valens, Valens, Ont. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Price 35c., sold by all dealers. dw

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

It Saved His Life.

GENTLEMEN,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved by life. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. Francis Walsh, Dalkeith, Ont. dw

Worth Nearly a Million.

A million dollars in gold is considered a large sum, but when a man is doubled up with rheumatism, until life is a burden, Royal Rheumatic Remedy is worth more than his gold. It relieves him of pain and gives him a new lease of life. dw

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose. Try them. dw

EVERYBODY ADMIRES SOFT, WHITE HANDS.—And every lady ought to use Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses, as it makes the skin soft and smooth. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 644

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them. dw

Occasional doses of a good cathartic like Burdock Blood Bitters are necessary to keep the blood pure and body healthy. dw

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was created by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them, but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Improvements in the West.

A part of the town that is sharing in the general prosperity is the block known as the Erin property. The neighborough is rapidly building up, streets are being graded and sidewalks laid. The walk along Cedar street has been continued to Cambridge street and along Walnut street. A large number of shade trees have been planted both on the street and in and about the Erin property. Mr. W. Fitzgerald has a part of the block in the market and a number of good lots are for sale. The locality is first class and offers a good chance to those who want to build. Mr. Fitzgerald will arrange to sell lots and put up houses at low cost. Workingmen should see him and learn the terms. 3d6

Baptist S. S. Excursion.

The annual outing of the Murray street Baptist Sunday school took place yesterday to Chemong Park, in which over 150 persons took part. The steamer "Sunbeam," from Lakefield, met the excursionists at Chemong station and conveyed them to the park, arriving there at ten o'clock. Shortly afterwards the baskets were unloaded and the contents spread out on the park tables, when all enjoyed themselves for a time. Afterwards baseball, racer, and other juvenile games were engaged in to the gratification of both children and adults. The swings and boats were kept going during the afternoon, and by the careful surveillance and attention of the officers of the school, everything passed off pleasantly. The day was fair but chilly. Three flags floated on the breeze from different points, and the Park Hotel unfurled its handsome burgee. The excursionists seemed to be highly delighted with the park and its various facilities for picnics. The excursion arrived at 5 o'clock.

Whitby Excursionists.

About 250 excursionists from Whitby visited the town to-day—an excursion of the Royal Templars. The visitors made Central Park their headquarters for picnicing and spent the day in admiring the beauties of the town.

Lacrosse.

The secretary of the local lacrosse club has received notice from the secretary of No. 10 Division of the C. L. A., that the first game of the schedule series will be played at Peterborough on Wednesday, July 15th, between the home twelve and Madoc. A good game may be expected, Dog Destroyed.

This morning Police Constable Stewart got out his gun. He received notice that a dog was acting in a very disorderly manner near the post office, the people in the neighborhood fearing that he was going mad. One shot from the policeman's pistol put a stop to doggie's mad career. Constable Stewart says he does not belong to the rifle association or the gun club; hence his success.

Their Annual Outing.

George street Methodist church Sunday school will have their annual excursion on Thursday of next week, July 16th, to Chemong Park, reaching the Park by G. T. R. and steamer from the terminus of the road. Friends of the Sunday school are invited to join in the excursion and spend a pleasant and enjoyable day. The fares will be low and an energetic committee have details of the excursion in hand.

A Close Shave.

About half past five o'clock last evening a runaway horse, with a buggy in tow, circled around the corner of George and Hunter streets, and ran up on the sidewalk in front of McDonald's drug store, passing between the telegraph pole and the window, and narrowly escaping collision with Mrs. Sheffield's equipage standing at the edge of the sidewalk, in which Master Sheffield was sitting. No damage was done.

Organ Recital at St. John's.

To-night at 8 o'clock, Dr. Davies will perform the following selections on the organ at St. John's church:—

Finale, 3rd symphony	Mendelsohn
March, "Alsed"	Prout

JUST WHAT YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR.

On the 28th inst. the 57th Battalion Band and Canton Peterborough, No. 10, I.O.O.F., will run the cheapest and best excursion of the season. It will take in Toronto, Galt and intermediate and surrounding places. It will pay you to reserve that date and watch the papers for such particulars as will please and astonish you.

"Geordie" Graham's Grand Coupe.

Mr. George Graham to-day received and put into commission an elegant new coupe. This fine vehicle, which was made in Toronto, is a genuine coupe, beautifully finished in every way. It has bent glass windows in front, and it can be converted in a moment into an open carriage. It is most comfortably upholstered, and eminently suited for family driving, to which it is to be especially devoted. When the rangy and rapid, but quiet, 16-hand Cobourg chestnut with his gold-mounted harness, Metcalf's make, which completes the equipage, feels the draw of the ribbons in front of this coupe, there will not be a more elegant and stylish and, at the same time comfortable, equipage in town.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of a raw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed he had was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

New Dental Firm.

The people of the town of Peterborough and surrounding country who have so kindly welcomed Dr. A. J. Robertson among them, and who have shown their appreciation of his professional services by so heartily continued a patronage, will not be surprised that, through stress of professional duties, he has taken as a partner, Dr. A. Rose, late of Norwood. Dr. Rose comes highly recommended from his late field of practice, where, though but two years a resident, he succeeded in making a large number of warm and appreciative friends, both socially and professionally. The Register of July 2nd says:—"Dr. Rose commenced the practice of his profession in Peterborough yesterday as an associate of Dr. Robertson. The Dr., although only a short time here, succeeded in establishing a very lucrative practice, which speaks volumes for his skill as a dental surgeon. Peterborough is to be congratulated on securing so worthy an addition to her professional ranks. 1d7-2w29

Police Pointers.

A young lad named Roberts was arrested at noon to-day on a charge of theft from the Italian who keeps the Hunter street refreshment stand. The boy will be tried in the morning.

The man Crouther, who was arrested here the other day on a charge of attempted rape upon a little girl at Campbellford, has been committed for trial, and was taken down to Cobourg gaol to-day.

The police have received a great many complaints concerning bicyclists riding upon the sidewalks, and as there is a law against it they intend to strictly enforce it in future. Bicyclists had better keep to the roads if they wish to keep out of the police court.

Personal.

Chief of Police Boezel, who was seized with illness at the police court yesterday and removed to his home, is still confined to his bed with illness.

Mr. Hector McIntyre, who has been absent from town some half dozen years, the last five of which were spent in Chicago, has returned to Peterborough, and he come up smiling to his old place in the office of the Oriental.

Police Court Occurrences.

THURSDAY, July 9th.

There was nothing very exciting at the police court this morning. A drunk appeared before the powers and a lien of fine was given five minutes to get out of town. He thought he could do it and tried his best. As yet no reports to the contrary have been received at police headquarters.

There were also four or five cases of neglect of payment of statute labour tax. Some of them paid the $2.00 and two were given a week to negotiate the necessary loan to put them level with the tax collector's office.

A sawdust case was enlarged.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Baptist church in this village have had a very pleasing experience of Port Hope liberality. A few days ago the caretaker's keys were demanded in order to put in a beautiful new cabinet organ, the gift of Dr. Clemisha and his mother Mrs. Clemisha of Port Hope. The congregation are naturally very highly pleased with his liberal and timely gift and they heartily appreciate and desire to thank the generous donors.

Campbellford News

The Freemasons had a great gathering here on Sunday and walked in procession to the Presbyterian church, where they were addressed by the Rev. Mr. Wilkins, of the Trent Lodge, who preached a very appropriate sermon on the occasion. They numbered 80 and made a very respectable appearance.

An accident which was likely to be very serious, happened in the mill pond connected with Mr. Jas. Dinwoodie's mill, about a mile from this village, on Thursday last. Two ladies and a little boy went on a excursion, and in crossing the pond from the old pier to the back of the pond, the boat upset and the little boy and mother were thrown out, but managed to get to the bank. They were rescued by Mr. White the miller, who witnessed the accident and released them from their perilous situation very wet and exhausted.

Welcoming the Pastor.

Reception of the Epworth League to Rev. Mr. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards.

Rev. Geo. Edwards, the new pastor of Charlotte street Methodist church, and Mrs. Edwards, received a very hearty welcome on Monday evening last from the Epworth League Society of Christian Endeavor. The President of the League, Mr. O. C. Rowse, presided, and introduced the pastor to the large audience of young people that had gathered to participate in the reception. The pastor very suitably replied to the address of welcome, and hoped that their combined efforts to further the cause of Christ would be eminently successful during his pastorate. The social committee spared no pains to make the evening what it was, a success—abundance of fruit, ice cream, &c., was served and a very profitable time spent in conversation and shaking of hands. A splendid programme was rendered at intervals by the League choir, the Misses Stephens and Mr. Gough, of the Edison works. The happy gathering dispersed at about 10.30, all feeling the better for the pleasant evening spent.

A Grand Excursion.

An Excursionist Tells the Tale of the Lock Works Trip.

Saturday last being Independence Day, July 4th, the employes of the Peterborough Lock Works being largely from across the line, embarked on the morning train and arrived at Chemong at 9 30, where the fast steamer "Mary Ellen" awaited them having in tow a large and newly fitted up barge. About two hundred and seventy-five persons embraced the opportunity and found plenty of room on both the vessels. From Chemong they proceeded up Mud Lake to Bickhorn thence to Lovesick and Burleigh. Many went off the boats to pick berries. Now they had entered Stony Lake and enjoyed a lovely scene. On the many islands are pretty residences all of frame, painted in white, red, brown, green, blue, yellow and even pink, and the names are also quaint, viz., Eglesneat, Ivanhoe, Eglesmount, Mount Julian. Then entering the beautiful Clear Lake we soon arrived at Young's Point, a pretty village with its mills, bridges, and little white church. Here we no iced Uncle Pat, the venerable pioneer who has seen his four-score years, yet so smart as to be up early tending his garden and his hives of bees. The whistle again and off we start down the winding rapid river and at Lakefield catch the train carrying us back to our homes after a most pleasant and enjoyable excursion. A temperance bar on the scow did exceedingly well to which the lads led the lassies as they came from the dance warm enough to drink a lemonade or glass of pop. Here then for one dollar a trip of forty-seven miles by rail and boat through a pretty chain of lakes and all in very convenient time. Who are the next for such an excursion?—COM.

Peterborough Presbytery.

The Afternoon and Concluding Session.

At 2 p.m. the presbytery meet. After devotions the committee appointed at the morning session to prepare a minute respecting Rev. Mr. Bell, reported their minute, expressing sympathy with him in his affliction and a hope that he may be restored to health and to his pastoral work, which was adopted by Presbytery.

The Presbytery considered Mr. Oswald's application for license. The applicant read a popular sermon on a passage of St. John's gospel and also an expository lecture on another scripture passage. The report of the committee as to his theological and literary qualifications, was also highly satisfactory. After the candidate had answered the usual formula of questions and after Rev. Mr. Carmichael had led in prayer, the Moderator addressed Mr. Oswald and declared him duly authorized and licensed, to serve as a minister wherever his lot might be cast. This will it is probable be where he is now laboring in the Janetsville, Ballyduff and Pontypool field to where he may receive a call.

Rev. Mr. Bennett, the clerk, was appointed by Presbytery, moderator of session of this charge.

The Presbytery appointed the following delegates to visit the designated mission fields:—Burleigh and Chandos, Rev. Mr. Carmichael; Rev. Mr. Scott, Minden and Haliburton; Rev. Mr. Anderson of Bobcaygeon, Harvey.

The clerk was instructed to write to the several mission fields and inform them that they were to pay the expenses of these delegates.

The Presbytery then adjourned to meet in the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope, on Tuesday, Sept. 22nd, at 9.30 a.m.

At the close of the sitting the members of the Presbytery were entertained at tea by the ladies, and in acknowledgment of this courtesy as well as for that at once a cordial vote of thanks was passed to the hospitable sisters.

Chicago's Fat Monster Struck by Lightning.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 8.—A flash of lightning last night put an end to the expectations that centred around the mammoth captive balloon, which was tethered to a platform in a vacant space in Cottage Grove avenue, opposite Washington Park.

The noise of the explosion was heard miles away and the houses in the vicinity were shaken as if by an earthquake. For fully ten seconds the ignition of the gas illuminated the neighborhood. All the men were hurled several feet and the platform took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished by the fire department. Professor Goddard was thrown 20 feet, and severely burned about the face and arms. Professor Palis Panis was not so badly injured. The balloon was the largest in existence, and cost $20,000.

Supposed to be Reliable.

LONDON, July 8.—In the House of Commons to-night Lord George Hamilton said that no want of confidence had been expressed as to the utility of the six-inch breech loading gun which recently exploded on board the British war ship Cordelia during target practice off the coast off Australia, by which two officers and four seamen were killed and many others were injured. The gun had been in use for some years. It was one of the earliest designs of six-inch breech loaders. During the target practice the gun had been fired six rounds. Then it was loaded with a full charge and a 34-pound cannon ball. When the seventh round was fired the gun burst.

She is 176 feet long over all, 40 feet beam, 27 feet depth of hold, 2400 tons net, and her cost was $100,000. She was built and is owned by C. R. Burgess of Wolfville and Kingsport and by Boston and New York parties. She is chartred to load deals from St. John for Liverpool.

Love in Zululand.

Nestling among the hills, fanned by the fragrant zephyrs of the antipodes, lies the beautiful little village of Fiji. 'Tis twilight and the sun seeks to hide its luminous rays 'neath the western horizon, leaving the world to quiet and repose.

Reclining gracefully in a seat in her papa's summer villa, her luxuriant locks screening her shapely form from the unholy gaze of strangers, is the Fiji maiden Aggie Zululla.

She was thinking.

Her mirror had long since told her she was beautiful—with a complexion of purest ebony, creamy blue eyes peeping roguishly out from 'neath snowy white eyelashes, all in a setting of bushy golden hair—she was indeed a picture to gaze upon.

Little wonder that jealous rivals cast envious glances as she passed. Some went even so far as to insinuate that she used charcoal for the complexion. But all of no avail, for little Aggie Zululla was the pride of the village and the dream of love-sick Fiji swains.

Of her lovers, two only were favored with her smile—and the little heart of the African maiden knew not which she loved the best.

Washawalla was a perfect specimen of manhood—the grandson of a former ruler of the tribe—a member of the Y. M. C. A. and the champion cannibal of Zululand. As children these two hearts roamed the jungles of Africa, snaring snakes and killing tigers in childish glee, and the friendship thus formed waxed strong and in maturer years they attended the theatre together, and sometimes partook of a light after-theatre lunch, where, over delicious morsels of fried missionary on toast, they'd again pledge their troth in bumpers of human blood. Oh! those were happy times for these young people. But dark days were to come. Already a cloud had passed before his vision. He trembled at the thought of seeing the idol of his heart the wife of another. He swore that could never be.

And Aggie Zululla sat thinking. Grim war had thrown its dread mantle over the land. After three weeks of peace and plenty the nation was plunged into the throes of combat. The gallant chief, Kalakakaka, was slain at the head of his troops. All seemed lost and the tribe doomed to destruction. A thousand Fijis pursued by 10,000 Kaffirs and all chance of escape cut off. It was then Jim Jam Boueze, a warrior in the ranks of the Fijis, single-handed attacked the opposing party, and so fearful was the slaughter that the Kaffirs fled in dismay, leaving the Fijis masters of the field and the warrior the hero of the hour.

With tears streaming down his wrinkled face the venerable ruler, King Ha Ilsan Djutty, ordered a monster royal picnic and barbecue, at which there was great rejoicing, and the enemy were served in tender steaks and hot-pies. Jim Jam Boueze was accorded the post of honor and allowed to select anything which his heart desired. Arising in his seat, dashing a tear which lingered in his eye, he said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, you do me honor. I select the most priceless gift of the kingdom, the jewel inimitable of the entire world, Miss Aggie Zululla, the fairest maid upon whom the sun ever shone. Please pass a little more of that stewed arm. Had this war been in America she would have made clothes for us to wear in battle. But the African warrior wears no clothes. Come to my arms, my future wife."

And Aggie came.

Washawalla was much incensed at all this, but he ceased the debate when Jim Jam Boueze used him as a target. He died a violent death and his remains were served fricassee at the wedding banquet, which was the most brilliant event in the annals of Zululand.

And Aggie Zululla ceased thinking.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS CULLED FROM VARIOUS FIELDS.

What Fishes Eat—An Interesting Description of the Operation As Performed by Various Kinds—"Hot Waves" and Hurricanes—Points of Progress.

Here are some facts which tell how fishes eat, which will be interesting not only to boys and girls but their riders as well:

The sea urchin has five teeth in five jaws—one in each jaw—all the five immediately surrounding the stomach. The jaws have a peculiar centralized motion, all turning inward and downward, so that they also act as feeders.

Snails have teeth on their tongues, hundreds of them, but as if these were not enough, some have them also in their stomach.

The cuttle-fish, which among other strange things always walks with its head downward, does not chew its food at all, but masticates with its gizzard.

The ray, or skate, has a smooth mouth set transversely across its head, the jaws working with a rolling motion like two hands set back to back. In the jaws are three rows of flat teeth, set like a mosaic pavement, and between these rolling jaws the fish crushes oysters and other mollusks, like so many nuts.

The carp's teeth are set back on the pharynx, so that it may be literally said to masticate its food in its throat. The carp, too, is about the only cud-chewing fish, the coarsely-swallowed food being forced up to those throat teeth for complete mastication.

Some fishes are absolutely toothless, like the sucker and lamprey; others again have hundreds and hundreds of teeth, sometimes so many that they cover all parts of the mouth.

The great Greenland whale has no teeth, its baleen plates, or whalebone, taking their place. Along the centre of the palate runs a strong ridge, and on each side of this there is a wide depression along which the plates are inserted. These are long and flat, hanging free and are placed across the mouth with their sides parallel and near each other. The base and outer edge of the plates are of solid whalebone, but the inner edges are fringed, filling up the interior of the mouth and acting as a strainer for the food, which consists of the small swimming mollusks and medusæ or jellyfishes.

While the Greenland whale has no teeth, the sperm whale has them in great quantities on the lower jaw, and uses them, too, when occasion requires. On the other hand, the narwhale very seldom developes more than one, the left upper canine. It makes up for the lack of numbers by the extraordinary growth attained by this one tooth. It grows out and right forward on a line with the body, until it becomes a veritable tusk, sometimes reaching the length of ten feet.

The river dolphin of South America has 322 teeth.

The sturgeon is toothless, and draws in its food by suction, but the shark has hundreds of teeth set in rows that sometimes number ten.

Lobsters and crabs masticate their food with their horny jaws, and they have also sets of teeth in their stomachs, where they complete the work of chewing.

There is one peculiar kind of crab, called the king or horseshoe crab, which chews its food with its legs. This is an actual fact, the little animal grinding its little morsels between its thighs before it passes them over to its mouth.

The jelly fish absorbs its food by wrapping itself around the object which it seeks to make its own. The star fish is even more accommodating. Fastening itself to the body it wishes to feed on, it turns its stomach inside out and enwraps its prey with this useful organ.

The clam feeds with a siphon, and the oyster with its beard.

BIRTH.

ARMSTRONG—At 279 Bethune street, Tuesday July 7, 1891, the wife of Moses Armstrong of a daughter.

Purify the importance of the blood in its pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Looking Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a small form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his fingernails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

PERLEY CONFIRMS IT.

HE ADMITS RECEIVING JEWELRY FROM MURPHY

The Government Suspends the Engineer on Account of This Admission—Interesting Testimony Given by Mr. Connolly at the McGreevy Scandal Investigation

OTTAWA, July 9.—At the Privilege and Elections Committee to-day Mr. H. F. Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, was examined. He said: "I will premise my statement with the declaration that the evidence given yesterday by Mr. Owen E. Murphy, respecting the jewelry transaction is correct. Mr. Murphy came to my house in Ottawa in January, 1887. He said he came on behalf of Larkin, Connolly & Co. to express to me their thanks for what I had done for them as engineer of the Quebec Harbor Commissioners. That I had taken hold of the clock in a state of almost total wreck and that by my skill and ability, I had made it what it is to-day, and that I had been the means of putting them on their feet. Murphy added that the firm wish to make some appreciation of my services. He then took a parcel from his pocket and handed it to me. I declined, but he persisted, and laid the package on the piano, covering it with a sheet of music. I persisted in my refusal, and to get rid of him said I would wear a ring and he might send me a present to my wife. After the latter a parcel of jewelry and plate came to our house by express from Montreal. In the month of April following I met Murphy in Quebec and took him to task for sending such a valuable presents. Murphy then handed me the bill for the articles and I have it now in my possession. I was simply annoyed at the matter. It affected me badly then and has affected me ever since. Over two years ago I resolved to repay the amount, but not having the money did not have the means to do so. In September 1890, after a two months' visit to England, I gave my I.O.U. to Michael Connolly, agreeing to repay him for the jewelry on August 1891. Mr. Perley added that the jewelry is still in his possession. Mr. Perley admitted that he had committed a great error in not returning the jewelry at once.

No Knowledge of the Books.

Mr. Nicholas Connolly was the next witness. Mr. Connolly was asked as to the date of payment of the several notes given by Jackson, as shown by the books. He expressed great reluctance to speak on the point, as he said he had no knowledge whatever of the books. He was not an educated man and not capable of speaking of book keeping matters. He was a mechanical man and took was his part on the works. Asked how it was that he came to be cashier, for a man of his abilities were as stated, he said he got a position as cashier in 1885, when Mr. Larkin moved on to his building. He was next questioned by Mr. Tarte as to the supplementary dredging contract. This was awarded at a higher price than the former contract and Mr. Murphy had sworn that the work should have cost less, though a contrary representation had been made to the Public Works Department. Witness now stated, on the other hand, that the dredging would naturally be more expensive and explained in detail why. As a matter of fact he did not know that it had cost more because the dredging was done this time under his personal supervision, while Mr. Murphy was in charge of the dredges before. He thought that his mechanical experience had enabled him to reduce the cost, and what his bookkeeper told him was in accordance with that impression. To Mr. Lister witness said he could not say what had become of the two sums of $2,000 and $2,500 charged to expense account, and which Murphy swore was paid for procuring the contracts. He had signed the audits in which these sums appeared in order to avoid a break up of the firm in its then condition. Murphy would not tell Murphy handled the cash and when brought to task about these payments for which there were no vouchers, he would say in effect "that is not for you to know. The money will come back."

"What did you say?" asked Mr. Lister.

Witness: "I said I never saw any of it come back."

He further stated that Murphy gave the impression that the money was spent for political purposes. He supposed it had gone to the committee.

Mr. Lister: "The committee of the party that Mr. Murphy belonged to?"

He Rode Both Horses.

Witness: Mr. Murphy. I think, belonged to both parties. (Laughter.) In explanation of the answer he said that one party was in power at Ottawa and the other at Quebec.

Mr. Lister: How did it come that after all this trouble Mr. Murphy still continued to be a financial man.

Witness: Mr. Murphy was always anxious to handle the cash.

Mr. Lister: How did you expect that the money would come back?

Witness: I never expected it to come back.

Mr. Lister: Well then, where did you understand it to be going?

Witness: I understood it to be going into the pockets of Owen Murphy and Robert McGreevy. Mr. Larkin and I talked the matter over and that was the conclusion we arrived at. We agreed also to tender no more with Robert McGreevy or Murphy. Murphy wanted Larkin squabbles out many years before he went out, but witness told him that as long as witness remained in Larkin should be treated as well as any one else.

To Mr. Geoffrion witness said he was aware before this morning that the $1885 mentioned by Mr. Perley was to be returned to the firm. The only partners now and in September, 1890, were himself and his brother, Michael. No one else ever had any interest in the Kingston contract.

At 1 o'clock further examination of this witness was deferred until next sitting. It was decided that after Mr. Lister's evidence it would not be necessary to bring Mr. Birks and the officer of the Express Company from Montreal. The chairman advised that authority should be asked from the House for the Committee to sit during the meeting of the House so as to expedite the enquiry. This was agreed to, Mr. Davis remarking that the members were not required in the chamber during the budget debate.

Continuatory Evidence.

In answer to telegrams of enquiry sent to Birks, jeweler, Montreal, yesterday for confirmation or otherwise of O. E. Murphy's testimony as to the jewelry gifts to Mr. Perley three telegrams have been received from Birks. In the first Mr. Birks states that he sold as alleged a bill of $1885 to Murphy in the summer of 1887, but he thinks it was for silverware. Jewelry was sent to Mr. Murphy himself, not expressed to Mrs. Perley. Mr. Murphy being at the Quebec train and the bill being paid for in two $900 Union Bank bills. At a later date he sold Murphy two diamond earrings valued at $170. The other telegram stated that having looked up his books, Mr. Birks had found that he had mistaken the date of the silverware purchase, which was in 1888, and that Mr. Murphy's statement was quite correct.

Mr Perley Suspended.

H. F. Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, has been suspended in consequence of his admission before the Committee of Privileges and Elections this morning that he had received $1,885 worth of plate and jewelry from O. E. Murphy.

The Interior Department Scandal.

OTTAWA, July 9.—There were some strange developments at yesterday's meeting of the Public Accounts Committee. Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Somerville, M.P., submitted to a severe examination several clerks employed in the Interior Department. It transpired that the clerks, under assumed names, signed checks and drew extra pay for work done after hours. H. H. Turner, a clerk, admitted that he received $257.50 extra performed under the name of Joseph Wright. He possessed no power of attorney, but had received verbal authority from Wright, whom he had not seen more than three or four times in five years. Mr. Houry, of the secretary's branch, admitted that the system of substituting extra work was being carried on extensively. And Mr. A. M. Burgess, the deputy minister, said he did not know whether Wright was a fictitious name or not. Mr. Henry also stated that on one occasion Mr Burgess asked him to make out a cheque payable to Mr. Humphreys, a clerk in the department, for the sum of two hundred dollars. Subsequently Mr. Burgess explained the matter to the witness. It appears that the department owed his late father-in-law $100 for work performed in connection with the forestry commission. Mr Burgess had previously advanced his father-in-law the amount and informed the witness that he had taken this means to recoup himself.

LIKE STOPPING A CLOCK

The Electrocuted Murderer Struck Dead in an Instant.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The body of Harris A. Smiler, one of the electrocuted murderers, was brought to this city from Sing Sing yesterday and an autopsy was held. The examination showed beyond peradventure that Smiler's death was instantaneous. The face and leg were somewhat disfigured by the intense heat of the electrodes, but they were not burned. The skin was scarred as if it had been touched by a white hot iron or scalded by boiling water dashed on and instantly thrown off again, but the flesh was not burned. The eyes even were not scorched. The albumen of the eye had been changed like the heated white of an egg and a film had formed across the iris. The man had been struck blind and dead by the same arrow of electricity. As for the brain and other organs they were astonishingly normal. The lightning stroke of death had come so quick that the vital functions were taken by surprise. The man was killed as a clock is stopped without breaking or injuring its delicate machinery.

NEW VESSEL ROUTE.

A Syndicate Proposes to Run Steamers Through the Canals and Great Lakes.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 9.—Another syndicate of British capitalists has turned its attention to a new field for profitable investments and has selected this city as the base of operations. The great lakes are to be used for the establishment of a direct and continuous water communication between Chicago and the seaports of Great Britain. The vessels to be employed in this service will be of such a tonnage as to pass through the Canadian lock canals in safety and yet be thoroughly fitted for ocean travel.

The proposed line will result in a great saving of freight, and would be especially attractive to invalid passengers, who would otherwise be compelled to travel 1000 miles by land to the Atlantic seaboard.

The representative of the syndicate, J. D. Fairfax of London, who is at the Leland Hotel, admits that he is here to organize the Chicago terminus. The corporation will be known as "The Atlantic and Great Lakes Navigation and Trading Company, limit ed." It will build and operate its own vessels, for which purpose $5,000,000 has been subscribed.

Already contracts have been made with the large importers of Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit, Mr. Fairfax says, by which the merchants have agreed to ship and to instruct their foreign agents to ship all goods by this line.

"This," Mr. Fairfax added, "is not surprising when one considers that on our line no transfer will be necessary. The fleet will at first consist of ten steamships of about fifteen hundred tons and fitted with refrigerating machinery for the transportation of dressed beef. In the winter, when lake navigation is closed, the American terminus will be Portland, Me. The company is expected to begin business this season. If not, then with the opening of navigation next year."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

THE GOVERNMENT CHARGED WITH A BREACH OF FAITH

In Connection With the Debate on the Budget—Lively Discussion in the House Yesterday—Personalities at a Premium and the Speaker Interferes.

OTTAWA, July 9.—In the House this afternoon Mr. Girouard moved that the Committee on Privileges and Elections be permitted to sit while the House is in session in order to hasten the investigation into the Langevin-McGreevy scandal. After some discussion the motion was adopted on the suggestion of Sir John Thompson that if it were found inconvenient the resolution could be rescinded.

Sir John Thompson introduced a bill to amend the Supreme Court Act. One of the clauses provides by statute for the principle of referring constitutional questions to the Supreme Court for an opinion, the proposal being in almost the exact words of Mr. Blake's resolution on the question which was agreed to by the House last session. The only addition is a section to enable the court to take evidence on questions of fact. The second clause provides that the autumn term shall begin three weeks earlier than at present in October. The third clause removes doubt as to the power to appeal to the Supreme Court on writs of prohibition or certiorari.

The debate on the Budget, and Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment in favor of unrestricted reciprocity was resumed by Mr. Desjardins (L'Islet). He concluded by moving a second amendment expressing approval of the National Policy, of the system of subsidizing railways and building public works of the Government's prudent care of finances, of the recent reduction in taxation and pronouncing in favor of the principle of reciprocity, but declaring against discrimination towards Great Britain.

And Then the Fun Commenced.

Mr. Laurier said he did complain of the nature of this second amendment, but it was a direct breach of faith. By the rules of the House no amendment to Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment could be made if he had passed it when it was made. Sir Richard withdrew it temporarily to facilitate public business and at Mr. Foster's request on the distinct understanding that when it was next proposed to go into Committee of Ways and Means his amendment should stand in the same position as before. He asked Mr. Foster to keep his word. If the request was not granted the Opposition would understand no reliance could in future be placed upon his word. Mr. Desjardines' amendment would prevent a straight vote on Sir Richard's amendment.

Mr. Foster quoted from Hansard to show that there was no breach of faith. He argued that the understanding on which Sir Richard withdrew his amendment was that there should be the fullest discussion on it when it was next proposed to go into Committee of Ways and Means. Mr. Desjardines' amendment would not preclude a full discussion.

Sir Richard Cartwright regretted that the pettyfogging practice of a petty lawyer should be introduced. If the Government chose to go on from this time out no warning will be given of notice of amendment, and he warned them the result would be most unfortunate for them.

Sir John Thompson said the record of Hansard gave absolute falsification to the charge of breach of confidence. The insinuation of breach of faith recoiled on those who made it.

Mr. Mills Called to Order.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) said Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment would never have been withdrawn if it had not been understood that the debate would stand in the same position. He accused the Government of playing a trick.

The Speaker called Mr. Mills to order.

Mr. Mills said that if the word was unparliamentary he would withdraw it and say that the Finance Minister had broken faith "in a moment of weakness." [Great Liberal cheers.] That same moral cowardice which prevented Mr. Foster voting straight on prohibition prevented him from acting straight forwardly to-night.

After some further discussion the matter was dropped and the debate resumed by Mr. Stairs.

After a long discussion Mr. Desjardine amendment was withdrawn to leave Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment squarely before the House.

Dr. McDonald (Huron), moved the adjournment of the debate.

Highland Regiment for Toronto.

OTTAWA, July 9.—A deputation organized by Alexander Fraser and D. M. Robertson of Toronto, and consisting of Senators Allan and Sanford, Col. Fred. Denison, Major Hoo, MacLennen, Emerson Coatsworth, G. A. Kirkpatrick, George MacDonnell, A. W. Ross and others was introduced to the Minister of Militia to-day and submitted a proposal to form a Highland regiment in Toronto similar to the Royal Scots in Montreal. Mr. Fraser said 275 men had enrolled and wished to be formed into a regiment of six companies wearing the kilt. They did not wish a final answer at present, but wanted to place the matter before the Government and prepare the way for another deputation.

Sir Adolphe Caron said that if it were possible to grant the request he would be most happy to do so but there were financial difficulties to be considered.

Toronto Drill Shed.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Mr. Cockburn to-day asked the Minister of Militia when the Toronto drill shed would be begun.

Sir Adolphe Caron said that the department of Public Works had now charge of that work and he had every hope that the work would be proceeded with without any unnecessary delay.

A Prize for Canadian History.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Mr. Jeffrey H. Burland of Ottawa, manager of the British American Bank Note Company, has offered a prize of $2500 for the best Canadian history for school purposes. It is proposed to form a committee of leading Canadian Educationalists to supervise the details of the matter and award the prize. The matter will come up at the Educational convention in Toronto next week.

Christian Endeavor.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9. The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Association convened to-day. Father Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavor societies, came in during the morning, and was the most sought after man in the city. The annual convention was formally called to order shortly after 4 p.m. by Dr. Clark. Frank B. Daniels, chairman of the local committee, made the opening address of welcome.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, July 10.—The Sir John Macdonald Memorial Committee met last night and decided to erect a monument in the city to cost at least $50,000.

Joseph Swartz, a Hebrew shoe dealer, who carried on two stores in Queen street, is missing, and creditors mourn his departure to the tune of $3,000.

An Interesting Ceremony in Which Blind Persons Are the Contracting Parties.

HAMILTON, July 9.—An interesting wedding was performed at the Orphan Asylum yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Harry Bayless of Toronto was married to Miss Wade of this city. Miss Wade has been an inmate of the institution ever since she was an infant. She is partially blind and Mr. Bayless is totally so. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. P. Crawford. The bride was attended by Miss Springsteed and the groom by Mr. Stewart, who resides on the mountain. Miss Springsteed and Mr. Stewart are also blind, and were old schoolmates of the groom having attended the blind institute at Brantford together. Mr. Bayless is a teacher of music in Toronto and a piano tuner as well. The bride and groom left by the evening train for their future home.

CEREMONIES IN CONNECTION WITH THE EMPEROR'S VISIT.

A Garden Party at Marlborough House—Besieged With Addresses—Sensation at the Session of the Austrian Parliament—General Foreign News.

LONDON, July 9.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Labouchere protested against the attitude of Lord Salisbury toward the Dreibund as calculated to irritate France.

Sir James Fergusson, Under Foreign Secretary, said the Government was no party to the Dreibund, and was unaware of the terms of that alliance. The entente with Italy to maintain the statu quo on the Mediterranean was not hostile to any power. The sympathy and influence of England would be with the powers keeping the peace and against those breaking the peace. English interests would be chiefly consulted in any concerted action it might be necessary to meet unforeseen events.

Mr. Labouchere insisted Lord Salisbury was doing his best to envenom relations with France. "This policy," he said, "arose from the feeling that if the republic in France succeeded Republicanism would spread abroad in Europe." [Hear, hear.]

SUICIDE AT THE SESSION.

A Sensational Episode on the Floor of the Austrian Parliament.

VIENNA, July 9.—During the session of the Lower House of the Reichsrath to-day a man committed suicide with a revolver at the entrance to the Strangers' Gallery. He was identified as a hunter. He had come to the Reichsrath to demand justice in an imaginary lawsuit with the Rothschilds.

The London Festivities.

LONDON, July 9.—Emperor William this morning arose at 7 o'clock and soon after left his apartments for a canter in Rotten Row. Later he received deputations from the various German social and benevolent societies of London. The Emperor chatted freely and pleasantly with the delegates, who were charmed with the young ruler's frank, open behavior. When the German officers had backed themselves out of the Emperor's presence a deputation from the Anti-Slavery Society was ushered in. Hardly had the anti-slavery delegates left the palace when a delegate from the fishmongers was introduced, and again did the German Emperor courteously stand the fire of a long-winded address.

The Prince and Princess of Wales gave a garden party at Marlborough House, their London residence, last evening in honor of the Emperor. Rarely if ever has these beautiful gardens been crowded with such an assemblage of British and German aristocracy. There was a remarkable display of ladies' toilettes to set off the sparkling uniforms of the gentlemen.

A Bad Beginning.

LONDON, July 9.—Young Prince Aribert, who has just married the daughter of Prince Christian, had the misfortune to sprain his ankle when about to enter the carriage to start on his wedding tour. The Princess herself helped him into the carriage.

Wales Plays Baccarat Again.

LONDON, July 9.—It is stated that the Prince of Wales had a baccarat party at Windsor on Monday night, the Kaiser being an interested onlooker.

Politics and Death.

LONDON, July 9.—Mr. Gladstone, in a letter intimating that he would be unable to attend a Liberal meeting, says: "We, in our affliction, are deeply sensible of the mercies of God; He gave us for 50 years a most precious son. He has now only hidden him for a very brief space from the sight of our eyes. It seems a violent transition from such thoughts to the arena of political contentions, but the transition may be softened by the conviction we profoundly hold that we, in the first and greatest of our present controversies, work for the honor, well-being and future peace of our opponents not less than for our own.

Suicide of a Clergyman.

BOURNEMOUTH, July 8.—C. B. Porter, a clergyman of the American Methodist Episcopal Church, committed suicide here on Monday. He was found dead in his bedroom, with his head under the mattress and a bullet wound in his mouth. In a letter addressed to his brother, who was sleeping by his side, the unfortunate gentleman wrote "My brains are very much overdone, and sooner or later I shall be compelled to blow them out." Mr. Porter has latterly been very much depressed. The coroner's jury yesterday brought in a verdict of "temporary insanity."

Carried Proof in His Pocket.

MILAN, July 9.—Baret, the absconding sub-treasurer of the Marseilles municipality, who is charged with swindling operations, was arrested here to-day. Four thousand stolen bonds were found in his possession.

An Old Railway Man Dead.

HAMILTON, July 9.—John A. Ward, assistant G.T.R. paymaster, died suddenly yesterday, aged 77 years. He was a relative of the late Thomas Ridout, banker, of Toronto. Almost the whole of his life in Canada was spent in the service of the Great Western and Grand Trunk Railway Companies. He was ticket agent at Niagara Falls for the Great Western Company for several years, and sold the first ticket at that station.

Revealed by Mowing Kittens.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 9.—Kittens being hanged to E. H. Hoyt's stable of No. 238 Park avenue were heard crying for food to-day. Investigation revealed the fact that Mr. Doolittle was lying dead in the house and that he had been dead two or three days.

Thorold Boy Drowned.

THOROLD, Ont., July 9.—The 7-year-old son of Frank Hartley of this place fell into the canal here yesterday afternoon and was drowned.

Broke His Neck.

CALEDONIA, July 9.—James Taylor, colored, was found lying dead on the road near Mount Healy with his neck broken, and a companion named Latham was found lying in a fence corner near by fast asleep. The men had started in a buggy from York while intoxicated. The horse is supposed to have run away and upset the occupants in a ditch.

Found Dead by His Wife.

UXBRIDGE, Ont., July 9.—William Dobbs retired in his usual health Monday evening. Next morning his wife supposed he was sleeping, but not arising at his usual time went to awaken him, and was shocked to find that he was dead.

To Represent Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 9.—The American Commissioners to examine the condition of the seal fisheries in Behring Sea have been named and will soon be on their way to Alaska. The names, as agreed upon at the last Cabinet meeting, are Professor T. C. Mendenhall and Professor C. Hart Merriam. Professor Mendenhall is superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and is a scientist of the highest attainments. Professor Merriam is the ornithologist of the Agricultural Department.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Sir George Baden Powell and Dr. Dawson, the British commissioners in the Behring Sea matter, left for the Pacific Coast to-night, attended by Mr. James Macoun of the Geological Survey and Mr. Frouds as secretaries. None of Her Majesty's ships are available for their purpose and therefore a boat has been specially engaged at Victoria for them.

What Does it Mean?

"100 doses one dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355 92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,399 15
Increase over 1889	2,265,881 69
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,978 87
Increase over 1889	325 938 35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514 19
Increase over 1889	687,691 47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,169 222 68
Increase over 1889	567 732 71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175 69
Increase over 1889	75,649 05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fall thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,624 07
" " " " 1886, "	99,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY

Saturday's papers announced the glad tidings by which our progressive town will surpass many pretentious cities, it being intended to have at least two-and-a-half miles of the finest Electric Street Railway in Canada, in operation by September. This added to our large manufacturing industries and rail way facilities, present and prospective, must place Peterborough far in advance of any other town or city in Central Ontario.

Notwithstanding the above, which in itself is sufficient to cause owners to advance the prices of their properties, I intend to fulfil my promise to sell Lots and House and Lots until 15th inst. at discount from old prices of from 5 to 40 per cent. After that date the prices will go up as sure as the sun will rise because the properties are now offered much under value.

Buy now and you will make money by doing so.

SCANDAL UPON SCANDAL.

Recent developments point to the advisability of making the members of the Privileges and Election Committee of the House of Commons life members. This will be necessary if the scandals continue to crop up as they have done recently. The Tarte-McGreevy-Langevin-Larkin, Connolly & Co.-Murphy-Perley scandal is only, apparently, in mid-swing, when we have the Kingston graving dock crookedness coming serenely to the surface, and also the minor (as to persons) scandals of civil servants in the Interior Department drawing money for "extra" services in the names of other persons. But one thing at a time. The following particulars of the Kingston scandal, affecting the department of "the oldest privy councillor," Sir Hector Langevin, are taken from the Globe:

In February, 1889, the department advertised for tenders for the construction of a graving dock at Kingston. The date for receiving them was March 27. The lowest tender received purported to be that of A. C. Bancrofs. It amounted to $261,000. McFarlane's tender was the next lowest—$285,000. Then came the tender of the Connollys, members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., for $322,000, and some higher ones. The contract having been been awarded to Bancrofs, he wrote to the department asking to have the Connollys admitted to partnership with him. This was done and the contract was placed and stands to day in the name of Bancroft & Connolly. The entrance to the dock was to have been 48 feet wide, but at a later stage the engineer in charge recommended that it should be increased to 60 feet, so as to accommodate large late vessels of the Cibola type. An order in Council was passed to that effect. A few days afterwards, however, the engineer reported that a width of 55 feet would be sufficient. Here a curious thing occurs. The engineer stated that the elargement of the mouth of the dock from 48 to 60 feet would not involve additional cost. But when he reported in favor of 55 feet he said that an extra cost of $35,000 would be entailed. Mr. Gibson, now the member for Lincoln, who tendered for the work, agrees that there should have been no extra outlay either for the 55 or for the 60 foot entrance. "There is less masonry," he said in the House, "for a fifty-five foot opening, and I know what I am talking about." At any rate Bancroft & Connolly got the $35,000, and it now appears that the job when completed will cost all of $450,000! When a vote for the dock came up in the house last week Mr. Gibson cited the facts just given. Mr. Amyot, primed it may be by Mr. Tarte, had previously pressed Sir Hector for information about Bancrofs. It was stated that a box in the Kingston post office had been leased to Bancrofs or in Bancrofs's name, but said Mr. Amyot, "I have reason to believe that Bancroft never had a box there." A week ago Mr. Haggart said he had made inquiry, after Mr. Amyot had referred to the matter, but could learn nothing from the Kingston post office as to Bancrofs. Sir Hector was cross-questioned on the same day, but his replies were evasive. All he would say was that the contract had been given to Bancroft and was subsequently turned over to Bancroft & Connolly. "Is it not the practice," asked Mr. Mills, "to require each individual party in a firm to sign the contract, and does this contract show the signatures of the parties?" Sir Hector's reply was:—"I have no doubt the contract is signed by the two parties." On Tuesday some of the papers were submitted to the House. Amongst them was Bancroft's original tender; a letter of the Connollys dated at Ottawa, April 4, 1889, informing the department that "in the event of Mr. A. C. Bancroft's tender being accepted we have agreed to enter into the contract with him"; and a letter signed by A. C. Bancroft written on the same day from the Russel House at Ottawa informing the department that he contemplated entering into partnership with the Connollys. Mr. Laurier having acted as counsel for Mr. Tarte in the Larkin-Connolly affair is familiar with the handwriting of Connolly, and he declares positively that the Bancroft tender and the Bancroft letter were written by that person. It further appears that the register of the Russel House for April 4, 1889, shows the signature of Michael Connolly, but Bancroft was not there. Bancrofs is evidently a myth, an alias or pretonom for Michael Connolly himself. Sir Hector was asked on Tuesday by Mr. Tarte: "Did the Minister ever see Bancroft?" The reply was:—"I refuse to answer the question." But this top lofty altitude will not do. If Bancrofs was simply Michael Connolly and Michael Connolly, Bancroft, Sir Hector must allow that a great fraud was perpetrated upon the department. For in that case Connolly obtained the contract by means of a bogus tender, and then succeeded in getting extras sufficient to bring the price up to a figure in excess of the genuine offers. How was that accomplished? Connolly's letters relating to the Esquimalt dock are in evidence to show what manner of man he is.

Another scandal, as referred to above, and a remarkable one, was struck on Wednesday a little below the surface. The Public Accounts Committee was inquiring into certain payments referred to in the Auditor-General's report when it was discovered that clerks in the Interior Department have been in the habit of drawing money for "extra services" in the names of other persons. A clerk named Turner, in receipt of a salary of $800 a year, has regularly received checks for working over-time, drawn by the department in favor of one Joseph Wright, and has endorsed them by writing Wright's name on the back and cashed them at the bank. Wright, he says, was a relative of his who once lived in the States and in England but who has been dead for some time. But his death has not prevented Turner from continuing to draw public money in his name. Mr. Burgess, the Deputy-Minister, was aware of what was going one, for when questioned he admitted that Wright was to all intents and purposes a myth. It is said that thousands of dollars has been paid out in this surreptitious manner. The Civil Service Act provides that no permanent clerk shall receive payment for extra services in any department unless the sum is brought down in the supplementary estimates and voted by the House in the regular way. To evade the law bogus names have been used by the clerks, with the knowledge and sanction, of course, of their superiors. In another case it was shown that a clerk named Humphreys had performed extra work of the value of $100, and that a check was drawn in his favor for $200, one half the proceeds of which was paid to another person, the private secretary of the Minister, who claimed it for work said to have been done by his deceased father-in-law. The check was certified by the secretary of the department with the approval of Mr. Burgess. The former "did not think it was right," but the latter failed to see the wrong, and the private secretary was equally blind. It would be well for the committee to follow up these revelations. The employment of dead men's names for the purpose of evading a statute and the payment of money in an illegal manner on account of dead men's services are practices which cannot be stopped too soon. The Interior Department is evidently in a state of demoralization. In fact in view of what is coming to light all round, the whole service at Ottawa seems to be filled with dry-rot and fraud.

For the cure of female weakness, suppressions, nervousness, bearing down pains and all those peculiar ailments that make woman's life almost unbearable, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and bring a glow of health to sallow cheeks. All dealers, or by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

THE NEWSPAPER PRINTER.

One of the Speeches That Made a Hit at the Printers' Banquet.

One of the best speeches on the occasion of the recent printers' banquet at the Wayne hotel was made by Harry D. Lindley in responding to the toast of "The newspaper printer." Mr. Lindley is a compositor on the Tribune and well qualified to speak on behalf of his associates as the following will demonstrate:

"The newspaper printer is the cosmopolitan, the beacon light of civilization; the lighthouse on the rocky shore of the seething sea of humanity; the alumni of the great educational storehouse of the world. 'Tis he who puts in place, one by one, the little leaden dies that makes orators, statesmen and nations, builds cities, tears to pieces the selfish structures of tyranny, breaks the chains of slavery and welds more firmly the encircling bands of fraternal love. 'Tis he before whom monarchs tremble and republics bow in homage.

"The newspaper printer is a great traveler—not always in vestibule trains, however. Sometimes, in fact, quite frequently, he travels in that class of rolling stock known to railroad men as double-deckers, with a little enthusiasm, a short pipe and a plug of tobacco for his diet. At other times he revels in the luxuries of a millionaire, and actually indulges in palace cars, champagne, Havanas, a little gold in his pocket, and even goes so far as to get a square meal. Then again, on the uppers of his shoes, he may be seen wearily measuring the miles from city to city, mother earth for his couch and the blue canopy of heaven for his mantle, happy as a clam at high tide. Yes, he may be found, alas! too often, at the punch bowl, with destruction of body, brain and soul staring him in the face—the prince of paupers, the pride of kings, the magnetic needle on the compass of empires.

"The newspaper printer is a great comedian, a fair tragedian, a good emotional or melodramatic character and his line in grand or comic opera is well up in the cast. As an orator he is emphatic, enthusiastic, sublime, and his greatest oratorical powers are brought into requisition when he takes from the copy hook a piece of illegible manuscript. He turns it endwise, sidewise, upside down, then lays it down and ponders over it till his brain seems on fire, then, in language more emphatic than poetic, he exclaims that the cockroach that crawled over and ruined that paper must have been crazy or drunk, and in the next breath, to soothe out his aching brain, he bawls out in stentorian tones, 'Who'll give out a pipe, tobacco and a match, I've got the wind!'

"Charitable! I should say they are. They are charitable to a fault. They will give their last dime to a brother in distress, divide their lunch or Apollinaris water. A newspaper printer was never appealed to in vain for a worthy charity—his response always coming with that heaven born impulse that dispels for the moment the dark clouds of despair.

"The newspaper printer has tribulations and trials known only to his craft. Few there are who realize the fact that he stands at the case 10 to 14 hours daily endeavoring to make English of the mangled language of some aspirant to reportorial fame, and in that endeavor makes use of some word unknown to the vocabulary of the would-be George William Curtis, only to find his proof butchered and the air blue with eloquence from the author, and perhaps the next issue of the paper will contain a paragraph explaining that the 'intelligent compositor made us say the printers' Ben Franklin banquet was a failure, when everybody knows it was a most enjoyable success.

"The newspaper printer is full of patience and long suffering, and watchfully waits for the fame and fortune which come not till the merciless earth is thrown over his lifeless clay and his spirit has flown to the farther shore, but when Gabriel blows his trump, when '30' is in on the main line, may we all have the 'take' with which we have been struggling these many years well made, even, our galleys all corrected and revised, and our final proofs found to be so clean by the great proof reader above that he will say to us, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servants.'"

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Try them. Sold by all dealers, or by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Address Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

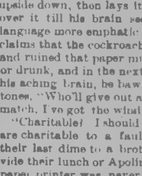
Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.



"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it can not be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Ebenezer's Kid

Ebenezer Orlo he was a chum of mine at school
A mighty harassome fellow and a very decent chap
The teacher outer crack us with the same old hickory rule,
And warm our epidermis with the same old cowhide strap
We outer eat our dinnies from the same old battered pail
We outer go a-fishin' with the same old ashen rod
We outer sit an' wrestle on the same old hasswood rail
And set our sleds for dinner from the same old Lumpy hill
To-night I got a letter with a post mark strange and foreign
I opened on that a letter comes my lonely life to cheer
It's signed by one Hunter Know by Ebenezer Orlo
I ain't seen my comrade old for more than twenty years
He asked about the boys and girls with manner light and bland
How's Lize, Louise and Harriet, how's Jack and Jim and Sal
An then there was a postscript in a lady's flow ing hand
Uncle ed please find a photograph of Eben Sizer's kid

I read that the Ebenezerest spellin an ed wrunk
An addlin on some figures why he didn't dizz on me
I surely took the largest share of all the village fightin
I could lose him in a foot race and beat him climbin a tree,
For in the race he's beat me in the wondrous days of life
But I am all alone and lost, in mists and dark ness hid
In need a happy little home a dainty little wife
Near me I think I'm envious of Ebenezer's kid

CHOW TAI CHONG'S BABY.

There Was a Little Mistake That Marred a Glorious Feed.

Chow Tai Chong is a popular young man in Chinatown says the New York Sun. Some fifteen months ago he applied to a San Francisco matrimonial agency to send him a wife. In three days the order was filled and a demure little almond-eyed beauty arrived in a closed carriage in front of Chow Tai Chong's residence in Mott street. There was a grand wedding feast. That was about fourteen months ago.

Tai Chong's face became conspicuously scarce in Mott street society. It was said that he was busily engaged in teaching his better half the English language. Then one day several weeks ago he appeared dressed up to kill, and in his arms he tenderly caressed a big, fat baby, as proud as a red buttoned mandarin of the first rank.

Nigee babee, Tai, cried half a dozen admiring heathens. Him boy or gal?

Boy, replied the proud owner.

The birth of a male in a Chinese family is a thing to be proud of. A Chinese son can on almost always depend upon for support during your declining years, while your daughter generally leaves you to serve others, namely, her husband and his relatives. The Chinese do not think it worth their while to waste one time or money Christen a female infant, but a boy at his name feast often gets more money presents from the father's friends than he could legitimately earn in his entire after life.

Chow Tai Cheng was determined to make the least of his son a great occasion over forty spreads each spread consisted of eight pairs of chopsticks were ordered of the best delicacies of the Chinese, American and Italian markets, and over 500 red cards of invitation were printed and sent out. When the time came over 300 guests came with their $5, $10, and $20 gold pieces and gold and pearl jewels to enrich the yet empty pockets of the little Chow and eat the big dinner.

All the happy guests were seated at their respective chopsticks and the steaming dishes of boiled ducks' feet and chicken liver sausages were before them when some one whispered that all was not exactly what it was.

Every heathen looked at the gloaming countenance of his neighbor. What does all this mean? Where is mine host and the baby? Is all this a hoax? Could it be a rag baby?

No, replied one of the smiling guests, it is no rag baby but but—

But, exclaimed half a score all at once. But what, tell us the joke, quick.

He is a girl.

What is?

The boy is.

Several excited guests tossed their ivory chopsticks into the air, while others grabbed their hats and took back their $20 gold pieces but they had already declared upon a red coat as they entered the banqueting hall. For a space of several minutes the entire assembly howled and hooted and laughed, while a committee was sent out to bring in the host.

Chow Tai Chong had got the tip and once more disappeared. He subsequently told a friend that he had himself been deceived by his little wife

A Palpable Hit.

Coming out of the courtroom one day two lawyers were conversing.

"That was a very bright reply, indeed," said one, "and did it ever occur to you that often such things lead to success in business, as much so as some suitable manœuver in trade? Apropos, quick repartee is a wonderful weapon. Many a man who imagined he was soaring to the very highths of eloquence has been cut down by a word. I remember of hearing that on one occasion, at a dinner, Hooper Chess was making a speech, in the course of which he referred to himself as a self made man.

"Gentlemen" said he, "I'm a self made man." Shaking his head vigorously, which was innocent of hair as the outside of an egg, he repeated "a self made man."

He paused a moment, when William G. Fraters, who was present, said to him, with that well-known stutter that gave point to his utterance:

"W-w-well, Chess, w-w-when you m-m-made your-your-your-self, didn't you make some hair?"—New York Press.

A Novel Hanging-Basket.

A very pretty and novel ornament for a window is a carrot hanging-basket. No doubt many people will think it a great stretch of imagination to dream of getting any beauty out of such a commonplace article as a carrot, but if they will try it I think they will change their minds. Take a large, sound carrot and cut off the crown of it about four inches down. Scoop out the inside until it forms a cup, leaving the sides about half an inch thick, and the bottom an inch or more. Make three or four holes in the rim of the cup and draw a string through them to hang it up by. Hang it in a window and keep constantly full of water. In a short time the yellow-green leaves start out on the crown and grow rapidly upward toward the light. As they grow they deepen in color, and soon the carrot itself is hidden by a feathery, beautiful mass of rich dark green leaves. It is certainly a thing of beauty, and although it will not last forever, it will last a long time, if kept full of water, and afford its owner much satisfaction, not only from her own friends when they find that the "lovely plant" they have been admiring is nothing but a common carrot, MAUD in The Housekeeper.

A Husband the Fortune of This Pretty Maid

HAMILTON, July 8.—Miss Myra Hurrell, who a couple of years ago received a verdict of $500 damages against Thomas O'Callaghan of London for breach of promise, was married yesterday to William Stephenson of Winnipeg. Over a year ago, by some coincidence, the two repaired on the same evening to the establishment of a colored necromancer in Hughson-street. There they met. It was a case of love at first sight for the groom. He secured the young lady's address and called upon her shortly afterwards. Whether or not Stephenson was the one pictured by the fortune-teller as the custodian of Myra's affections is not known, but in a short time he became so. And yesterday they were married.

Bark on Fire at Sea

LONDON, July 8.—A dispatch from Auckland, New Zealand, reports that the bark Campadre, bound from Calcutta to Chili, recently caught fire at sea. After an ineffectual effort to subdue the flames the captain steered his course for Bluff Harbor, a seaport of the province of Otago, New Zealand. He had succeeded in bringing his burning vessel to the mouth of the harbor, when a tremendous hurricane overtook her and drove her on the uninhabited Auckland Islands. The crew reached the shore by swimming, and spent 103 days there, suffering terribly from exposure and starvation. On the one hundred and fourth day they were rescued.

Dr. Leohg has raised a sensation in Berlin by accusing Prof. Bergmann and Dr. Hahn of experimenting with cancer inoculations since 1887 on hospital patients without their knowledge or consent. Doctors Bergmann and Hahn admit the truth of the charge, but they claim that in every case the patient has been past recovery. They add as an excuse that it is necessary to select human beings for experiments, as the lower animals are unsuitable.

Harsh But——?

"Ho," said a well known statesman, "I shall never believe that woman has the proper judgment and sense to cast a ballot, or interfere in politics, while she is so weak-minded as to passively suffer, year after year, from diseases peculiar to females, when every newspaper she picks up tells of the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription. Not to take advantage of this remedy is certainly an indication of mental weakness."

There is a wholesome kernal of truth inside the rough shell of this ungallant speech. The "Favorite Prescription" is invalable in all uterine troubles, inflammations, ulcerations, displacements, nervous disorders, prostration, exhaustion or hysteria. For run-down, worn out women, no more strengthening tonic or nervine or known. b

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—193 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not cross this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

JUST WHAT YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR.

On the 28th inst. the 57th Battalion Band and Canton Peterborough, No. 10, I.O.O.F., will run the cheapest and best excursion of the season. It will take in Toronto, Galt and intermediate and surrounding places. It will pay you to reserve that date and watch the papers for such particulars as will please and astonish you.

"The Dominion Illustrated.

The issue of the Dominion Illustrated for July 4th, has a fine account of a fishing trip by Douglas Sladen, the poet, on the north shore of Lake Superior, in wild, grand and picturesque region opened up by the C. P. R. Miss MacLeod, whose Reverent Pilgrimages was so delightful a series of letters, contributes a charming article on Balmoral and the Highlands, illustrated by views of the Queen's favourite residence as seen from the river. "My first Twenty-four Hours in a California Mining Camp" recalls vividly the famous days of the forty-niners. There are many fine engravings and much bright reading matter in this issue. The Dominion Illustrated is a delightful weekly visitor that should be found in every cultured home.

Improvements in the West.

A part of the town that is sharing in the general prosperity is the block known as the Erin property. The neighborough is rapidly building up, streets are being graded and sidewalks laid. The walk along Cedar street has been continued to Cambridge street and along Walnut street. A large number of shade trees have been planted both on the street and in and about the Erin property. Mr. W. Fitzgerald has a part of the block in the market and a number of good lots are for sale. The locality is first class and offers a good chance to those who want to build. Mr. Fitzgerald will arrange to sell lots and put up houses at low cost. Workingmen should see him and learn the terms. 3d6

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Battalion Notes.

The regular inspection of th 57th Battalion will take place to night. Every member is urged to turn out promptly at 6:30 o'clock, so that the inspection can be conducted by daylight. Col. Straubenzie has been very considerate towards the 57th, coming to town on Monday, June 29th for a partial inspection to permit the Battalion to get away to Ottawa on their holiday; and now, that he is coming to-night to complete the inspection, it is incumbent upon every member of the Battalion to turn out, and at 6:30 sharp. The Battalion will parade at the drill shed at 6:30, and march to Riverside Park where the evolutions and inspection will take place. Men of the 57th, sharp is the word to-night.

Her Majesty's Birthday and the Order of the Bath.

"It affords us," says the Belfast News-Letter of June 5th, "much pleasure to notice in the London Gazette that the Queen has been graciously pleased, on the occasion of the celebration of Her Majesty's Birthday, to give orders for the appointment of Brigade-Surgeon Robert Waters, J.P., White Fort, Tubbermore, to be an ordinary member of the military division of the third class, or Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath. This distinction has been conferred by Her Majesty upon Brigade-Surgeon Waters in recognition of his distinguished services." Dr. Waters, we understand, is brother of Mrs. Anderson, wife of the Rev. William Anderson, M.A., minister of Bobcaygeon and Dunsford.

New Dental Firm.

The people of the town of Peterborough and surrounding country who have so kindly welcomed Dr. A. J. Robertson among them, and who have shown their appreciation of his professional services by so heartily continued a patronage, will not be surprised that, through stress of professional duties, he has taken as a partner, Dr. A. Rose, late of Norwood. Dr. Rose comes highly recommended from his late field of practice, where, though but two years a resident, he succeeded in making a large number of warm and appreciative friends, both socially and professionally. The Register of July 2nd says:—"Dr. Rose commenced the practice of his profession in Peterborough yesterday as an associate of Dr. Robertson. The Dr., although only a short time here, succeeded in establishing a very lucrative practice, which speaks volumes for his skill as a dental surgeon. Peterborough is to be congratulated on securing so worthy an addition to her professional ranks. 1d7-2w29

Dr. Davies' Organ Recital

A fair audience of the really musical people of the town assembled in St. John's church last night to hear Dr. Davies. The programme as printed in yesterday's impression was faithfully adhered to and rendered with that artistic skill which marks his organ performances. The numbers specially worthy of mention, though there was not a weak number, are Batiste's "Offertaire in D minor." While every movement was executed with admirable taste and expression, the finale was performed with exceptional brilliancy, the performer giving a very sympathetic and intelligent interpretation of the author's grand conception. Another delightful number was the Adagio from Mendelssohn's "First Quartette," the varieties of tone of the different instruments represented in the score being very skilfully and perceptibly preserved. Passing by Greig's Capriccio in A, a sparkling little musical fancy brightly presented, the audience heard with great pleasure Suppe's Overture to "Pique Dame," a brilliant composition, abounding in striking orchestral effects. Haydn's serenata for violin solo was noticeable for the wonderful effects simulating the tone of the violin which Dr. Davies' treatment afforded, even the harmonics being reproduced with delightful effect. But to the genuine lover of classical music, the piece de resistance was the magnificent finale to Mendelssohn's "Third Symphony." In this also the player seemed for the moment to substitute a full orchestra for the organ, so admirable was the fidelity of the reproduction of the tone of a full orchestra. The March from Prout's Cantata "Alfred," a very clever and effective composition, brought a very enjoyable programme to a close. A most annoying feature of the evening was the sudden cessation of the water motor in the midst of a selection, caused by the draught of the engines taking water, relieving the pressure of the mains, which all church organs in town have to suffer, even in the midst of Sunday services. Otherwise the recital was a delightful treat to the musically-trained and an educative inspiration to others.

A Deplorable Fatality.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Callaghan, of East Ops, who lost a little son recently under circumstances of a most distressing character. The little fellow, who was about four years of age, took a drink of water to his father at work in a field at some distance from the house, and, on his return, commenced playing about. After a time the mother, who was occupied with her household duties, missed him, but supposed he had again sought his father. Some time later on as she was about to deposit some refuse in a swill-barrel standing outside, she looked in and noticed what she thought was a rag sticking out of the mess. Catching hold of it she was horrified to find that it was a portion of the clothing of her son, who had in some way climbed up and had fallen in head first, being suffocated without being able to raise an outcry. The grief of the poor mother was terrible in its intensity.—Lindsay Post.

Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. McGrath,—That Committee on Supplies be instructed to have the floor over Miss Lynch's room deadened and to inspect the different schools and have all necessary repairs done which are required, also to procure the needed supplies for the schools.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

The Agriculturists' Educational Institute

Annual Meeting of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute

The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held in the town hall, Norwood, on Friday. There was a fair attendance of representative farmers of the riding. After the reading of the minutes, etc., President Birdsall gave a short review of the work of the Institute during the year, and coupled with his remarks many useful pointers on farming—the result of his own personal experience. The auditors' report, which showed a balance in the hands of the treasurer, was received and adopted. The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT—F. Birdsall, Esq.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Chas. O'Reilly, Esq.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—A. Scott, Esq.
TREASURER—P. Doherty, Esq.
SECRETARY—J. W. Clarke, Esq.
AUDITORS—A. Scott, Esq., and Robert Burgess, Esq.
DIRECTORS—Messrs. R. Burgess, Thomas Blezard, M.P.P., W. G. Patterson, J. Murphy, T. M. Grover, Geo. English, W. Miller, W. J. Howson, Jas. Moore, John Knox, H. Humphries, R. Cometock, Chas. Nicoll, Jas. Drummond, J. Brackenridge and Thos. Brown.

Messrs. F. Birdsall and Robt. Burgess were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the Central Farmers' Institute, with instructions to recommend the Central Institute to advise the Legislative Assembly not to leave it optional with municipalities to impose a tax on dogs. The secretary was instructed to write the Ontario Agricultural College with a view to holding three consecutive meetings—one day each—at Keene, Warsaw and Norwood, for January next. The meeting then adjourned.—Register.

Cobourg.

A Historical Sketch—The Biggest Part of the Town.

The following sketch of the town of Cobourg is taken from the Cobourg World, which uses it as a preface to a list of the enterprising business men of our southern neighbour:—

"Cobourg, the county town of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, occupies a site in a broad, level valley which was once a cedar swamp on the northern shore of Lake Ontario. Some time in the year 1798 one Elias Nicholson took up his abode within the limits of the present town plot, and built a small cabin which is said to have been the first house erected in the neighborhood. The house has long since disappeared and it is now impossible to ascertain the precise spot where it stood. The first store was opened in 1802 by Elias Jones on the road which subsequently became King street. A great part of this thoroughfare was then an almost untraversable morass. This state of things has, however, long since passed away, and for many years visitors to Cobourg have commended its well paved streets and the air of cosy comfort which pervades it private residences. In the early years of its history the place was called Amherst, after Lord Amherst, one of the commanders of the British army in America during the French war. The name of the village was soon changed to Hamilton, after the township in which it was situated. In 1837—the year of the rebellion, the village was incorporated by its present name under a Board of Police, by which its municipal affairs were managed during the succeeding 13 years. In the month January, 1850, the place was incorporated as a town, whereupon the control of its civic affairs was transferred from a Board of Police to a Mayor and Council of nine members.

THE FIRST MAYOR OF THE TOWN was Wm. Weller, who in his day was an enterprising citizen. In 1859, Cobourg withdrew from the United Counties and has ever since paid an annual sum to the Counties Treasurer on account of the administration of justice. Though difficulties connected with the inception of its pioneer projects involved the town in heavy municipal debt, these have been happily surmounted, and no Ontario port-town is in a better position to take advantage of a revival of trade such as reciprocity with the United States would create. Cobourg can boast of a number of fine public buildings, the most imposing of these being Victoria Hall, the foundation of which was laid on Dec. 18th, 1856. The building was opened with great ceremony during the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada in 1860. It is a magnificent white brick structure, fronted with Cleveland cut stone, and the cost of its construction was about $100,000. It contains a court-room, and an opera house with seating accommodation for nearly 1,000 people. The town and county offices are also located in this building. Victoria University is the principal seat of learning for the Methodists of Canada. The Collegiate Institute and the Model School rank among the best educational institutions in the Province. Anglican, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches exert their benign influence upon the morals of the inhabitants. Car works, woollen mills, matting factory and brewery are the chief manufacturing industries. The town also boasts excellent systems of waterworks and electric lights. It has been lighted with gas for more than thirty years. The town plot covers an area of 3,500 acres. The population is about 5,000. Grain, horses, cattle, and lumber are the chief exports."

"Excuse me, George, but when I saw you a year ago, your face was covered with pimples; it seems to be all right now." "Yes, sir; that's because I stuck to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood medicine in the world. I was never so well in my life as I am now."

If you are in doubt ask some friend that has used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil about the beneficial results. dw

Police Court Occurrences.

FRIDAY, July 10th.

The charge preferred against Jeremiah Carew, of the Carew House, of selling liquor on Sunday was dismissed, there being no evidence to sustain the charge.

The lad Roberts, charged with pilfering from Signor Francisco Antonio's peasant emporium, corner of Hunter and George streets, was dismissed with a caution. The magistrate said he dealt thus leniently with the boy because he had evidently thought upon the gravity of the offence, but if he was again caught at anything of the kind he would have the present charge also added to the offence. Any other boys found bothering "Frank" would not be so leniently dealt with. The Magistrate was bound to stop the annoyance to which he was subjected.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

Hacked With an Axe.

STRATHROY, July 9.—An Indian named Joseph Hall, residing two miles from Napier, aroused Dr. Copeland Wednesday and informed him that he had killed his wife and her lover. The red man was literally covered with blood himself and his story was readily believed by the doctor, who at once hastened to the scene of the supposed murder. Upon arriving at the Indian's home a curly-headed African was found with two axe cuts on his head and his jaw broken, and by his side lay a bruised and battered female who was apparently dying. She has two or three cuts on her head and face which were inflicted by the back of the axe. Her left arm is also broken. The Indian states that after doing a hard day's work he came home, ate his supper and pretended to be asleep in his chair; while there the woman went to the negro's room and closed the door. He at once seized the axe, bolted the outside doors and started to kill them both with the result mentioned in the foregoing.

Knocked Out the Dog's Courage.

An aged Lehigh Valley woodsman, Amos Metz, says that during the winter of 1840-41 he lived alone, save for his hound, in a small cabin on what is now the Drinker Turnpike, Penn., between Moscow and Tobyhanna Mills. Amos often boasted that Zeke, the hound, was the best hunter in the county.

One night, an hour or two after I'd gone to bed, I was waked by Zeke's yelping. He was putting in at a good rate, and I jumped up to see what was the trouble.

It was bright moonlight, and I soon made out that two wolves were chasing the hound. Zeke was running round and round the cabin, and the wolves were after him as fast as they could leg it, but the hound was swifter on foot and managed to keep a few feet ahead of them.

I had two loaded muskets in the house. I placed one of them in the corner near by, cocked the other, and opened the door a few inches to get a shot at the wolves as they came round in front of the house.

The frightened hound saw the crack where I stood, dashed into it, threw the door wide open and knocked me off my feet. Both wolves rushed in after him, and Zeke leaped upon the bed, which stood at one side. The wolves stopped when they came to the bed, and I shut the door in a hurry, and then bolted away at one of the critters, hitting it in the head and killing it instantly.

The second wolf was scared and ran around the room and then made a spring for the window. It knocked out three or four panes of glass, but didn't break the sash. The brute tumbled backward, but was on its feet in a second and made another spring.

By this time I was ready with my other musket, and I bored a hole through the animal's heart, just as it struck the window. That settled the wolves. But Zeke, although he wasn't hurt a mite, was so scared that he wasn't been worth a copper to hunt since that night.

The Spider as a Weather Sharp.

One of the simplest and at the same time one of the very best of barometers is the common garden spider. When there is a prospect of a rain or wind, the spider always shortens the stays or filaments from which his web is suspended, and leaves things in that state as long as the weather is variable. If the insect elongates his threads it is a sign of fine, calm weather, the duration of which may be judged by the length of the webs.

If the spider remains inactive it is a sign of rain; but if, on the contrary, it keeps at work during a shower the rain will be of short duration, followed by fine weather. Other observations have taught naturalists that the spider makes changes in its web every twenty-one hours, and that if such changes are made in the evening, just before sunset, the night will be clear and beautiful, and the thoughtful spider will stand a fair chance of getting some tender night-flying insect for his breakfast, the repairs of the spider's net being made with that point in view.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes

That Tired Feeling

creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

COULDN'T LIVE WITHOUT HER.

David Davis Kills Himself Because Mrs. Illsley Refused to Marry Him.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Because his landlady Mrs. Illsley, would not marry him David Davis committed suicide on Tuesday afternoon at Bound Brook, N.J., by shooting himself in the head. Mrs. Illsley keeps the Elm Park Hotel on the outskirts of the town. They were in love with each other, but Davis was jealous and ill tempered, and Mrs. Illsley did not dare marry him. He repeated his importunate pleadings and when she persisted in her refusal he knocked her down. Then she ordered him to leave the house That was a week ago last Monday. Returning on Tuesday night he took her in his arms, kissed her, told her he could not live without her and promised to hold his temper. He again asked her to marry him yesterday, and she refused. In a rage he rushed into the house, grasped a revolver, put the muzzle of the revolver to the side of his head and fired. He was dead in an instant.

He had previously attempted suicide in Toronto, Ont., some years ago. It is believed that Davis is an assumed name, as all letters found in his trunk coming from his brother in Canada were signed Lafuma.

YACHTING PARTY DROWNED.

A Toronto Commercial Traveler One of the Victims.

SIMCOE, Ont., July 9.—Great excitement prevails here on account of the sad fate of Major John W. Ryerson, one of the leading lawyers of this place. He and a friend of his named Abel Bunker of Toronto, a commercial traveler for Matthews Bros. & Co., started from Port Dover on Dominion Day on a fishing excursion to Long Point. Very little is known yet of their fate, but it is almost certain that they were both drowned during the heavy gale of Friday last. They sailed in the yacht Mabel, which was seen anchored near Long Point lighthouse on Thursday night. On Friday she was seen dragging her anchor. The men on board raised the anchor, hoisted the main sail, started towards Port Dover, when the boat suddenly disappeared. The boat was about ten miles out at the time. So great was the storm that parties detained on the Island could not leave and bring the intelligence until last evening. Each leaves a wife and family.

Major Ryerson was one of the prominent citizens of this county, a leading lawyer, and member of the Town Council. Search parties are organized and notice has been sent to various points that persons may be on the lookout for the bodies or missing boat.

Mr. Bunker resided at 381 Manning-avenue, Toronto, and leaves a wife and two young children.

AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS.

Deserted His Wife and Married Another Woman in London.

LONDON, July 9.—George Hughes, a junk shop man, is in trouble. Yesterday afternoon a woman claiming to be Hughes, alias Caine's wife, arrived in the city from Toronto and caused his arrest on a charge of bigamy. Hughes, it is said, was married to the Toronto woman, who gives her name as Mrs Mary Jane Caines, nee Johnston, in Toronto, in September, 1871. Fifteen years ago the husband left rather suddenly one day, taking with him the son. Since then the wife has continued to reside in Toronto, supporting herself and hearing nothing of her missing husband and son, until recently they were discovered to be living in this city under the alias of Hughes. Further enquiries were instituted by Mrs. Caines, which resulted in the event of yesterday. Hughes is alleged to have feloniously and unlawfully married a blithesome young woman named Bella McDonald, living at Thunder Bay, Algoma, in 1877, only a few months after leaving wife No. 1."

Killed by a Companion.

WINGHAM, July 9.—A young man named Laban Walters was instantly killed while felling trees in a bush, 3 miles from here, to-day. He and a companion named Joe McDonald had been sawing a tree till it required a wedge. McDonald was driving the wedge with an ax which glanced off striking Walters in the bowels, almost cutting him through. Death was instantaneous. Walters was 23 years of age and had only been married three months.

Killed in the Cut.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Thomas Fournier, aged 22, was killed by a cave-in of rocks in a cut on the Gatineau Valley Railway to-day.

Paris Postoffice Robbed.

PARIS, July 9.—Thieves broke into the postoffice early this morning. They only succeeded, however, in getting some $2 or $3 which was in a small drawer. The thieves left behind them a brace and two files, which have since been identified by Mr. Thomas Armstrong of Paris Station as belonging to him and were stolen from his workshop a few days ago.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep him from nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SOME USEFUL "UNCLES."

CONTINUATION OF THE McGREEVY-LANGEVIN INVESTIGATION.

Connolly's Advice to Murphy. "You Had Better See One of Your Uncles About It." A Relationship Embracing Most of the Cabinet Ministers Claimed.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 10. The Privileges and Elections Committee met this morning, on motion of Mr. Osler. Messrs. Cross and Lang of Toronto were appointed joint experts, representing the Government and Mr. Tarte respectively, to examine various items in the several books and papers bearing on the charges. The experts, who were summoned by telegraph, will submit the result of their investigation to the committee without delay.

Mr. Nicholas Connolly was then examined by Messrs. Geoffrion and Tarte. He was asked many questions in regard to the checks for $4000, $2000 and $2500 in payment by he had signed when acting as cashier for Larkin, Connolly & Co., and which checks were noted by entries as having been given as donations. The witness exhibited a poor memory. He said he was not aware that the firm had ever given a cent for election purposes, nor had he ever given any money, either personally or indirectly, to Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Mr Tarte drew his attention to a letter he had written Owen E. Murphy respecting the British Columbia contract. In the letter the writer asked Murphy to see Connolly his uncles regarding the matter.

Asked as to whom this referred, witness said he meant Hon. Thomas McGreevy. Murphy always called him "Uncle Tom."

Mr. Tarte—Did witness have other uncles?

Witness—Yes, he called one Hector Sir Adolphe, and every Minister almost. (Laughter.)

Mr Lister questioned the witness very closely about the dredging at Quebec. Nicholls admitted the firm got 6 cents a yard for dumping, which he said yesterday cost only three or four cents a yard. The books of the firm showed their profit $8,000 profit on the dredging of 1886. Michael Connolly's letter calling Baker and Shakespeare "A brace of pirates," and saying they wanted $500, but were offered $400, was shown him. He said his brother did not speak truly. They were not a brace of pirates, but perfect gentlemen. They were anxious that the graving dock at Esquimalt should be made longer and said it might be necessary to come to Ottawa for that purpose." Michael Connolly told them he would pay their expenses, about $500. That was all there was to the story. His brother never told him he paid them money, and he had no knowledge of any being paid them. It was Baker and Shakespeare who said it would cost $500 to come to Ottawa.

The committee then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Charged with Forgery.

BRANTFORD, July 10.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of George E. Buchanan of Paris, a former manager of the Bank of British North America here. In September, 1890, Buchanan, it is alleged, forged notes on William Simpson for $1240, on James Scott for $2500 and on John Richardson for $1500. All of these notes were made payable four months after date. It is surmised that he and John McMillan, the missing lawyer, who were close friends, are together.

United States Crops.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 10.—The July report of the Department of Agriculture makes the average as compared with breadth harvested last year of corn 108.3, potatoes 102.3, tobacco 102.6. Condition: Corn 92.8, winter wheat 96.2, spring wheat 90.1, rye 96.9, oats 87.6, barley 90.9, potatoes 90.3, tobacco 91.4. The heavy increase in corn acreage is more apparent than real. The comparison is with the breadth harvested last year, when there was a loss of six million acres by abandonment on account of drouth.

Searching for the Victims.

PORT DOVER, July 10.—A party left here at 5 p.m. to-day to seek for further traces of the missing yacht Mabel and its occupants Major John W. Ryerson, one of the most prominent men in this county, and Abel Bunker, commercial traveler of Toronto, who left for Long Point on Dominion Day and have not been heard of since.

Must Be Returned to China.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Attorney-General Miller has given an opinion that the Chinese Restriction Law requires that Chinese convicted of illegal entry into the United States shall be returned to China regardless of the fact that they may have actually entered the United States from contiguous territory, such as Canada or Mexico.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN MAINTAINS HER POSITION ON THE BAIT QUESTION.

The Imperial Visitor Enjoying Himself in England. Crops in India. The Free School Question in England. News from Every Land.

LONDON, July 10.—The Emperor of Germany left Buckingham Palace to-day and visited the naval exhibition. Precisely at noon the royal State carriage left Buckingham Palace, sparkling with gold ornamentation, and drawn by eight superb postilion ridden horses, flanked by mounted life guardsmen and mounted police, and conducted by whits footmen and coachmen of immense size. As the procession left the palace from every quarter within and without the city boundaries peals of bells rang out from the church steeples and announced fully to the expectant masses that the Imperial pageant had commenced. The streets were densely packed. Every inch of the way from the Strand to Guildhall abounded in colors. Innumerable flags were to be seen, and the bunting of almost every nationality was displayed.

FREE SCHOOLS IN ENGLAND

Discussed at the Canterbury Diocesan Conference.

LONDON, July 10.—The Canterbury Diocesan Conference has been discussing the relations of the Church to education schemes. The Dean of Davenport, Iowa, at the request of the Archbishop, yesterday spoke on education in America. Free education, he said, was recognized as a fact. Whether desirable or not it was felt to be of the utmost importance to have some kind of education as extensive as possible. Against free schools there was a religious objection, and also the objection that the teaching was apt to become mechanical. He said an attempt was being made to establish everywhere Church schools, but that as yet no great progress had been made.

Subsequent speakers contrasted the results of free education in America with the probable results in Great Britain generally, concluding that the results would be to benefit the Church of England. The Archbishop closed the debate, declaring that the stability of the Church schools depended upon the stability of the churchmen.

A New Great Railway.

LONDON, July 10. The House of Lords, endorsing the action of the House of Commons, has passed a bill authorizing the construction of a railway to be operated in the interest of and in connection with the Manchester Canal. The road will start from Warrington, 16 miles from Liverpool on the Mersey, and run to the east coast of Lincoln, a distance of 160 miles. It will cross the Mocaldare Valley in Derbyshire by a viaduct 270 feet high, which will require the labor of 10,000 men four years to construct. The cost of the road is estimated at £12,000,000. Great docks are projected at Warrington with the design of tapping Atlantic freights.

Built to Be Sold to Americans.

LONDON, July 10. Lord Salisbury recently made complaint to the French Foreign Office with regard to prohibiting the fishermen of Newfoundland from selling bait to Americans.

M Ribot, the French Foreign Minister, in reply admitted that the French Admiral commanding on the coast had exceeded his powers, and at Lord Salisbury's request instructions have been cabled the Admiral to revoke his orders.

Sir William Whiteway had a conference with Lord Salisbury to-day at which the provisions of the bill for the appointment of the Judicial Commission to adjudicate disputes arising out of the treaty rights were formally agreed to. The commission will be organized next February, after the Newfoundland Legislature has passed the bill.

End of a Great Strike.

BRUSSELS, July 10. The great strike of Belgian miners, which has been in progress for the past 70 days, was brought to an end to-day. The Council of the Knights of Labor has decided in favor of a general resumption of business, and 4500 men went to work this morning. The remainder of the men who have been on strike will resume their employment to-morrow.

Crops in India.

CALCUTTA, July 10.—The crop prospects in the provinces of Bengal, Assam and Burmah are good. Elsewhere the rainfall has been deficient and the distress is increasing. Prices are rising in Madras districts and in many districts of Northern India the stock of fodder has been exhausted and cattle are dying of starvation.

Natural Gas and Frogs' Legs Dutiable.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The United States Board of General Appraisers to-day confirmed the action of the Collector of Customs at Buffalo in levying 10 per cent. ad valorem duty on natural gas generated and exported by the Provincial Natural Gas and Fuel Company of Ontario to the Natural Gas Fuel Company of Buffalo. The board also confirmed the action of the Collector of Customs at Oswego in levying duty at 10 per cent. ad valorem upon dressed frogs caught and dressed by men employed by B. K. Ingersoll at fisheries in Canada & imported into the United States.

Cat-o-Nine Tails.

MONTREAL, July 10.—William Robinson, William Cooney and James Davis this morning received the first instalment of 15 lashes on the bare back in the jail yard of this city. The instrument used was the traditional cat-o-nine-tails, and the wielder of the lash was an old soldier attached to the jail who had performed many times similar duty in the British army. The whipping was severe and the strokes were not lightened even when groans and cries issued from one of the unhappy men's lips. At the expiration of their term of imprisonment the men will receive the balance of 15 lashes before being set at liberty.

TO BE INVESTIGATED

THE SCANDAL IN THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

Two of the Clerks Suspended—Mr. Dewdney Will Find Out to What Extent the Overdrawn of Accounts has Been Carried.

OTTAWA, July 10.—The Government has decided to superannuate Lieut.-Col. D. W. Macdonell, sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons, at the close of the present session. He has been in very poor health for some time past and is now at River Du Loup. Col. Macdonell is one of the oldest officials of the House, having been appointed to his present position Nov. 2, 1867. He had previously held the office of Sergeant-at-Arms to the Legislative Assembly of the late Provinces of Canada, to which he was appointed June 14, 1854. The rooms at present occupied by the Sergeant-at-Arms and his family will be devoted to other purposes.

Sir William Ritchie, deputy governor, came down to the Senate this afternoon and gave royal assent to 36 bills, including the modus vivendi, the bill to settle accounts between the Dominion, Ontario and Quebec, and the bill to authorize the London and Canadian Loan & Agency Company to issue debentures.

Mr. Amyot has given notice that he will inquire whether the High Commissioner for Canada at London is authorized by the Government to promote Imperial Federation and to afford to that scheme his active, public officious or official concurrence, or is he acting on his own responsibility? Are the Government of Canada in favor of establishing Imperial Federation? Have the Government a final policy as to the establishment of an Imperial Federation? Are they hostile, favorable or indifferent thereto?

There was quite a breeze at the Railway Committee meeting this morning when the bill to incorporate the new Baie des Chaleur Railway Company came up. Mr. Cockburn, M.P., Toronto, rose, stating that he felt it his duty to the public not to allow the bill to pass without an amendment. The old company, he learned, had a couple of months ago received from the Quebec Government $28,000 (on 800,000 acres of land) to pay off the debts existing on the road. Of this amount only $94,000 had gone to satisfy the claim of the poor laboring men, while $175,000 had gone into letters of credit in the Banque du Peuple and Quebec Bank for purposes unknown, and the claims of Mr. MacFarlane, the sub-contractor (some $180,000), remained unsatisfied. His amendment would be to insert in the bill a clause giving the creditors of the old company a lien on the property taken over by the new company, and at the same time he would suggest that in the interests of public morality there should be an investigation into what had become of the $175,000 held in letters of credit of the Banque du Peuple and the Quebec Bank.

Mr. Barwick, Toronto, solicitor of the Ontario Bank, controlling the MacFarlane estate, explained that as a result of the cessation of payments by the old company MacFarlane had to go into insolvency. All the bank asked was that the creditors should be protected in any powers given the new company.

Mr. Lunnergan, solicitor for the new company, said they had no desire to defraud the creditors, but if this lien were given it would seriously hamper the road in floating its bonds in England. And, anyway, MacFarlane had no right to the lien, as he only had a disputed claim, the amount of which might be greatly lessened by the court. Mr. Lavergne, Speaker of the Senate, who was well up in the facts of the case, had expressed the opinion that when the matter was sifted it would be found that the company had a claim of about $50,000 against MacFarlane, instead of the other way.

Mr. Ives here rose and claimed that the meeting had been packed by the promoters of the bill in order to defeat Mr. Cockburn's amendment, expressing surprise at such conduct.

The accusation was warmly denied by Mr. Beaudet and others. After a long discussion the bill was amended by the insertion of this clause: "Nothing herein contained shall alter, diminish or prejudice in any manner or form the rights, powers or privileges of any creditor of the company, or of any person or corporation having any claim or lien of any nature or sort against the company or undertaking."

A Newspaper Sensation.

In Canada, a strong supporter of Sir Hector Langevin, created a sensation to-night by an editorial entitled, "Demoralization." After expressing surprise at Mr. Dudley's downfall, it still maintains that Sir Hector's department is a model of administrative honesty, but refers in scathing language to other departments. "Nepotism, favoritism, malversation, peculation, injustice, robbery are the order of the day. Let us look around upon the administrative surroundings of ministers, the political heads of which own their advancement to petticoat influence or to other unmentionable means. We find there bureaucracy installed deep-rooted with all its surroundings. It leaves everywhere it shadows traces, it reigns by corruption, it lives for pillage, it delights in injustice, despotism and imbecility. That is what rules certain ministers at Ottawa. That is the cursed system which takes root in the offices of state, thanks to certain stupid ministers incapable of seeing what is evident to everyone. We have percentage bloodhounds yet, who attach themselves to their victims with the tenacity of wild beasts. They commence by borrowing, then propose a division of profits and at last threaten with brazen effrontery if the former means do not succeed. We write these lines in sang froid and knowing perfectly the weight and gravity of these accusations. We confine ourselves to-day to generalities. Later we will enter into details."

Sir John Thompson has given notice of a bill to amend the Copyright Act of last session, giving jurisdiction to the Exchequer Court in cases concerning the infringement of copyright.

Further Suspensions.

Mr. K. J. Henry, accountant, and Mr. H. H. Turner, clerk of the Interior Department, were suspended to-day in consequence of the disclosures made before the Public Accounts Committee connecting them with irregular payments of money. Mr. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister, still holds his position. Mr. Dewdney has decided to hold an official investigation at once into the general conduct of the business of the department.

The Budget Debate.

The debate on the budget was continued by Dr. Macdonald (Huron), N. Clarke Wallace and Mr. King. The debate was adjourned at midnight on motion of Mr. Wood (Westmoreland).

"How's Tricks?"

PRINCETON, Ont., July 10.—Quite a furore was created at a J. P. court, a young man having been summoned to the bar for asking a rather prepossessing young lady, "How's tricks to-night?" The young man declared that there was no harm in what he had said and explained that the express as was only a by-word used by Richwood boys. The J. P. thought differently and fined the young man $5 and costs. The case is to be appealed.

Interrupted the Honeymoon.

SHELBURNE, July 10.—W. B. McMillan, whose sensational marriage was reported last week, is now wanted on a charge of forging some promissory notes which he had discounted at the private bank of William Lucas & Co., Dundalk. Warrants have been issued for his arrest. He left home on Friday, saying he was going to see the parties from whom he claimed to have received some of the notes.

A Woman Attacked by a Bull.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., July 10.—Yesterday morning, as Mrs. Charles Watson of Seymour was milking in her yard, a bull approached her. She attempted to drive it off, but it attacked her, breaking her jaw and leg and bruising her generally.

NORTH AMERICA'S TEMPERATE SONS

Report of the Year's Work Made by M. W. P. Edward Crummay.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 10—The National Division Sons of Temperance of North America held their forty-seventh annual session here yesterday. Most Worthy Patriarch Edward Crummay of New York, in the chair. Ninety-nine delegates were present. Besides this province the delegates included some of the foremost temperance advocates in Ontario, Quebec, Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Vermont and Connecticut.

Most Worthy Patriarch Crummay spoke of the work during the year and said that in all sections he had visited he had found the Order in a flourishing condition. It was pointed out that on Jan. 1, 1890, the number of subordinate divisions in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Ontario, Newfoundland, Quebec, Manitoba and the Northwest Territory was 668, with a membership of 32,911, and the same jurisdictions report a gain of 494 members, or 1½ per cent. during the year.

In concluding his report Mr. Crummay referred to the fact that 37 years ago the National Division met in this city, and of the officers of that day only two survivors remain—the venerable Neal Dow of Maine, and the honored Governor of New Brunswick.

In the evening a public meeting was held, at which addresses were delivered by G. W. P. Thorne, of the Grand Division of New Brunswick, and Sir Leonard Tilley, and responded to by several American representatives.

NO SECTS IN HELL.

To What Extent the Christian Endeavor Society Imitates the Evil One.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 10.—The session of the International Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was continued to-day.

President Clark, in his address, said:

"For a million young hearts in 83 evangelical denominations, in every clime on the globe, the day has come when Christian fellowship is an inspiring reality. This convention will never adjourn. This fellowship, these days of holy communion, will cement, and will flow back in refreshing rills of spiritual power to churches in every State and Territory and province between the two oceans; and even to the churches across the sea the electric thrill of this fellowship will go, and wherever it goes it will carry strength and cheer. The united strength of the common enemy demands that we oppose to him the united strength of our common fellowship. There are no sects in hell. The evil one marshals all his forces for the attack. Let not the children of the pit be wiser than the children of the light. The watchword of the day is combination, to resist good laws and obstruct righteous legislation." We must not play into the enemy's hands by weakening our ranks and dividing our hosts."

General Secretary Baer's annual report shows 16,274 societies distributed throughout this country, Canada, England, Australia, India, Turkey and China. New York state leads, with 2354 societies.

LYNCHED THREE TIMES.

Accidental Death of a Man Whom Mobs Could Not Kill.

MILAN, Tenn., July 10.—A Texan named Garrett Hume died here yesterday of strangulation. His death was caused by the action of a device which he adopted years ago to outwit lynchers.

Hume was a herdsman on a ranch in Southwestern Texas 18 years ago. He soon became a rich rancher. The coincidence that existed between his acquisition of wealth and the disappearance of cattle belonging to others caused an agitation that resulted in his disappearance. He went to Galveston, where he had a silver tube inserted in his throat. Then he returned to his ranch.

In a short time the lynchers caught him and left him hanging to a tree. He wasn't as dead as they supposed, but got away and began operations in another part of the state. A second hanging proved as ineffectual as the first and he went to the Mexican border. The third attempt came near proving effectual, for the lynchers left guards to watch him, but a negro cut him down next morning and he escaped to Mexico, whence he came here several years ago.

THE DEALER DROPPED DEAD.

Police Raid a Gambling House and the Shock Kills One of the Players.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Lieutenant Wheeler and a gang of his men raided a gambling house at No. 1003 West Madison-street, and in a room at the rear of this found 13 men engaged in a poker game. Officer O'Day said, "Cash in your chips, gentlemen; the house is under arrest." At that the dealer, Tom Roche, dropped backward in his chair. Roche was carried out into the front room and rubbed, the officers thinking he had fainted. A doctor was finally summoned, who pronounced Roche dead from heart disease.

Newfoundland Arbitration.

LONDON, July 10.—Radical members of the House of Commons renewed their attempt to-night to try to find out how far the English Government is committed.

Sir James Fergusson was asked whether the arbitration with France with reference to Newfoundland was progressing and Sir James was obliged to deprecate discussion on the subject and to decline information.

Killed Her Son's Bride.

LANCASTER, Wis., July 10.—The aged mother of Louis Sisley on her deathbed today confessed to the murder of her son's wife 9 years ago. In 1882 Louis Sisley was married to Miss Beckford. The second night after the wedding the dead body of the young bride, perforated with bullet holes, was found lying in a pool of blood in a wheat field near the house. Her husband was arrested, but acquitted.

A Miserable Life Miserably Ended.

ORANGEVILLE, July 10.—For over 56 years Adam Livingston lived the solitary life of a bachelor up in Mulmur. Then poverty and disease overtook him and about two months ago he was brought to Orangeville jail in a dying condition on a charge of vagrancy. The end came at 5 o'clock Thursday evening, heart disease being the immediate cause of death.

Fell From a Roof.

INNERKIP, Ont., July 10.—Samuel Wallace was engaged in shingling the new Presbyterian manse when a cleat upon which his feet were resting gave way. He went headlong to the ground, a distance of 25 feet or more, breaking both arms and otherwise injuring himself.

A Slap at Prohibition.

DEADWOOD, S.D., July 10. In the cases of Roscenranz, Smith, Parker and Jacobs, charged with violating the state prohibition law, Judge A. J. Plowman to-day rendered a decision sustaining the demurrer of the defendants, which was grounded on the fact that the act embraced more than one subject not named in the title. The state will appeal the case. The point has never been raised before.

Stabbed With a File.

RICHMOND HILL, July 10.—A gang of boys were poking fun at Robert McCleary and he ordered them to desist. James Piper, jr., called out, "You are only a bluff." McCleary came back and said to Piper, "Did you make that assertion?" Piper replying in the affirmative, McCleary made a rush at him and stabbed him in the side with what is said to have been a file. The wound is a serious one.

The Great Benefit
which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1891.

THE Canada Presbyterian says:—"No statesman in Canada is rising faster than Mr. Laurier. His clean record, pure character, conciliatory manner and lofty eloquence are giving him a strong hold on the esteem and confidence of the people without distinction of creed and party. He fights fairly and is always a gentleman. Canada needs first-class men on both sides, and the people, as a rule, are beginning to see that patriotic, statesmanlike qualities should be appreciated wherever they appear."

THE Globe says:—We would remind all justices of the peace who have not taken the oath of qualification that the act passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature requires that they shall take the oaths of office and qualification on or before the first day of August next, otherwise their commissions will "be deemed to be absolutely revoked and cancelled." It may also be pointed out in this connection that section eight of the Unorganised Territory Act (chapter 91, R.S.O.), which applies to the Districts of Thunder Bay, Rainy River, Muskoka, Parry Sound and Nipissing, provides that no property qualification is necessary for magistrates in these districts. The oath of office, though not of qualification, will, however, in the districts named, still be necessary, as in the case of justices resident outside of them.

THE Government organs are very severe on some of the principal witnesses in the Tarte-McGreevy-Langevin scandal investigation. They seem to forget that it is a family quarrel and that Conservatives and government supporters are at the bottom of the affair, prosecuting it and urging it on. In commenting on this phase of the little Conservative party family quarrel, the Ottawa Free Press points out that Messrs. R. H. McGreevy and O. R. Murphy are members of the same political party as Sir Hector Langevin and Thomas McGreevy. Until very recently Mr. O. E. Murphy was Sir Hector Langevin's pet contractor. Thomas McGreevy offered to get Sir Hector to recommend Mr. Murphy as a fit and a proper person to have the contract for Halifax graving dock. So long as Mr. Murphy acted as their manipulator of public contracts, Sir Hector and Mr. McGreevy were willing to condone all his former acts. Only when he began to throw some light upon their boodling operations did they find him an undesirable companion. Sir Hector and Mr. McGreevy cannot discredit Mr. Murphy without discrediting themselves. That is what the public will bear in mind. Why did they associate for years with Mr. Murphy? Did they select him as their contract manipulator because they believed they could invoke his New York career to discredit his testimony if he ventured to make their dealings public?

A Conservative Need.

Bobcaygeon Independent.

The death of Sir John Macdonald, and the subsequent extinction of the Macdonaldite faction, has set the Conservative party free, and it can now resume its natural position. Liberated, as it now is from its thoroughly unprincipled partners, it can again assume its respectable and honorable character. To this journal this is a cause of great satisfaction. That the Conservative party, in this colony, should have descended to such a depth of degradation " " " was a source of regret to every thoughtful man in Ontario, who was capable of forming a just opinion on a question of public morality, and now that this faction has collapsed, the Conservatives will be enabled once more to resume their proper and natural position. Their first requirement will be to establish a respectable and honorable newspaper as their recognised organ. They need such an organ sorely. The Macdonaldite faction has its organs, and these organs are as unprincipled in tone as the faction they represent, but the Conservative party has really no representation whatever in the daily press of Ontario, and such representation it is essential that it now obtain. The continuance of the present press arrangements cannot fail to be most destructive to the interests of the Conservative party. The Macdonaldite journals are a heavy drag on respectable and honorable Conservatives. The principal of these papers always refer to the Liberal party as one consisting of traitors, and annexationists and rebels, and apply to Liberals nothing but vulgar abuse. How can such a course bring Liberals to regard Conservative opinions with respect, or induce wavering Liberals to adopt Conservative principles? A leading organ of the Macdonaldite faction, thus refers to the decision of the House of Commons to hold a session on Wednesday July 1. "The opposition have at last won a victory." They have forced the House to break one of its own laws, shown a marked disrespect to the idea of a Canadian nationality, and set a bad example at that very fountain head where a good example might most naturally be looked for. It is a great triumph, one that they are naturally proud of, but one that their children, with equal naturalness, will look back upon with hearty shame, for it is not possible that the Reform party will always be led into trouble by the disloyal, disgruntled, politically bilious herd that now unfortunately control its destinies."

These are the remarks of the leading Macdonaldite organ, and they are remarks that make the respectable Conservative feel deep shame, for in the division on the question in the House of Commons, many of the most distinguished Conservatives in the House voted with what the organ terms "the disloyal, disgruntled politically bilious herd." Yes. The first thing the respectable Conservatives should do is to secure for themselves respectable representation in the press. At present their position is a most unhappy one—they are striving to be respectable, and their old and cast off disreputable associates are dragging them into disgrace. A really good and respectable Conservative newspaper, is badly needed as the recognised organ of the Conservative party.

Abusing Witnesses.

A correspondent of the Mail thus writes concerning a matter in which there is great room for reform:—"The exposure by your correspondents of the habit of allowing lawyers to abuse witnesses ought to lead to a reform. Some time ago I was present in court when a respectable citizen was shamefully abused by a lawyer noted for foul-mouthed language. The witness gave evidence that he had found a pecuniary defaulter drunk in a tavern (which subsequently lost its license), yet that he was being served with liquor. The lawyer abused him as a whiskey informer—although he had not initiated the proceedings—and the witness appealed in vain to the sitting magistrate for protection. Magistrates are appointed to administer justice and protect the public, not to shield legal bullies. If correspondents would send well-authenticated reports by reliable witnesses of all such cases, the evil would be stopped."

Wealth of the Church of England.

The total endowments of the Church of England, ancient endowments and modern endowments together, are something over five and three quarter millions, the exact figures being £5,753,557. Of this sum nearly five millions and a half is derived from lands or funds given to the church, either in ancient Saxon times or since the reformation before 1703. Why 1703 is fixed upon, I do not quite understand, but the gifts made to the church since that time amount in value to £204,386 per annum. Most of this money goes towards the endowment of ecclesiastical benefices. The bishops possess £87,827 a year, derived from ancient, and £11,000 from private benefactions. The cathedrals and collegiate churches have an income of £192,460, entirely of ancient origin. The bishops obtained £21,500 in tithes, the cathedrals £44,384, and the benefices clergy more than £3,000,000, while the ecclesiastical commissioners administer an income of £573,591. Taking the gross property of the church I should estimate that when capitalized under any scheme of disendowment, it must amount to something like £200,000,000. — London Cor. Liverpool Mercury.

Ninety-four Years Old.

Death of David Orser of Brighton Township.

BRIGHTON, July 9.—David Orser, the oldest inhabitant of the Township of Brighton, died at his residence in the Orser neighborhood on Monday, 6th instant, in the 94th year of his age. Mr. Orser came of U. E. loyalist stock, and was throughout his long life an ardent Reformer, to which political faith, indeed, all his family are strong adherents. His ancestors came from Holland and settled, long before the Revolutionary war, in New York State, on the site of the present town of Sing Sing. On the conclusion of the war their loyalty to the British Crown led them to sacrifice their possessions, abandon their comfortable homes and emigrate to the then wilderness of Upper Canada, where they settled in the neighborhood of the present city of Kingston. It was here, in what was then called the Orser settlement, that the subject of this sketch was born. He afterwards resided in Prince Edward County. But about 50 years ago he took up 400 acres of the finest land in the Township of Brighton, where he settled, and soon after built the first brick house ever built in the township. In this house he died. He served in the British army during the war of 1812, and for a number of years received a pension from the Government. He was twice married—first in Picton to Phœbe Worden, by whom he had nine children, and a second time to Elizabeth Harriet McDonnell, by whom he had one son, Daniel H. Orser, who now occupies the homestead. Mr. Orser was for 79 years a consistent member of the Methodist church. He retained his faculties almost entire up to the time of his death. His funeral took place on the 8th inst. when a large concourse of relatives, neighbors and friends followed his remains to the little cemetery in the Orser neighborhood.

Why suffer the ills peculiar to females when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will thoroughly eradicate every vestige of the trouble and restore to your faded cheeks the bright, rosy glow of youth and health. Try them. Sold by all dealers, or by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price (50c. a box). Address Dr. Williams Med Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

And How It Helped to Ameliorate a Hilarious Old Boy.

Mr. Edison has now invented an apparatus by means of which one can sit at home and see a play being acted at a theatre. Mr. Wippe-Hande heard of this, and made most advantageous arrangements with the eminent scientist.

"Well, Mr. Wippe-Hande started for the Derby. Such was the staid severity of his demeanor that you would have imagined he was going to church.

"Mamma told me to sit here and keep my eye on the magic mirror Mr. Edison fitted up for me," said Miss Wippe-Hande. "There's papa at Epsom! I must run and tell mamma that he's lighted his third cigar already."

Then mamma came on duty. Papa has met that atrocious acquaintance of his. Flyaway," said Mrs. Wippe-Hande, in sepulchral tones.

The time has come for action. Mr. Wippe-Hande applied the electrical "disputation dynamics and machinery" provided by Mr. Edison, and manipulated the buttons.

"That's their second bottle," she said, keeping her eye fixed unwinkingly on the mirror. "Your father has a doll in his hat!" she groaned.

And papa, in the midst of his ninth cigar,

She—Your society refreshes me greatly.

He—Thank you. Then you won't mind if I stay another hour?

She—Oh dear, no! You have such a country air about you it's a perfect picnic to be in your presence.

One Dose For Them All.

"There goes a doctor," said a cynic, "who believes that foreign travel is the very best thing for his patients."

"Does he send them all abroad?"

"None of them. He goes every year himself."

A Blessed Hope.

He—affianced to the widow—How embarrassing it will be, when we die, to meet your first husband.

The Widow—Possibly, my dear, you and the sainted dear will abide in different regions. That is my hope.

A Romance.

She was fair and my passion begun!
She smiled—and I could not but love!
But when from afar I detected catarrh,
Lo beauty my passion could move!

In despair she sought doctors in vain,
Till she learned of "Humanity's boon;
Now her breath is as sweet as the dew
Which falls upon roses in June.

To night as we sit in our home,
And I kiss her sweet lips o'er and o'er,
We bless Dr. Sage in our bliss,
For the joy that he brought to our door.

There is no disease more trying to friendship than catarrh! The constant effort to clear the throat and nose, the foul breath, all the features of the disease, make it as much dreaded by the friend as by the victim. Humanity has cause to bless Dr. Sage for his "Catarrh Remedy." The manufacturers offer to forfeit $500 for any case they cannot cure. o

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—168 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and see that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Hastings Crop Prospects.

The crop prospects in the southern part of Hastings County and Prince Edward County are very favorable. Farmers state that the yield will be the largest in many years. Fall wheat is good. The hay crop, while not so heavy as it was last year, will be a fair average. Oats will make a good showing, though not so good as last year, which was exceptionally good season. The crops in North Hastings, where the land is high and rocky, will not be large.

JUST WHAT YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR.

On the 28th inst. the 57th Battalion Band and Canton Peterborough, No. 10, I.O.O.F., will run the cheapest and best excursion of the season. It will take in Toronto, Galt and intermediate and surrounding places. It will pay you to reserve that date and watch the papers for such particulars as will please and astonish you.

Carswell Lodge.

The regular meeting of Carswell Lodge, No. 312, I. O. G. T., was held in their lodge room Friday evening last when a large attendance was present. There were two initiations and other business of minor importance. A contingent from Ashburnia Lodge paid a fraternal visit to Carswell, and a very pleasant evening was spent. Mr. Smith, of Stratford, was present and gave a very interesting account of temperance work in that city. Bro. M. Dowd, provincial organizer, gave a stirring address, which was received with loud applause. It is the intention of the two lodges—Ashburnia and Carswell, to run an excursion to some point on the back lakes shortly, and it is expected to be a grand affair.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

The Outrage on Hack Drivers.

The hack drivers as tax payers, hold that it is an injustice to grant a franchise to a street railway company, but being progressive citizens they say they can stand it so long as hawley bros supply such fine teas at such low prices. Cheaper than city water.

Don't forget the Lawn Social which will be held on the beautiful grounds of the St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday evening next, July 15th. Fire Brigade Band, music and dancing. Proceeds for a charitable purpose.

An Old Confederate Bill.

Mr. Henry Wills is in possession of an old Confederate $10 bill, dated at Richmond, February 17th, 1867, "two years after the ratification of peace between the Confederate States and the United States of America." Mr. Wills accepted the bill at par, but is not sure whether it will pass current or not. A bill of the old Confederate issue is quite a rarity these days, especially in Canada.

Ho! For the Twelfth.

Bates Bros. will hustle things on July 13th. They are making immense preparations to accommodate all comers to dinner on the two upper flats of their store, 422 George street. The down stairs will be entirely devoted to serving ice cream, cool drinks, etc. A full supply of fruit, confectionery, etc., will be on hand. Plenty for everybody at BATES BROS., 422 George street.

Monday's Orange Demonstration.

The committee will meet to-night to draft a programme for Monday. It is, however, generally arranged that the Lakefield brethren will reach town first, and, with the local brethren, form escort processions to meet all the trains up to noon. Mr. Clarke Wallace and other distinguished visitors will arrive at noon. The grand parade will take place after dinner.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

As a rule, a person who had a good appetite has good health. But how many there are who enjoy nothing they eat, and sit down to meals only as an unpleasant duty. Nature's antidotes for this condition are so happily combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla that it soon restores good digestion, creates an appetite, and renovates and vitalizes the blood so that the beneficial effect of good food is imparted to the whole body. Truly hunger is the best sauce, and Hood's Sarsaparilla induces hunger.

Potvin's Restaurant

and confectionery shop will be found to be the best place in town for confectionery of all kinds, ice cream, Jersey cream, and cooling drinks of all kinds, etc. Meals and lunches supplied at all reasonable hours. A first class baker and confectioner has been employed, and Mr. Potvin is prepared to fill all orders for wedding and every other sort of cakes in a most satisfactory manner. Goods delivered free to every part of town. 425 George street, Welsh's old stand. 4d6

Inspection of the Fifty Seventh.

Last night Col. Von Straubenzie, D.A.G., inspected the 57th Battalion. There was, unfortunately, a small turn-out of the battalion, there being nearly a hundred men short of the average muster. The battalion paraded at the drill shed, and led by the band, marched to Riverside Park where the review and inspection was held. What few men turned out acquitted themselves well and secured the commendation of the inspecting officer. The battalion marched back to the drill shed where they men were addressed by Lt.-Col. Rogers before dismissing. It is unfortunate that there was not a better turn out of the battalion. Neglect to respond to the "assemble" places the officers in a very embarassing position and is unfair to those who did turn out and injuriously affects the reputation, esprit du corps and efficiency of the organization.

A Mishap.

The Bobcaygeon Independent remarks that so long as Smith, the gentlemen who writes our leading articles confines himself to philosophy, he can cut a very passable figure, but when he ventures outside of that he is pretty safe to make a show of himself, and give the children a circus. Now he can no more fish than lead a choir, and the old noodle must needs go down to the locks the other night with a bamboo fish pole, and got up in white flannels and a colored striped blazer. He sat on the lower lock gate with his feet dangling in the air, and was in a sort of a reclining, negligé position, astonishing and captivating a bevy of very pretty girls with a flow of sense and nonsense on the glacial period and the laurentian formation, when some idiotic fish gave a violent tug at his line. It was so utterly unexpected that in rising to position, he slid off the lock and plunged into the bubbling water below. The scene baffles description, and the unseen much more so. A punter finally gaffed him in the flannels just below the grist mill, also the waist band, and as the flaring golden beams of the dying sun glinted on the mansard windows of the Rockland, the old wreck was trundled home in a barrow. When everyone was gone and the excitement over, a youngster got hold of the floating bamboo and pulled in the exciting cause—a three by four sun-fish.

St. Luke's Sunday School Picnic.

This has been an unfortunate season for picnics. Rain, most refreshing to the fields but dampening to the ardour of the young bent on enjoyment, has been the usual fate. Yesterday, however, the weather was all that the most critical could have desired for a day of pleasure. It is needless to say that it was thoroughly enjoyed by old and young who were fortunate enough to be of the large party that went to Chemong Park on the St. Luke's Sunday School excursion. The trip on the train and boat and the stay in the Park all combined to make a varied experience that presented weariness even on the part of the smaller children. Boating, a game of bas ball before dinner, a game of football after dinner, sitting for photographs, and games and races, filled in a pleasant day. The following is a list of prize winners in the races:

BOYS UNDER EIGHT YEARS.—1st Bobby Starr, 2nd Bruce Beatty.

GIRLS UNDER NINE YEARS.—1st Maggie Denne, 2nd May Denne.

Street Railway Investigation.

Messrs. Moore and Cahill who went to Ottawa to investigate the working of the electric street railway, and the relations between the city and the company have not much to report that can at present be prudently made public; the knowledge gained will be of great use however in enabling the committee of the council to arrive at a decision. They have to report that the authorities of the city and of the street railway company vied with each other in extending courtesies and assistance to the aldermanic visitors from Peterborough. The Ottawa Free Press has the following reference to the visit:—

The Ottawa Free Press of Thursday says: "This morning Aldermen Cahill and Moore arrived in the city from Peterborough on a visit of inspection to the Ottawa electric railroad. It is proposed by the corporation of Peterborough to start a similar enterprise in town. They have already received two applications for the franchise, from the Edison Company and the Power and Light Company, both of which agree to have the road ready by the fall should their tenders be accepted.

"This afternoon Messrs. Stevenson, M.P. Barnham, M.P., Dr. Roome, M.P., and Aldermen Cahill and Moore, accompanied by Thos. Abearn, inspected the line throughout, their object being to examine into the details and secure the best plans, conditions, etc., on which the franchise is granted, as a guide to themselves. They will also make a thorough examination of the system, and consult with the authorities concerning the contract with the city with regard to the building and maintenance of the road."

Police Court.

An Assault Case Ventilated in Court This Morning.

JULY 11th, 1891

At the police court this morning David Casey was up for non-payment of statute labor tax. Mr. R. R. Hall appeared on his behalf, but there was no evading the record of the assessment roll bearing the name David Casey, and $2 10 was paid.

Enos Dunford, who had been arrested for assault upon B. M. Wylie, was arraigned and pleaded guilty. Mr. Wylie not being able, it was stated, to attend on account of his injuries, the Magistrate wished to hear evidence as to the nature of the assault. Dr. Goldsmith and called, and testified that last night between six and seven o'clock Mr. Wylie was driven to his office bleeding profusely from a cut in the head, and so weak and exhausted that he was compelled to lie down for fifteen or twenty minutes before his injuries could be attended to. The wound in the patient's forehead was an angular cut about an inch and a half in length, the surrounding tissue being greatly bruised, apparently inflicted with some blunt substance like a stone. After the patient's wounds were dressed, two stitches having been taken in the cut, he was sent home with directions to keep quiet. To Mr. Stone, who represented Mr. Wylie, Dr. Goldsmith said he would be surprised to see his patient about this morning. It would be very improper for him to be abroad so soon after receiving such injuries. Dr. Goldsmith added that he could not tell what might be the result of the injuries Mr. Wylie had sustained. Therefore the magistrate remanded Mr. Dunsford for a week.

Though no evidence of the vigor and nature of the assault was given in court it appears that Mr. T. Bradburn was driving along Charlotte street with Mr. Wylie in the buggy. In front of the Belmoral hotel Mr. Bradburn alighted and stepped to one side to talk business with two gentlemen, Wylie remaining in the buggy. Dunsford and he became engaged in a dispute about money and the assault resulted, Dunford throwing a stone which struck Wylie. Mr. Bradburn on hearing a cry turned about from his conversation and noticed Wylie bending forward over the dashboard the blood streaming from a cut in his head. Mr. Bradburn drove the wounded man to Dr. Goldsmith, who at bended him as indicated above.

"Excuse me, George, but when I saw you a year ago, your face was covered with pimples; it seems to be all right now." "Yes, sir; that's because I stuck to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood medicine in the world. I was never so well in my life as I am now."

Tellfordian Temperature Topics

Monthly Meterological Report for June.

June, our third dry month this year too has gone. Looking back on April, May and June, may well cause feelings of wonder and thankfulness in beholding the kindness of an all-wise Providence in the apparently bountiful ness for our necessities. In most localities everything on which man is dependent has been progressing favourably although the month has been dry and hot, coming in among the eighties. During the commencement only on three days was it below the 70°, and 4 days at and above the 90°, the 15th and 16th being at 93°, and the 25th at 91°, while the lowest was on the 5th, at 64°. There was 13 days at 80° and above to 90° leaving the mean temperature of the month at 61°. Rain fell on 11 days but only to the depth of 1 inch and 08-100 of an inch. May had 26-100 of an inch and April 1 inch and 53-100 making a total for the three months of 2 inches and 89-100 of an inch, being far below the average. We had four times thunder-light, at least in this part of the country, and auroral lights on the 4th, halo on 4 days and sharp frost on two mornings. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month respectively, namely:—West 1 day, north-east 2 days, north 4 days, east 2 days, north-east 4 days, north-west 11 days, south-west 4 days, and south east 2 days.

There is to be a Saturday night train from Toronto, and many families from that city will spend their holidays here.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—*The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig. A Montreal Telephone Deal.

The Bell Company "Practically Absorbs" the Federal.

The Montreal correspondents of the Mail sends the following despatch:—

MONTREAL, July 9.—The Bell Telephone Company has once more got things all its own way in Montreal, having within the last few days practically absorbed the Federal Telephone Company. The latter company, which had some fourteen hundred subscribers, while not able to make any profits, did considerable injury to the Bell Company By its charter the Federal could not amalgamate with any other company, but there was nothing to prevent the other company buying in all the stock of the Federal, and this in a measure is what has been done. In fact the Bell Company takes over the Federal stock, issuing new Bell stock to an equivalent amount, so that all the Federal stock is now in the Bell Company's hands, while the old Federal shareholders are possessors of a share of Bell stock for every share of Federal stock that they held. It was rumoured that there was a condition attached to this agreement which would have the effect of reducing the value of the Federal stock below par, but this is denied, although it is admitted that if, when the Federal Company is wound up there is any deficit, and there may be a small one, that deficit will have to be made up by the old shareholders. However, by the present arrangement those Federal shareholders who have held on to their stock now realize par on it, although there were a few who had stock who had got too early and are now regretting their shortsightedness. While the Federal stock was not listed on the Stock Exchange, still a good deal of speculative buying has resulted from the rumours that were afloat regarding the company. The Board of Directors of the Federal Company consisted of Messrs. William Cassels, Hector Mackenzie, L. J. Forget, J.P. Dawes, S. H. Ewing, Jacques Grenier, and A. W. Ogilvie. Yesterday a meeting was held and three directors who were present resigned from the board, and the couple of directors who were absent, not being in the city, are expected to resign at once. In place of these gentlemen the Federal Board of Directors is composed of the members of the Bell Board of Directors as follows:—C. L. Sise, R. Mackay, R. Archer, C. B. Sclater, G. W. Moss, R. Thibaudeau and Hugh Paton; so that practically both companies are now under the one management. The new arrangement has had a very marked effect on Bell Stock, for which to-day buyers were offering 115, with no stock for sale.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite, I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

The reader will remember that three young men were tried at the last county court for raiding the house of one Booth and rolling the occupants. The doubtful character of the house, which was pleaded in justification of the raid, seems to have been established by subsequent events. Booth and his wife fell into the hands of the magistrate at Funston Falls, and the husband was sentenced to one year in the Central Prison and the wife to six months in the Mercer.

Street Railway Advantages.

In return for the franchise of the street and a railway company, what advantages will be return to the town such as may be shared in by the working man. The first is that he can live further out in the suburbs, there load is cheaper, and yet, as far as the distance is measured in time, be near his work. The cost of car fare will not amount to one half the difference between yearly cost of an inside lot and consequent heavy taxes. The street car line will, it is proposed, run along Park street, and that is within a short walk of the Erin property, now on the market. 18 choice lots are for sale and every week that passes sees the number lessened. Workingmen should buy now, even if they do not build at once, as others will go up before the summer is over. Look up Mr. Fitzgerald and learn his prices. 349

The State of Trade.

NEW YORK, July 10.—There are no advices this week which warrant a belief in any radical or widespread improvement in the condition of trade throughout the country. Despatches received by Bradstreet's tell of an unusually active export movement of provisions from the Pacific Coast to West coast South American ports owing to a decrease in supplies from Chili. This, it is believed, will continue until after the cessation of Chilian hostilities. There has also been a fairly active demand for wheat and for provisions generally at improving prices, sugar being ¼c higher.

In the Canadian crop prospects appear to be uniformly excellent, exerting a favorable influence on general trade. Orders for dry-goods are noticeable and demands for groceries are active. The Dominion reports 33 business failures this week, against 42 last week and 32 this week last year. The total number Jan. 1 to date is 1044, against 905 last year.

He is Now "General" Slattery.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The visiting Patriarchs Militant I.O.O.F., have had a glorious time since their arrival here. In the canton competition Kingston withdrew from the contest, leaving cantons Buffalo, Amsterdam, Oswego and Bentley of Fulton to compete for the prizes, which consisted of $300 to the first, $150 to the second and $75 to the 3rd. The drill was in charge of Colonel Elliott Danforth, assisted by General Freeman J. Daniels of Ottawa. The judges gave first prize to Canton Oswego, with Amsterdam second and Buffalo third. To-morrow will witness the conferring of the Grand Decoration of Chivalry in open field by Lieutenant-General Underwood. Among those who will receive the decoration is General P. J. Slattery of Toronto.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

INVITED HIM OUTSIDE.

A WITNESS WHO WISHED TO CHASTISE A LAWYER.

$97,000 Profit on a $105,000 Contract — A Quick Way to Make Money — Michael Connolly Cannot Remember Paying Money to McGreevy or Sir Hector.

OTTAWA, July 11.—There was a small attendance at to-day's meeting of the Privileges and Election Committee. The examination of Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly occupied all the morning until adjournment. Mr. Mason, M.P., presided in the absence of Chairman Girouard. After Mr. Tarte had questioned him at length about the particulars of his declining the contract at Quebec, Mr. Lister examined closely as to the nationality and allegiance of the witness. Connolly said he was born a British subject, and although he had lived in the United States he had never taken out naturalization papers. His father was naturalized there while the witness was a minor age, and he was told that would naturalize him, but he didn't know. Connolly refused to make a further answer to Col. Amyot, as his counsel protested that the questions were not relevant to the inquiry. Col. Amyot asserted that he wished to test the credibility of the witness, as there had been an action for perjury instituted against him. Mr. Fitzpatrick said the action had been withdrawn, and Col. Amyot had no right to use the committee to obtain evidence for the Crown prosecutor at Quebec. "How many lawyers are there anyhow?" exclaimed Amyot.

"You have got one to deal with now," was Fitzpatrick's reply

Mr. Connolly called on the chairman to make Col. Amyot apologize for saying the witness had been charged under trial for perjury, otherwise he would have to see him outside.

"Those threats do not influence me, Mr. Murphy," said Col. Amyot, when the witness interrupted him with

"Don't call me Mr. Murphy, if you please."

Amyot asked to be excused for confounding the names, and added that he had not said the witness had been on trial for perjury.

To Mr. Henry, one of the counsel for the Public Works Department, witness said there was no truth in the statement made by O. E Murphy in his evidence that the witness had reported the payment of $10,000 to Sir Hector and his son-in-law or his son, Laforce Langevin.

BURGESS RESIGNS.

The Deputy Minister of the Interior Sends in His Resignation.

OTTAWA, July 11.—Mr. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, said to your correspondent to-day. "My resignation is in the hands of the minister, and at the next meeting of the Public Accounts Committee my reasons for my action will be fully given. Till then I must decline to make any statement. I may add that my resignation is not an acknowledgment of wrong doing.

Cannot Find the Mabel.

PORT DOVER, Ont., July 12.—The steamer Alderson started last evening for Long Point to search for traces of the yacht Mabel and to endeavor to recover the bodies of Major Alderson and Mr. Brinker. They spent most of the forenoon in cruising about within a dozen miles of where Capt. Townsend reported having seen a capsized yacht, but without finding a trace of the missing boat or the unfortunate crew. The Alderson returned this forenoon, but will go out again to-morrow morning and resume the search.

Spurgeon Very Low.

LONDON, July 12.—Mr. Spurgeon is very low to-night, and hope of his recovery is almost abandoned. Showers of telegrams and letters of inquiry and sympathy are constantly coming in. The Bishop of Rochester to-day telegraphed for information, and added a prayer for his recovery.

No Orange Lodges in the Army.

LONDON, July 12.—The Duke of Cambridge, commander-in-chief of the forces, has issued an order closing and forbidding the formation of Orange lodges in the army.

Forty People Were Killed.

NANAIMO, B.C., July 12. A landslide on the banks of the Skena River at the North Pacific cannery occurred recently, resulting in the death of one white woman and 40 Indians. Early on the morning of July 7 those residing near the cannery were aroused by an avalanche on Sloop Mountain, back of the cannery. Nine houses with their occupants were swept away. Thirteen bodies have been recovered.

A Wife's Love All in All.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11.—Thomas Roch, the railroad builder and capitalist, shot himself dead in his room at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Grief over the death of his wife caused him to take his life. He leaves an estate valued at $400,000.

Cape Town advices state that the Portuguese are much alarmed over the attitude of Gungunhanna, the most powerful of the remaining South African chiefs. Gungunhanna, it is said, has positively asserted that he would not recognize the Portuguese authority, but that he means to be a vassal of Queen Victoria. He has with him 20,000 warriors of pure Zulu breed, and of these 2000 are armed with Martini-Henry rifles. The others have a short spear and the assegai.

ROCKY COURSE OF LOVE.

Two Society Youngsters of Pittsburg Have a Thrilling Escapade in Their Endeavor to Get Married.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 12.—True lovers of tender years never had a more romantic and trying escapade than Wesley B. Mosely and Miss Bessie Steadman, of Allegheny, who were brought back from Alliance, Ohio, yesterday. She has her sixteenth birthday anniversary to celebrate yet, while he is not old enough to vote. He has been escorting her to and from school for months, lunching with her at a fashionable downtown hostlery and making himself agreeable at picnics and parties.

Miss Steadman is the daughter of W. R. Steadman, a well-known business man, while Mosely is the son of a widow. Both moved in good society. Their folks thought they were too young to wed, but the lovers thought otherwise.

Of their escapade young Mosely said to-day: "We went to Sewickly on Tuesday to attend a picnic. We had previously planned to go to Buffalo by the Lake Erie road and there get married. I sent a telegram back saying we had gone to Jamestown, but this was done to throw the folks of the track. We expected to cross the Ohio and take a train at Coraopolis, but could get no one to ferry us over.

Crawled on the Bumpers.

"When the Chicago express came along, with nothing but mail and express cars, I asked the conductor to take us to Beaver, where we could catch the Lake Erie train. He refused. I offered him $50 to take us down, but it would not go. We crawled on the bumpers of the front car. The girl had on a light challie dress, and I put my light overcoat on her to protect her from the night air. She looked like a boy. In this way we rode to Alliance, Ohio.

"There an officer addressed us, but let us go again. We did not want to stop there, as we could not get married in Ohio. We tried to board the train again, and were arrested by a train detective. He also let us go after we gave him a hard luck story. I told him my companion was my brother. I don't see why he did not discover the mistake, as my overcoat only reached to Miss Steadman's knees.

"We remained all night at a hotel and next morning, while trying to get out of town, was arrested and taken before the Mayor. We were detained in the Mayor's office until evening, when Chief of Police Stacey took me to a hotel and the Mayor took the girl to his home. About half-past twelve o'clock that night I went around to the Mayor's house and gave a whistle that Miss Steadman understood. She opened the window, crawled on a tin gutter and along to an awning, which she attempted to slide down, when it broke and fell with a crash. I caught her in my arms. We then started across the fields and got on a road which I thought would take us to the Erie and Pittsburg depot, with the hope of reaching Cumberland, Md. The girl got all wet in the fields and she went into a farm house to dry her clothes.

Given Away by the Cost.

"The old farmer, seeing the girl with a man's coat on, thought something was wrong and told the police. We had just sat down under a tree to rest when the mayor and chief of police came up in a carriage and took us back to town, where we met the girl's father and my brother and were sent home. What I regret is the inference of anything wrong between us, but on my honor there was not and I am sorry if the public think so."

Miss Steadman couldn't be seen to-day. She and her mother are both ill of nervous prostration, growing out of the romantic affair. It is thought the loving pair will be allowed to marry shortly.

ANOTHER HORROR.

Frightful Railway Accident in Colorado — 13 Passengers Receive Injuries.

ASPEN, Col., July 12.—A collision at Aspen Junction on the Midland Saturday night between a special train and an engine broke the check valve on the side of the boiler, which exhausted the hot steam into the broken end of the passenger car, scalding thirteen passengers—five men, seven women and one child. Seven of the passengers died from their burns.

Of the 25 passengers three colored men, who were in the forward compartment, were the only ones not injured. Conductor Miller, with the train crew and the slightly injured passengers began the work of rescue. A 2 year old child of Mrs. Frank Ellis was killed instantly. Miss Annie Phelan of Cardiff died soon after she was taken out. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Ellis, Thomas O'Donnell, Mary O'Donnell, James Leach, all of Aspen, Mr. Mrs. Rogers of Woody, Col., Mrs. J. G. Baldwin and Mrs. Willoughby of Glenwood were fearfully scalded and burned. The victims' cries of agony were heartrending, and their scalded faces and arms and shoulders were a sight to behold. In spite of all efforts Mrs. Frank E. Ellis, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. W. L. Willoughby died within two hours. Mrs. Rogers died at 5 o'clock this morning and her husband at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Willoughby was frightfully burned. She begged piteously to be kept alive if possible until her husband could reach her. Of those still living only Miss O'Donnell is considered as dangerously burned. While the injured people were at Aspen Junction the person of Mrs. Rogers was robbed of a gold watch and chain and also $130 in money. There were other robberies reported but not authenticated.

THE TEMPORARY HOME OF THOUSANDS OF DELIGHTED VISITORS.

Eleventh Session of the National Council of Education of the United States in Association Hall—The Coming International Teachers' Convention—The 12th—Minor Topics of Interest.

TORONTO, July 12.—Public interest in the International Teachers' Convention, which begins its sessions here to-morrow, has been strengthened by the opening session of the National Council of Education of the United States on Friday in Association Hall. The high character of the discussions, the evident endeavor made by essayists to get at the root of the matter, the practical nature of the reports of committees, is somewhat accountable for this increased attention on the part of the general public. Add to this the presence of thousands of well-dressed comfortable-looking and intellectual strangers, with more to follow, and there is nothing to wonder at that even this city feels a thrill of intense expectation for the coming week. While there are already delegations of teachers present from nearly every state and territory in the Union, up to last night delegations from New York State, Massachusetts, Iowa, Ohio, Kansas, Kentucky Minnesota and Montana, came in by special trains in fifties and hundreds. At the opening session of the council, able, valuable and interesting papers on Compulsory Education and the Education of Girls—the latter being unique in its way—were read after the transaction of routine business, and then the council was treated to a drive around the city at the invitation of Inspector James L. Hughes on behalf of the Toronto Executive Committee. In the evening, at a special session, the report of the special committee on the reorganization of the council, to bring it more within the scope of its new international character, was received. At Saturday's sessions reports were received on Secondary and Normal education, and interesting and valuable discussions were held thereon. The arrangements for the comfort of the visiting teachers are simply perfect, and have won the highest praise from the officers of the association, who declare that they never had so complete a system organization on any previous occasion. The Queen City is evidently pleased with its visitors, and although it is now big enough to accommodate thousands more should occasion warrant, the influx makes a perceptible difference in the gala appearance of the streets.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

The Orange Order Loyally and Enthusiastically Celebrate the Day.

The 201st anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was celebrated here with great enthusiasm. In addition to the 6000 members of the city lodges there were hundreds of brethren present from all parts of the province and from Montreal. The procession, which numbered in its ranks the Orangemen from the Northern, Central, Western and Eastern Districts of the city was reinforced by the brethren from Montreal and Hamilton. If lodges and representatives of other visiting lodges of the province, began its great parade with banners waving, colors flying, and bands playing along Queen-street, and headed by five lodges of Lady True Blues in carriages, to the Exhibition grounds, where an address of welcome was delivered by His Worship the Mayor, and addresses by the Right Worshipful Grand Master of Ontario; Ald. Nicholson, of Hamilton; the Right Worshipful Grand Master of Quebec, Galbraith; Mr. Clarke Wallace, M.P., Grand Sovereign of British America; the County Master of the City of Montreal, William Simpson County Chaplain, Rev. George Bamfield Rev. Mr. Marshall of New Mexico, a delegate of the National Association Education, and Rev. J. C. Madill, County Chaplain, West Toronto. There was likewise a good program of sports at the Exhibition Grounds as well as pleasing exhibitions of fancy drill by uniformed corps of the order. The weather was perfect, there was no untoward events, and altogether the celebration of the 12th of July will long be remembered in local annals.

Minor Matters of Interest.

The girl Annie Long or Stover, acquitted by the coroner's jury on a charge of infanticide, was arraigned at the Police Court on a charge of murder on Saturday morning. Several witnesses identified the murdered child as being that of the accused, who was committed for trial by the magistrate without bail.

Saturday afternoon Mr. James Isaac took his three little children down to the bay for a boating trip on the bay; when Albert, aged 8, fell off Warin's Wharf into the water. The father sprang into a boat and after much difficulty pulled the boy out, but before medical assistance could be procured he died of suffocation.

An aged man named Henry Armstrong who had just arrived from the Portsmouth Docks, England, applied for a bed at the Clifton House, Colborne-street, looked sick and was sent to the hospital, where he died Saturday morning. Armstrong was an army veteran and was stationed with the regulars here 35 years ago.

Saturday evening Prof. W. H. Anderson of Wheeling, Virginia, a delegate to the Educational Convention, was on board the Cibola. As the boat landed at the wharf Prof. Anderson attempted to step off the boat by a plank walk. Missing his footing he fell and broke five of his ribs.

John Gillespie, a young man 18 years old, living at 75 Teraulay-street, went out for a row with some friends yesterday. They rowed over to the sand bar at Hanlan's and went in to bathe. Gillespie is supposed to have taken cramps, for he had not been in long until he sank. One of his companions went to rescue him, but did not succeed, and by the time a second attempt was made and the body brought out, life was extinct.

Among the many sudden deaths of recent occurrence none have called forth a more widespread feeling of regret than that of Mr. Ignatius Kormanu, who passed away peacefully in the midst of his family at his residence in Bloor-street east about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after an illness of five days. Until last Monday he was seemingly in his usual state of robust health, but shortly after reaching his office on the morning of that day he was seized with violent spasms which completely prostrated him, and from which he gradually sank, heart failure being the immediate cause of death. He had the consolation of being surrounded by his devoted wife and nine of his children.

Drowned in Lake Erie.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—The Mill's Park M. E. Sunday school of this city gave an excursion to Oak Point yesterday. Among the excursionists were John Henderson and his two nieces, Isabel and Ella Henderson, aged respectively 22 and 12. Mr. Henderson and John Stockman took the two Henderson girls and Lilly Chinowich, aged 12, for a boat ride on Lake Erie. The lake was somewhat rough. When some distance from the shore a wave washed into the boat and the girls became frightened and upset the boat. The three girls and Stockman were drowned. Henderson held on to the boat until help arrived and was saved.

Fished from a Flume.

BOBCAYGEON, July 11.—Across the flume under the Grist Mill, is a sort of wooden sieve arrangement for stopping any rubbish from being drawn into the wheel. Mr. Warder, the miller, has a rake for drawing this stuff out as it accumulates, and on Tuesday evening while so engaged was somewhat startled by drawing out a male infant wrapped in a couple of cotton aprons. Mr. Warder notified the authorities and the body was taken in charge.

CATERING TO THE KAISER

GRAND REVIEW OF QUEEN VICTORIA'S VOLUNTEERS AND REGULARS.

A Second Royal Holiday at Wimbledon—The Soldiers Make a Splendid Showing Before the German Emperor, Reflecting Credit Upon Themselves and the Officers.

BERLIN, July 12.—The independent papers criticise the Emperor's reception as emphasizing the friendly sentiments of England towards Germany and towards the Emperor as a relative of the royal family without being a popular endorsement of the policy of Lord Salisbury.

The Freisinnige Zeitung holds that the general character of the celebrations in honor of the Emperor, and especially those of the court and Government, accordingly must be taken as an open declaration of England's adhesion to the dreibund.

Articles in the Russian and French press, illustrating the intensity of the irritation felt in Russia and France towards England, are largely quoted.

A startling report, which has caused considerable talk in diplomatic circles, has recently been circulated here. It is to the effect that M. Ribot, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, had approached the Russian Government on the subject of a coalition against England, offering to cooperate with Russia in the seizure of Constantinople and the formation of a new Turkish state in Asia, embracing Egypt, under Franco-Russian protection. Apart from the question of the probability of its truth, the report has value as indicating the tendency of Lord Salisbury's dreibund policy. Nobody believes that the French and Russian Governments will accept Lord Salisbury's verbal assurances of friendliness in the face of England's practical adhesion to their enemies.

The game of diplomacy against England's retention of Egypt has been already reopened. According to The Cologne Gazette the Sultan, acting under the promptings of the French and Russian ministers, recently held a council at which it was proposed that the Porte should call a conference of the European powers to consider the question of the evacuation of Egypt. Telegrams received here from Constantinople with reference to diplomatic movements hostile to England state that the Porte has invited the French Government to resume the initiative in a movement against the British occupation of Egypt.

A MILLION PEOPLE.

Turned Out to See the Soldiers' Pageant at Wimbledon.

LONDON, July 11.—There were 16,000 volunteers and 6000 regulars on the grounds at Wimbledon at 3 o'clock. The force was divided into two brigades, the Duke of Cambridge being in supreme command, with the Duke of Connaught as his assistant.

At 3.30 the Duke of Cambridge inspected the troops preparatory to the arrival of the Emperor William.

At 4 p.m. the German Emperor appeared, when a royal salute was fired and the imperial standard of Germany was hoisted. The Prince of Wales, escorted by a detachment of Life Guards, accompanied the Emperor. The Emperor, who wore a field marshal's uniform of the white Cuirassiers, was mounted on a magnificent black charger. After inspecting the troops the Emperor rode to the saluting point and the troops marched past in splendid style, many of the different corps being highly complimented by the august visitor upon their smartness and soldierly-like bearing.

The march was in this order: Horse artillery by batteries at close intervals; squadrons of cavalry; artillery batteries; infantry.

The volunteers were in full marching order. They mustered well, a majority of the regiments coming by the railroads, although many marched all the way. The life guards and other cavalry arrived early.

The number of spectators was incalculable but it is estimated at a million. The stands erected for privileged guests, members of parliament, lords and ambassadors, were packed to the edges. The Duke of Connaught and General Sir Evelyn Wood commanded the infantry, which were divided into two divisions. The march past occupied an hour and a half. The lines were then re-formed and the imperial salute was again given. As the Kaiser passed the troops to and from the saluting point the united bands played the German national anthem. A royal salute closed the review, and the Emperor and the imperial and royal parties at once returned to London and proceeded to the Crystal Palace.

What From Over the Sea.

Foreign markets are absolutely stagnant. Russia will have no grain for export this year.

At high tide in the Mersey yesterday a temporary dam 220 feet wide, consisting of 10,000 tons of timber and masonry, collapsed.

The Emperor arrived at Hatfield House to-day to visit Lord Salisbury and will leave to-morrow for Windsor to bid farewell to the Queen.

A Rio Janeiro despatch says there is a growing public desire to renew the allowance to Dom Pedro, the ex-Emperor, on the same terms and for the same amount as when he abdicated the throne.

The inquiry into the Manipur massacre discovered evidence which will probably decide the fate of the Jubraj, consisting of an order bearing his seal and signature to kill all the British subjects and Sepoys.

A school at Bruhl, Prussia, was struck by lightning to-day and two children were killed. A panic ensued, during which a number of children were injured. The school house was set on fire by the stroke and destroyed.

Unknown persons have inscribed the following on the tombstone at the grave of M. Beltcheff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance, who was assassinated some time ago: "Forgive us, we aimed at Stambuloff and struck you. The second time we will not fail."

The official calculation of the Conservative whips now is that prorogation will take place on Thursday, Aug. 6. Their men have been freely told that they may make their arrangements on the assumption that they will not be wanted after that date.

Cut His Throat.

BROCKVILLE, July 11.—James Patterson, a farmer living near Bolingbroke, above Westport, attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with the small blade of an ordinary jack-knife. The blade was inserted close to the jugular vein, but in some way the attempt was not immediately successful, though the doctors have faint hopes of his recovery. Patterson is a quiet, inoffensive well-to-do farmer and no cause is assigned for his rash action.

Same Old Story; Same Result.

AMHERSTBURG, July 11.—At the residence of Francis Laforet, near Chevalier, in Tilbury West, his son Joseph, aged 12, was engaged lighting the fire and took a coal oil lamp and began pouring the oil into the stove to hurry up matters, when the flames communicated with the oil left in the lamp, which exploded and covered him with the burning liquid. Jerome, the young son of Nicholas Chauvin, came to his aid and extinguished the flames, but young Laforet had been burned so badly that he died next day, after suffering terrible agony.

Parboile in Boiled Milk.

BOLTON, Ont., July 11.—The infant son of James Curtis, near Gribbin, fell into a pot of boiling milk which had been left to cool, and was so severely scalded that he died.

MONDAY, JULY 13, 1891.

The Glorious Twelfth.

Annual Church Parade of the Orangemen —A Spiritual Preparation for To-day's Great Demonstration.

King William, of Pious and Immortal memory, was duly honored by the Orangemen of Peterborough and vicinity on the occasion of the two hundred and first anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne that great event so important to Protestants the world over. The spirit of Orangeism does not fall into decay as the ages progress, on the contrary the liveliest enthusiasm marks each recurring Twelfth of July, and as is eminently fitting in view of the firm Christian principles which are the foundation of the society, the Orangemen annually attend divine service in a body and receive renewed inspiration from the lips of God's appointed ministers. Thus year by year the flame is kept burning in their bosoms, and Orangemen are as ready to-day to suffer and fight and die for their God-given principles as they were two hundred years ago. The Twelfth of July is the great day upon which, once a year, they meet to attest those principles for which their forefathers bled, and the whole world is familiar with the hearty way in which the Orangemen celebrate this anniversary.

Never, perhaps, in the history of Peterborough has there been a larger society church parade than that which took place Sunday afternoon to the George street Methodist church. There were over three hundred members of the Orange order in line, wearing full regalia and looking very attractive by reason of their spruce individual appearance as well as the imposing numbers.

At about a quarter to four o'clock the Orangemen of Peterborough, Smith and Nassau gathered at the lodge rooms, and, headed by the Fire Brigade band, beneath the newly erected arches to the church, the parade being watched with sympathetic interest by hundreds of people. Following was the order of procession:

MARCHED UP GEORGE STREET

Fire Brigade Band.
L.O.L. No. 80, J. A. McWilliams, Master.
L.O.L. No. 49, S. Campbell, Master.
L.O.L. No. 178, (Smith), I. Milburn, Master.
L.O.L. No. 167, (Nassau), Jas Curtis, Master
Jubilee Lodge Prentice Boys, W. Sloan, Master
King William Lodge True Blues, George Sloan, Master.
Rising Sons of William, Juvenile True Blues, Geo. Duncan, Master.
County Master, Alex. Hamilton; County Secretary, C. W. Sawyers; Sir Knight Robt. Weir, Grand Master Royal Black Knights; District Master, Bro. Stenson; P. D. M., J. Graham Weir; W. J. Green, District Secretary, and Bro. Henry Graymore, Past County Master of Dundas.

Bro. Jas. McLennan was marshall of the parade, and in the procession was Bro. Wm. Lund, the old veteran of over four score years, who never misses a parade, Bro. Thos. Brown, and other old Orangemen who are most earnest and faithful members of the Order.

Arriving at the church the Orangemen countermarched inside and took their seats, occupying the whole of the middle space and a portion of the sides.

The choir was present and during the service rendered two choice anthems. Rev. Jos. H. Locke, the pastor, preached a most appropriate and enthusiastic sermon to the Orangemen and the large congregation present, taking for his text Exodus xiii, 14:

"And it shall be when thy son asketh thee in time to come, saying, What is this? that thou shalt say unto him, By strength of hand the Lord brought us out from Egypt, from the house of bondage."

These words, said the preacher, referred to the release of the children of Israel from the cruel bondage of Egypt. They cried unto Heaven in their distress, and the Lord hearkened unto them, and stretched forth His hand to rescue them

FROM THEIR OPPRESSORS.

Their release and marvelous escape from Pharoah at the Red Sea, their forty years of journeying through the wilderness, and their final entrance into the promised land, all go to illustrate and justify the language of the text. And there are many scriptural illustrations of the interposition of Divine Providence on behalf of His chosen people. Pharoah was made the instrument of his own defeat, and Pharoah's acts used by God to accomplish His designs. Another vivid instance was that of Haman and Mordecai. Similar examples of the Divine Providence over-ruling and controlling events to God's own purpose, might be taken from modern history, notably the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588, which was of such inestimable importance to Great Britain and the Protestant religion, conserving the faith and destroying Papal dominance; the defeat of the Gunpowder Plot; the prevention of the plot to massacre the Irish Catholics in the reign of Mary by the death of the Queen herself; the revolution of 1688, when William, Prince of Orange, brought the cause of religious liberty to such a glorious success; the Battle of the Boyne, the relief of Derry and other thrilling episodes of those times. William III, said the preacher, saved a nation, saved Protestantism, saved the world; and his memory must not be allowed to fall into forgetfulness, but it must be, like the names of the righteous, held in reverent remembrance. And who, looking at all these events, conscientiously say they were all the result of mere chance. Was not God's wise and guiding providence manifest at all times of danger? So, when it is asked in future years, why do you celebrate this day, Orangemen can answer because by

THE STRENGTH OF HIS HAND

God has brought the English nation and His own religion out of bondage. Since the days of King William Papacy has steadily declined, the preacher said, and Protestantism has advanced. In conclusion, he said, If I understand the primary principles of the Orange Order, it is to uphold the principles of the Reformation and the great cause of Protestantism. And it is in this spirit that we bid you a hearty Good speed. In this work of spreading the great principles and truths of the English Reformation, we wish you great and ever increasing success, and in view of what you have done, and are doing, we welcome you gladly, heartily welcome you to this church to-day.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Protestant House, and the closing hymn, a patriotic selection, sung with fervor.

The brethren, on returning to the lodge rooms, passed votes of thanks, the County Master presiding at the meeting. Bro. R. Weir moved, seconded by Bro. J. A. McWilliams, a vote of thanks to Rev. Jos. H. Locke for his able and appropriate sermon; and Mr. J. A. Davidson moved, seconded by Bro. Jos. Saunders, a vote of thanks to the choir and officers of the church. These resolutions were carried with hearty emphasis. Some short addresses were also given by some of the brethren before the meeting dispersed.

Cold, cough, coffin is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

THE "affair McGreevy," as the Conservative papers delicately style the gigantic steal, and similar transactions through the operations of members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., are definitely stated to have cost the country upwards of $2,000,000. Unlike Bykert's grab, remarks the Welland Tribune, this amount did not come out of the country's timber resources, but out of the ratepayers' hardly-earned wages, collected by exorbitant taxes on sugars and other commodities. Roughly estimated, the McGreevy & Co. steals have cost man, woman and child in the Dominion fifty cents each. No discount for families. Pater familias with a household of ten has paid his $5. The money was used to bribe constituencies to elect Tory members, to keep afloat Tory newspapers, and line the pockets of needy and greedy Tory politicians. Such doings it is that make high taxes necessary, and hard times inevitable; but the end is near.

THE Week, respecting the Tarte investigation, remarks as follows: "The clever and merciless tests to which Mr. Murphy's testimony is being subjected by Mr. Osler have thus far resulted in involving the witness in a good deal of confusion, many inconsistencies and some actual contradictions. It has moreover caused him to stand self-revealed as a man who is not only unscrupulous to the last degree, but as one who rather glories in the fact. But all this was pretty well known before, and the wonder is how such a man, self-confessed as a New York "boodler," and an absconding embezzler, could have been admitted into business relations with the department of Public Works. * * * Meanwhile some of the incidents of the committee room are not adapted to elevate our conceptions of what a Parliamentary committee as an agency for eliciting the truth in such an enquiry. The strength of party feeling and the absence of the judicial spirit are sometimes almost painfully apparent. As this feeling exists on both sides, it is likely that between the two the truth may be brought out and a virtually just conclusion reached. But it is surely an undesirable, not to say unseemly, way of reaching the truth. One cannot help wishing that the investigation had been handed over to a court of justice."

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

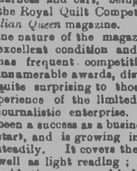
Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.



"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Colcoe, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

FOR SCOTLAND'S POOR.

A MEMORIAL CAIRN ERECTED BY TORONTO SCOTCHMEN.

Description of Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Which the Cairn is Situated—The Architect and Sculptors—The Cost and Design of the Memorial.

It is held by many who have had opportunities of knowing, that Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, is the most beautifully situated on this continent. Men who have travelled widely over America and paid this matter some attention have been impressed with its old and stately trees, its shaded glades, its knolls and shrubbery. Toronto is favored with beautiful cemeteries, but as yet the right of Mount Pleasant to lead is not disputed.

In this picturesque enclosure is located the plot of ground purchased four years ago by the St. Andrew's Society for the burial of the indigent Scottish dead. It is a finely shaped knoll rising twenty feet in height and about 120 feet in diameter, and is encircled by a carriage drive. It commands a view of the cemetery and country around, and is reckoned to be the finest plot on the grounds. When it was sold to the St. Andrew's Society, four years ago, the price was $600, fixed not so much because of the advantages of situation, but according to area. Now it would be considered cheap at $8,000, a sum actually offered for the plot for family use. On this plot it was decided about a year ago, that a monument should be erected. The management of the St. Andrew's Society are nothing if not business-like and expeditious, and no sooner was the monument decided upon and a design selected than subscriptions were solicited and the erection proceeded with. Mr. J. Wilson Gray, a member of the society, and a rising young architect, whose training in his profession gives evidence of a thoroughness frequently met with in Scotchmen, was chosen as architect, and from a few designs submitted by him one was selected, and the erection of the monument was entrusted to Messrs. D. MacIntosh & Sons, sculptors, Toronto, and to architect and builder great credit is due for design and execution. From the engraving on this page, the design, which combines the features of a Scottish cairn and monument, will be seen. The monument is placed on the top of the knoll and rises 35 feet from the ground, or 36 feet above the level of the carriage drive. The monument proper is in the form of a tall well-proportioned obelisk of grey granite, with the St. Andrew's cross forming a conspicuous feature on two sides, and resting on a substantial base of rock boulders in the shape of a cairn, the whole having a rusticity in keeping with the rune work of Scotland. The cost of both plot and monument will amount to $2,300,—$600 for the ground and $1,700 for the monument. The cairn is imposing in appearance and is very striking. It attracts attention from a long distance, its pointed shaft being seen a mile distant. The combination of cairn and obelisk is unique as well as characteristic, and the design will challenge the admiration of all beholders. The Scottish societies associated with St. Andrew's are to be congratulated on having completed so fine a memorial to the Scottish poor not only free of debt, but having a surplus with which to keep the plot in order.—Scottish Canadian.

THE SCOTTISH CAIRN

SARAH BERNHARDT'S TOMB.

It Is in Pere Lachaise, and the Actress Herself Places Flowers on It.

Mme Sarah Bernhardt has already had her coffin and her tomb made.

The story about the coffin was published some years ago. It was a magnificent receptacle, covered with silver. The actress had herself photographed in it.

SARAH BERNHARDT'S TOMB.

A correspondent has just discovered her tomb-stone in the cemetery of Pere Lachaise in Paris. It is in an out of the way place, where tourists and ordinary visitors do not go, so that persons wishing to see it will have to make a short pilgrimage. It is on the slope of a hill and is overshadowed by another tomb of great size and ugliness. It bears the strikingly simple inscription, "Bernhardt."

The most remarkable thing about the tomb is that when this correspondent saw it it was covered with faded wreaths of box and violets, said to have been placed there by the tragedienne herself. The flowers are faded because of her long absence in America and Australia. It is supposed she will renew them as soon as she returns.

To Bring Out Faded Ink.

People having valuable documents locked away in safes and secretaries are often out of temper and out of pocket at discovering that the writing thereon has faded almost completely when their use becomes important. It is very easy in these cases to restore the color to the ink by purchasing a little solution of ammonium sulphide and bathing the paper therein, or tracing over the letters with a camel's hair brush dipped in the fluid.

If this readily fails, gallic or tannic acid will generally bring out the words, no matter if they be completely illegible at first. After applying either solution the document should be carefully rinsed and dried.

Identity of Ideas.

Yabsley—"I have always had an idea that after a couple had been married for some time even their thoughts became to a great degree identical. Am I right, Peck?"

Mr. N. Peck—"Guess you are. About now my wife is thinking over what she'll say to me for coming home so late. And so am I."

What He Knew.

Wandering Raggles—I tell you, fellers, that the present state of society is all wrong! Now Henry George says——

Reckless Blinks—Henry George, indeed! Wot do yer know about Henry George?

Wandering Raggles—Well, I know all about Progress and Poverty from experience, any way.

Satisfactory Explanation.

"How did you come to give me such a piece of meat as this? Why, it doesn't smell good," said a fastidious man to the waiter in a restaurant.

"'Scuse me, sah, dat's not the smell ob de meat what you smells. Dat's de aroma what comes from the kitchen. Dar's nuffin de matter wid de meat."

"Twelve Good Men and True."

Hawkins—You were on the jury in the murder trial, weren't you? What was the verdict?

Lambson—Acquittal.

"In spite of such damning evidence! What excuse had you?"

"Insane."

"What! All of you?"

A Lofty Ideal.

"If I could be anybody—which I'm free to say I ain't," remarked Weary Watkins, "I'd like to be old Joshua, an' make the sun stand still."

"Wat fer?" asked Mr. Hungry Higgins.

"So's I could set in the shade of this here tree all day without havin' to move. Won'dn't that be a snap, eh?"

Suspected a Caller.

Mrs. Dinguss (calling up the stairway)—"Can you come down, dear?"

Mr. Dinguss—"Can I come down, did you say?"

"Yes."

"Come down?"

"Yes."

(Struck by a sudden suspicion) "Mrs. Dinguss, is it Shadbelt?"

To a Fly

LIGHTING ON A PRETTY GIRL'S CHEEK.

Oh, fly!
Will you but speak
And tell me why
You sit upon her cheek?
Upon her cheek so white and pink,
And there you seem to drink and drink
The sweetness of the roses in,
As if it were no sin;
While I,
Oh, fly!
Would scarcely dare
To touch so fair
A cheek,
Though I might speak
And say in truthful meter
That nothing on the earth was sweeter.
Ah, would that I
Were more fly!

The Queen Pawned Her Jewels.

Queen Isabella of Spain pawned her jewels to raise money to fit out the expedition that discovered the new world. Her sacrifice was not greater than is made by many women of America, who deny themselves many things in order to have money to buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for their sick husbands or children. This "Discovery" is more important to them than the one made in 1492. For all diseases of the lungs, liver, throat, or stomach, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. A trial convinces, its continued use cures. It purifies the blood, invigorates the liver and strengthens and builds up the whole system. Guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it returned. s

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—168 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent BATTERY, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you want to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

Peterborough's Grand Orange Demonstration

A Monster Turnout of the Brethren—Magnificent Weather Brings a Multitude to Town—A Brilliant Street Pageant—Beautiful Arches Span the Street—The air is full of Orange Airs—A Highly Successful Demonstration.

The local Orange brethern had made great preparations for the reception of the large number of visitors which it was expected the great demonstration would bring to town, and the work was well and truly done

On Saturday night the committee had completed their share of the festal attire of the town for their great anniversary. This consisted of arches at three points. To begin at the north, Orangeism being particularly peculiar to the north (of Ireland), there was the True Blue trophy. This consisted of a central flag staff, from which drooped double festoons diagonally to the four street corners, the evergreen cables enclosing alternate webs of blue and Orange material. Over these, from a higher point on the central flag staff, swung four single evergreen ropes, the Union Jack flying from the peak of the staff. Appropriate mottoes were displayed on four sides of the arch—on the north, "Welcome"; on the south, "With Heart and Hand"; on the west, "Prosperity to All"; and on the east, "Union is Strength." At the junction of Water and Hunter streets a beautiful quadruple arch was raised, and it had a really imposing appearance. From evergreen buttresses at each of the four corners sprang heavy arches of greenery, the arches crossing at the centre of the square, an evergreen pillar forming the keystone. The central flagstaff bore a waving Union Jack, and on the apex of the arches stood a stuffed stag. These mottoes adorned this set of arches on the east, "The Bible and the Crown"; on the west, "L.O.L. 247, Welcome the Brethren," on the north, "Civil and Religious Liberty," and on the south "Anghrim, Boyne and Derry." The arch at the corner of George and Simcoe streets opposite the Orange hall, was simpler in design, but of a much more substantial appearance than the others. The depressed arch sprang from two heavy flanking turretted pillars which were adorned with bunting flags and colors. The southern face of the arch bore the motto, "Welcome" between the words "Derry" and "Anghrim," the northern face the words "No Surrender," under the word "Derry," flanked by the figures "1688" and "1891," and on each side of the middle group of words were "Derry" and "Enniskillen."

Gough Bros, the wonderful cheap men also had quite a display of loyal bunting in front of their establishment. A line stretched to the opposite side of the street was festooned with Canadian flags, and in the middle a large Union Jack flapped in the breeze.

Not for many a long year had there a brighter day dawned for Orangeism in Peterborough both in a literal and figurative sense than Monday morning, July 13th, the day appointed for the formal celebration of the anniversary dear to every Society lover of civil and religious liberty. With the dawn of the day thousands must have been afoot in the country, for as early as six o'clock the visitors began to come, and from that hour up to noon there was a steady stream of visitors by rail, boat and carriage, till thousands upon thousands thronged the streets, not to count the uniformed members of the Orange order, whose arrival began about 8 o'clock, when the local lodges, headed by the Fire Brigade band, marched to the Ashburnham station, where they met the Nassau and Lakefield brethren, with their bands and banners, the stalwart Nassau brethren, with their splendid physique and bearing, being, as in years gone by, the target of all eyes and challenging admiration from all sides. These were escorted to Central Park, where, in the meantime, the Smith brethren, with the really excellent Fourth Line band to fire their loyal ardour with the stirring and time-honoured airs due to the day, had assembled. These formed in escort procession in the following order:

57th Battalion Band,
Junior True Blues,
Senior True Blues,
Prentice Boys,
L. O. L. No. 80,
L. O. L. No. 49,
L. O. L. No. 122,
L. O. L. No. 188.

The procession marched to the G. T. R. station to meet the Lindsay brethren, the latter having as their accompanists the city band of Lindsay, and the augmented cavalcade returned to the Central Park, and from time to time escort processions were on the stir, the whole morning the streets being a moving panorama of waving banners and bright regalia, and the air resonant with shrill exulting of fifes and vigorous bang of the double-headed rural drum. As train after train arrived they were met and marched to the central rendezvous. Some of the latest arrivals, such as North Verulam, 1410, arrived about one o'clock, followed shortly after by the Port Hope Orange district delegation, accompanied by their band, the 46th Batt. band.

THE MORNING PROCESSION.

About half past eleven the grand procession was formed but it did not include all the lodges which were present during the day. Some had not yet arrived and some of the lodges had become entangled in the immense crowd that packed the streets in every part adjacent to the park.

The procession was marshalled by the following mounted marshals:—

County Master, Alex. Hamilton, District Master, N. Stenson, John McLennan, County D. of C.; and J. Graham Weir, Assistant County D. of C. R. N. Scott, District D. of C. and Capt. Sanderson, Assistant District D. of C. At different times the distinguished visitors arrived on different trains, and were met by a reception committee composed of Mr. Robert Weir, G.M. and C. W. Sawers, R.B.N.L., County Secretary, and an escort worthy of their respective dignities. These were as follows:—

N. Clark Wallace, Toronto, Grand Master of British North America; Capt. McGaughey, Cobourg, Past G. M. Royal Black Knights, Ontario East; Past Grand Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Wilson, Toronto; Stewart Mulvey, Grand Master, Manitoba; A. J. Van Ingen, Newcastle, Grand Secretary; Major Hughes, Lindsay.

LUNCHEON IN HONOUR OF THE GRAND MASTER.

Mr. C. W. Sawers, County Secretary, having been so requested by the local brethren, entertained the Grand Master of British America, Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, M. P., at luncheon at the Oriental Hotel, to which the following gentlemen were invited, nearly all of whom were present:—

Mayor Stevenson, Judge Weller, John Burnham, M.P., J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Sheriff Hall, John Carnegie, Rev. J. C. Davidson, E. A. Peck, MacFarlane Wilson, Thomas Cahill, W. H. Moore, J. J. Lundy, Thos. Kelly, R. A. Morrow Jas. Kendry, George Hillard, Henry Calouts, Rev. Mr. Locke, H. T. Strickland, Rev. Mr. Barker, W. H. Wrighton, W. Clinton, Dr. Burnham, Richard Hall, Chas. McGill, A. P. Poussette, T. A. Hay, A. C. Dunlop, Dr. Clarke, D. W. Dumble, A. L. Davis, G. W. Ranney. Mr. Mulholland, W. B. Ferguson, R. W. Errett, L. Sherlock, D. McGrath, W. H. Robertson, S. R. Armstrong, R. C. Strickland, H. T. Strickland, Chas. Stapleton. Also all the prominent Orangemen in town for the day.

After dinner the brethren assembled at the Central Park, where the grand procession was again formed, and a brilliant pageant was the long cavalcade as it wound through the streets, to the stirring strains of Orange airs. The procession has been filing past the EXAMINER office for the past half hour, and the rear column is not in sight. On the return to the Park addresses will be given, of which a full report and other interesting incidents of the magnificently successful day's demonstration will be given.

Church Chimes.

The services in St. Paul's church yesterday were conducted by Rev. B. Canfield Jones, of Port Hope, who preached morning and evening also.

At St. John's yesterday the sermon was preached in the morning by Rev. G. Herbert Broughall, of Trinity College School Port Hope. He also preached the sermon in the Mission School in the evening.

Rev J. C. Davidson Rector of St. John's yesterday morning inaugurated a summer series of morning services at Chemong Park. The service which was held in the pavillion was largely attended and unusually very interesting. There was an organ provided by Mr. M. S. Dean over which Mr. Fred E Bell presided as organist also an excellent imformal choir. The morning service was read by Rev. Mr. Davidson who prefaced it with a brief address upon the neglect of Sunday services which characterized watering places, one of the worst features, and in regard to Chemong Park, which this series of services are designed to counteract. The services were very heartily joined in by the little flock, which was larger than many rural congregations in regularly established churches. It is the intention that some of the clergy of St. John's shall give a morning service at Jhemong every Sunday.

Suicide in a Sewer.

NEW YORK, July 11.—This morning the body of Thomas Jenny, residence unknown, was found at the mouth of the 23rd-street sewer in East River. He is supposed to have been the man who committed suicide by jumping into the manhole on East 23rd-street.

Caused By An Electric Wire.

OTTAWA, July 11.—The Bell Telephone office was burned out at 8 o'clock this morning. The fire started in the switch-board, which was practically destroyed. The damage arose from a cut telephone wire falling on a trolly wire of the electric street railway.

Fell to His Death.

COLLINGWOOD, July 10.—The body of Colin McFadgen was brought to his home here yesterday from Chicago. The particulars of his death as told by his brothers are that on July 4 he and some friends went to the top of a four-story building to set off some fire rockets and to assist in the birthday. Colin lighted a rocket and immediately stepped back from it. In so doing he stepped off the roof and fell to the pavement below, a distance of some 50 feet. He was picked up dead.

Brighton Beach Races

Sad Drowning Accident.

An Estimable Young Man Finds a Watery Grave.

On Sunday morning Mr. Daniel Donoghue, a salesman in W. J. Morrow & Co's grocery shop, was drowned in the river about a mile below what is called "Chamber's." He and Harry MaDonald went down the river, and at this point came across a party of campers, whom they joined. Poor young Donoghue was unable to swim and, it seems, unfamiliar with a canoe, and the members of the party had once or twice discussed him from going out in a canoe for a trawl. But made drowsy by the heat the party stretched themselves on their blankets and the young man took the opportunity of going out in a canoe for a fish. It appears that he went up the river some distance, and was returning, when about fifty yards from camp the fatal mishap befel him. Appearances indicate that he was going down stream at a pretty good pace when his trawl caught in a root and the canoe was upset. At least, a sunken root was found about the length of trawling line from where the body was recovered. There were several parties saw the poor young man on top of the canoe, but it was at quite a distance and they thought it was some person bathing and not a FELLOW-BEING IN MORTAL PERIL.

Being so near the camp where his companions were sleeping, if he had made an outcry, he would have been rescued, but doubtless the first plunge of the upset filled his mouth with water and prevented him shouting for help. There seems to be a fatality in his death. Mr. Morrow, his employer, felt uneasy about him, and on Saturday night poor Dannie left some cheques with which he had been paid, with Mr. Morrow, saying that he had no present use for them. The body was found about an hour after the drowning, which occurred at 10.25—the hour indicated by his watch at the time it stopped.

The deceased young man was a native of Eganismore. His mother, however, is dead, and his father is residing in Missouri. He has two uncles in Eganismore and an aunt, Mrs. Dowd, living in town. He had been with Mr. Morrow about three years and was a most faithful employee, quiet, careful and capable; courteous towards customers, of excellent habits, and well esteemed by all who knew him. The funeral was conducted under the auspices of the Emerald Beneficial Association, of which deceased was an honoured member. During the mass, which was celebrated at 7 o'clock by Rev. Father McCall, the Cathedral was crowded, and so affected were the congregation that it is hardly exaggeration to say that there was hardly a dry eye in the house. The members of the society escorted the remains to the Ennismore cemetery, where they were interred.

The Colts Capture the Capitalists.

There was a tussle on Saturday on the cricket grounds between the junior members of the cricket club and a team representing the bank employees of the town. The result was that bank stock dropped a large number of points—about 50 per cent., the score being, bankers 33, colts 69. There was very little incident in the play. For the capitalists, Crofton made the only double figures, 12; for the club team, the double figures were: Dunsford 14, Burnham 16, and Poussette 14, and "extras," 12. The match was a very pleasant inauguration of the series of matches between these redoubtable opponents.

Following is the score:

The novice race, open only to members who have never sailed a canoe before September, 1890, will be awarded on the result of the first round in the last of the record events.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

LASSY IN LUCK.

Frenchmen Will Honor Him for Kind Words in Their Behalf.

PARIS July 11.—The Soleil this morning says that members of the Chamber of Deputies have united to present Mr. Henry Labouchere, editor of London Truth and member of Parliament for Northampton with an object of art, in testimony of their gratitude for the evidences of sympathy with France, which Mr. Labouchere has exhibited, especially in his protests against England, taking part in the Drubund or other movements to isolate France.

Timothy Healy's Libel Suit.

LONDON, July 12.—Mr. Timothy Healy, as plaintiff in a libel suit, is a picturesque figure; or, perhaps, as one of the lawyers said, comic. He has been libeller-general to the Irish party for years. Amid a group of men, all eminent for their power of disregarding the decencies of public speech, Mr. Healy has been pre-eminent. Now he sues The Freeman's Journal for saying that he had betrayed his clients in the Maryborough trials. This allegation had, he considered, damaged his character to the extent of $35,000. Mr. Healy denied what was said of him. The defendant said that it was fair comment. Irish courts are peculiar, and when Mr. Healy was called as a witness he was greeted with mingled cheers and groans. He was cross-examined to show that he had freely abused other barristers as well as public men. Asked whether he called Lord Spencer the Duke of Sodom and Jomorrah he said yes; he was not ashamed of it; would do it again. The defence called no witnesses. The judge said that the question was entirely for the jury. The jury found that the language complained of was not fair comment, but were unable to agree as to the cash value of Mr. Healy's damaged character and were discharged.

ANOTHER MAMMOTH CAVE.

Oregon's Wonderful Cavern and What an Exploration Disclosed.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The Examiner announces the discovery of enormous caverns in Josephine County, Oregon, about 12 miles north of the California line and about 40 miles from the coast. Many of the passages within the cave are described as of great beauty, containing in them semi-transparent stalactites, giant milk-white pillars and pools and streams of pure, clear water. The party spent a week in exploring the cave and found innumerable passages and chambers, and several miles from the entrance they discovered a small lake of clear water and water fall 30 feet in height. All kinds of grotesque figures were found in the various chambers. Large numbers of flash light photographs were taken. The only sign of animal life was found a short distance from the entrance, where a few bones indicated that bears had used it for a lair and carried their prey there. It was estimated that the main body of the cave is 1500 feet from the surface of the maintain and the cavern itself appeared to be fully as large as the mammoth cavern in Kentucky.

KILLED WIFE AND FAMILY.

A Sister's Startling Discovery in a Nebraska Town.

OMAHA, Neb. July 11.—A special from Ellis, Neb., says: Mrs. Allen of Beatrice went to Ellis, Neb., Thursday night to visit her brother, John H. Puterbaugh, a farmer living 13½ miles from Ellis. Repeated knock at the door failing to obtain a response Mrs. Allen entered and a horrible sight met her eyes. On the floor lay her brother with a bullet hole through his head and an empty revolver lying beside his dead body. Mrs. Allen called to her driver and the two made further investigation. On a bed lay Mrs. Puterbaugh. Beside the wife and mother lay the dead body of the 2-year old babe. On a lounge in another room lay the dead body of Puterbaugh's 10-year old son. Upstairs were found the dead bodies of Puterbaugh's two daughters. Each one had been shot through the head, and evidently while all but Puterbaugh was asleep. Puterbaugh purchased the revolver with which the deed was committed. No cause is known for the act.

The Carlow election has not allayed any of the bitterness between the two Irish factions It is said that John Clancy, the sub-sheriff of Dublin, has threatened to punish Tim Healy for his foul abuse of Mrs. Parnell and that an encounter between the two is not unlikely. Healy now alludes to Mr. Parnell as "Kitty O'Farnell," and he seldom mentions Mr. Parnell without adding some vulgar allusion to his wife.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood and Skin Purifier, and great cure of Humor Remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause, while CUTICURA, the great skin cure and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin beautifier, clears the skin and scalp, and restores the hair. Thus the CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, pimply and blotchy skin, scalp and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to old age, when the best physicians fail.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,752,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,264,588.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078 87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,169,222.65
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " " 1886, "	89,482 97

CIVIL SERVANTS AS POLITICAL CANVASSERS.

Mr. Laurier Makes Some Charges and the Minister of Customs Promises to Investigate A Discussion on the Subject Relieves the Monotony of a Dull Day

OTTAWA, July 13.—Sir Hector Langevin announced in the House this afternoon that it was the intention of the Government to ask Parliament to vote a sum of money for the erection of a monument to the memory of the late Sir John A. Macdonald in Parliament Grounds, Ottawa.

Mr. Costigan introduced a bill in restraint of fraudulent marking, providing that white lead must under certain penalties come up to a prescribed standard.

Sir John Thompson introduced bills to amend the copyright and patent laws to give the Exchequer Court complete jurisdiction of copyright and patent suits.

Mr. Mulock introduced a bill to amend the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act by making stricter regulations regarding payment of money by Governor-General's warrants.

Mr. Foster in reply to Mr. Mulock stated that the trustees of the sinking fund with respect to the public debt of Canada, were of the non-guarantees, the Finance Minister, Baring Bros. and Messrs. Glyn, Mills & Currie, and of the guarantees, Lord Revelstoke, the High Commissioner, the Permanent Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the Permanent Secretary of the Treasury. The amount of such sinking fund on June 30, 1891, was $25,920,-223, of which $19,613,80[illegible] consisted of Canada Dominion stock and $6,-246,[illegible] of debentures payable to bearer. Any Dominion Government already holding that have been purchased are in the hands of the Bank of England as trustees. The interest on the sinking fund is $618,481, which is paid to the trustees, who invest in further securities for the sinking fund. The commission paid by the Government on interest on the sinking fund is one-half of 1 per cent.

In reply to Mr. Amyot Sir Hector Langevin said that the High Commissioner for Canada at London had no authority from the Government to promote Imperial Federation, and the Government had not considered the question.

An Interesting Debate

An interesting debate sprang up on a motion of Mr Perry for papers relative to the dismissal of two section men on the Prince Edward Island Railway for the part they took in the recent elections.

Mr. Cameron (Huron) said that the principle to the victor belongs the spoils would work both ways. The Liberals when they came into power might apply that principle. If Mr Laurier, when he assumed the reins of government, did not cut off the head of every Tory who had taken an active part canvassing against Liberals in elections he would not support him for 24 hours. He had always been in the ranks of the party and expected to remain there. But he would support no Liberal government which would not cut off the heads of all civil servants who made themselves offensive in elections.

Mr. Rowell said that the Government had no knowledge of these transactions in Prince Edward Island, but he would investigate and if they were found true he would take action.

Mr. Laurier said that civil servants undoubtedly had a right to vote as they pleased. He agreed, however, with Mr. Cameron that every official who went out of his way to canvass or take other active part in elections should be dismissed.

After some further discussion the motion was carried.

PUT PARIS GREEN IN HIS BEER.

A Wife Adopts This Method to Get Rid of Her Husband.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—Mrs. Martin Farrell, a wealthy woman of this city, was arrested tonight on a charge of poisoning her husband. The couple were married about five years ago, but have never lived happily together, the bone of contention being a fortune of $60,000 left to Mrs. Farrell, which she has persistently held in her own name. Some time ago they parted, but the quarrel was made up, and yesterday she returned to his home.

They spent the night in drinking and this morning Mrs. Farrell arose to get her husband a bottle of beer. While his back was turned, it is alleged, she poured a lot of Paris green into the bottle and gave it to him to drink. He drained the bottle and is now dying. Mrs. Farrell was arrested and is now in jail. She denies the charge. Nearly a pound of the poison was discovered in the house and a considerable portion of it was found upon her clothing. The physicians say Farrell cannot recover.

The Premier Declines a Banquet

MONTREAL, July 13.—Premier Abbott has addressed a letter to the secretary of the Junior Conservative Club in answer to the invitation of the club tendering him a public banquet. He begs the indulgence of the club for the present, if not altogether, as his health is not of the best, rendering it necessary for him to avoid all excitement, and therefore, without absolutely refusing the invitation of the Junior Conservative Club he would prefer to abstain from giving a final answer for the present.

Many Tragic Deaths Occurred in Canada Other than Towns Yesterday.

HAMILTON, July 13. Edward Aldcraft, aged 63, a wagonmaker, was stricken with an epileptic fit while passing the new Bank of Hamilton building. He fell heavily to the ground, striking his forehead on the edge of the sidewalk. In a few minutes the old man was dead. He never spoke or moved after being picked up. Dr. White decided that death was due to the prolonged effects of an epileptic fit and the heavy blow on the head sustained in falling.

LONDON, July 13.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Ferguson, Under Foreign Secretary, admitted that the French Government had not yet moved in the Chamber of Deputies that France assent to the arbitration of the Newfoundland question.

On motion of Mr. Goschen the House of Commons to-day agreed to summon Mr. De Cobain, member for Belfast, to appear on the 23rd and answer the charges against him.

Salisbury and William

LONDON, July 13.—The Emperor of Germany this morning rode through the most interesting parts of Hatfield Park. Upon his return to Hatfield House, the Emperor lunched in the marble hall. All the ambassadors and ministers and their wives and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain were present. It is reported the Emperor has invited the Prince and Princess of Wales to visit Germany in full state during the coming autumn, and that the Prince and Princess have, with the consent of Queen Victoria, accepted the invitation. The Emperor has presented Lord Salisbury with a splendid Dresden clock, made especially for the British Premier.

After luncheon the Emperor bade farewell to Lord Salisbury and the latter's guests, declaring he was highly pleased with his visit, and left Hatfield House for Windsor Castle to bid adieu to the Queen upon his arrival at Windsor. The Queen met the Imperial traveler at the entrance to her private apartments. Her Majesty warmly embraced her grandson, who remained an hour in conversation with her. The Emperor then returned to London.

Opening of the Annual Rifle Competition at Bisley—Diminished Attendance

LONDON, July 13. The rifle association opened its annual meeting at Bisley to-day. A marked decrease in attendance is noticeable since the meetings were transferred from Wimbledon. The Canadians won a match against Cambridge to-day by 28 points.

PARIS, July 13.—While President Carnot was opening a new avenue to-day a madman rushed toward his carriage and fired a pistol at him. The man was arrested. The president was not hurt.

To Be Disestablished.

LONDON, July 13.—At the breakfast given to-day at the Holborn Restaurant in honor of the United States and British colonial delegates to the International Congregational Council, Alfred Illingworth, member of Parliament for West Bradford, said the Liberals were pledged to disestablish the Welsh and Scotch churches, after which the English church would be attacked on all sides.

DROWNINGS OF A DAY.

A Ripley Resident Loses His Life at the Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 13.—The body of a man was fished from the canal near the drawbridge Sunday. From papers found upon the body it was learned that the name of the deceased was Malcolm McDonald, and that he had been one of the carpenters working at Bay Mill. His age was supposed to be about 50 years. He leaves a family at Ripley, Ont., from which place the deceased had a number of letters in his pockets.

Two Perished: Two Saved.

HAMILTON, July 13.—A double drowning accident occurred in the lake off Winona yesterday afternoon, the victims being John Jacobs and Henry Wells. The former was a son of Zach. Jacobs, who lives on the 20-mile Creek near Smithville, and was a farm hand aged about 19 years. Wells is about 21 years of age. His parents are dead, but he has a married sister at Stoney Creek and another at Jarvis. Wells and Jacobs, with John Burnestein and George Mercer, started to row from the beach to Winona about the middle of the afternoon. Shortly afterwards the boat upset about a quarter of a mile from shore. Jacobs and Wells were drowned, and rescuers found Burnestein and Mercer clinging to the boat. Mercer was just about exhausted and could not have hung on much longer. A couple of liquor bottles were found in the vicinity of the upturned boat.

INGERSOLL, THE INFIDEL

ROUGH HANDLING OF THE ELOQUENT AGNOSTIC BY SAM SMALL.

Bible Truths Will Stand—The Sacred Book Needs No Defender and Its Teachings Are in No Danger of Being Overthrown.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Asbury Park Beach Auditorium was well filled yesterday morning when the Rev. Dr. James McCosh, the venerable ex-president of Princeton College, preached a sermon on "Peace."

Five thousand persons crowded every part of the Auditorium this afternoon, as it had been announced that the Rev. Dr. Samuel W. Small, the noted evangelist and ex-president of Utah University, would speak. The Rev. Bishop Wilson of the Reformed Episcopal Church read the Scriptures, the Rev. Garner R. Snyder offered prayer and Chauncey Shaffer made an address on "The Peace of God and Its Fruits."

Dr. Small's address was a bitter arraignment of the infidelity and agnosticism of which Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, or "Robert le Diable," as Dr. Small termed him, is the leading advocate.

Dr. Small in beginning his address alluded to the great amount of space given by the press of the country to promulgating Ingersoll, while religious teachings were almost denied admittance to the papers or received but little attention. He thought Dr. Briggs would not thank Colonel Ingersoll for coming to his defence in such an imprudent manner.

No Fears For the Bible

"We do not need to defend the Bible," he said. "The Bible is in no danger of being overthrown because Ingersoll does not believe in it.

"God and Jesus Christ are able to take care of themselves. Christ has vindicated himself for eighteen hundred years.

"Ingersoll cannot blot out the truth of the Bible." He claimed that this nation was founded as a Christian country, that we can worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience. The constitution gives us this right, but it does not guarantee the right to worship.

Mr. Small thought Moses by study and practice might have improved in style. As for Job he said there were many Jobs in the congregation. He was a Job himself, all except the boils. The constitution of the United States made this a government of white male citizens which a baptism of blood has not yet wiped out. He said the time is coming when the good man would have his vote doubled by the vote of his wife, while the rum-soaked, boodle-bought husband's votes would be blotted out by their wives. The concentration of the forces of Christianity means the success of the temperance cause.

Dr. Small's address called forth hearty "amens" from the brethren and he was frequently interrupted by loud bursts of applause.

He occupied the platform again last evening and delivered one of his characteristic sermons.

RABIES ATTACKS A NEGRO.

A Dog Bit Him Six Months Ago and Hydrophobia Seized Him Yesterday.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 13.—Six months ago George Campbell a powerful young negro of this city, was bitten by a dog. The wound was on the calf of the leg and was quite deep. The animal was savage, but manifested no sign of madness, and so far as known is now alive.

Campbell was not laid up and has since been in perfect health. He has no more imagination than a lamppost, and a thought of hydrophobia was not suggested to him. He had forgotten his long-healed wound when yesterday he was taken with the disease. It first manifested itself in a shuddering horror of water, which came upon him unawares. His paroxysms have increased in intensity until to-day his ravings are audible a block away.

He has several times attacked his attendants. He is an exceedingly powerful man and six strong negroes are required to handle him. He has fits of foaming at the mouth, constant twitching of the limbs and other symptoms of rabies. It has been found necessary this evening to tie him to the bed with ropes. Campbell's physicians say that he will not last until morning.

Why Duncan McIntyre Became a Director of the Grand Trunk Railway.

LONDON, July 13.—Mr. Duncan McIntyre's election to the Grand Trunk Board has sent the price of the company's shares up with a bound. All manner of wild rumors have been afloat concerning the meaning of the election. I learn from the best informed circles that the election is a direct outcome of the recent shareholders, discussion respecting the prospects of the company. "We have," they say, "all we want in the way of connections. We have a good plant, good lines and immense receipts, but quite inadequate profits. It is felt that this last deficiency is not to be effected materially by serious changes in the London board. The management in Canada, it is claimed here, has naturally fallen into a groove and needs bringing more into line with modern methods, hence when Sir Robert Gillespie resigned some of the largest shareholders, whose only desire is to secure a more profitable investment, urged upon the board and Mr. McIntyre that his election would just supply the new spirit needed in the Canadian control. Mr. McIntyre accepted after much discussion. I am assured that the election has no further significance than this. All talk of an impending union between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific may be dismissed as idle. If the Grand Trunk directors are able in the interests of their company to secure better harmony they may do so, but the suggestion that Mr. McIntyre joins the board to represent the Canadian Pacific interest is quite unfounded.

Algoma Silver.

PORT ARTHUR, July 13.—Two big silver shipments were made yesterday. The West End Company shipped a car worth $30,000; the Badger Com. from the Porcupine mine, ore worth $30,000. Both went to American smelters.

Tenements in Flames

MONTREAL, July 13.—A great conflagration broke out here at midnight in the extreme east end of the city and is still burning. It started in the sash factory and lumber yards of Charles Brouillette & Co., No. 1196 St. Catharine-street, and spread with such extraordinary rapidity that the entire block bounded by Papineau-road, Shaw-street, St. Catharine and Kent-streets, which largely consisted of lumber yards and manufacturing concerns, was destroyed. The principal sufferers in this block is the firm named Robert & Co., lumber merchants, Prefontaine lumber and building supplies, and Lauries machine works and the Boileau and Boudier lumber merchants.

The flames, aided by a high wind, spread to the opposite side of the streets, and a score or more stores, dwellings, restaurants and boarding houses have been destroyed totally with contents. Several hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been destroyed.

Fell 70 Feet to Death.

MONTREAL, July 13.—George Levecque, janitor of the Western Chambers, fell from a window 70 feet to the sidewalk to-day and was instantly killed.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

GRASSHOPPERS INVADE KANSAS.

They Now Cover and Area of 400 Square Miles and Advanced Two Miles a Day.

TOPEKA, July 12.—Startling reports from Eastern Colorado and Western Kansas about the reported grasshopper invasion were received here to-day. The grasshoppers cover an area of 400 square miles where the Santa Fe road crosses the Colorado line. They are young and not able to fly, but are hopping eastward at the rate of two miles per day. They will have matured sufficiently within two weeks to enable them to fly, and it is certain they will move in an easterly direction, much damage is anticipated.

The hoppers are of a brownish-yellow color and are not readily seen from passing trains because of their resemblance in color to the soil and grass. Little damage has been done in the region infested by the hoppers, because few crops are grown there, but pasturage has been destroyed. The few fields of corn, wheat and sorghum have been swept clean. Every westbound train that passes through the swarm during the night is stopped. Far in the night, when it is cold the rails are warm and they cluster about the track, almost hiding the rails from view, and when a train attempts to climb the up-grade near Arriba, Col., it is like climbing a greased pole. The driving wheels revolve but slide helplessly upon the rails.

This vast area of grasshoppers is made up of the young of those that were in the region last year, and anxiety is felt because of the large increase which is certain to be hatched there next year.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, July 14.—The annual battle for the cricket championship of Canada and the United States began shortly after 11 o'clock this morning on the Bloor-street cricket crease. The American cricketers went to bat first and scored 82 runs for their first innings, and 72 in their second innings for 6 wickets. The Canadians rolled up 77 in their first innings. The match will be completed to-day.

George Wright, the father of cricket in America, was on the ground. He is yet one of the best men of the Longwoods Club of Boston, and is a brother of Harry Wright, the veteran Philadelphia baseball manager.

The result of the first day's play scarcely favored anyone. The wicket was a poor one Everyone admitted its inferiority. Leigh had put much work on it, but the effect was bad. The crease crumbled woefully and was very hard on the batsman. The mystery was how Joe Patterson made so many runs. His hitting with Alex Gillespie's bowling were the features of the day. The Hamilton man claimed no less than five wickets in seven overs for only 13 runs in the second inning. Dickey had the best bowling analysis in the first inning, but both Hall and Wilson trundled superbly.

W. H. Elliott & Co., sash and frame manufacturers, have failed with liabilities of $12,000.

The teachers are pouring into the city by thousands to-day, and every boat from across the lake and all the trains at the Union Station are discharging their human freight in great numbers. The streets are fairly alive with visitors and they are seen everywhere. It is estimated that there are to-day 7000 or 8000 teachers here, and that by to-morrow night there will be 15,000.

The Council met this morning at 9 o'clock, and the report of the Committee on Pedagogies, of which George P. Brown is chairman, was considered. The members then discussed the subject set for this morning: The Education of the Will. This afternoon the Committee on Hygiene reported, and the subject for discussion was physical training.

At the 35th annual session of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, held in Edinburgh in the latter part of May, the representatives saw fit to appoint one of Toronto's citizens, Dr. Oronhyatekha, as their Right Worthy Grand Templar. This means that that gentleman, for the next two years at least, will have supreme control of the doings of a temperance order, which has 600,000 members throughout the world.

This order has been in existence for 40 years and now has lodges in every civilized country from New Zealand and Cape Colony on the south to Iceland and Norway at the north. We have to congratulate the Good Templars on having secured so influential a man at the helm, and rejoice with our honored aboriginal fellow-citizen in that he has been placed where his talent for organization may be yet more widely extended.

Dr. Oronhyatekha is a full-blooded Mohawk Indian chief, and was born on the Indian reservation near Brantford, August 10, 1841. He is a large man, fully, six feet in height, and has a bearing that at once impresses one favorably. He received a first-class education at Canadian and American universities and was also a student at Oxford. He has served the order in different capacities for 35 years, and will no doubt show his fitness for the new position.

Dr. Oronhyatekha is a true Indian and very proud of his race. Though officially residing in Toronto, his home is on the Tyendinaga reservation near Deseronto, Ont., where he carries on farming and maintains close relations with his tribe, between whom and himself the strongest ties of friendship exist. So high is the esteem held for him by Canadian Indians that in 1874 he was elected president of the Grand Council of the Chiefs of Canada.

The Doctor also ranks high in other societies. He is Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, the success of which is largely due to his untiring energy. He holds also high degrees in Royal and Oriental Freemasonry, and is a prominent member of the Loyal Orange Order.

The Good Templars meet to-night in Richmond Hall to rejoice with their new leader on his elevation to that honorable position.

The noble 75 kept their pledge yesterday and sent up the price of whisky to 10 cents a glass. The Hotelmen Protective Association are all right. They are not suffering, but it is the poor unfortunate "wine clerks" who are standing the brunt of it all. Inquiry at the different places of liquid refreshment developed the fact that the trade in whisky had fallen 50 per cent., that is to say where the 10 cent tariff prevailed. There was a big run on beer and lager, but all the same when the doors were closed at 11 last night the bartenders were hoarse, cross and tired. In some places there were fights, and in others when the unfortunate found that he had to put up the dime, out of pure spite he would fill the glass to overflowing, and when he could not drink it all would throw the rest on the floor. Most of them, however, made a heroic endeavor and got away with all.

Scalped by a Coil of Steam Pipes.

NAPANEE, July 13.—This morning while George Gordon, an employe of the Napanee cement works, Napanee Mills, was at work a large coil of steam pipes fell on him, tearing away a large piece of his scalp and crushing his chest. It is doubtful if he will recover, as his internal injuries may prove fatal.

This afternoon while Elmer, 14 year-old son of Isaac Ansey, was driving a spirited horse it ran away, throwing him out, fracturing his skull. He is not expected to live an hour.

Killed by a Landslide.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., July 13.—At 9 a.m. Sunday a landslide swept part of Ross Bros. lumber slide into the river. A gang of men were sent to repair it to-day. At 11 a.m., while they were working, another slide took place and swept six men into the river. All got out except two, Corriere and Proulx Corriere was drowned. Proulx was rescued.

Port Simpson News.

(From An Occasional Correspondent)

FOREIGN ARRIVALS.—The U. S. naval steamer "Pinta" called here a few days ago on her way to Alaska. She is a trim boat. Another of the American vessels, the "Mascanette," called at our port also.

THE "DANUBE'S" CRUISE.—One of the mail steamers carrying the mail between here and Victoria, is now on a cruise in the Behring sea. She took several Victoria and other traders up to purchase seal skins along the coast. We understand she is chartered to take the committee to investigate in matters relating to the Behring Sea troubles. We expect the "Princess Louise" will fill her contract here.

UP THE SKEENA.—For many years—forty or fifty—the H. B. Company have always supplied its forts in the interior with goods carried up the Skeena river in large Indian canoes. The Indians well know how to ask for high pay, or "hyas chickamin," and this made articles very dear. Fancy paying five cents for a pound of salt. Last winter the company contracted with the builders at New Westminster and had a staunch little river boat built for them. The "Caledonia," such is her name, has made a successful trip up to Hazelton, a distance of over 200 miles from the river, although she had quite a perilous run through the canyons. She is now lying at the wharf and being loaded for another trip. A brief description of this staunch little vessel may be interesting to a few of your readers: Length, 100 feet; beam, 24 feet; hold, 5 feet; engine department—cylinder, 16 inches (double), length of shaft, 6 feet, force, 484 horse power. Her draft is 27 inches light, laden 35. A large wheel at the stern propelled with such force sends her along at the rate of 16 knots an hour. I will not promise, but if I can I will procure the captain's log and then will be able to give you a description of this wild river of the north.

FISHING PROSPECTS.—The prospects for a good salmon season are very encouraging. This means everything to the Indian, who can make hundreds of dollars in a few weeks if the run is in anywise fair.

PORT SIMPSON LOST FOR A TIME.—Some six or eight weeks ago your correspondent sent the account of his northward trip, but has not seen anything of it. It may be such a budget was seized for the lost papers of the McGreevy scandal. Will try to recall remembrances and forward a second account next boat. Many thanks, Mr. Editor, for your spicy journal. Your correspondent reads even the advertisements, and benefits by them.

A PETERBOROUGH BOY HEARD OF.—Some few weeks ago a pleasure yacht called here with one Geo. E Montandon, of Tacoma, on board. In an interview with the gentleman I learned of Dr. Edway Stratton, with whom Mr. Montandon is well acquainted. He says Dr. Stratton has worked up an excellent practice for himself at Orting, Washington State.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On...) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

The Australian Commonwealth.

The Australian Commonwealth will have grand results but the results of using Burdock Blood Bitters for diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood surpass all expectations. Dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, scrofula, etc., are promptly cured by B.B.B. dw

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, injures the complexion, induces pimples, sallow skin. Remove the the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Try them. dw

STUBBORN CHILDREN readily take Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. It pleases the child and destroys the worms. dw

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "Ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it can not be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Glynn, Wilfred, Ont. dw

A Canadian Favorite.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus, diarrhœa and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept in the house. For 35 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 3w25d

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

Occasional does of a good cathartic like Burdock Blood Bitters are necessary to keep the blood pure and body healthy. dw

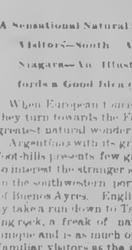
A UNIQUE MOVING ROCK

ARGENTINA'S WONDERFUL FREAK OF NATURE AT TANDIL.

A Sensational Natural Sight for Unfamiliar Visitors—South America's Rival to Niagara—An Illustration Which Affords a Good Idea of Its Appearance.

When European tourists visit this country they turn towards the Falls of Niagara as the greatest natural wonder of the land.

Argentina with its grassy plains and bare foot-hills presents few great works of nature to interest the stranger save at a quiet village in the southwestern portion of the Province of Buenos Ayres. English travellers occasionally take a run down to Tandil to see the moving rock, a freak of nature which is quite unique and is as much of a sensation for unfamiliar visitors as the great cataract of the Niagara river.



BALANCE ROCK.

Tandil is located 360 miles from Buenos Ayres. It is a parochial town, named after a famous Indian chieftain who waged incessant war with the Spanish colonists. Go to Tandil over the Ferro Carne del Sud, and after a breakfast on pachoro, the invariable native dish, mount a Spanish horse and ride a bogie up the hill to the moving rock.

The scenery along the path is picturesque. The ruler Tandilsedie, flowing down from the Sierras and winding among the hills, irrigates the adjacent country and waters the numerous herds and flocks. The huts of the peasantry, shabby but quaint and attractive in their squalor, lie on the slopes, and the ragged children, with eager, gleaming black eyes, run along the road begging for dinero.

The rock is of granite formation and weighs, according to the estimate of scientific authority, about 500 tons. It is poised on the sloping side of an enormous rock which is several hundred feet long and which rises high above the ground. The surface of the latter is smooth, in the vicinity there are signs of the passage of a glacier.

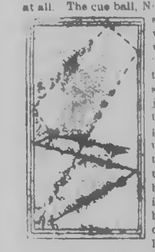
The illustration affords a good idea of the appearance of the moving rock. The point on which it rests is about eighteen inches in diameter, and the stone is poised so exactly by the fissure on the side which left it in position that by a pressure of the hand one is enabled to stir it with a swaying motion amounting to at least four inches. A calm wind is insufficient to move the heavy mass, but when the blasts sweep down the Sierras and impinge of the boulder it rolls to and fro.

Notwithstanding the ease with which the rock is swayed, there is a limit beyond which it will not go by any power which has been applied. Gen Rosas, during his dictatorship of Argentina, made a wager that he could pull the rock from its position by attaching 100 horses. The attempt failed, and Rosas, becoming incensed, swore he would even throw the monster anyway. The number of horses was increased to 700, the rock, however, went to the limit of its motion and no further. The supply of available horses being exhausted, Rosas was on the point of using gunpowder to accomplish his purpose, when his attention was drawn elsewhere by political events, and the rock of Tandil remained unmolested.

A terrible tragedy occurred beside the moving rock in 1873. A fanatic named Dios collected nearly 150 deluded followers for the purpose, as he claimed, of making an important revelation. Suddenly he commenced a massacre and killed forty-one persons before he was overpowered. He had hidden firearms in a crevice of rock and shot women and children indiscriminately.

A Billiard Point by Frank Ives.

This is a shot made across the table, but the amateur would not be apt to play for position when making it. It is not a difficult shot at all. The cue ball, No. 1, is struck almost squarely, slightly to ward the top and with slight reverse English. It takes the left cushion after striking the first object ball, No. 2, and then the right, then proceeding to the left upper corner, where the carrom is made on the second object ball, No. 3. Its course is indicated by the heavy lines. The first object ball, struck lightly on the left side, takes the left, lower and right hand cushions and takes position near the one and second object balls, as shown by the dotted lines. In playing this shot the amateur would, no doubt, draw his cue ball somewhat and give it the reverse English, which, when striking the first object ball, would send his cue ball along the left cushion to the upper left hand corner, making the carrom but losing position, as the first object ball would be naturally driven to the lower cushion. The fault with amateurs is that they play more for the immediate result than position.



Foreign Notes.

Rudyard Kipling has a sister, Beatrice, who is said to have written some remarkable novels. One of them will be published shortly.

Ex-Queen Isabel, of Spain, is giving a grand series of dinners in Paris, and it is thought that some new political combination is on the tapis.

Emperor Wilhelm usually travels with an iron-bound trunk filled with decorations, which he bestows on those who please him. He will not take it to England, as Englishmen cannot accept foreign orders.

Munkacsy is making as great a success with portrait painting in Paris as he secured with his religious pictures. His portrait of Miss Blumenthal at this year's salon shows him to be a master of his art in this line.

It is announced that Marie Van Zandt, after her professional tour in this country next winter, will retire from the stage and make her home in Paris. She has just returned from Russia laden with flowers and jewels.

Ex-Queen Natalie has decided to spend next winter in Paris with her sister, Princess Obkia, as the house of the princess in Avenue Bois de Boulogne, and that of ex-King Milan, now Count Takovo, is in the same avenue, the ex-king and queen will have opportunities for meeting in their daily walks. Milan is an inveterate gambler, and recently won about £12,000 at the baccarat table.

BREAKING HIM IN.

A Husband Who Grew Considerate to His First Wife Through Experience.

"Tell ye, stranger," said the old woman, as she sat in the chimney corner and crushed a fresh coal of fire into her clay pipe with the ball of her third finger, "I married fer my secun' husbin' the ferbiddinest man in the county. He wuz ill as a b'ar, as stingy as a hog, an' the wurst drunkard thet ever run a moonshine still. He wuz low flung an' mean, an' lazy an' as cowardly as a rabbit. I knowed all this erbout him afore I tack er notion ter yoke up with 'im."

"How came you to marry such a creature as that?" I asked.

"Jes' through hatered fer him an' love an' friendship fer his wife."

"For his wife?" I exclaimed in bewilderment.

"Yes, sah, fer his wife. The mean critter hed married my secun' cousin, Betty Lykins, as sweet an' good a little thing as ever wuz. She wuz kind, an good, an' lovin' ter everybody. She worshipped that low down husban' er hers mor'n she did her Maker, an' he treated 'er wuss than a decent man would a no 'count dog. The little thing hed no sperit in 'er. When he'd cuss 'n abuse 'er, instead o takin' a steck an' bustin' his he'd open, she'd jes' set an' snuff an' cry. He'd make 'er plough an' chop all the wood an haul it with oxen.

"He'd never think uv work—exceptin' with his jaws—but would jes' run around with his ole rifle an' hound's. I wuz then a young widder, an' counted the best lookin' woman creater in the whole county. I got so sorry fer my little cousin thet I made up my mind ter help her out. I went ter her an' told my plan, which wuz for her ter git a divorce from Sol an' let me marry him an' break him in. She listened ter my scheme, an' it pleased her. She left him at once, an' at the next court got a divorce. I'd been a courtin' him all the time, an' the next day after the divorce I married him.

"The next mornin' after the weddin' I teached him his furst lesson. When daylight cum he growled out. 'It's erbout time ye wuz a pullin' outen hur an' makin' a fire.' Thet wuz what I wuz a-waitin' fer. I never sed a word, but quietly worke I my knees up terward my chin. I then turned my hed terward the wall an' straightened myself. Kerwallip went Sol's hundred an' eighty pounds of meat an' bones on the floor! It wuz offul cold, an' he yelled wuss than a painter when he struck the floor. He tried ter climb back in the bed, but I reached up an' shot my heel agin' his mouf!

"I then flew out an grabbed a sourwood stub I had provided a purpose, an' begun ter hammer him. I beat him till he wuzn't able ter navergate fer a month! Wen he got well he wuz another man entirely. A hornet couldn't er sting him ter make him mad. I then applied fer a divorce, got it on general principles, sah, an' then I took a horsewhip in one hand, an' Sol's hand in my futher, an' led him back ter poor little Betty. She kissed him an' cried over him. He kissed 'er an' cried with joy an' said, 'Betty, ye don't know how glad I am ter git back from the penitentiary.' They are livin' happy now."—Detriot Free Press.

Not the Right Word.

"No," said Bertha sadly, "'pain' doesn't express what I suffer at these times—it is simply 'anguish!' I know I ought to consult a physician, but I dread to do so. I can't bring myself to do it. Then, too, 'female diseases' always seemed so indelicate to me, I can't bear to have any one know or speak of mine."

"Yes, dear," answered Edith, "but don't you know you can be cured without going to a physician? Send to any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and take it, and I warrant you'll feel better in a very few days."

The manufacturers warrant the medicine, too. They guarantee it to do exactly what it claims, viz.: to cure leucorrhea, painful irregularities, excessive flowing, prolapsus, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, and the innumerable other "female weaknesses." It so strengthens and builds up the entire system, and nerves, that worn-out, run-down wives and mothers feel rejuvenated after taking it, and they are saved the painful embarrassment and expense of a surgical examination and a tedious, tiresome treatment. b

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you desire to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

MONDAY'S DEMONSTRATION.

Apart from any party or partizan view, the Orange demonstration on Monday and its attendant circumstances present many gratifying features. We had in town over two thousand of the brethren of the society, and over ten thousand visitors of every class, collected from every part of the district, all bent on pleasure, and all seeking for the greatest possible enjoyment the occasion might afford. Yet with their varying tastes, varying moral impulses and temperaments, with unrestrained access to an unlimited supply of intoxicating drink, the police record on Tuesday morning shows only two simple drunks, and one of these an itinerent fakir, and the other a habitue of the cells on every convenient opportunity. This is a remarkable record, considering the great crowd in town, and highly creditable to the moral standing and self control of the wide community from which Monday's visitors were drawn. In addition, with this great gathering in town, all filled to jubilation with the spirit of the occasion, and naturally not slow to let their enthusiasm be seen, there were no collisions to record with those to whom this jubilation was not naturally agreeable nor welcome, showing a forbearance which stamps both classes as worthy of the responsibility of citizenship in a mixed community, where there must be mutual forbearance and the exercise, on both sides, of a spirit of toleration. And, again, the larger part of the thousands of visitors had to be transported by rail amid circumstances of great crowding and hurry, yet there was no accident worthy of grave attention, and everything passed of smoothly and pleasantly. To the patriot, the physique of the parading Orangemen, showed what sturdy citizens the climate of Canada and this district produces. As a rule, all the lodges were stalwart, strong, well built men, good samples of the sterling physical stuff of which the yeomanry of Canada is made. From every point of view, the demonstration of Monday can be looked upon with satisfaction by all parties concerned.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

Peterborough's Grand Orange Demonstration

A Monster Turnout of the Brethren—Magnificent Weather Brings a Multitude to Town—A Brilliant Street Pageant—Beautiful Arches Span the Street—The air is full of Orange Airs—The Speeches in the Park—Great Enthusiasm—Excellent Order During the Day—A Highly Successful Demonstration.

Last night the report of the EXAMINER (which, by the way, was the only paper in town to print the list of visiting Orangemen and the order of procession), left the second grand parade on its way to the park. Soon after the procession re-formed and marched far down George street. The Grand Master, accompanied by several prominent Orange officials in carriages, rode through the opened ranks and was greeted with enthusiastic cheers all along the immense line of loyal Orange brethren. The procession then countermarched, and at this time there was seen the most brilliant spectacle of the day. George street, from Central Park, was packed with humanity on both sides of the street, only leaving a narrow channel for the procession. The waving banners, the brilliant and varied uniforms of the several lodges, the gay procession streaming through the vista of the evergreen arches, the robust bang of the bucolic drum and the wild whistle of the rural fife, the blare of the full bands, the shouts of the admiring populace, all made the scene a most exciting one.

THE SPEECHES MADE.

On the return to the park and after the processionists and people had got somewhat settled,

County Master ALEX. HAMILTON called the assembly to order, and on behalf of the County of Peterborough he welcomed the visitors to Peterborough. The committee had done all in their power to give the Orangemen a pleasant day, and he hoped that they had been successful. He further spoke of the greatness of the occasion which they were met to celebrate, and concluded by calling on the next speaker.

Bro. STEWART MULVEY, Grand Master of Manitoba, was the next speaker. He said that he was sorry that they had called upon a man who lived 2100 miles west of this, to begin the speaking, but as an Orangeman he was ready to fight, either in the front or rear, as he was placed. He was pleased to be back here in this centre of Orangeism in Ontario, and see the hundreds of faces around him. The speaker referred to Manitoba as being a country of great prosperity, and, as the gateway to the Northwest, he said they would see to it that it would not harbor Jesuitism or Papacy. The speaker referred to different political questions in which Manitoba Orangemen had taken an active part in combatting the influences of Jesuitism, and made a stirring speech, which was loudly cheered. As a parting word he said, Depend upon it that as sure as there are 75 lodges in that Orange province, they would see in a few years the Orange lily and the Orange standard extending from the Red River to the Rocky Mountains; and further, in spite of all that was said, there would not be found 12 votes in that country for the severance of their allegiance to the Motherland.

The Grand Master was warmly received. He said when he received the honor of an invitation to this demonstration he had no idea of the splendid reception he would get. When he saw the demonstration in Toronto last Saturday, he thought it could not be beaten, but looking at this to-day he could not but confess that Peterborough outdid almost every other place of Canada. We as Canadians he said, glory in the deeds of our ancestors. We feel we are not unworthy descendants of the heroes of the Boyne and Derry, who fought to the death and fought successfully against the Papal forces. We also hope, he said, that their descendants in Canada inherit their virtues and we were determined to uphold the principles for which they suffered. But some say our ultimate destiny was annexation. But he said no! We were Britons and ever would be. Canada had passed through a number of crises but she remained true to her allegiance. He was pleased to see Mr. Mulvey here to-day. It recalled the struggles made in the prairie province against Riel and his rebel forces. In Quebec too, the Orangemen had to fight for their rights, and to day the Orange Incorporation bill, by which Orangemen were secured their full rights as citizens, was the result of that. The Orangemen had reason to congratulate themselves that they had here in Canada stood true to their interests. The eyes of the world were upon the Orangemen on this 12th of July, and they had done themselves credit in Peterborough. He extended his congratulations to the Orangemen of Peterborough for the magnificent demonstration they had held. But away down behind these parades was the sentiment that Orangeism was as necessary to-day as it was two hundred years ago, in order to fight down oppression. Orangemen were liberal and tolerant, and only aggressive when they had to say to the Roman Catholic, you must not take our liberties from us. There was an order which believed in civil and religious liberty, and its progress had not been equalled by any other societies in the world. The fact that small boys and ladies took an outside part in their society showed that there was deep sympathy for the Order among all classes of Protestants.

Mr. FAIRBAIRN, M.P., County Secretary of Victoria, said that this occasion gave him peculiar pleasure. Thirty years ago he celebrated his first anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, but never saw a better one than this demonstration in Peterborough to-day. He was pleased to say he had retained his love for the Orange Order, which made men good Protestants and loyal subjects of the Queen.

The hour being late and some of the trains being about due to leave, the gathering dispersed with cheers for the Grand Master and the Queen, and the singing of the National Anthem.

Thus ended, as far as the official proceedings were concerned, the 12th of July celebration, though the excitement was kept up in the town till evening. Trains departed bearing their heavy burdens, waggons rolled out of town amidst clouds of dust, and the crowd gradually lessened.

Every person who ventures an opinion says the demonstration of July 13th was the largest and most successful ever held in Peterborough or this part of Central Canada. It is a pretty close estimate to say that there were over two thousand Orangemen in the procession at its fullest. And the fine appearance and excellent behaviour of the Orangemen present was the subject of great praise. With a very rare exception not one of the two thousand Orangemen discredited his colors by unseemly conduct, or excess of drink. They evidently came to celebrate the day, and to demonstrate—and they did demonstrate—that Orangemen can devote the day to this aim and still be exemplary and well behaved citizens. In fact the order throughout the town the whole day was of the best possible character. It is highly creditable that so large a gathering should have been brought together with so few drunken, riotous or disorderly characters among them.

Speaking of numbers, it is certainly not an extravagant estimate to place the number of visitors in town at 12,000. By the Grand Trunk lines there arrived by actual count (from returns of tickets) 5,182 persons by the various routes—one train by Grand Junction, two trains, besides the regular, from Port Hope; from Lindsay, three trains, besides the regular; two from Bobcaygeon, via Chemong Valley, and two from Lakefield. It is not as all to be doubted that more than 5,000 more persons came in by the C. P. R. from east and west, by the river routes, and by the scores of highways that poured their tribute of mortals into town from daylight till noon. Besides, it is also estimated, taking fifty lodges at an average of forty each, the number of brethren present would amount to 2,000, which would swell the grand total of visitors to town to at least 12,000.

ECHOES OF THE DEMONSTRATION.

There were, it is said, large numbers of Orangemen and visitors who failed to reach town from lack of train accommodation, which some of the committee claim was inadequate, but the railway authorities say that all the train accommodation demanded was provided.

The orderly character of the day's proceedings was shown by the fact that by ten o'clock the immense crowd had left the town and the streets were as quiet as an ordinary Sunday night.

It is not exaggerating in the least to say that a more successful Orange demonstration never took place in the Midland district. The committee in charge of the celebration deserves unsalted praise for the success which attended their efforts.

The Salvation army head 'chipped in" with the Orangemen, and at one point of the procession dropped in and supplied martial music for some lodge that had not brought the noise with it.

The vast multitude did not go away hungry nor thirsty, for the most elaborate preparations had been made for feeding the hungry. Every vacant site possible for such a purpose was converted into a medium for supplying food and drink.

Merchants, business men and hotelkeepers generally, say that they did a splendid trade during the day. Several shops were cleared out of orange and blue ribbon.

Altogether the day was a grand success from every point of view, and justly earned the time honored title of "THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH."

Baseball and Lacrosse Games on Monday

The Peterborough baseball club's first essay on the diamond this season ended disastrously. They were beaten by the Cobourg Independents by 39 runs to 10. A glance at the error column explains the wherefore of this emphatically agricultural score. The Peterboroughs did not bat as well as their opponents and the battery work was fair, but, ye gods and little fishes, what throwing and fielding! In one instance a Cobourg man got around the bases and home on a ball that was not struck beyond the pitcher's box. However, the home team at times put on a spurt and did occasional bits of clean, sharp work, something like their old time form. Though beaten they are not discouraged, and they will probably accept the lesson gracefully and get down to the practice they stand so much in need of before the next game comes on. The Athletics of Toronto are expected here on Saturday.

Appended is the score of Monday's game. Brown, Cobourg's catcher, had his thumb broken and badly crushed in the fifth inning and had to retire, Pearse taking his place behind the bat.

JUNIOR LACROSSE.

Two Junior teams of Norwood and Peterborough contested on Riverside Park, a very evenly matched game. The visitors were all round larger and heavier than the Peterborough boys, but our lads proved themselves better lacrosse players. The first game lasted 35 minutes, and was ended by Ernie Wason dropping the ball in front of the goal, and Mort Minore kept his check from interferring and the rubber rolled through, scoring the only game for Peterborough. Neither sides scored afterwards. There was no wrangling and the match was played in a friendly spirit throughout. These were the teams:

A Monster Excursion.

To day is a bad day for excursions, yet this morning eleven coaches, loaded to the platforms, went up to Chemong, carrying the Port Hope Presbyterian and Baptist Sunday school excursions. "When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday school teacher of her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," answered a little girl, whose sick mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

A Narrow Escape.

Last evening at 5.45 as a Lindsay special train was backing down to the station, Mr. Stewart of CAVAN, accompanied by his wife and daughter, drove upon the track. The vehicle was struck by the train and Mrs. Stewart and her daughter thrown out, but, fortunately, not seriously hurt. How many persons will it be necessary to kill before the town and the railway committee decide to put crossing gates in position? It was due to the prompt action of Mr. Fenson, of Bethany, that the little daughter owes her life. He dragged her from the track just in time.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Practical Repentance.

A burglar is not generally supposed to be over-burdened with a conscience, yet there is one gentleman in the business who at least occasionally feels the pangs of remorse. A year ago the 11th of July, the residence of Mrs. McMartyn, Ashburnham, was 'touched' by burglars, and amongst the booty secured was a gold watch and chain. This morning Mrs. McMartyn found the identical watch, minus the chain and locket, neatly done up in chamois leather and case, and addressed, lying in her porch. Probably, if the burglar's conscience again pricks him Mrs. McMartyn will receive another instalment of the stolen goods.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Special Treasury Agent J. J. Crowley of the United States Treasury Department suspected that opium was being smuggled into this city and sold to the Chinese laundries. Last night he caused the arrest of John Reynolds at the Phoenix Hotel, who was in the act of receiving a chest from the Union Depot containing 200 pounds of opium, valued at $30 a pound.

Reynolds claimed to be a carpenter, and the chest containing the drug appeared to be a chest of carpenter's tools. In the top of the chest were a few tools, but the release of a false bottom disclosed the opium. The prisoner is about 35 years old, and says he has been in the city but two days.

The officers think that he is acting in conjunction with a regularly organized gang on the Pacific slope and has been doing a large business in the city.

An Old Man Suicides at the Hamilton House of Refuge.

HAMILTON, July 13.—About 5.30 this morning an old inmate of the House of Refuge was found dead in a room on the top flat. His head was resting on a beam and near his right hand lay a razor. On the inside of his left arm just above the elbow there was a deep gash, severing the main artery and it was apparent that the man had bled to death. His name was David Kelso, 58 years of age, a boilermaker by trade. For some time past he has been suffering from consumption and hemorrhage of the lungs and had become downcast at the prospect of a painful death.

Further Exposures Promised.

OTTAWA, July 13.—There were no committee meetings this morning, and the few members who remained in the city over Sunday were to be found looking for the most shady and cool corners of the buildings, so as to escape from a broiling sun which registered between 80 and 90 degrees. The general conversation which pervades not only parliamentary circles, but the whole city, is the recent disclosure of malfeasance in the departments here. The existence of such has been hinted at in the press several times. These exposures are only being opened and before two weeks are over further revelations will be made public, so it is said. To-morrow the Public Accounts Committee will likely meet, and more of these scandals will be made public. The Privileges and Elections Committee will also meet.

Lost His Life in the Bay.

HAMILTON, July 13.—Yesterday afternoon a stranger walked into Bastien's boat house and giving his name as "Glyan" secured a row boat for a pull across the bay. When about half way between Bay View and Willow Point his hat fell off his head into the water. He was seen to snatch at it, but in doing so he capsized the boat, precipitating himself into the water. Two lads who had witnessed the stranger's movements from the time he left the wharf immediately put out in their boat to the rescue. When they reached the upturned boat, however, they could find no trace of the occupant.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using D his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and seal hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2 268,888.69
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,978 87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " 1886, "	89,452 97
" " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

AN ELGIN MYSTERY.

WHAT BECAME OF JAMES LAMONT MACDONALD.

Vanished Three Weeks After His Wedding With $2000 in His Possession—Was He Murdered or Did He Desert His Bride—The Government Investigating

Toronto, July 16.—Government Detective John Murray has been at Ridgetown the past week, enquiring into the mysterious disappearance of John Lamont Macdonald, who, according to local rumor, was believed to have been murdered and robbed and his body burned in the woods. McDonald, who was a native of Aldborough township, Elgin county, and who lost a leg in an accident some years ago, returned about twelve months since from the west, and a month or two later fell heir, by the death of his parents, to a small farm in Aldborough which he disposed of for $2300 cash. On October 1 1890, McDonald, who was 42 years of age, was married at Ingersoll to Jessie Martin, aged 22, daughter of a widow residing in Aldborough. The couple came to Weldon a small station on the Michigan Central Railway, and boarded for a week or two at Warwick's hotel. While there McDonald negotiated for the purchase of the hotel, but did not complete arrangements, and on Oct. 22 purchased from Weldon, who, by the way, was the owner of the hotel, a small house and lot and blacksmith shop for $25 cash. In making the payment he cashed a $500 check, handing his wife the balance, but subsequently borrowed $100 of the amount, leaving her with $1400. Next morning he boarded the M C R eastbound train for Ridgetown, ostensibly to procure furniture with which to furnish the cottage he had purchased, since that hour not the slightest trace of him has been discovered. McDonald had $2300 in his possession when he boarded the train.

Weeks succeeded days and rumor began to connect the name of the young bride with that of William Warwick, son of the landlord of the hotel, and reports were also circulated that parties in whose company Mrs McDonald had been seen were wearing the clothing and watch of the missing man.

About this time the hotel conducted by the Warwicks was destroyed by fire, and the insurance companies declined to pay the losses on the contents. The Warwick thereupon left for Port Huron, accompanied by Mrs. McDonald. The rumors of foul play were again revived and eventually, the attention of the Government was called to the matter and Chief Detective Murray was detailed to investigate the case.

A day or two previous to Detective Murray's arrival Mrs. McDonald returned from Port Huron and the officer had an interview with her. She acknowledged that William Wales S was the father of her posthumous child, but denied all knowledge as to her husband's fate.

As a result of a searching investigation of all the circumstances, Detective Murray is of opinion that the rumors of foul play are but idle gossip, and is convinced that McDonald deliberately deserted his three weeks' bride.

The Athabasca and Pontiac Meet With Disastrous Results

SAULT STE MARIE, July 14.—The steamships Athabasca and Pontiac collided near Churche's Landing at 11 o'clock this morning. The Athabasca was up bound and Pontiac down bound, both loaded. They struck stern on. The Athabasca arrived here with nearly the entire fore part of deck and anchors of the Pontiac on the Athabasca's deck. The wheelsman on the Pontiac had both legs broken. No others were injured. The Pontiac sank in 30 feet of water and is badly damaged, her bow being all stove in. She was built in Bay City in 1889 and owned by the Cleveland Iron Mining Company valued at $200,000, loaded with iron ore. The Athabasca's stern was bent and her forward deck damaged some. The captain and crew of the Pontiac are here.

LONDON, July 14.—Lord Denman (Conservative) in the House of Lords today moved that the Irish Land Bill be read for the third time 10 months hence.

Earl Spencer (Liberal) opposed the amendment, saying that although he supported the bill he had hoped for a larger measure of local Government reform. He believed that the Government proposals would do some good, but they would not satisfy the Irish tenants. As Lord Denman was unable to find the teller the bill passed its third reading without a division on his motion.

OMAHA, Neb., July 14.—C. W. Howell of the Howell Lumber Company, with extensive yards at Omaha, Chicago and Atchison assigned to-day in favor of the First National Bank of Chicago. Mr. Howell also gave a bill of sale of the company's property in Omaha to C. L. Chaffee, the consideration named being $112,000.

A TEXAS TRAGEDY.

BURGLARS MURDER A WHOLE FAMILY AT JOSHUA.

Innocent Babes Taken out of the House and Ruthlessly Slaughtered—One of the Most Frightful Tragedies on Record.

JOSHUA, Tex., July 14.—This morning at 1 o'clock two men went to the house of George Newberry, living two miles west of Joshua, and demanded admittance. Mr. Nowberry being absent the men demanded from his mother money that they supposed had been received by Newberry a few days previous. The old lady told them she had no money about the house. They then grabbed the old lady, who is 65 years old, took her to the yard gate and tied her with a rope to the post and then gashed her throat. One man remained with the old lady on the outside while the other went into the house where three children were sleeping. The eldest, a child of 7 years, was awakened when the man asked where her papa's money was. She told him she would not tell and would tell her father of his trying to get his money. The fiend took her out of the house into the yard and cut her throat with a butcher knife. He then went back into the house and got the second girl aged five and carried her to the yard and cut her throat with the same knife. He afterwards carried the baby boy, two years old into the yard and killed him in the same manner and piled the bodies together. He then washed the knife and left it lying on the table. The old lady's neck has 17 gashes, but she is still living and gave the account of the affair. She cannot recover. It is supposed the murder was for the purpose of robbery, as Nowberry had just got $500 damages from the Santa Fe Railway Company for carrying his wife by Joshua. Officers are scouring the country for the murderer.

STEEL BATTLING.

Insurgent Vessels Gain a Signal Victory Over the Government Vessels.

SAN DIEG, Cal., July 14.—Commander Janer, of the Mexican man-of-war Democratic in this harbor, has received a despatch from the navy department of the Mexican Government stating that an engagement took place off the Chilian coast two days ago between the insurgents' cruiser Magellanco and several Government vessels. The insurgents gained a decisive victory. Two government vessels were destroyed.

TORONTO TOPICS.

International Cricket Match Postponed—Doings of the Educationists—3000 More Teachers Arrive.

TORONTO, July 15.—The rain poured all day yesterday, necessitating the postponement of the International cricket match.

The National Council of Education resumed its sessions yesterday with a large attendance, despite the wet weather. The president called on William T. Harris, chairman of Committee on Educational Statistics, to read the paper of the session. The subject was "An attempt to ascertain what items of school statistics are useful and what terms should be employed to designate them." Great attention was paid to the reading of the paper, the essayist being interrupted only once by his audience, and that when Hon. John Eaton, Commissioner of Education for the United States, entered the hall. After the conclusion of the paper the commissioner made a strong address in praise of the paper. About 3000 more teachers arrived in the city yesterday.

General reports of the crops received from all sections of the country are of the most encouraging nature. Recent rains have benefited the condition of wheat and other cereals, and farmers generally are jubilant. Fall wheat has ripened fast the last few days and many fields are now ready for the reaper. Some fields are reported to be slightly touched with rust, but not sufficient to do any great damage. And in some sections it has been winter killed to a greater or less extent. Spring crops are all looking well, and the prospects are that the coming harvest will be the largest for many years past. Peas and oats are good and barley, while somewhat short in the straw, is a fair crop. The north, west and east all tell the same hopeful story, the copious rains which have fallen during the past three weeks having altered the whole complexion of all crops since last report.

Yesterday's rain did an immense amount of good. It may have done some injury to any hay that was on the ground, but the benefit to the root crop, to oats, peas, a thousand times made up any such loss. In York, Ontario and all adjacent counties the outlook is that of a magnificent harvest.

ANOTHER TENEMENT FIRE.

One Life Lost and Many Persons Seriously Injured.

BROOKLYN, July 14.—Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning fire supposed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed two tenement houses on State-street. Sixteen families lived in the tenement, and a scene that baffled description followed. Women and children in night clothing jumped from the fire escapes, and four people were seriously injured. A 3-year-old child is supposed to have perished.

Biggest on Record.

WINNIPEG, July 14.—Farmers declare that the Manitoba crop is now assured. It will be the biggest on record.

Over the Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, July 14. An unknown man went over the cataract this morning. McCloy, the guide being called saw the body and put out for it. He could not reach it, however, before it sank.

Montreal's Fire.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The fire this morning destroyed the lumber yard of Charles Brouillette contractor and manufacturer of windows, doors sashes, etc., 1196 St. Catharine street, the lumber yard of J. Bromeau, 1624 St. Catharine, and lumber yard of Joseph Robert & Son, corner Papineau road and St. Catharine street. The loss will probly amount up to $75,000.

FURTHER EXPOSURES.

MORE DISMISSALS IN THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

How the Clerks "Divvied" Up the Receipts—Continuation of the McGreevy Scandal Investigation—The Member for West Elgin and the Hudson Bay Railway.

OTTAWA, July 14.—The Hudson's Bay Railway scheme has been under discussion all day. The House went into committee immediately after meeting to consider a bill enacting that in order to enable the Winnipeg v. Hudson's Bay Railway Company to construct so much of their railway as reaches from Winnipeg to a point on the Saskatchewan, the Governor-in-Council may enter into a contract with such company for the transport of men, mails, etc., for 20 years at the rate of $80,000 per annum, to be paid on the completion of the road.

Mr. Dewdney said the road for which a grant was asked was a colonization road; 10,500 shares of the company had been sold for $285,700.

Sir Richard Cartwright wanted to know what members of Parliament were interested in the company.

Mr. Dewdney said he had a letter from the president of the company, denying the rumor that any stock had been given to any member of Parliament, and saying that all stock disposed of had been sold. Only two members of Parliament held stock, one of whom purchased in 1882 and the other in 1885.

Mr. Casey spoke half an hour in support of the grant. He said he and the member for Glengarry (Rory MacLennan) were the members of Parliament who had purchased stock.

Mr. McMullen was surprised at Mr. Casey's speech. He did not know whether the honorable gentleman was speaking for West Elgin or George E. Casey. If he were an elector of West Elgin he would not support Mr. Casey again. The subject should be considered on its merits and not on personal grounds. [Cries of "Order," "Order!"] He insisted upon having a detailed statement of the stockholders of the company. He declared the motion to be a monstrous proposition, and that none who supported it in the House would ever be returned. He was sorry to notice there was one member on that side of the House who supported it.

The debate was continued until 10 o'clock.

The Liberal members, except Messrs. Casey and Watson, were unanimous in opposing the grant.

The bill was reported without amendment, but opposition was made to it being read a third time. It will come up for a third reading to-morrow, when a vote will be taken on the proposal. Mr. Wood (Westmoreland) continued the debate on the Budget.

Mr. Borden moved the adjournment of the debate.

Notes.

Mr. German has given notice that he will inquire who are the contractors for the Toronto harbor works, when was the contract let; when was the work to be completed; what was the amount of the contract; what progress has been made to date with the dredging and timber work; what amount of work remains to be done; what is the cause of the delay; when will the work be completed; what changes, if any, have been made since the contract was let; if changes have been made, will they increase or decrease the cost?

Hard work and hot weather are making the gentlemen of the Senate very tired. Scarter Dever has given notice that he will move on Thursday that the Senate adjourn until August 11.

A heavy thunderstorm burst over the city about noon to-day. Ten large panes of glass were broken in the office of the English Journals of the House of Commons and a couple of clerks received severe shocks.

Premier Abbott has called a caucus of Senators and members of the Commons for to-morrow morning.

La Presse, Mr. Chapleau's organ in Montreal, says to-night that it has reason to believe that Mr. W. E. Dawson, Montreal, has been named the successor to Col. Brown Chamberlain, Queen's Printer, in case the latter withdraws from the service. It adds that the Government could not make a better choice.

HOW THE CLERKS "DIVVIED."

Mr. James Somerville Catechises the Clerks of the Department of the Interior.

OTTAWA, July 14.—At a meeting of the Public Accounts Committee to-day the enquiry into the Department of the Interior was continued. The first witness who gave evidence and was examined by Mr. Somerville was McCabe, an extra clerk, who received for 1890 pay for 365 days at the rate of $1.50 per day, and in addition to this for the same year 102 hours for extra work, which gave him an additional sum of $91.50. In answer to Mr. Somerville witness said that one of the accounts for extra work in his name was for E. Nelson and H. Palmer, amounting to $24.50. He allowed them to use his name, and a check was made for that sum, but he got no inducement to allow the use of his name. Nelson was a permanent employe and Palmer was an extra hand.

Mr. Somerville: Did you not get $5 for the use of your name?

Mr. McCabe: No, I don't think so.

Mr. Somerville: Did not Palmer give you $500 of this check?

Mr. McCabe: He gave me $5, but I thought it was for other work I had done for him. The witness then went on to show that he was doing extra work along with J. S. Brough, a permanent clerk in the department, and accounts to about $344 during the year for extra work were passed in his McCabe's name and he divided the sum with Mr. Brough. Of course Mr. Brough could not get extra pay and the account was made out in the way it was. He never remembered that H. Kinlock ever certified an account for him.

In reply to Mr. Lister he said that this system had been going on since 1886. How frequently he could not remember, but he was quite willing to admit to making all the "divvies" with Brough.

Mr. Burgess explained that when he denied at the last meeting that he was not cognizant of other men than Turner getting extra work he was under a misapprehension. He thought the question applied to the work in the Parr Index. He would now say that he was cognizant of other such cases, several of them. Frank Nelson, second-class clerk, admitted he had received various sums from temporary men. The committee sits again to-morrow.

The accounts under examination to-day were these two:

OTTAWA, Jan. 27, 1890.

Department of the Interior, Dr., in account with F. McCabe, to 49 hours' extra work at 50 cents, $24.50. (Certified.) F. Nelson.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27, 1890.

Department of the Interior, Dr., to F. McCabe, to 53 hours' extra work at 50 cents, $26.50. (Certified correct.) H. Kinloch.

Both accounts were in the handwriting of Mr. McCabe.

Mr. Somerville: Did you allow your name to be used in 1886 for an account of $73.50?

Mr. McCabe: Yes, I think it was for Mr. Nelson. He said we both did extra work and were entitled to extra pay. I never received a dollar of that account. It all went to Nelson.

Mr. Lister: How long has this been going on?

Mr. McCabe: Of course I am only aware of those two gentlemen. This was the first I ever had anything to do with it. In 1887 Mr. Nelson and I worked extra time on an index. I think I got about $10 on that account. Mr. Nelson got a little more, not much.

Mr. Lister: "Did you divvy with anyone in 1888?"

Mr. McCabe: "I am free to admit all the divvying up I did was with Mr. Brough, but I think it was in 1889."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Mr. Lister: "You gave him a share of the money?"

Mr. McCabe: "Part of time I did, during that time the checks were made out in my name. The money was about equally divided. On the whole, I think Mr. Brough got the most of it."

From a series of questions put by Mr. Lister it appeared that Mr. McCabe was in the habit of certifying to Mr. Nelson's extra work and Mr. Nelson would certify to Mr. McCabe's extra work.

More Heads Fall.

In consequence of the disclosures made today Mr. McCabe has been discharged and Mr. Nelson suspended.

Mr. Bowell stated to-night that it was the intention of the ministers to suspend or discharge every clerk who was tainted with these or any other irregularities.

THE LANGEVIN TESTIMONIAL.

Yesterday's Evidence Before the Privileges and Elections Committee.

OTTAWA, July 14.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections this morning appointed Walter Shanly, ex-M.P., and W. T. Jennings of Toronto to examine the work performed under the cross-wall contracts with a view to comparing the quantities in the work completed with the estimated quantities upon which the tenders were awarded, and also to compare the quantities shown in the plans and profits with those applied by Mr. Boyd in the extension of the tenders. This would show, without taking up the time of the committee whether, or not there was any figuring up and figuring down, as alleged, or whether the work was honestly done.

Mr. H. V. Noel, manager of the Quebec Bank, here produced a document showing that $344,175 had been paid to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company by the Government through his bank. He had drawn the money for the company. The money was paid to different banks, $180,000 going to Mr. G. B. Burland. He had paid three checks of $3000 each for Robert McGreevy on the order of the president of the railway company, Senator Robitaille.

Witness produced letters from Messrs. Burland, Robitaille and Robert H. McGreevy relative to paying most of the checks referred to. Mr. Burland on three occasions as trustee of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway authorized Mr. Noel to pay $800 to any person named by Mr. Robitaille, and on each occasion Mr. Robitaille sent a letter authorizing payment to R. H. McGreevy. Mr. Noel did not know why money was paid to Robert. He simply obeyed instructions. He acted as treasurer of the Langevin Testimonial Fund. He had not the list of contributions. The amount of the testimonial was about $23,000. He had handed over all books relating to the matter to Mr. Carriere, formerly of La Banque Nationale. Mr. H. J. Morgan and Mr. J. A. Gouin were interested in getting up the testimonial fund. He was shown a receipt signed by himself in the following terms:

Langevin Testimonial Fund, No. 112, $1000. Ottawa, June 4, 1883.

Received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. the sum of $1000 on account of above fund.

(Signed) H. V. NOEL, Treas.

He had a conversation with Sir Hector about the rate of interest to be allowed upon the amount of the testimonial fund while it remained in his bank, and he (Mr. Noel) agreed to pay 4 per cent. into it. Up to May 15 last Sir Hector had not drawn either principal or interest. He was not able to give the names of the contributors to the fund with the exception of the late Mr. James Goodwin of Ottawa, who handed in his contribution himself. The money still stood in the name of the Langevin testimonial fund subject to Sir Hector's order. Circulars would be sent out to contributors by the secretary requesting them to pay up and checks would be sent to him.

To Mr. Geoffrion witness said he was not aware that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had obtained a large contract on May 26, 1883, a few days before he received their contribution.

Mr. Simon Peters, one of the unsuccessful tenderers for the crosswall at Quebec said the only information he received from the department was that his tender was not the lowest. He wrote to Mr. Baillarge, Deputy Minister of Public Works, stating that his tender, if properly worked out, would be found the lowest. Mr. Baillarge replied that the schedule of tenders had been handed to the Minister. He was satisfied from a subsequent examination of the tenders that his own was the lowest, and went on to explain various items in which his prices were lower than those of Larkin, Connolly & Co. He said that never until the correspondence between Mr. Perley and the contractors did he know of the Department of Public Works calling the attention of a tenderer to apparent errors in his tender. If tenders were erroneously made up they were usually thrown into the waste basket. He had obtained no estimates or information from the Public Works Department showing the approximate quantities for the Crosswall contract. He had tendered without knowing what the quantities were. He submitted the calculations upon which he based his opinion that his tender for the crosswall was the lowest.

Mr. O. E. Murphy was recalled and said that the name of the clerk in Mr. Perley's office who had borrowed the $100 was Lightfoot. Mr. Lightfoot will appear to-morrow to explain.

Drowned on an Excursion Boat.

MIDLAND, July 14.—Mr. William Crooke, ex-treasurer of the Township of Tay, residing in Midland, accompanied his lodge to Victoria Harbor yesterday. After the day's celebration he with some friends started to return on excursion boat, and when about half way home the old gentleman in some way fell overboard. Every effort was made to rescue him, but the night being very dark the body sank.

Mangled in a Sash Factory.

RIDGETOWN, Ont., Jul. 14.—John A., son of Mr. George Middleditch, iron manufacturer of this place, was in Leitch Bros.' sash and door factory and crawled under a table through which a saw was running, to clean out the sawdust, and raising himself was frightfully cut. Three of his ribs were completely severed.

Suicide at Dunnville.

DUNNVILLE, July 14.—Charles Logan, a farmer near here, committed suicide while the family were attending the Orange celebration here yesterday. It is believed that he became melancholy on account of his helpless condition, he having become a cripple.

Had a Wife in Toronto.

HAMILTON, July 14.—The victim of the drowning accident in the bay, near Bay View Piers, on Sunday afternoon, and who on hiring the row-boat from Bastien's boat house, gave his name as "Ryan," has been identified as John Irvine, who worked on a Grand Trunk gravel train. He came to this city in March last from Toronto, where he had a wife.

Father and Daughter Drowned.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 11.—Rev. Mr. Howe, Episcopal minister at Harbor Briton, Fortune Bay, and his daughter were drowned Sunday by the upsetting of a boat while returning from Jersey Harbor, where they had been holding services. The boatman was also drowned.

A Baby Born With Sets of Teeth.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 14.—Mrs. Kate Williams, a domestic, has given birth to a boy baby which has a full set of teeth.

Destroyed by Lightning.

ST. THOMAS, July 14.—Lightning to-day struck Smith's Flax Mill at Belmont, completely destroying it. No insurance. Loss to the stock alone $5000.

Why it is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1891.

THE Canadian Gazette of London, Eng., says:—"The Canadian Parliament, or indeed any parliament, has rarely listened to a more eloquent oration than that which Mr. Laurier, as leader of the Opposition, delivered in the House of Commons at Ottawa on the occasion of the death of Sir John Macdonald. It was well worthy to compare with the utterances by which Mr. Gladstone has time and again voiced the deeply-stirred emotions of the British Legislature on similar sad occasions. There was, too, running through Mr. Laurier's oration a patriotic hopefulness which, seeing the general tone of Canadian politics, does him no small credit."

THE St. John Gazette, a Tory journal, says that the watchword of those who are inquiring into the frauds at Ottawa should be "let no guilty man escape. If there has been boodling and bribe-taking let the truth be told about it, and let the boodlers and receivers of bribes be punished no matter how high their position may be. The great Conservative party is strong enough to be able to dispense with the assistance of men who are not above suspicion." The great Conservative party remarks the Globe, has not yet shown that much strength, and to-day it is weaker and more discredited than it has been hitherto since the day of the Pacific scandal. The task of patching up the present Government with men who are above suspicion will be a good deal like putting a new lock, stock and barrel on the gun. The electors are not in a mood to wait for the patching process, and on the first opportunity they will probably throw out the whole pile of debris and make a fresh start.

The Interior Department Scandals.

How High Official Peculators are Flattered by the Imitation of Their Subordinates.

Mr. Burgess, Deputy-Minister of the Interior, has tendered his resignation, although still holding that there was nothing wrong in the remarkable piece of financing brought to light the other day. According to his own story he employed his father-in-law to do certain work. He did not care to have it known, so he waited until the old gentlemen died and then got a clerk to certify to a check in favor of another for an amount larger by $100 than the sum actually due. Mr. Burgess then pocketed that $100 to recoup himself, for it appears that he had paid his father-in-law out of his own pocket. There was nothing criminal in the transaction, but it was grossly irregular, and must have impaired Mr. Burgess' usefulness as the working head of the bureau. It is not surprising that similar irregularities were practiced by his subordinates. The whole department seems to have prided itself upon its ability to circumvent and defy the law. The use of bogus names as a cover for overtime payments to permanent clerks was bad enough, but it is now alleged that female clerks, absent for weeks and months at a time have been paid just as if they had been regularly at work. The Tory papers are angry with an ex-employee named Palmer, who is alleged to have primed Mr. Somerville, but if the party wished to give the country honest government it would welcome information as to the existence of wrong doing from any and every quarter. Many more striking facts will be revealed before the close of the inquiry into the internal economy of Mr. Dewdney's bureau. L'Canada, a Tory paper with a soft snap for Sir Hector, draws rather a sad picture of the demoralization of the whole civil service at Ottawa. According to his lordship accounts many of the clerks are up to their eyes in debt. The leading ones undertake to "entertain, which implies the possession of a comfortable house and a considerable outlay for this, that and the other thing. The example set by Lord Dufferin between 1872 and 1878, when he splurged all over the country at the public expense and introduced the fancy-dress balls and other dizziness into Ottawa society, is responsible indirectly for a good deal of the high flying with the accompanying impecuniosity. It is obvious, however, that extravagant living is not the sole cause of the rottenness in the departments. Every intelligent outsider must have suspected Uncle Thomas and his sweet-smug and Sir Hector and his boodlers of being a thieves' confederacy; and the sight of persons in high places going wrong, and apparently profiting by it is apt to corrode the virtue of those beneath them. Other scandals involving ministers have been noised from the house-tops, though their nature has been such as to keep them from being ventilated in Parliament or the newspapers. A contemporary says gambling is carried on to a great extent and that officials who can't afford it frequently lose large sums of money; but there is no proof of this and it may be dismissed as mere gossip. What is certain is that the genius loci at Ottawa for some years back has not been a very clean spirit. Ministers with reptile funds, contractors with claims for extras, members dividing up railway subsidies, Tory agents like Hawkins working for Government houses on commission, manufacturers buying and paying for protective duties—it must have been difficult in such an atmosphere for many a poorly-paid official to adhere to the belief that honesty was the best policy, especially if he happened to be in the clutches of the cent-per-cent man from carrying too much sail in the social swim.

Mr. Somerville deserves credit for having raised a small corner of the veil. It will have been noticed that wherever an investigating committee has applied its probe even at random corruption has been struck immediately below the surface. The whole fabric seems to be permeated with jobbery. A Tory paper makes haste to say that Burgess was first appointed by the Liberals. What has that to do with it? The question for honest men is whether he has or has not been guilty of a species of crookedness which if left to the process of natural development might have become the means of draining of the treasury for the benefit of a lot of rogues. There should be no politics in these investigations. The Opposition will heartily approve of the punishment of every criminal, Grit or Tory, who is shown to have abused his trust. But it is essential that the major as well as the minor rascals should be laid hold of. Instead of that, we see the Government paying lawyers to defend Sir Hector, whilst a poor devil like Perley is left to shift for himself under the disgrace of suspension. The explanation that Perley is not a party leader simply shows that Mr. Abbott is more solicitous for the well-being of his Administration than for the interests of justice. The purification of the public service is not a job which the venerable gentlemen who acted as cypher of the Pacific Scandal money is likely to undertake once more: but at the very least he ought to put the evil-doers on the same footing and show the world that we have one law for all.—Globe.

Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway Company (Limited.)

This is the title of the company, notice of whose incorporation, appears in the Ontario Gazette in the following terms:—Public notice is hereby given that, under "The Ontario Joint Stock Companies' Letters Patent Act," Letters Patent have been issued under the Great Seal of the Province of Ontario, bearing date the 3rd day of July, 1891, incorporating James Stevenson and Richard Hall, merchants; Thomas George Hazlitt, lumber merchant, Arthur Stevenson and Alfred Passmore Fourestte, Barristers-at-law; Thomas Evans Bradburn, gentleman; and William Walsh, druggist, all of the town of Peterborough, in the county of Peterborough and Province of Ontario, for the purposes following, that is to say:—(a) Subject to the provisions of "The Street Railway Act," to construct, maintain, complete and operate, and from time to time remove and change as required, a double or single iron railway with the necessary side-tracks and turn-outs for the passage of cars, carriages, and other vehicles adapted to the same, upon and along such of the streets, roads, avenues and highways of the Town of Peterborough, the Village of Ashburnham, and the Townships of Smith, North Monaghan, Douro and Otonbee, as the Councils of the said Municipalities may by by-law authorize, and over and upon any lands purchased or leased by the the Company for that purpose; to take, transport and carry passengers and freight upon the same by the force or power of animals, electricity, steam or by such other motive power as the Company may think proper and as the said Municipal Councils authorize, and to construct and maintain all necessary works, buildings, appliances and conveniences connected therewith and required for the due carrying on of the Company's said operations. (b) For the said purposes of the Company only, to build such cars, trucks, lorries and other vehicles and motors as shall be necessary for the said purposes. (c) To purchase, take on lease or in exchange, or to acquire by gift or otherwise, any real or personal property or any rights or privileges which shall be necessary or convenient for the said purposes of the Company. (d) To construct, maintain or alter any buildings, bridges or other works convenient for the said purposes of the Company. (e) To purchase or otherwise acquire and undertake all or any part of the business, property and liability of any person, firm or company carrying on business similar to the said business of the said Company, by the name or "THE PETERBOROUGH AND ASHBURNHAM STREET RAILWAY COMPANY (LIMITED)," with a total capital stock of two hundred thousand dollars, divided into two thousands shares of one hundred dollars each.

Dated at the Office of the Provincial Secretary of Ontario, this 10th day of July, 1891.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "Ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

A Canadian Favorite.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus, diarrhœa and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept in the house. For 35 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 3w25d

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

THE BASTED COOK!

ANOTHER AMUSING STORY FROM RUSSIAN HISTORY.

Beaten by Mistake Until the Last Stroke Flowed He Received a Gold Piece for Every Lash and a Good Situation into the Bargain.

But everybody at St. Petersburg did not come off so well as the English banker whose experience was related recently in these columns. Sometimes on account of the promptness with which orders were executed, the mistake was discovered too late to prevent the consequences.

One of the foreign ambassadors saw a man entering his house with gleaming eyes, flushed face and disheveled clothing.

"Justice, your honor, justice!" exclaimed his unlucky countryman.

"Against whom?"

"Against a Russian nobleman, my lord, the Governor of the city, who has just now had me flogged with a hundred lashes."

"A hundred lashes!" repeated the astonished minister. "What had you been doing?"

"Nothing, absolutely nothing."

"But that is impossible."

"I swear on my honor, your grace."

"You are crazy, my friend."

"My lord, I beg of you to believe on the contrary that I am in possession of all my senses."

"But how can you expect me to believe that a man who is reported on every hand to be exceptionally just and merciful has been guilty of such violence?"

"Excuse me, your grace, cried the complainant, "but you must permit me to prove what I have said."

And at these words the unlucky Frenchman threw off coat and vest and showed the ambassador his shirt, red and stiff with blood.

"But how did it happen?" asked the ambassador.

"In the simplest way imaginable. I learned that the Governor wanted a cook. Being out of a situation I applied for it. The servant who undertook to introduce me threw open the door of the room saying, 'My lord, it is the cook.' 'All right,' said the governor with an abstracted air. 'Have him taken into the court yard and flogged.' They seized me, carried me into the yard, and in spite of my resistance, my threats and my cries, they gave me exactly a hundred lashes, no more, no less."

"If what you say is true, it is infamous."

"If I have not told you the exact truth, I will agree to take as much more."

"Listen" said the ambassador, detecting in the poor devil's complaint a tone of truthfulness "I will investigate the affair, and if, as I begin to think, you have not deceived me, you will get, I promise you, a shaking reward for this violence. If, on the other hand, you have lied to me in the slightest particular, I will have you conducted to the frontier and sent back to France."

"I will agree to the whole of it, my lord."

"Very well," said the ambassador, sitting down to his desk. "Take a letter to the Governor."

"No, no, I am obliged to you. I will not voluntarily set foot again in the house of a man who has so strange a fashion of dealing with those who have business with him."

"One of my secretaries will go with you."

"That is another thing. In company with any one from you, I will go to the infernal regions."

The ambassador gave the necessary orders and the two left the house.

In less than an hour, the victim of the beating returned looking radiant.

"Well!" asked the ambassador.

"It is all right," said the other. "Everything is explained."

"To your satisfaction apparently?"

"Yes, my lord."

"I confess I would like to hear all about it."

"Nothing easier. His excellency had a cook in whom he had entire confidence. Four days ago he stole 500 roubles and ran away. It was his place I applied for, and went there for that purpose. Unluckily for me he had just heard of the arrest of his former cook so that when his servant said to him 'My lord, here is the cook' he thought it was the fugitive who had been brought back, and being very much engaged on a report to the emperor, he said without even turning around, 'Good, take him out and give him 100 lashes' and in that way I got the hundred meant for the other fellow."

"Did the governor make an apology?"

"Better than that," said the cook chinking his pockets, "he gave me a gold piece for every stroke, has taken me into his service; and assured me that every kick I received in advance will be credited against every fault I may commit. So if I keep an eye on myself it will be several years before I get a thrashing."

At that moment a messenger from the governor arrived to invite the ambassador to taste the new cook's dinner next day. He staid ten years with this master, and returned to France with a little fortune of seven roubles, blessing the happy blunder to which he owed it.

His clothes are the best of all wool,
And his living is high and no poor thing,

DIVING FOR PINK PEARL.

The Experts Rarely Able to Stay Under Water More Than Four Minutes.

The divers in the land of the pink pearl are got a long-lived race. Even after many years of constant practice, they can only remain under water from two to three minutes as a rule, though there have been divers so accustomed to the work, and so suited for it, that they could remain four minutes under water; but these are exceptions to the general rule, and so long a submersion is always attended with considerable risk.

A stone attached to a rope carries the diver like an arrow shot from a bow down to his work; a simple piece of cord, supposed to be always in the hand of the hauler, keeps up communication with him. As soon as his work is done he twitches the signal cord, and should be drawn up without a moment's hesitation. This is, of course, a much slower matter than his descent. The stone and the man's weight, which acts so wonderfully in favor of his descent, are just as much against him as he rises, and the least negligence on the part of the hauler is fatal. These men are not always on the alert, and it not infrequently happens that, either because the signal is not given soon enough, or because the diver has been too suddenly overtaken to give any, or because it is not answered instantly, lives are lost. Paralysis or suffocation supervenes.

When I Go Home To-Night.

When I go home a light will be Upon the old verandah rail:
The dog will bark and I will see
The wag that's in his welcome tail.
I'll enter thro' the open door,
I'll hark to hear the hired man snore,
I'll seek for apple pie in store,
When I go home to night.

Behold the loaf of home-made bread.
The dew upon the salad shines:
Behold the snowy feather bed,
Beside the window dark with vines.
The old time pictures on the wall
Will smile - and smiling me enthrall,
I'll hear familiar night birds call
When I go home to-night.

When I go home to-night the horse
Behind the barn will say me neigh;
I'll go to see the pigs, of course,
And count the cattle o'er the way.
I'll plan to meet the chipmunk cute,
The rascal knows I never shoot.
I'll hark to hear the kildear toot
When I go home to-night.

When I go home to night a calm
Will settle down upon my life;
The lilac leaves will chant a psalm
To hush away the worldly strife.
And in the morn no whistles deep
No street car bells will bedlam keep,
But I will sleep and sleep—and sleep
When I go home to night.

Young Girl Drowned.

A Pleasant Herb Drink - A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not cross this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY WORK.

The Peterborough Presbytery's Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

Report of the Proceedings of the Semi-Annual Meeting at Bobcaygeon—The Delegates Present — The Addresses Given and the Reports Presented.

The semi-annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Peterborough was held at Bobcaygeon on July 8th, 1891.

The morning session was opened with reading the Scriptures, singing and prayer, after which the minutes of the late annual meeting were read, and matters in connection with the work of the Society were freely discussed.

The afternoon session opened at half past two o'clock, Mrs. Craick, President, in the chair. After the opening exercises, in which the President was assisted by Mrs. Paton, Miss Bredin, on behalf of the W.F.M.S. of Bobcaygeon, read the address of welcome, which was responded to on behalf of the delegates by Miss Mary Slan, Peterborough. Then followed a most helpful address from the President, in which she pointed out the success which has attended the work of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, encouragements coming from all parts where this Society has workers.

Words of kindly greeting on behalf of the Lindsay Presbyterial Society were given by Mrs. McIntyre, Lindsay. Then followed a very practical address by Miss Drummond, of Newcastle, which contributed very materially to the success of the meeting.

The evening meeting was presided over by the Rev. Mr. Anderson, Bobcaygeon. Mr. Taro Ohno, a converted Japanese, was the first speaker. He gave an account of his conversion to Christianity and of the persecutions to which he was subjected. Then followed an address by the Rev. John McEwan, Lakefield, after which the Episcopal, Methodist and Baptist clergymen of Bobcaygeon each spoke and expressed the pleasure they had at being present and hearing of the success which has attended this branch of the Master's work. We feel that special thanks are due to those who assisted with the musical part of the services.

The following are the names of delegates who were present:—Mrs. Craick, Mrs. Leggatt, Port Hope; Miss Drummond, Newcastle; Mrs. McIntyre, Miss McLennan, Lindsay; Mrs. Waddell, Miss Dodds, Miss Armstrong, Miss Fair, Miss Rutherford, Centreville; Mrs. W. M. Graham, Lakefield; Mrs. Fairbairn, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Paton, Miss Reid, Miss Sim, Miss L. Hall and Miss M. Dickson, Peterborough.

The following are the reports of the Corresponding and Literature Secretaries for the half year:

SEMI-ANNUAL REVIEW PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERIAL SOCIETY.

Let us suppose for a moment, that we have entered the studio of an artist; our attention centres upon a marble slab, which but for a few bare outlines, is a shapeless block; its only interest to us lies in the assurance that it is destined to fill some niche in the far-famed and world renowned Louvre. The transforming power of the chisel under the skillful guidance of the sculptor, is soon evident, but what is it to become? We cannot tell. It may be that the last stroke of the chisel will have left it a Medusa hideous and repulsive, or possibly a Niobe bathed in tears, but we incline to believe it a Venus-elect, delightful to behold, elevating to contemplate, and in hushed expectancy we watch the progress of the great sculptor, who alone can speak with authority of the result of his labour. Permit another comparison. An experienced nurserymen propagates his stock in the beginning of a season, then he watches, tends and cultivates and at the expiration of half a year he can sell with fair accuracy of what will be the result of a year's growth. He speaks with a certainty born of experience. Not so the novice. He may regard his stock with watchful interest, or follow its development with reverent fondness, but he can, at most, only hazard an opinion as to its future vigor or fruitfulness while it is only half matured. So it is with our Presbyterial Society at the present time. The year has already winged half its days, hours and minutes into the past, but the new secretary, cannot, from the light of past observation conjecture whether the reaping time will show golden sheaves filled with grain, or nothing but leaves. Neverthe ess there is abundant promise for a fruitful year. No department of work undertaken is yet complete, therefore no report can be made, and we can only speak of the progress that has been made, and the prospects for the future. The new secretary cannot begin work where her predecessor left off. She must learn for herself the condition of each branch under her charge before she can form any adequate conception of the nature of its needs or the magnitude of her duties. She begins in the orthodox way, by feeling the pulse, testing the vigour and regularity of the heart's action, ascertaining the fulness and depth of respiration. But how is she to accomplish all this? Through the branch's secretary and by the medium of correspondence, hence the value and importance of painstaking and efficient officers, upon whom depends the responsibility of conveying official information. The diagnosis made, one's next anxiety is to communicate the result to those whose interest entitles them to a knowledge of the facts. And in this instance it affords me immeasurable pleasure to report the branches breathing deeply, the tide of life and health coursing freely through the earnest, faithful labours of their members. Doubtless much is due to the energetic service of these functionaries who have been termed the engineers of an organization. A president is either strengthened and upheld, or coerced and undone by her secretary. Is there not then cause for congratulation, as well as deep gratitude that the branches of our Presbyterial Society are each so well equipped for telling service? And, in this connection, it is worthy of especial mention that, in every department of the work in which we engage, Bobcaygeon auxiliary takes a place in the first ranks. Fellow-workers of Bobcaygeon, "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet; but it tendeth to poverty. The liberal soul shall be made fat, and he that watereth shall be watered also himself." You have gladly and earnestly embraced the privilege of being co-workers with the Lord Jesus in the work of evangelization. Our Father conferred a great honour upon us when He condescends to make us the instruments by which His blessed truth shall reach the heart of heathendom, you have shown yourselves worthy by accepting the honour. Think, then, of the reward which awaits you. "Heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ, knowing that of the Lord, ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance, for ye serve the Lord Jesus Christ."

In the beginning of the year the nucleus of a Presbyterial library was established and it is now in circulation. It is too early to speak of its influence, but it is safe to predict that a greater grasp of our work, and consequently a deeper and livelier interest in it, will accrue from the perusal of the words composing our library. A desire for knowledge is sufficient evidence of awakening interest, and the volumes now circulated among the contributing branches are well calculated to increase our information and to bring us face to face with the great problem of missions from many standpoints and in many phases.

The May meetings served to bring before all the societies, their relative share of the clothing supply for this year. The schools at Round and Crooked Lakes are large, and our charge this year is perhaps greater than usual, nevertheless the acceptance of the of the apportionment made by the clothing committee, has been generous and hearty, a noticeable feature being the decision of so many to send money in place of outfits. This will be expended by the committee carefully and wisely in providing garments suitable and serviceable for the boys and girls under Mrs. McKay's and Mr. Morrison's charge, and we are sure that the labour of our missionaries at Round Lake will be greatly accelerated by the generosity of the women of Peterborough Presbyterial Society. We have been told by authorities that it is a vain effort, to feed the soul with Gospel truth, while the body is shivering with cold, and twitching with the pangs of hunger, thus we know that these contributions of warm clothing gives an impetus to our work, not otherwise obtainable and since it is a means to an end, it is as properly mission work, as the sending of the missionary with his Bible.

Dear sisters we have reached the horizon of facts, but beyond we see great possibilities for useful active service, if we but lend ourselves to the work. Let us not lend but give of our time, our energies, our talents and our means means, and the Great Sculptor will surley evolve objects of beauty and beings of perfection in blood-boughts, sin-cleansed priceless souls. Ever would we be minnful that "except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it; except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain," we would seek always to unfold the banner of the Word of Life, in His name by His grace, and for His sake.

"The prayers we make will then be sweet indeed
If Thou the spirit give by which we pray;
Our unassisted heart is barren clay,
That of its native self can nothing feed;
Of good and pious works Thou art the seed,
That quickens only when Thou sayest it may;
Unless Thou show to us Thine own true way,
No man can find it, Father! Thou must lead.
Do Thou then breath these thoughts into our mind,
By which such virtues may in us be bred,
That in Thy holy footsteps we may tread;
The fetters of our tongue do Thou unbind,
That we may have power to sing of Thee,
And sound Thy praises everlastingly."

S. E. GRAHAM
P. Sec.

Lakefield, July 3rd 1891.

REPORT FOR THE HALF YEAR.

The Apostle Paul, in his Epistle to the Ephesians, speaks of a beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord, whom He sends to make known His affairs to all the brethren. This is the service our silent messenger does for the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society—makes known the affairs of our faithful ministers in the Lord. We cannot do good work while we are ignorant of the field, and our leaflet is a bond between our members everywhere, and a reminder to each personally of how true very most we at home can do, will be little in comparison with the sacrifice made by our representatives in the foreign fields.

The number of these little leaflets ordered by the auxiliaries and mission bands of Peterborough Presbytery during this half year is two hundred and sixty-three (263). Eleven (11) have been ordered in a village where there is no society.

Of the annual reports, no copies have been sold, and three hundred and forty-seven distributed, our society having not yet sent an order.

In the little leaflet, Miss Ferrier's Mission Studies must prove of very great interest and benefit to the bands, of at least one of which I can speak, where they are followed closely, with the help of maps, pictures, papers on different parts of the work, questions, and frequent reviews. Surely this is nice for and appreciation of information about foreign missions, is a great step in advance, and as there is increased interest in the literature of the work, there will be certain increase in funds and in numbers. Many more will be added to us, and will understand "How that, so labouring, we ought to support the work, and remember the words of the Lord Jesus when He said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday school teacher of her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," answered a little girl, whose sick mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

Headquarters of the "Black."

Mr. W. Cardwell, of the Cardwell House, is a pretty thorough Orangemen. He is a member of the True Blues, Orange Society, and way up in the Royal Black Preceptory of Ireland. It is therefore no wonder that his hotel was on Monday headquarters of the higher branches of the Order. Professionally, he was splendidly patronized. He seated about 700 at dinner and gave the best of satisfaction in every way to his numerous guests.

Occasional does of a good cathartic like Burdock Blood Bitters are necessary to keep the blood pure and body healthy. dw

"Wooed an' Married and A'."

This afternoon at four o'clock Mr. E. R. Wood, of Toronto, secretary of the Central Canada Loan & Saving Company, formerly of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Miss Phemie Smart, at the family residence of the bride Stewart street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jos. H. Locke, and the duties of groomsman were performed by Dr. Richardson, of Toronto, the bridesmaid being Miss Florence Rutherford, town. The bridal presents were splendidly numerous, representing gifts by Mr. Geo. A. and Mrs. Cox, and family, the employees of the company of which the bridegroom was secretary, and the large circle of friends of the bride. The wedding was quiet, only the near relatives of the principal parties being present. The happy couple, who enjoy the kindest good wishes of a wide circle of friends in Peterborough, will take up their residence on Gerrard street, Toronto, where the husband has recently acquired an elegant home.

Cold, cough, coffin is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

Personal.

Mr. Chas. Peplow, of Milwaukee is home for his holidays.

Miss White, of Chicago, is visiting with relatives in town.

Miss Mamie Natires, of Port Hope, spent Tuesday in town.

Miss Lottie Morgan has gone to Hamilton for a month's visit.

Mr. Hugh McGuire, of Rochester, N. Y., formerly with T. Dolan & Co., is in town.

Miss Lila Gray, of Chicago, has returned home after a three months visit with her uncle, Mr. W. B. Ferguson.

Purity of the blood in your condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

THROUGH DEATH'S VALLEY.

A Jackass Saves the Lives of a Company of Prospectors.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 14.—Robert Montgomery and two other prospectors have just returned to their new camp in the Pahrump Mountains, Southwestern Nevada, after the longest prospecting trips ever taken in the Death Valley. They travelled six hundred miles in four weeks, and narrowly escaped death by thirst near the ill-omened Furnace Creek, where in early days eighty lost immigrants perished miserably. In going from Cottonwood to Furnace Creek they were surprised by a hot wind. Six pack mules, which had been selected for their strength and endurance, soon gave out and the packs had to be cut off. The men and the animals struck out for the foot hills to get water to cool their raging thirst. Their little water was mixed with vinegar and oatmeal, but the meal soured and made a mixture so hot it blistered their mouths and added to their agony. The instinct of a jackass saved the men, for the brute scented water and set off on a run for a canon, where they all drank their fill. Montgomery's party found an abundance of water on the west side of Death Valley, and several other springs and streams that probably never had been seen before by white men. In Cottonwood Canon Montgomery found several hundred Shoshone Indians prosperous and contented, who were surprised and delighted to see a white man come there from the burning desert. They report mountain quail and sheep to be plentiful on the west side. They also found near Furnace Creek bones of men and cattle belonging to the Townsend party, which started from Salt Lake for Los Angeles, but only a half dozen of them ever got out of Death's Valley alive. The bones had been almost reduced to powder by the intense heat of 40 years, but the tires and other iron of the 120 wagons still remain, though the Indians have burned all the woodwork.

SAILING IN A RAINSTORM.

First of the L.Y.R.A. Circuit Races at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 14.—The Lake Yacht Racing Association's annual series of regattas began here to-day and was sailed on Hamilton Beach. As was to be expected at the first event of the circuit, there was a very large number of yachts entered.

In the morning a violent squall caused the White Wings and Flossie B. to run ashore, which threw them out of the race. The following are the winners:

GOVERNMENT RAIN TO ORDER.

An Experiment With Explosives to be Tried in Kansas.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 14.—Western Kansas in about three weeks is to be bombarded by a delegation of scientific men sent out by the Government, who will endeavor by artificial means to make rain. They will take with them 60 balloons, each 10 feet in diameter and filled with oxygen and hydrogen gas; 100 kites 5 feet high, whose tails are to be loaded with dynamite, and a score or two of great wooden mortars, from which dynamite can be exploded.

A dry desert is to be selected, and a line, as of battle, two miles long, will be formed. The balloons, to which wires are to be attached, will be sent up, and by electric spark the gases will be combined with a terrific explosion. The mortars will bellow for about three days.

The experiment will probably cost $5000.

Crushed to Death.

ORANGEVILLE, July 10.—The express from Toronto ran over the mangled remains of an old man named Daley on the track about two miles south of Mono-road Station. The old man, who had evidently been struck by a freight train during the preceding night, lay with his head and both arms and legs severed from the body.

Killed By Lightning.

CARTHAGE, Ont., July 10.—Frank Foley, aged 17, took refuge in a barn during a thunderstorm. Lightning struck the gable and passed down through the barn, striking Frank in the breast, passing down his body into the floor. The clothes were torn almost entirely from the body.

Hellebore for White Pepper.

WINDSOR, July 10.—Dr. Soper's family had a narrow escape from poisoning yesterday, owing to the servant mistaking hellebore for white pepper and sprinkling the vegetables for dinner most liberally with it. The life of Mrs. Soper was at one time despaired of.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four years old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and on all places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and rub and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We knew your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

Cuticura Resolvent

A GAS TANK EXPLOSION.

ROCHESTER'S FOUNDATIONS SHAKEN AS BY AN EARTHQUAKE.

A Man Killed and the Watchman's Body in the Ruins. Cause of the Accident a Mystery. A Very Strange Disaster.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 16.—About twelve o'clock last night a mighty explosion, which made the buildings all over the west side of the city rock, on their foundations, startled sleeping residents from one end of the city to the other. The great gasometer at the old Municipal gas works on Canal street was a part of the consolidated Rochester gas company, had exploded. The huge tank was totally destroyed. One man is dead from injuries received by being struck by a piece of the flying debris and the night watchman at the works, Michael Stapleton, has not been seen since the disaster.

It was a remarkable sight that met the eyes of the first men to the scene. Where the big tank had stood was left nothing but the huge pit filled almost to the level of the ground with water. The huge iron columns which had been located at intervals around the tank, and by means of which the latter was raised and lowered according to the gas pressure, were some of them still standing, some bent, but others had fallen in the excitement and lay crossed over one another in the pit of water.

Outside the works on Canal street was what had once been a portion of the sheet iron sides of the big tank, now bent and twisted into a shapeless mass.

On the towpath of the canal, and several hundred feet from the scene of the explosion lies another large piece of the tank, which had been hurled through the air over a lumber yard with terrific force and had found a resting place on the canal bank close to the Allen street bridge. The canal boat E. C. Lauer & Son of Rochester, moored to the bank at the place and the flying mass of metal struck the boat on the side and forced it out into the canal several feet. The captain of the boat was struck by the iron mass and so badly injured that he died within an hour.

Still another piece of the tank was carried over to the towpath a short distance to the east of the canal boat and another lies at the corner of Litchfield and Maple streets. Other smaller pieces of metal were found about in every direction. There were two sharp reports in close succession, and then a sheet of flame shot up from the top of the tank. At the same instant the tank was wrenched and broken and the gases began to fly through the air.

The shock of the explosion was felt throughout the city but more plainly, of course, in the western part. The number of windows so broken cannot be estimated.

The people residing in the Fourth and Eleventh wards almost all rose from their beds with varying impressions as to what had happened. Several in the immediate vicinity were knocked out of their beds. Some thought that an earthquake had shaken up the city, others that their residences had been struck by lightning. The damage done at and to the tank itself will very probably amount to a thousand dollars. Buildings in the centre of the city were shaken but little or no damage was done except in the Eighth and Eleventh wards.

What caused the explosion is a mystery. For over two months past the gasometer has been unused. The board of health ordered the company to repair a leak in the tank and for that purpose the gas had been pumped out. Workmen had been employed in making the repairs for several weeks past and so from gas was the tank that lights had been carried about in the interior. After the repairs were completed the task of filling the tank with water to commence. It was begun, and this work was in progress when the explosion occurred. As the manhole in the tank was open, however, there was no possibility of air pressure being caused.

The big gasometer was 100 feet in diameter, 40 feet in height and was guaged to hold 300,000 cubic feet of gas. It was constructed of heavy sheet iron. The tank was built in 1878 and gas was first pumped into it the next year. It is estimated that the loss to the gas company by the explosion is $40,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Had the throng of people which occupied the towpath in the before not been driven away there would probably have been a frightful list of casualties.

A DEEP PLOT CONFESSED.

The Bulgarian Finance Minister's Assassins Captured.

SOFIA, July 16. The murderers of M. Beltcheff, Minister of Finance, have been arrested. They are two students who have confessed they were hired to do the job by Dr. Latcheff, Dr. Mollroff and Captain Vassoff. At the time Latcheff was killed he was walking with Premier Stambuloff, and it is believed the conspirators intended to murder the premier instead of Beltcheff.

Good Stock for Canada.

LONDON, Eng., July 15. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, sails to-day by the steamer Teutonic. Experts highly praise his purchases of stock for the Ontario Experimental Farm at Guelph, which include cattle, sheep and pigs from some of the finest herds in the kingdom. Three of the breeds Mr. Dryden is taking out are fresh to the Dominion. The prices paid are said to be moderate.

Bread Becoming Dearer.

BERLIN, July 15. The Vossische Zeitung says: The destitution among the lower classes of Germany is becoming intense. Potatoes, the usual price of which is one and one-half marks per bushel, now cost six marks per bushel. Bread is becoming dearer every week. Every branch of commerce is suffering and many bankruptcies are announced.

New Cattle Regulations.

LONDON, July 15. Mr. Chaplin finding it impossible to pass the cattle trade bill this session is now drafting revised rules under existing powers in conference with shipowners. The latter specially object to a minimum space of three feet between rows of cattle.

GRAND LODGE OF CANADA.

The 36th Annual Communication of the Freemasons.

TORONTO, July 16.—The Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Canada, in this Province, met yesterday at 10 o'clock in the Masonic Hall, Toronto street. M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson presiding. A constitutional number of lodges being represented the Grand Lodge was opened in ample form. Among those present were: M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson, Grand Master; R. W. Bros. Hon. J. M. Gibson, Deputy Grand Master; J. J. Mason, Grand Secretary; G. J. Bonnet, D. D. G. M. (4th District); W. Roaf, P. D. D. G. M.; E. T. Malone, P. D. D. G. M.; Thomas Sargeant, P. D. D. G. M.; David McLellan, P. G. S. W.; Jas. G. Rowe, P. G. J. W.; Jas. Greenhill, P. G. J. W.; Geo. Hodgetts, P. G. R.; W. C. Wilkinson, P. G. R.; W. M. Bros. Robt. Oliver, G. S. D.; G. Tait, P. G. S. D.; F. F. Manley, P. G. S. D.; Robt. Cuthbert, G. S. B.; J. A. Cowan, P. G. S. B.; N. I. Stoner, P. G. O.; J. Ker, Brydon, P. W. Bros. Dr. G. S. Cleland, J. Harry Paterson, W. A. Lyon, A. M. Browne, B. Allen, M. Gibbs, Jas. Glanville, A. A. S. Arkagh, W. McCartney, W. R. Clarke, Bros. E. W. Gardner, E. Davies, etc.

The opening routine business was proceeded with, and the minutes of the last annual communication were confirmed.

GRAND MASTER'S ADDRESS.

The M. W. the Grand Master said:

Brethren of Grand Lodge:

This is the Thirty-Sixth Annual Communication of Grand Lodge duly summoned in accordance with the Constitution, which provides that the Annual Communication shall be holden on the third Wednesday in July." This year, however, I have found it necessary to make a change in connection with our Communication, from the fact that, owing to the assemblage of one the largest gatherings ever held in this city "that of the National Educational Association of America" it has been found impossible to secure adequate and proper accommodation for the representatives who attend Grand Lodge. With the comfort and convenience of the delegates in view, and knowing that under the circumstances it would be impossible to carry on our proceedings as usual, I consulted the members of the Board of General Purposes and the W. M. of each lodge in the jurisdiction, and requested an opinion as to whether it would be advisable to call Grand Lodge for the transaction of business at the usual time or at an earlier or later date. The opinion of nearly all was in favor of the fourth week in July, and, therefore, I have summoned Grand Lodge formally on this the regular date, and when the opening routine business has been transacted, I will call off until Wednesday, the 22nd July, when we shall meet again for the despatch of business.

I thank you for your attendance, and trust that we all may be spared to meet as proposed, and discharge our duties with that zeal and earnestness which has always characterized the Craftsmen of this jurisdiction.

Grand Lodge was then called off until Wednesday, the 22nd inst., at 10 a. m., when it will assemble in the Grand Opera House here.

Ontario's Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario, A. F. & A. M., met in the Temperance hall yesterday when Grand Master W. H. Pethick delivered his address, which stated that during the past year the Grand Lodge had been very prosperous not only in the strengthening of the lodges, through increase of their membership, which during the last year had amounted to a higher number than has been registered on the roll for many years previous, but by the encouragement which they had received from other Grand Lodges. Since the act of confederation each of the seven provinces under the Government of its own legislative body, the organization is necessarily similar to that which exists in the neighboring republic. These provinces were then considered to be Masonically as unoccupied territory, therefore each organized a grand lodge of its own in the following order: Nova Scotia, 1866; New Brunswick, 1867; British Columbia, 1871; Quebec, 1869; Prince Edward's Island, 1875; Ontario, 1876. "We hold that the Grand Lodge of Ontario is the only Grand Lodge having jurisdiction in the Province of Ontario."

Lightning Strikes at Kingston.

KINGSTON, July 16.—A thunder storm of much severity accompanied by lightning which did much damage broke over the city early yesterday morning. At the fire station the gongs were kept continually ringing. The first call was to Mrs. Mulholland's house, where fire caused by lightning did about $800 worth of damage. When the firemen were returning, lightning struck the cupola of Campbell's flour mill. The tops of all the elevators, a great deal of the machinery, bolting cloths, and flour and feed were destroyed. The property is protected by immunity in six insurance companies. The property was insured as follows: Stock, Atlas, $1,000; machinery, Ætna, $2,000, Western, $3,400, Quebec, $1,300, British American, $1,500, and Phœnix, $1,500; total, $9,650.

The Purcell Reward Increased.

CORNWALL, Ont., July 16.—The reward for the recovery of the body of the late P. Purcell, ex-M. P., has been raised to $300 and his friends are of the opinion that this will result in its recovery. The general opinion, however, is that given this large amount will not produce it; not because the body is lost, but because the men who have made away with it and who are doubtless three in number want at least $1000 apiece as their share of the profit. It is generally believed that Devonshire knows exactly where the body is, but will not produce it till his price is paid.

A Panic Among Children.

BERLIN, July 16. The excursion steamer Augusta, having 700 children on board, collided with another boat on Upper Spree yesterday. A fearful panic ensued among the children and several of them were badly crushed in the stampede. For a time it was feared certain that the Augusta would be run ashore owing to the rush of the passengers to the other side of the vessel from that on which the collision had occurred, but the catastrophe was averted and the little ones were safely landed without loss of life. The other boat was less fortunate, two of its occupants being knocked overboard and drowned.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

HON. MR. CARLING ANNOUNCES HIS EARLY RETIREMENT.

A Lively Spat Between Messrs. Tarte and Curran Over the Charges of the Former—A Quiet Day in the House—The Budget Debate.

OTTAWA, July 16.—In the House yesterday the bill to grant $40,000 a year for 20 years to the Winnipeg and Hudson's Bay Railway Company was read a third time on division and passed.

The debate on the Budget was resumed by Mr. Bordan and continued by Mr. Masson and Mr. McMullen.

This morning about 150 members inspected the Central Experimental Farm on the invitation of the Minister of Agriculture. After a thorough examination Mr. Trow moved, seconded by Mr. Frechette, a vote of thanks to Mr. Carling for his kindness.

Mr. Carling in the course of his reply said that he did not expect to be Minister of Agriculture next year, but felt sure his successor would be equally glad to welcome visitors.

In the Lobby.

A lively spat occurred in the lobby of the House in the afternoon as a result of ill-feeling rising out of Mr. Tarte's charges. In the committee yesterday Mr. Curran strongly objected to having the names of the subscribers to the testimonial to Sir Hector Langevin made public. The discussion was continued in the corridors. Mr. Tarte remarked that Mr. Curran lived on testimonials. The fiery Irishman from Montreal made some insinuation about Mr. Tarte's political record, which brought forth the rejoinder, "You are a liar."

Mr. Curran sprang at his calumniator and dealt him a blow on the nose. Both honorable gentlemen squared off for a few rounds, but Mr. Fairbairn and other friends of each separated the combatants, who went off muttering all sorts of threats against each other.

Mr. J. C. Patterson, President of the Liberal Conservative Union of Ontario, and Mr. Holmes, Birmingham, Conservative organizer, were in town yesterday in close communion with the members of the Government.

THE LANGEVIN TESTIMONIAL.

Further Evidence Before the Privileges and Elections Committee.

OTTAWA, July 16.—Mr. Noel, manager of the Quebec Bank, was the first witness who appeared before the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday. He was further examined in regard to the Langevin testimonial fund of which he was treasurer. All the subscriptions came through him, as far as he was aware, and the only subscription from the Connelly's was the $1000 he mentioned yesterday. He did not think that any of the subscriptions were sent from the contractors to Sir Hector Langevin direct.

The next witness was Mr. Lightfoot, who, Mr. Murphy said yesterday in answer to Sir John Thompson, was the clerk of the Public Works department to whom he gave $100. The Minister of Justice read over the evidence of Mr. Murphy in regard to this matter to Mr. Lightfoot, and asked him if he had any statement to make to the committee.

Mr. Lightfoot: The matter as represented by Mr. Murphy is substantially correct. I, however, added to him that whenever he wanted the money to draw on me for it and it would be paid.

Sir John Thompson: Why did you apply to Mr. Murphy?

Witness: In the afternoon I met Mr. Murphy in Metcalf street. I had some bills to meet and was on my way to negotiate a loan with a man from whom I borrowed previously. I told Mr. Murphy and he said to me, if I came to him after his business was through he would let me have $100, and he did so.

Sir John Thompson: You did not intend to go to him in the first instance?

Witness: No.

Sir John Thompson: Had you any acquaintance with Mr. Murphy?

Witness: Never in the office. I have been introduced to him.

Sir John Thompson: No acquaintance in the office?

Witness: Only by hearsay.

Mr. Girouard: You knew he was a public contractor?

Witness: By hearsay.

Mr. Girouard: Have you paid the amount?

Witness: No.

Mr. Edgar then read from another portion of Mr. Murphy's evidence to show that Mr. Lightfoot had nothing to do with the contractors, thus verifying the evidence of Mr. Murphy in the first instance as absolutely correct.

Mr. Simon Peters, contractor, whose tender for dredging at Quebec harbor was lower than that of Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s, was cross-examined at great length, but his evidence was of little value. It was endeavored to be shown by Mr. McGreevey's counsel that the witness was prejudiced against Mr. McGreevey.

Mr. Edgar: Did you vote for Mr. McGreevy at the last election?

Witness: I did, but on meeting him the day after the election and his taunting me with not having worked for him, I told him I voted for him on the ground of party, but I would just as soon have voted for the devil. [Laughter.]

Mr. Nicholas Connolly, was the next witness.

He was shown letters from himself to Mr. Murphy in 1886 urging the latter to go to Ottawa and see Sir Hector about the proposed changes. He said Robert McGreevy was to put some capital into the firm when he became a partner, but could not dispute the statement in the letter from his brother to Murphy that Robert was not to put any capital into the firm, and that consequently the share given to Robert was too large. Nicholas, however, failed to recollect whether he Robert put in any capital or not. Michael Connolly's letter to Murphy advised the latter to stand in with Hon. Thomas McGreevy, as he had the whole thing in the hollow of his hand. He swore that the tenders put in by his firm for the cross wall contract were prepared in two rooms, in the firm's office in Quebec, but when reminded that the firm had no office in Quebec in 1886 he revised his recollection in the matter. He admitted having speculated in stocks the same time as Murphy, and he also said that he subscribed money for political purposes. He did not know that the firm did. Asked whether he had sent $5000 to Thomas McGreevy by young Robert McGreevy, he said he might have done so. He made the same answer to a question whether he had sent a like sum early in November, 1887. He might have sent money if asked to do so by Robert McGreevy, sen. He would have handed over the money under such circumstances. When asked whether if Thomas McGreevy admitted under oath having received $5,000 or $60,000 from Larkin Connolly & Co. for political purposes, he said he would believe it.

Mr. Osler reported to the committee, with respect to the two engineers named to check the extension of the tenders, that Mr. Shanly could not act immediately, but Mr. Jennings had accepted and had this morning reported himself in Ottawa.

Homeward Bound.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 16.—The embarkation of the Grenadier Guards at Bermuda yesterday evening, caused the greatest demonstration ever witnessed on the Island. People flocked from all parts. The streets hillsides, and every available spot were crowded, while the harbor was literally covered with boats. The Governor of Bermuda addressed Col. Eaton, and referred particularly to the excellent reports on the conduct of his men while stationed on the Island. The troopship Orontes sailed yesterday morning for England.

Death Locked Their Arms.

HAMILTON, July 15.—Yesterday afternoon the bodies of John Jacobs and Henry Wells, the farm hands who were drowned in the lake off Winona on Sunday afternoon while returning from the Beach, were recovered. The two bodies were brought to the surface together, and they were found to be locked in each other's arms.

A DAY'S TORONTO TOPICS

AMERICAN VISITORS HUGELY PLEASED WITH THEIR WELCOME.

What the Educational Association is Doing—Meetings of the Grand Lodge of Canada and the Ontario Grand Lodge, A.F. and A.M.—A Didn't Know it Was Loaded Fatal Accident.

TORONTO, July 16.—The 5,000 and odd teachers from all over the United States, who are now in attendance here at the eleventh annual meeting of the National Educational Association, were delighted with their official welcome by the city and the educational authorities of Ontario. All day yesterday, meet them where one would, they talked of nothing else, and were loud in their praises of the kindly and evidently heartfelt reception they received. Especially were they pleased with the magnificent address of Rev. Principal Grant, who welcomed them on behalf of the Dominion. Wit, solid sense, patriotism, and manliness were blended in the reverend gentleman's address. As the speaker said, it was not only Canadian, it was also thoroughly British. He spoke of the great importance of the teachers' work, and advised them to "magnify their office." He reminded the visitors of their finship to Canadians, and of the fact that their inheritance in the British flag is larger than in their own, and wound up as follows: "We, too, are heirs of Runnymede," says Whittier, and he is right: We admit the claim. I would have you take your full share. Yes, you are heirs of Runnymede and of Naseby fight, and of the Plains of Abraham as well. You are heirs of Shakespeare and Milton, of Hampton, Russell, and Sydney, even as we are heirs of Washington and Lincoln. Think what that flag represents to us—not only national existence, but the cause of humanity all the world over; not only freedom, personal, political, intellectual, commercial, civil, religious, but also the most pregnant spiritual ideas that ever descended from heaven to earth. It is the Cross of St. George, the Cross of St. Andrew, the Cross of St. Patrick, three in one, and as the cross means light and life, so where the flag waves there is justice for all, peace by land and sea, and the proclamation of good news to every son of Adam. Oh! kinsmen, blend the two flags together, and count those men enemies of the race who seek to erect barriers between the British Commonwealth and the United States, who teach that it is a good thing for neighbors to have no intercourse with each other. Join hands and never forget that we are at least children of the light. The speech of Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education for Ontario, as well as that of Rev. Nelson Rexford, who was present in the place of Hon. G. Ouimet, Superintendent of Instruction for Quebec, and welcomed them on behalf of that province, were likewise sharers in the expressions of praise from the visitors. The other addresses of welcome were one from Mayor Clarke on behalf of the city and another by Mr. Wm. McIntosh for the Ontario Teachers' Association. The responses were numerous as they were limited to three minutes each. The morning session yesterday was held at the Pavilion at the Horticultural Gardens. Prof. W. R. Garret, the President of the N.E.A., occupied the chair. The papers read were: "Teaching Patriotism," by State Superintendent J. R. Preston of Mississippi: a history of the Association by Mr. Z. Richards, of Washington, D. C., its next president; and the discussions which followed on these interesting and able papers emphasized their many good points. The afternoon was devoted to meetings in different places of various sections of the association. The kindergarten department met in Association hall; secondary education, at Old St. Andrew's church; higher education, at Metropolitan church Sunday school; normals, at Normal school; art education, at Sherbourne street Methodist church; music department, at Jarvis street Baptist church. The visiting teachers were treated to many trips on the lake, which were intensely enjoyed.

He Looked Down to Death.

TORONTO, July 16.—A tragical event occurred on the west side of Grand avenue, formerly Close avenue, about 11:30 a. m. yesterday. The unhappy cause of the fatal affair was Robert Gowdy, a message boy of 16 years. His employer, J. H. Ames, Bay street, sent him to Jacob B. Tripp's residence for a long-barrelled gallery pistol, and in bringing it a workman named Levi L. Amabel, 234 Lippincott street, asked the boy permission to examine it. Neither knew it was loaded, and, while Gowdy retained the stock end in his possession, the man placed the end of the barrel under his left eye to look down into it, when there was a sudden explosion. By some means the weapon, which neither of the three knew was loaded, was discharged. With an awful cry the workman reeled back and fell to the sidewalk. Fellow workmen carried the wounded man to the lawn in front of No. 114. Here P. C. Rowe found him, but the poor fellow was beyond the power of earthly aid, and fifteen minutes from the time the bullet first entered his head, he drew his last breath. Dr. Rowe says the bullet is imbedded in the dead man's brain. P. C. Clarke arrested young Gowdy, who was detained in No. 6 station, pending the verdict of the coroner's jury. He feels his position keenly and weeps bitterly. He declares that he did not touch the trigger, and cannot account for the weapon going off. He was subsequently released.

Toronto Topics in a Few Lines.

Yesterday Mr. W. N. Snow, an old man, his wife and daughter, arrived in the city from Manhattan, Kansas, and put up at the Crosby Hall hotel, Frank Wisner's place, opposite the Union station. About 2:30 o'clock Mr. Wisner was awakened and told that Mr. Snow was ill and in an alarming condition. He rose and despatched a portio for a doctor. Three doctors refused to incommode themselves, and before Dr. Burns, 458 King west, could reach the hotel Mr. Snow was dead. Heart failure was the cause of death.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday the County Court Clerks' Association of Ontario held their annual session. It was unanimously decided to hold their meetings in August for the future, instead of July. The annual address was read by President M. B. Jackson Registrar of the Common Pleas Division Mr. M. B. Jackson was re-elected president and A. G. Northrup, Belleville, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The Executive Committee of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance met yesterday at R. J. Fleming's office and decided to not make any formal recommendations in regard to the personnel of the Royal Commission to enquire into the prohibition question. It was decided, however, that the commission should be composed of men who have the confidence of temperance men.

It is now estimated that there are between 12,000 and 15,000 teachers in the city in attendance at the N. E. A. meetings.

It is a certain and speedy cure for Cold in the Head and Catarrh in all its stages.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so-called diseases are simply symptoms of Catarrh, such as headache, partial deafness, loss of smell, foul breath, hawking and spitting, nausea, general feeling of debility, etc. If you are troubled with any of these or kindred symptoms, you have Catarrh, and should not lose time in procuring a bottle of Nasal Balm. Be warned in time, neglected cold in head results in Catarrh, followed by consumption and death. Nasal Balm is sold by all druggists, or one sent, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00, by addressing

THE KINGSTON DOCK.

Le Canadien, Mr. Tarte's paper, and La Justice, Mr. Amyot's, give some of the salient features of the Kingston graving dock affair. As yet there been no regular attempt to dig down. The facts here put together lie chiefly on the surface :

(1) The lowest tender was Andrew C. Banoroft's, $261,000. The next lowest was Randolph Macdonald's, $265,000. That of the two Connolly's was higher than some others.

(2) The date of the Bancroft tender was March 28, 1889. On April 4 a letter signed Bancroft was written to the department saying that if his tender was accepted—how did he know that it was the lowest?—he would carry on the work in conjunction with the Connollys, who were well known to the department. This letter was written by Michael Connolly. The check which accompanied the Bancroft tender was a Connolly check. On the same day the Connollys wrote the department that they had gone into partnership with Bancroft. How did they know that Bancroft was going to get the job?

(3) The contract was awarded to Bancroft & Connolly. Bancroft, Michael Connolly and Nicholas K. Connolly put their names to it, and it was also signed by Sir Hector Langevin and one Saucier, formerly of the Stadacona Bank. But there was and is no such person as Bancroft. How then could Bancroft have signed, and how did Sir Hector and the others come to sign after him?

(4) The work having been let, the old game of allowing changes in the specifications was commenced and diligently carried on. Mr. George Perley, son of Chief Engineer Perley, was the resident engineer in charge. It is now stated on official authority that the dock which the mythical Bancroft undertook to build for $261,000 will cost $450,000.

(5) From all this Mr. Tarte suspects that, as in other cases, the figures of the genuine tenders were secretly communicated to the favoured contractors, and that in all likelihood they paid, and paid handsomely, for the information as well as for the alterations by which the cost of the job was to hugely augmented. What other explanation consistent with the facts can be entertained? In September last, the works being still in progress, Chief Engineer Perley gave his I.O.U., payable on August 31, 1891, to Michael Connolly for the Murphy jewellery. It was an extraordinary thing for a man in his position thus to commit his reputation to the keeping of a contractor, assuming that nothing underhand existed between the two.

The case should be investigated without delay. Sir Hector, Mr. Perley senior and Mr. Perley junior must tell us how they came to let a work of such magnitude to a non-existent person; why they allowed some one else to write his checks and letters and even to sign the contract for him; why they allowed the work to be carried on for an hour without demanding to see him in the flesh; and why they increased the contract price by 80 per cent., with much else that is painfully obscure. Let the two Perleys accept a friendly hint and make a clean breast of this matter at once. It may prove a more serious business for them than any yet unearthed.

A Bit of Blue Bunting.

The Montreal Witness thus neatly hits off the idiosyncrasies of our American neighbors in the matter of sensitiveness to imaginary insult:—"According to American despatches the sight of a British flag flying in the United States sends Americans into fits. Some foolish wag, with more money than sense, sacrificed a fine English flag for the sake of seeing it wave for a time over the City Hall of Buffalo, and it appears that the flag itself added to the offence by 'floating haughtily' we suppose from mere habit. The Buffaloes got unreasonably excited over the flag, as such animals often do at the sight of red, and used 'very emphatic language' or, in other word, 'bellowed,' and it may be taken for granted 'kicked up a dust.' Nothing amazes a Britisher more than this orgasm or frenzy into which otherwise rational and level-headed Americans are thrown by the Union Jack. 'Britishers' seem rather to like foreigners to fly their flags throughout the empire, and in Canada the star and stripes and the tri-colour are quite as familiar to us as the 'meteor flag' of Old England. When foreign flags fly here, we do not observe that they have the habit of 'floating haughtily.' They seem for the most part to be peaceably inclined and good natured bits of bunting and seem to be rejoicing when we rejoice or mourning when we mourn, for they fly at half mast as well as the topmost peak, according as the Union Jack does. Is it not about time Americans were getting over their silly childishness in regard to the innocent appearance of such emblems of friendly nations? When the British attempt to force their flags upon the American masts at the points of bayonets, Americans should get excited, but so long as it is done in fun or in friendliness they should keep cool. Dignity in most animals goes with bigness. The United States, remarkable in many things, is particularly remarkable for the reverance of these two qualities.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. The pleased those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection." dw

Occasional dose of a good cathartic like Burdock Blood Bitters are necessary to keep the blood pure and body healthy. dw

Cold, cough, colds is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other: but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the sequence needed—just at present.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Port Hope Invades "Chemong."

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The union excursion from Port Hope Tuesday under the auspices of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches and Sunday Schools, proved quite a success notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The party numbering about 650 were joined by friends from Millbrook, Omemee and Peterborough. Amongst these accompanying the party from sisters churches Port Hope were, His honor Judge Benson and family, David Smart, Barrister and others. The latter gentleman fished for muskinonge with his copper bait 40 years old made by an Indian on Rice Lake, being one of the greatest curiosities and most captivating baits to be found amongst fishing tackling. The Rev. Dr. Jones and family of Princeton College, father of Canfield Jones, Port Hope was also amongst those who enjoyed the affair. The Citizens Band of Port Hope discoursed sweet music and played "Hail Columbia," "Georgia" and "Yankee Doodle" in honor to the American visitors. The whole affair was carefully carried out and superintended by the pastors of the churches, assisted by Messrs. J. F. Clarke, Wm. Craig, J. C. Irwin and D. Chisholm. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure excepting a shower of rain; nothing more than expected by the Presbyterians when consenting to unite with the Baptists. The party passed through here about 7:15 p.m. delighted with Chemong Park.

Canton.

Reception Service in Honor of Rev F Johnston.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On the arrival of Rev. F. Johnston and family, (late of Lakefield,) at Canton, their new circuit, after partaking of a sumptuous tea, arranged for at the home of Mr. John Kinsman (the parsonage not yet being vacated by predecessor), they were escorted to the church which is quite city-like in appearance and is beautifully upholstered, where a large gathering was collected to receive their new minister and his colleague Rev. W. B. Tucker, B. A. Good music was furnished by the choir of the Christian Endeavor. The recording steward Mr. Fred. Curralley presided. Representatives from each appointment were present and addressed the audience and in behalf of their congregations came forward and shook hands with the retiring pastors Rev. Messrs. Tonkin and Heron and heartily welcomed their new pastors, pledging their support and hearty co-operation to which Rev. Mr. Johnson, in behalf of Rev. Mr. Tucker who had not yet arrived and himself, replied in suitable terms, believing that while he did not seek the appointment yet he thought the hand of God was in it. The people seemed to be very warm hearted and interested in the work of God and the outlook for the success of the circuit was hopeful. The audience dispersed at 10.30 p.m., having spent a very enjoyable evening.

The Wheat Crop.

The wheat harvest is finished in many and is in full blast in other States across the line. In Indiana and Illinois the the grain is in the stook. In Michigan and Northern Ohio cutting is in progress. In these and other States it is found that owing to the spring drought, the wheat as it comes out of the thresher is considerably lighter than it looked whilst growing. The crop, however, is a good average. In the Northwestern States spring wheat is looking remarkably well, and with fine weather during the next few weeks the yield will be the largest on record in that part of the country. The agricultural bureau at Washington says the crop throughout the Union will be the heaviest report since 1879 with one exception. The averages of the principal States which have finished harvesting or are engaged in it are as follows, 100 representing a high average:—Pennsylvania, 98; Ohio, 97; Michigan, 89; Indiana, 99; Illinois, 98; Missouri, 98; Kansas, 94; California, 98. The fruit prospect is flattering in New England and the North Atlantic States and west of the Missouri river to the Pacific coast. The crop in Ohio and Michigan was materially damaged by the frosts of May. In Ontario there has been a marked improvement in the outlook, and the crop as a whole will be up to the average, though it may be light in the northern counties. Hay was light all over. In Quebec the prospect for cereals is not as bright as in this province, but everything promises well in the Northwest.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "Ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mrs. Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Gigun, Wilfred, Ont. dw

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

A pair of paddles—a staunch little canoe with one fellow-rover in the bow, a launching of the stylish craft on a river that tangles itself into snarling rapids and rollocking cascades—voting Canada will make no more for a royal holiday.

Little he cares for the dangers of boulder, rock and eddy. With a confidence in his prowess, and in the paddle that has never failed him, he stow away his big athletic form into that tiny canoe that creeps so silently out into mid stream, obeying the slightest twist of the broad maple blade, that is but a plaything in his iron grasp. With what ease he kneels in his quivering leaf-like barque, cautiously arranging the cushions and rug, while an unconscious balancing movement controls his body even to his finger tips.

He may well feel confident, well be self-reliant. He is at his national sport; the sport that had its birth with the aborigines centuries before our forefathers ever inhaled American air, a sport that was originally pursued in that light and graceful craft the birch bark, before cedar ribs and butternuts and basswoods were conceived in the mind of man.

It is many, many years since the redman's bark canoe was sole cruiser upon the mighty lakes and rivers of this continent, but the craft still lives and thrives, and is becoming more general every year, although the craft itself has undergone a reformation, the treacherous but beautiful birch bark lost its outlines in the unwieldly dugout which the Indians made from a single log, by first burning, then hollowing out the inside, and forming rude curves at bow and stern, and from this clumsy boat sprang forth the flower of the present pretty little "Peterboro," which in its turn has been metamorphosed from a more pleasure boat into one of the most faultless racing machines and cruising contrivances built in the present day.

Descend group of canoes come rattling down a race course, to watch the paddles glean like lightning flashes to hear the hurried lapping dip dip of the blades as they catch the water tosse the foam fly in those exquisite little boats, trail as a flower, swift as a whirlwind cut the waters and shoot past like arrows leaving an Indian's bowstring, is a sight quaint, bewitching, and exciting as any sport that can be witnessed within Canadian borders.

A FAIR ANODIST

Men shout themselves hoarse over a canoe regatta, who could never get up the enthusiasm to do more than a little clapping while watching a four-oared crew in the conventional, time-honored outrigger. It is the something born and bred in the new world bone that clamors for new world sports. It is the something about a canoe that smacks of the soil, of Canadian out-of-doorsiness, of our red aborigines that speaks in the whispering action, the stealthy movement. We see in it the gunwale's curve, the free-soaring slope of the bow, the silent but mighty force of the paddle blade. This is no imported pastime it is a child of our forest streams, of our inland seas, and however long it may have been in reaching its majority it is to-day heir to the crown of the magnificent kingdom of Canadian national sports.

Its possibilities are well nigh unlimited. Tossed on the great lakes, the sturdy little craft will carry its canvas nobly shooting far inland rivers that seethe and boil about their boulders, the canoe slips like a water snake through streams whose shores, disgranite teeth set in jaws of adamant, have crushed their waters into channels so narrow that skiffs and oars with their exacting demands for elbow room would be out of the question.

As a traveling medium the canoe is indispensable to the party belaburing under canvas. Enough stuff can be stowed in a cruiser for a four weeks' "tenting" tour, for are the delights of cruising claimed only by the athletic. Often has he a fierce comrade, whose bonnie girlish arms are browned by the summer suns, until she looks indeed the gypsy whose life she emulates.

In these days of physical culture lads many a Canadienne has forgotten her racquet for her paddle, and herein lies her wisdom, for of all health-giving, graceful pastimes for woman, there is none richer in physical and mental tonic, and lady canoeists are seen all Canada through who can handle a paddle as vigorously as the mantilled senora fingers her fan.

READY FOR THE RACE.

In the construction of an ordinary cedar-rib canoe the greatest care and vigilance must be exercised by the builder. The ribs are first perfectly seasoned, then after being formed and clamped the canoe is placed in a drying room of intense heat. It is then soaked in oil, scraped, rubbed, polished until a thing of beauty, it is "inested" with a number of its fellows, packed, shipped upon its journey, and when launched at last its decks perhaps will blister under a tropical sun, its keel kiss the waters of Indian seas with lips that drew their fibrous strength from far-off Canadian earth and atmosphere.

However dear to the paddler may be the stream that shyly slips beneath overreaching boughs, the river that dashes itself in rage and petulance between mighty rocks and frowning granite shores, however alluring may be the the rapid swing of the paddle, the rushing scamper past dangerous crags—he must bow before the beauty of that most enchanting picture—the canoe that carries canvas. A sight of the little craft, with its butterfly body and outstretched, webby looking wings, is irresistible, even to him who best loves the lazy cruise, or the fever heat and excitement of running a rapid. Canoes only sixteen feet long by thirty-inch beam, sometimes carry 160 feet of canvas. This could not be done without the aid of a lyking seat, nor would even that valuable adjunct avail the sailor much were the hand at the sheet not stands aid the brain above it cool.

Dangerous? Oh yes, it is dangerous, but the big brawny fellow whose body is half a yard out to windward cares not a jot, he takes a dip or not. He is at home with the garments. Shoeless, [illegible] clad in a skin tight jersey, and gracious shorts, he is a ready rival to the fish beneath him, and could match them at swimming if need be. The accompanying illustration shows "Canuck" with canvas spread—the crack sailor of America. She was she prettiest thing afloat at the meet of the American Canoe Association in 1889, and won the international trophy for her owner Mr. Ford Jones, of Brockville.

But for coasting and general cruising an open basswood, sixteen feet long, thirty-one inches beam, eleven inches deep is the thing. It will stand a goodly amount of rough usage, and is light and easy to portage, weighing but sixty pounds or thereabouts. There is a knack in portaging that is acquired only by practice, a trick of throwing the weight upon the shoulders, below which weight is inclined to be injurious and produce a strain. But laborious as the tug always is, it never fails to enhance the dash onward when one re-embarks. The headlong tumbles over rotting logs, the tangles in briary trails, are all forgotten with the first dip of the paddle in the regained stream. The remembrance of hard steep paths up which we lugged our ponderous burden, of tired arms and lacerated hands is soon lost forever in the purling murmur of the rapids that are singing far to forward.

Singing? Yes, if nature ever sings a grand, sweet anthem, it is where her voice wells up through the throat of that tumultuous rock girdled river in Northern Ontario, where the pine trees take up the song caught from water-quarreling at their feet, their mighty roots buried in irony fastnesses, seemingly as immovable as eternity.

Montreal Fire.

MONTREAL, July 13.—The fire this morning destroyed the lumber yard of Charles Brouillette, contractor and manufacturer of windows, doors, sashes, etc., 1196 St Catherine-street, the lumber yard of J. Brosseau, 1034 St. Catharine, and lumber yard of Joseph Robert & Son, corner Papineau-road, and St. Catharine-street. The loss will probably amount up to $150,000.

The Czar's Winged Messengers Caught.

The Queen Pawned Her Jewels.

Queen Isabella of Spain pawned her jewels to raise money to fit out the expedition that discovered the new world. Her sacrifice was not greater than is made by many women of America, who deny themselves many things in order to have money to buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for their sick husbands or children. This "Discovery" is more important to them than the one made in 1492. For all diseases of the lungs, liver, throat, or stomach, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. A trial convinces, it's continued use cures. It purifies the blood, invigorates the liver and strengthens and builds up the whole system. Guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it returned. b

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle. dw

Ahead of Koch's Lymph.

Charles Campion, Kingston, Ont., says:—Gained 7 lbs. with one bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Cured bad Bronchial Cough with a few doses and made me feel like a new man. I strongly recommend it. All druggists keep it. dw

For Many Years.

We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for many years in our family and find it an excellent medicine for all forms of summer complaint. John A. Valens, Valens, Ont. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Price 35c., sold by all dealers. dw

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

It Saved His Life.

GENTLEMEN,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved by life. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. Francis Welsh, Dalkeith, Ont. dw

Excess of uric acid in the blood is accesded to be the cause of rheumatism. To remove this poison ask W. K. Greatrix, druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rhemstic Remedy. dw

A Canadian Favorite.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus, diarrhœa and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept in the house. For 35 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 3w251

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

NINE NOVICES RECEIVED

Into the Sisterhood of St. Joseph.

Interesting and Solemn Ceremony at St. Peter's Cathedral — Exchanging the Vain Attire of the World for the Solemn Habits of the Sisterhood—Taking the Vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience—The Sermon on the Occasion—The New Names of the Novices.

A most solemn and impressive ceremony took place this morning in St. Peter's Cathedral when nine young ladies made profession and took the vows of the sisterhood of St. Joseph. This ceremony is the first of the kind that has ever taken place in Peterborough. The profession is always made in the diocese where the mother house of the order is situated, and the mother house of St. Joseph's Sisterhood being in Lindsay these novices took the vows at the cathedral church of the diocese.

There was present a large congregation. The congregation included the relatives and friends of most of the novices, and to them the occasion was one exceedingly affecting. It implied that from the family circle, from the mother's arms, and from the social circle was taken one who henceforth would be dead to the world, dead to the dearest relative, and devoted entirely to the service of God. With this in mind, to the merely human side, the scene was to the relatives and friends the symbol of a separation almost as absolute as that effected by death and therefore it was no wonder that there was yielding to tears and affecting demonstrations of human regret. In contradistinction to this, all the nine novices took the vows with a deliberation of resolve, firmness of speech unshaken by the least falter or tremulousness, apparently upheld by

THE HIGH RESOLVES THAT FILLED THEIR SOULS

Shortly after nine o'clock the solemn tones of the organ pealed forth a march, and to its sacred cadence an unique procession, for the Cathedral here, entered the church. It consisted first of six small girls dressed in white, and wearing chaplets of white flowers and carrying baskets of the same in their hand, and two of them carrying packets containing habits of the order the novices were to assume. These were followed in single file by the nine novices, clad, each in white satin with a bridal wreath of white flowers, typical of their being espoused to the Church, crowning the flowing hair, over which a voluminous white veil was thrown. Each carried in her hand a bouquet of white lilies. As the procession reached the sanctuary rail the novices each knelt on the crimson priedieu placed for her.

In a few moments, from the sacristy, entered the procession of the clergy, headed by Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor, and consisting of Rev. Father Teefy, St. Michael's College, Toronto; Rev. Father Murray, Cobourg; Rev. Father Larkin, Grafton; Rev. Father Sullivan, of Halifax; Rev. Father McGuire, Bracebridge; Rev. Father Nolan, Lindsay, and the cathedral clergy.

After His Lordship had taken his seat upon the episcopal throne, low mass was sung by Rev. Father Sullivan, of Halifax, and at the conclusion of the service His Lordship administered the holy communion to the novices.

Rev. Father Teefy, of St. Michael's College, Toronto, preached the sermon, taking for his subject the Scripture passage to the first book of the Chronicles in which King David blesses God and ascribes to Him all greatness, power and majesty—all honour and riches, etc. The preacher after pointing out that in God dwelt the plenitude of being, the plenitude of right, and the plenitude of perfection, went on to show that the young ladies about to take upon them the solemn vows of the sisterhood of St. Joseph were honoring God in all the attributes referred to in taking the

VOWS OF POVERTY, CHASTITY AND OBEDIENCE

—in the vow of poverty they gave up all right and interest in earthly possession—in that of charity they sacrificed the exercise of the human affections which under certain circumstances were perfectly legitimate returning to God as the due of his plenitude of right, the whole wealth of their affections: in the vow of obedience implicit obedience in everything that the laws of God sanctioned—the complete surrender of free will, that most difficult to human things to give up—this was the true freedom—freedom to devote their time, talents, affections and individuality of will to the service of God in works of charity, beneficence and piety. The sermon was scholarly, concise, comprehensive and eloquently phrased, most appropriate to the occasion, and worthy of the reverend gentleman's reputation as an orator

The Bishop was then induced in full canonicals and took his seat coram altarem and recited the prescribed offices and blessed the habits the novices were to assume, and then followed the prescribed questions by the Bishop, and the answers by the novice, as follows:

Question.—What do you ask, my children?

Response.—I ask for the habit of the Sisters of the Congregation of St. Joseph.

Q.—Are you fully resolved to wear it with devotion and to live and die in the exact observance of the rules prescribed for the sisters who wear the habits?

R. Yes, Rt. Rev. Father, I am fully resolved to do so.

Q.—In order to become true Sisters of St. Joseph, you should, my children, die to the world, to your parents to your friends, and to yourselves, and live only for Jesus Christ.

R.—What I desire, above all, is that the world should be no longer of any value to me, and that to live for Jesus should be my only occupation.

Q.—Do you desire at once to renounce the world, its vanity and its pomp, and to take the poor habit of the Sisters of St. Joseph?

R.—This is what I have ardently desired for a long time, and I beg of you not to defer it any longer.

The Bishop then said:—I shall grant your request, my children, and request Mother Superior to receive you into the Congregation, to cut off the superfluity of hair and divest you of the vanity of worldly dress, in order that you may put on the poor habits you have longed for with such ardour, and, at the same time, may be clothed with Jesus Christ. Go then, my children, to receive this holy habit.

Then the novices, preceded by their sponsors, made procession down the central aisle, returning by the side aisles, to the sacristy, where the change of garments was made and the procession re-appeared, the novices taking their places in front of the sanctuary before the bishop, when the ceremony of taking the vows were concluded the following questions and answers being individually given:

Q. Beloved, now my children you are dead to the world; are you satisfied?

R. Yes, Right Reverend Father, I am quite satisfied. I experience in my heart the most perfect joy.

Q. You have reason to be satisfied, as at this moment by God's special favor, you begin to have in a most particular manner, St. Joseph for your father, the most Blessed Virgin for your mother, and Jesus Christ for your spouse.

R. I value this favor more than all the goods of the world. The glorious advantages which I possess will enable me to leave, without regret, and even joyfully, my parents, my friends, and all the vanities of the world. And I beg of God to grant me the grace of perseverance till death, to the life of the sisters of St. Joseph. This kind of life I have so long desired, and this life I have this day began to live by receiving this holy habit.

His Lordship then gave the novices the names they desired in religion, and blessed them in these words:

May God be praised sisters, for the good services which he has given you and I beg of Him to accompany your sentiments with his gracious blessing. I bless you in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost—Amen. The Te Deum was then sung as an act of thanksgiving.

The following are the names of the young ladies and the names given them in religion.

Miss Catharine Barry, of Pickering; in religion, "Sister Mary of the Presentation."

Miss Frances Sullivan, of Halifax; in religion, Sister "Mary Camilla."

Miss Bridget McCabe, of Grafton; in religion, Sister "Mary Loyola."

Miss Margaret Coogan, of Cobourg; in religion, Sister "Mary Irene."

Miss Annie V. C Laghan, of Hamilton: in religion, Sister "Mary Teresa."

Miss Annie McCormack, of Hamilton; in religion, Sister "Mary Angelica."

Miss Annie O'Neil, of Downeyville; in religion, Sister "Mary Josephine."

Miss Jane Barra, of Perth; in religion, Sister "Mary Helen of the Cross."

Miss Ellen O'Donoghue, of Eganmore; in religion, Sister "Mary Regina."

After the ceremony there was luncheon at the Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, after which the newly received nuns repaired to St. Joseph's Hospital where they will remain for a season, subject to the direction of the Rev. Mother Superior St. M. Austin, and in charge of the superior of the hospital, Rev. Mother St. M. Anselm. This afternoon the newly received sisters received the congratulations of their friends at the hospital parlours.

The Catholic Club Social.

A very pleasant and successful social was held in St. Joseph's Hospital grounds last night, under the auspices of the Catholic Club. There were between four and five hundred persons present. The Fire Brigade Band furnished general music, and Butcher's orchestra music for dancing, which was diligently enjoyed under the direction of Mr. James Coughlin. The refreshment table presided over by the ladies and laden with tasty viands proved a dual attraction that could not be resisted. Rev. Father Teefy and Rev. Father Rudkins were present for a short time.

An Interesting Jap.

The young Japanese who lectured in St. Paul's church last night made a most favorable impression. There was a good audience present and the young man spoke in every good English with deep earnestness. He gave an interesting account of Japanese customs. Rev. A. McWilliams occupied the chair and in opening gave a brief review of the lecturer's conversion. Tazo Ohno is soliciting funds to enable him to return to Japan to work in the missionary field. Being disinherited by his parents on account of his adoption of Christianity, he is entirely without means. A good collection was taken up in St. Paul's Church for his benefit.

The Industry is Ours.

The St. Catherines Star says:—"A deputation from the town of Peterborough, composed of A'ds. Davidson, Largford and McGill, arrived in this city on Tuesday in reference to the removal of Messrs. Patterson & Corbin to that town. In the evening a lengthy conference was held in the Grand Central Hotel, where it was definitely settled as to their removal, which will take place in the near future. The deputation also received some pointers on the construction electric street railways, as the town of Peterborough intends shortly to build a road."

Messrs. Patterson & Corbin by agreement with the town of Peterborough will be allowed the use of two acres of ground and buildings valued at about $4,000, with exemption, for a term of years. The firm is anxious to come to Peterborough at once. It will be remembered that at the last council meeting Mr. E. H. D. Hall stated what progress had been made up to that time in the negotiations, which have now been closed successfully. Patterson & Corbin manufacture street car supplies, and undertake to employ at least 30 hands in Peterborough.

A Bold Blackguard

Complants have been numerous for two or three months past regarding the beastly conduct of one or more men who have been in the habit of accosting women on the street at night and acting most offensively towards them. The vicinity of the cathedral has become notorious on this account, the dark tree-shaded streets being very favorable for the disgusting practices of these filthy wretches. It is not safe for ladies to venture out alone in the evening, and a reign of terror exists amongst the gentle sex. This sort of thing has been going on all spring until it has become an intolerable nuisance. One gentleman told the EXAMINER to day that he knew of at least half a dozen cases in which ladies had been grossly insulted, and sometimes threatened and chased. The latest instance occurred on Stewart-st. Tuesday night. About ten o'clock the neighborhood was aroused by the piercing shrieks of a woman in distress, and several persons immediately ran to the rescue. They saw a man running away in the darkness, and next came upon a young woman in a pitiful plight. She said she had been met by an unknown man who had asked to see her home, then caught her by the throat and when she screamed struck her on the head and knocked her down. The girl's clothes were torn and she was frightened to the verge of hysterics. This is only one instance of many, in which the victims are well-known and highly respected ladies, who happened to be out alone after dark and came in contact with one of these monsters. It is time a stop was put to this state of affairs, and the police ought and no doubt will make every effort to discover the miscreant.

Warsaw.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Saturday evening, the 11th inst, the officers of Warsaw, L. O. L. No. 284, very ceremoniously took possession of the Presbyterian manse. After a few minutes spent in general conversation, D. M. Bro. Alex. Smith stood up, and stated that on behalf of the officers and members of the lodge he was about to perform a duty which he did not know whether the lodge chaplain, the Rev. Bro. Hyde, would approve of or not. Bro. Smith then read the following address, and P. M. Bro. Richard Deen presented the chaplain with an address and a very handsome chaplain's badge.

To Bro. Rev. R. Hyde, Chaplain L.O.L. No. 284:

DEAR SIR,—We, your brother officers and members of Warsaw L. O. L. 284, avail ourselves of this opportunity, on the near approach of our glorious anniversary, to testify in a slight degree to the high esteem in which you are held by each and all of us. Since your advent amongst us we have witnessed your zeal in the promotion of everything pertaining to the furtherance and spread of the Gospel, together with your courteous and unassuming gentlemanly bearing towards the brethren since you joined our noble and beloved order. We are, therefore, actuated to write this evening in recording our appreciation of your worth as an officer and a brother who will be ever ready to help to raise high the Orange banner and nail it to the mast." We therefore ask you to accept this chaplain's badge as a slight token of our sincere regard for you, and not for the intrinsic value but for the spirit in which it is given—that of brotherly love. It is our earnest desire that you may long be spared to wear it.

Wishing you and your amiable companion, Mrs. Hyde, and family, all the happiness of life, trusting that the remainder of your days may be long and lighted by radiant beams of prosperity and happiness, and at length when you have neared the sunset may the night shades settle gently upon you, and may the valley of death be as a portal, where we feel assured you will have the pass word to admit you to that celestial realm, where every member of our loyal brotherhood, we trust, merits a home.

We remain, dear brother,

Yours fraternally,

Stephen Miller, W.M. Alex. Smith, D.M.
John M. Intosh, R.S. Wm. J. Deen, Com.
Richard Deen, Com. W. J. Dougherty, Com.
John Lumsden, Com. Stuart Miller, Com.

Bro. Rev. R. Hyde was completely taken by surprise, and replied to the address in appropriate terms. He thanked the brethren for the kindly words contained in the address for himself, his partner in life and for his family. He also said that he felt proud to know that what little service he had done for the interests of the cause had been kindly remembered by the members and officers of Warsaw L.O.L., No. 284 in such a manner. He assured the brethren that the very handsome badge which they had just presented to him would be most carefully treasured up as an heirloom, and if, in the providence of God, his lot should be cast in another section of the Dominion, the sight of the badge would revive pleasant and happy hours spent among the brethren in Warsaw. The chaplain concluded by assuring the brethren that he would most joyfully wear the badge on the coming anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. This is the second time within the past eight months that this lodge has kindly remembered their chaplain.

On Sabbath, the 12th inst., the members of the above named lodge attended Divine service in the Presbyterian church at 11 a.m. The Rev. R. Hyde, lodge chaplain, preached to a large and attentive congregation a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday school teacher of her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," answered a little girl, whose sick mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

A Victory at Lacrosse.

Madoc Defeated by the Home Team — A Good Exhibition Game.

One of the pleasantest games of lacrosse of the season took place Wednesday afternoon, pleasant as well because of its satisfactory result as the friendly spirit in which it was played, and the lack of "slugging," which too often mars the national game. Peterborough won the game by four goals to one.

There was not a large crowd present, but the day was perfect for lacrosse playing, the hot sun being hidden by threatening clouds which, however, did not resolve themselves into rain during the afternoon. At half past three the teams lined up for play as follows:

PETERBOROUGH.		MADOC
F. Larone	Goal	G. Wright
F. Packenham	Point	T. Kirk
J. McCabe	Cover	R. Collins
T. Cronin	1st Defence	J. R. Orr
R. Hickey	2nd "	W. Muldrew
J. McDonagh	3rd "	C. Morson
W. Headren	Centre Field	W. Gray
F. White	3rd Home	W. Harper
J. Begley	2nd "	C. Lynd
J. Phelan	1st "	C. Cross
J. Daly	Outside Home	E. Brough
W. Phelan	Inside Home	H. S. Price
J. J. Sheehy	Umpire	E. A. Seymour
W. A. Sanderson	Field Capt.	F. McNamara

Referee—Dr. Brennan.

The first game was short and sharp. The Peterborough boys started in immediately to win, and followed the ball up close. After the face-off the rubber was bandied about centre field for a while, then scurried towards Peterborough goal, but Pakenham very coolly took possession of it and skied the ball to the other end of the field, where the Peterborough home surrounded it, and played in so close and fast that the Madoc defence was fairly overwhelmed. Walter Phelan took a shot at the flags, but the goal keeper was in the road, and in the rebound Joe Phelan got the ball and tipped it to Daly, who scored. Time, 4 minutes.

The second game lasted much longer, and was characterized by fast play and close checking. The Peterboroughs had decidedly the best of it, their team play being very fine indeed. Headren was a horse to work, and Pakenham and Joe Begley, the old invincibles of the team were adepts in catching and dodging. The ball hovered in the vicinity of the Madoc goal almost continually and several shots narrowly escaped scoring, one striking the goal-stick and others flying close by. Finally after one of these miss shots, Walter Phelan got the ball and from behind the flags tossed it to his brother Joe, who was standing unchecked, and he made a clean shot through. Time, 14 minutes.

The third game was slow at the start. The Madocs seemed to be discouraged and the Peterboroughs did not force the play much. But the game brightened up and McDonough had a chance to show some good lacrosse playing. The ball again sought the Madoc goal, but their defence worked hard, Kirk and Collins doing good work. The Madocs showed good individual play, Cross being the best man on the team, while Gray also put up a lively game. But the Peterboroughs' team play was too much for them, though at times the Madocs showed team work, and as a rule checked closely. After a few minutes play a scrimmage took place in front of Madoc goal, and Joe Phelan, who was always to the front, scraped the rubber through. The umpire said no game, but the referee, who was standing close by, declared it was game. The Peterborough captain, however, decided to allow it to go as "no game," to avoid kicking, but the umpire was ruled off and Mr. W. Rudkins took his place.

Upon resuming play "Brig" Larone stopped a very dangerous ball, as he did others at different times during the game. For a while the Peterborough goal was pressed, but Pakenham relieved the siege twice and made long throws down field. The last of these passed to White, who took deliberate aim and scored a clean goal. Time, 1½ minutes.

Again the sphere went down to the Madoc goal, and some hot, close play took place. Joe Madoc man intercepted a liner with his body and was doubled up, and the next instant Joe Phelan had scored, but time had been called and "no game" was declared. The Madocs now seemed to wake up and catch their second wind, for the ball was often at Peterborough's goal as at other's, but McCabe, who had been playing carefully throughout, sent it back twice. Madoc's goal-keeper saved a goal in fine style, then the ball travelled by long throws from goal to goal. Headren, Begley and Pakenham made some fine runs down field and in a scrimmage were particularly effective. Joe Phelan again had a chance to score, but the goal-keeper prevented him, and finally, during one of its trips up field, the ball was secured by Cross, who scored for Madoc amidst the applause of the audience.

Then came the last and best game of the match. The Madocs were warmed and did some pretty team play, to the danger of the Peterborough goal. But the defence could not be broken down, and the Peterboroughs showed their opponents they could play lacrosse as well. Both teams worked harder than ever. The checking was close and, in some cases, pretty rough, several men getting tumbles. The game was ended by White getting the ball, and, from the fence, he threw what was apparently intended to be a "lob" in front of goal, but it went just a little too far for that purpose and just far enough to strike between the flags and score the game, which won the match for Peterborough. Time, 9 minutes.

In summing up it might be said that the Madocs were heavier and larger men than the Peterboroughs, but the latter appeared to be more nimble and more determined in their play. They also showed better team work and altogether quite outplayed their opponents. The Madocs are, however, a gentlemanly lot of fellows, and took their defeat gracefully. It may seem strange that the Peterboroughs can put up such a good game here, and yet be signally defeated as they were at Port Hope a few weeks ago. But the explanation is that our boys are accustomed to ground as smooth almost as a floor, and when they have to play in meadows and stubble fields they are lost. Wednesday's play indicated that, however their games may result outside, the Peterboroughs can play a good game at home. The team has got new white caps which look well on them.

Make the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

SALISBURY SPEAKS.

The Next General Election and the Issues.

LONDON, July 16.—Lord Salisbury speaking at the United Club yesterday said he believed the danger of church disestablishment was considerably removed, and if it was to be an electoral reform the Conservatives did not dread it.

The demand of a one man vote was unreasonable, but the question of women voting demanded consideration. The abolition of the illiterate voter might be necessary.

He declared that Home Rule had not effected any lodgment in England, that it had been supported in the past by American gold and was now backed by a clerical conspiracy.

Lord Salisbury also said he could not tell when the next general election would take place. He would not deal with political meteorology beyond saying he had no fear of the future.

Regarding a revision of the electorate, Lord Salisbury declared that any change in this direction ought to be associated with a redistribution of seats in Parliament. The Conservatives had no cause to dread the result. Ireland, Wales and North Scotland were greatly over-represented, while England, especially London, was greatly underrepresented, and a redistribution of seats must be to the advantage of the Conservatives.

A WELSH JURY ACQUITS

Duncan, the Wife Murderer, on the Ground of Insanity.

LONDON, July 16.—The case of Duncan, the American charged with the attempt to murder his wife, was called at the Carnarvon assizes yesterday. The court at once proceeded to try the case, and counsel for the prisoner entered a plea of not guilty. The defence was insanity.

The countryman, Evan Evans, who discovered Mrs Duncan after the assault, testified to having seen the accused stooping over the prostrate form of his wife and holding a huge stone in his hand. Mrs. Duncan, the witness said, was lying in a crevice between two rocks and her head, which was terribly battered, rested in the extreme angle. Soon after the witness saw Duncan the latter touched his wife's face with a handkerchief. At the time Mrs. Duncan was bleeding at the mouth and from one of her ears. She appeared to be dead.

The witness then repeated the testimony given by him at the preliminary examination with regard to the prisoner's assertions that his wife had fallen and hurt herself and to the removal of Mrs. Duncan to the witness' house and the subsequent calling in of Dr. Jones.

Medical evidence was then introduced in contradiction of the theory that Mrs. Duncan had been hurt by a fall. Dr. Jones, Mrs. Duncan's physician, then took the stand and repeated his testimony substantially as given by him on June 5th at the first examination of the case and which was to the effect that the prisoner had confessed his guilt to the witness. The doctor related how Duncan had told him of his money losses and of his original intention to secure a boat and drown both his wife and himself.

Almost without argument the case was submitted to the jury which promptly rendered a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity. The prisoner was detained in custody pending the decision of the court as to what disposition shall be made of him.

During the hearing it was urged by the defense that American specialists had two years ago examined the prisoner and declared his mind unhinged. It had then been advised that Duncan be confined in an asylum. He was, however, finally sent to Europe in the hope that change and travel might effect a cure. The prosecution urged that there existed no ground for believing the accused to be insane.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and rid hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, so he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6 371 599.15
Increase over 1889	2 268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	589,078 87
Increase over 1889	225,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " " 1886, "	89,452 97

A DAY'S TORONTO TOPICS

THE $300,000 ESPLANADE BY-LAW CARRIED BY A BIG MAJORITY.

Doings at the Great Educational Convention General Charges of Corruption Against Aldermen. A Strong Plea for Delay in Closing with Any Street Railway Tenderer Notes of Interest.

TORONTO, July 17. At 9 o'clock yesterday the N. E. A. convention was held in the Pavilion, President Garrett in the chair. The building was again filled. The proceedings, lasting three hours, were of the same interesting nature characterizing all the meetings of this association.

The report of the Committee on Spelling Reform was presented. It dealt with the difficulties of English spelling, and the irregularities of grammatical inflections. The report called forth an animated discussion, in which Messrs. W. H. Brewster, chairman of the committee, W. Houston, of Toronto, and others took part.

After a song by Mrs. Lily Kleiser, the report of the Committee on Nominations was presented. The committee recommended the following gentlemen as officers of the association for the coming year: President, E. H. Cook of New York; secretary, R. W. Stevenson, Kansas; treasurer, J. M. Greenwood, Missouri; 1st vice president, W. R. Garrett, Texas; 2nd vice president, C. H. Clemmer, N. Dakota; 3rd vice president, T. A. Futrall, Ark.; 4th vice president, E. D. Lake, Penn. A board of directors was named, composed of Hon. W. T. Harris, for the United States, and one member from each State.

Then President Garrett introduced Miss Julia Tutwiler, of Lexington, Alabama. She delivered a thoughtful and an earnest plea for "A German Model School for Girls." The last affair of the session was the report of a special committee on Pedagogical Inquiries, prepared by Charles De Garmo of Bloomington, Illinois, signed by Profs. J. W. Stearns of Madison, Wisconsin and W. H. Payne of Nashville, Tennessee.

The various entertainments and pleasure trips and the lavish personal attention of the citizens to their Southern visitors have delighted them, and so enchanted have they become with Canada—Ian Dunlop says that at least two thousand of our American visitors have come to stay—at least for a while. They will take in all the best tourist trips, both east and west and return to Toronto in time to spend the last week of the Exhibition with us.

The proposal to start a Dominion Teachers Association is extremely popular and will certainly take root. The new organization will be developed to-day.

CHANCE OF ACQUITTAL IS GOOD.

From the office of the Clerk of the Process yesterday at Osgoode Hall Messrs. Shilton, Wallbridge & Stone issued a writ in the Chancery Division claiming again the City of Toronto an injunction to restrain the... their officers, officials, employees and agents from entering into any account with any person or persons, company or companies in regard to the disposal of the plant and franchise of the Toronto street railway. The writ contains no specific defendant besides the city, but the company principally aimed at is the Kiely Everett Co., whose tender for the plant, assets and franchise has been accepted by the Street Railway Committee of the City Council.

It is claimed that if the city advertised the sale of the franchise and assets more widely much more advantageous offers would be received, and that if the present proposed offer is accepted the city will be the loser by at least a million dollars.

A number of general charges of bribery against the aldermen who voted for the Kiely Everett tender are made but nothing specific is charged or alleged.

The array of generalities are summed up in an affidavit.

Five aldermen who voted against the extension of time for the receipt of tenders and recorded their votes directly in favor of the Kiely Everett tender are: Ald. Bell, Hall, Hewitt, Jolliffe, Leslie, Saunders, Scott, Smith and J. B. Varcoe.

As soon as the proceedings are far enough advanced, Messrs. Shilton, Wallbridge & Stone will move for the examination of the above named aldermen, and they will also put a man named B. Mohler in the witness box and examine upon what he has been doing in Toronto in this manner, so it is alleged upon affidavit, a series of actions will be established.

On account of the lack of any specific charge and the serious nature of the offences charged against the aforesaid aldermen voted for the Kiely-Everett tender, none of the allegations as at present made can be published. The rumours have been in circulation for some time, and the movers in the present case state that they have had a detective following up the parties against whom the direct charges will be made.

A clause referring to the operation of the railway by the corporation reads: "I am advised and verily believe that a large number of the electorate, if not a majority thereof, are in favor of the said rolling stock, plant and franchise being retained and operated by the corporation by and through the means of a commission."

THE ESPLANADE BY LAW CARRIED.

Yesterday there were enough votes in Toronto to go to the twenty-six polling places and record their votes to the tune of a majority in favor of the $300,000 Esplanade improvement by-law. Every person in the province who has ever visited Toronto will thus be glad that it now looks as if the long delayed question of public convenience and safety will be subserved and that the citizens may make use of Toronto's beautiful water front without danger to life. Among the improvements projected are overhead steel bridges and a grand union railway station on or near the present site. This will be welcome news the province over, inasmuch as everybody who visits Toronto uses the esplanade when over a visit to the Island is paid, or the waterfront visited south of Yonge, Bay and York streets. And thus a question which has been more or less discussed for years is on a fair way to settlement.

DELAY ASKED FOR.

The calculations prepared under the direction of the City Engineer estimated the profit of the street railway for 20 years at $16,-[illegible]500. Under the tender recommended for acceptance the city would receive $6,754,000 of these profits, and the contractors $10,257,500. It is only right that those operating the railway should secure a reasonable return from it over and above the fees paid themselves as directors, interest on their investment, etc. But it is not a fair division when the citizens who create the profits get only a little over one-third, while the syndicate, enjoying a public franchise, get away with the other two-thirds. Mr. S. H. Blake has sent out a manifesto strongly recommending delay in closing a bargain with any tenderer.

CENTRAL BANK ASSETS.

Tenders for the defunct Central Bank assets were opened by the Master at Osgoode Hall yesterday. There were various tenders in all, ten for separate assets aggregating about $2,500, and two en bloc one by Osler & Co. for $45,335 and the other by Jonathan A. Waldie $40,000. The latter stipulated, however, that they should receive all collections made by the liquidators since June 1st, and as these amount to about $6,000 Osler & Co.'s is slightly the best. The tenders were referred to the liquidators and committee of examination and they will report to the Master at two o'clock on Monday.

INTERESTING QUEEN CITY DOTS.

Arthur R. Olmstead, until lately the Grand Trunk agent at Swansea, appeared again in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of embezzling $1070 from the company while in its employ. The case was again adjourned for a week. Olmstead is still in custody, not having secured bondsmen.

Royal Canadian Yacht Club held its annual regatta yesterday, under the auspices of the Lake Yacht Racing Association. There were thirty-six yachts on the lake, and never before was there such a fine yacht scene on the waters of Ontario. The day was favorable for the regatta, and there was a fine sailing breeze on the lake. The wind was in a southwesterly direction.

The second day's play in the tournament of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association yesterday resulted in the following scoring. Second round, single: Matthews beat Heal from by 6-1, 6-3; Baldwin beat Kirkpatrick by 6-2, 6-3; Doubles—Cole and Rennick beat Boys and Chapin 4-6, 6-1, 6-2. Moreton was playing against Wood at luncheon, the score being 6-4 in Moreton's favor in the first set and 6-3 in favor of Wood in the second set.

Thomas Knowlton, the lad who was convicted before Magistrate Denison of having upset the till of Thomas Bond, 1026 Queen street west, was sentenced yesterday to the Central Prison for five months.

Mr. G. R. R. Cockburn, M. P. for Centre Toronto, was brought home from Ottawa on Tuesday night suffering from the effects of a sunstroke sustained on Monday last. He is suffering severely, and his physicians say that he will not be able to return to his parliamentary duties for some days.

GRAND LODGE OF ONTARIO.

Result of the Election of Masonic Officers.

TORONTO, July 17. The Grand Lodge of Ontario which opened the annual session on Wednesday resumed yesterday morning. The most important business was the election of officers which resulted as follows:

Grand Lodge of Ontario A. F. & A. M. The following officers were duly elected and afterwards installed with appropriate ceremonies:

A BRUTE OF A FATHER

Receives a Coat of Tar and Feathers for Cruelty to His Child.

BRAMPTON, Ont., July 17. A dose of tar and feathers was administered to "Billy" McDonald Tuesday night by the boys of the town, on account of his brutal treatment of his wife and child. It is understood that on going into the house he heard the infant crying, and not being able to quiet it, dropped a hot pancake on the child's face, burning it, and in all probability disfiguring it for life.

The Latest Niagara Victim.

BUFFALO, July 17.—The body taken from the whirlpool at Niagara Falls yesterday did not prove to be that of Mr. Sherman of Clifton Springs, as some had expected it would. It is that of a man about 60 years of age with very white hair and partially bald head. It has not been identified. The coat which the floater wore bears the label of "Max Amberg, clothier, Niagara Falls." The pockets were all turned inside out. The underclothing and footwear were of good quality, but unmarked.

Manchester Ship Canal.

MANCHESTER, July 17.—The first traffic flotilla to traverse the Manchester ship canal passed through to-night, sailing from Ellesmere to the Mersey. Henceforth the traffic in the canal will be permanent.

Hosmer and Ten Eyck.

WORCHESTER, Mass., July 17.—George Hosmer, yesterday deposited $100 to cover Ten Eyck's deposit for a race. Hosmer will either row here or Springfield, but prefers the former.

Practical Sympathy for a Cause.

BERLIN, July 17.—It is reported that Herr Singer, the socialist deputy, has despatched his great fortune to the Berlin [illegible] democrats reserving only a million marks.

Destructive Fire in Winchester.

WINCHESTER, Ont., July 17. A terrible fire yesterday destroyed the tannery owned by G. Henderson. Stock mostly destroyed. Loss $4500, insurance for $2000.

PARLIAMENTARY.

The Senecal Rumors Questioned in the House.

THE TARTE ENQUIRY.

Mr. Burgess in Defending Himself Admits That He Did Wrong but Says All Money Drawn was Earned—The Evidence Taken Before the Privileges and Elections Committee.

OTTAWA, July 17.—Unpleasant rumor have been flying around for the past few days regarding the absence from town of Mr. L. A. Senecal, superintendent of the Government Printing Bureau. The Public Accounts Committee has run through the expenditure of the Interior Department without disastrous results that other departments have become nervous. The expenditure incurred in running the printing bureau for which Mr. Senecal is responsible, has been enormous. It is said that the Opposition are anxious to have that expenditure overhauled, but this cannot be done in Mr. Senecal's absence. These rumors were on everybody's tongue yesterday. In fact, Mr. Laurier apparently thought enough of them to bring them before the attention of the House, but he did it so cleverly that it would seem to the casual observer as an afterthought.

When the orders of the day were called this afternoon Mr. Laurier asked when the correspondence regarding trade negotiations at Washington would be printed and distributed.

Sir John Thompson replied that it was being printed and would be distributed as soon as it was received from the bureau.

Mr. Laurier said he understood the Superintendent of the Printing Bureau was away. It must be very inconvenient to have him away at this period of the session. Was he away on leave of absence or not?

Sir John Thompson replied quickly that he was away on leave of absence, and that provision was made to carry on the work of the Bureau in his absence.

Mr. Laurier asked if the leave had been exceeded.

Sir John Thompson said that Mr. Senecal was granted leave of absence on a doctor's certificate.

The matter was pursued no further.

The debate on the budget was resumed by Mr. Ives, and continued by Mr. McMillan, Mr. Corby and Mr. Campbell.

Rory Maclennan moved the adjournment of the debate.

WHAT THE QUEEN'S PRINTER SAYS.

Col. Brown Chamberlain, Queen's Printer said yesterday "as far as I know the rumors concerning Mr. Senecal are utterly unfounded and absolute lies. He's away on sick leave and I expect him back to-day."

Mr. W. MacMahon, assistant Superintendent of the Printing Bureau said Mr. Senecal is absent partly on business and partly on sick leave. He may be expected back any day. He has not been well for some time and left partially to recruit and partially on business. I have had a letter from him stating that he will be back in a few days."

MR. BURGESS DEFENDS HIMSELF.

He Admits He Did Wrong but Says All Money Drawn Was Earned.

OTTAWA, July 17. At a meeting of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday there was a large attendance, it being a counter attraction and in fact a better local drawing card than the Tarte investigation, which was going on at the same time. Mr. Clark Wallace presided.

Mr. Turner was called, and was asked to go and see the books so as to ascertain when he commenced doing the work, and how many names he used in drawing the money. Mr. Douglas, the late assistant secretary of the department, asked Mr. Turner, so he said to change the name from his own to that of his wife. Mr. Douglas is now dead.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked the Auditor General if any permanent hands in his department were paid as was represented to the committee on the question.

Auditor General: No.

Mr. Rothwell, clerk of the Law Department, was next examined. He said that it was not the practice of the department to pay the clerks as it would appear by those persons who come before the committee, and who were in the habit of getting the checks and pocketing the money. As was shown by the evidence of one particularly, Mr. Nelson, as far back as 1886 permanent hands were paid for extra work. He Rothwell recommended the dismissal of the clerk, McCabe, as being incompetent, and afterwards he was put back to the department by Mr. McMaster, ex-M. P.

"I suppose Mr. Burgess yielded in a moment of weakness." (Laughter.)

Mr. McCabe, he said, who appeared before the committee, was interfered with by Nelson and almost terrorized, so as not to give straight evidence, and he Rothwell knew he McCabe did not tell all that he knew. As for his own part he would rather be Mr. Henry or even the dismissed Palmer, one thousand times over than any Frank Nelson or the others, who were pampered by the deputy and placed over the heads of far superior officials, and then come before that committee and swear they were taking money behind the deputy's back in such a questionable manner. Apart from these clerks, who called themselves important officials, there were some 50 or 60 clerks in the department with whom he was proud to be associated. He claimed that a clerk named Rowatt drew money in his mother's name, yet there was no evidence of work being done.

An extra clerk named Hodges who attended the first meeting of the aggrieved extra hands when they threatened to show up the Department and who was to be the one to write them up, next gate evidence and created considerable amusement when he said it was his intention to do so at that meeting, but on being taken back the day after he was sent away, and the matter fully explained to him, he saw everything was satisfactory.

The assistant secretary of the department Mr. L. Pereira, was the next witness. He was appointed first in 1885, and was getting $1800 per year, in addition to some as private secretary, yet he has not been doing the work of a secretary. In addition to this he drew since 1885 something over $2000 for traveling and other expenses. He also swore to having drawn money on cheques made out in Lizzie Evans' or his wife's name, and afterwards in the name of Eden Berry, there being no such person. He denied that he took money from one of the clerks to get a rise of salary for him, but admitted to having certified to an account for a clerk whose own chief refused to do so.

THE DEPUTY MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Department of the Interior, submitted a long written statement in explanation of the extra payments which have been made to permanent clerks there. He showed how greatly and rapidly the work of the Department had increased since 1881, when the C. P. R. started, in consequence of the development of the Northwest and the rebellion, and all this additional business was thrown on the staff almost simultaneously, and as there was no provision in the organization of the Department for conducting it, very great pressure of work existed in the offices of the secretary and the accountant. It became a question whether an effort should be made to overtake the work by the ordinary staff or whether the Government should be asked to devise some special means of meeting the exigency. The officers, especially the accountant and his assistant, protested strongly at various times that the pressure upon them was too great, to which my invariable answer was that the work must be done and that I would endeavor to find some means of remunerating the staff for their extra labor. He said the total amount paid from 1886 to 1890 to permanent clerks exclusive of the $2291 which Turner got for extra work, was only $1818.

In conclusion Mr. Burgess said "I have already frankly admitted that the payments complained of have been made in contravention of the provisions of the Civil Service Act, but I repeat that they have invariably been fitting, so far as I know, for substantial service really rendered and actually necessary in the interest of the business of the department. I desire to escape no portion of the responsibility which attaches to me in this relation. There is no doubt that the proper way to have obtained for the men who did the work the remuneration to which they were honestly entitled would have been to get a specific appropriation for that purpose. That method is adopted in the Post-office and Finance Departments, and I greatly regret that it was not adopted in the Interior Department.

"I would point out, however, that the work so provided for in both the departments mentioned occurs with perfect regularity at a fixed period of the year, that the cost can be very closely calculated in advance and the sanction of Parliament obtained so that the payments can be made when the service is rendered. The amounts paid out irregularly to the Department of the Interior have been mainly for work that could not have been anticipated, but of course the payments might and ought to have been delayed until parliamentary authority was obtained. I respectfully submit that the irregularity is one which does not involve my honor or my honesty."

THE LIST OF THE CRIPPLED GROWS.

In consequence of these disclosures, Mr. Pereira, Assistant Secretary of the Department of the Interior was suspended this afternoon thus adding one more to the list of killed and wounded.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

The Evidence Adduced at the Tarte Investigation Yesterday.

OTTAWA, July 17.—The only important evidence before the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday was that of Mr. Hector Verret, secretary treasurer of the Quebec Harbor Commission. He swore that a deposit of $25,000 in a certified check was required by the commission for the south wall contract. The firm of Larkin, Connelly & Co. made that deposit, and afterwards Owen E. Murphy came to the witness and asked for a return of the deposit of $25,000, offering to substitute it for the firm's check. Mr. Verret refused this, until Mr. Murphy could procure the consent of the commission to the substitution. Mr. Murphy said he did not like to ask the commission, but he afterwards brought a letter from Hon. Thomas McGreevy saying that he (McGreevy) saw no objection to substituting the checks for the deposit. Mr. Verret then made the substitution and placed Thomas McGreevy's letter with the firm's check in the commission's cash box. Thirteen months afterwards witness resigned his position on the commission and became auditor for the Government. He never saw Thomas McGreevy's letter again until he appeared before this committee. Then he was astounded to see that the word "no" was removed and the letter read that McGreevy had objection. He swore positively that the letter now shown to him was in the same handwriting and bore the same signature as the original letter from Mr. Thomas McGreevy. He repeated emphatically that the original letter contained the word "no." He also swore that Mr. Thomas McGreevy always used Sir Hector's name and said he spoke for Sir Hector in order to influence the commission to his view of affairs. Sir Hector seldom came to see the works, but when he did it was always in Thomas McGreevy's company.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCES

The Committee of the Commons Agree Upon a Bill.

OTTAWA, July 17.—A bill instituled "An act to secure the better observance of the Lord's Day" has been agreed upon by the Special Committee, to whom it was referred for consideration and report some weeks ago. The committee made extensive amendments to the original bill, as submitted to it, chiefly by striking out clauses considered too stringent in their provisions and not practicable in application to some of the provinces of Canada, with many of whose established customs it would interfere. The amended bill reported for committee prohibits work and traffic on Sunday as follows:

The printing, publication and sale of any newspaper, provided, however, that necessary office work may be performed after 9 o'clock in the evening of the Lord's Day for the purpose of facilitating the publication of the Monday morning issue of any daily newspaper.

The opening of any of the canals in Canada to traffic or business from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Sunday, but the provision may be suspended in any year by order in council after Oct. 15.

No railway train is to be loaded at any railway station, or empty cars moved from one station to another, nor any freight train permitted to start from any railway station in Canada on Sunday except such are made up of live stock or perishable freight, and where the despatching of trains to relieve sufferers by accident or fire is deemed necessary, but through passenger trains each day with their necessary connections shall be permitted on any trunk line in Canada, but merely local passenger trains are prohibited.

A Grenadier Saw's Victim.

WATERFORD, July 17. John Chambers, employed in Messrs. Capel & Hauser's broom handle factory, Elmwood, was struck in the stomach by a piece of board thrown by the circular saw and died from the effects.

A Fatal Derrick.

WINNIPEG, July 17.—Robert Ward of Wardsville, Ont., brother of Mrs. Captain Douglas, Winnipeg, was killed with a man named Clyde in Spuzzum by the giving way of a derrick, which struck them.

Investigating a Jailer's Conduct.

SARNIA, July 17. The original charges against Mr. Samuel Allen, the jailer, were regarded by the Ontario Government as too vague and indefinite to be investigated. Amended charges have been formulated of sufficient definiteness as to justify the Government in ordering an investigation, and Mr. John Winchester, of the Attorney-General's department, has been appointed a commissioner in that behalf, who will at once commence to hear evidence.

A Red River Soldier Drowned.

WINNIPEG, July 17.—Corporal Sowter of the 90th Battalion, Winnipeg, and formerly of Toronto was drowned in the Red River while bathing near the camp in disobedience of orders. Corp. Harrison who accompanied him, is under arrest. It is supposed that Sowter received a sunstroke, from the effects of which he sank. He was highly connected and was formerly a member of the Queen's Own. The body was recovered.

A Paris Boy Drowned.

PARIS, Ont., July 17.—Last evening Norman Reynolds, aged 6, son of John Reynolds of this town, in company with his older brother, was sent after the cows, and to reach them it was necessary for the children to ford Smith's Creek. While attempting to cross the stream, Norman was carried off his feet and washed down the stream into a deep hole and drowned in sight of his brother, who was on the bank.

Drowned in Ross Pond.

EMBRO, Ont., July 17.—Samuel Leah and Alexander Douglas were out on the Ross Pond having a spin in a small skiff, when owing to a leak the boat rapidly filled and sank. Leah, owing to fright, sank and never came to the surface. Douglas was rescued by a gentleman who was passing. Leah's body was recovered.

Suicided Because His Son was Bad.

ACTON, ONT., July 17.—William English, 55 years of age, was found dead in a well on the farm occupied by his brother-in-law, Paul Dynes. He is supposed to have committed suicide through distress of mind from the bad conduct of his son.

A Serious Runaway.

BELLEVILLE, July 17.—A horse driven by Mrs. W. R. Dempsey of Albany, Ameliasburg, ran away yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Dempsey was thrown out and received such severe injuries on the head that her recovery is doubtful.

The Great Educational Convention.

The Reception to Twelve Thousand Teachers in Toronto Speeches by Rev. Principal Grant and Hon. G. W. Ross.

At the grand welcome meeting of the teachers from all parts of the continent held in Toronto on Tuesday night, among the addresses delivered those of Rev. Principal Grant and Hon. G. W. Ross which will be read with interest:—

DR. GRANT inaugurated the series of welcoming addresses in a well-timed and witty speech, which was interrupted at frequent intervals with laughter and applause. He addressed the delegates as "Comrades in the teaching profession of the United States," and remarked that the predominating sentiment which must prevade an assembly of such a nature was one of brotherly love and good fellowship. (Applause.) They were here, most of them, for a holiday, and when cousins meet at a picnic their feelings are akin to laughter and jollity. He had intended to prepare a whole lot of statistics about Canada, her marvellous resources, etc., but then he reflected upon the fact that they themselves had been doing nothing else for six weeks past, and so he put his statistics on the shelf. He trusted they had discovered that Canada was a big country, if not, the people of Toronto would soon make them think that this city was the bigger half of the Dominion—(laughter)—but it wasn't. (Renewed laughter.) The good people of Toronto were something like the Sick family, who were the smartest family in their village, the sweetest spot in Connecticut, a State which outshone every other State in the Union, comprising a republic which had wolloped Great Britain and Great Britain had wolloped creation. (Loud laughter.

"But remember, comrades," continued Dr. Grant, "we are only a baby nation at present, and some even would deny that we are a nation at all, still we have all the privileges of a nation except that of contributing to the Imperial taxes and to the support of a high pension list. (Hear, hear.) You got the start of us, so no wonder you are bigger. Think what you were at that start. Thirteen a urdy colonies inhabited by the descendants of the best British stock—(applause)—disciplined by a century of strife with the savage Indians and French invaders. At that time there were no civilized beings in Canada, save 60,000 or 70,000 French inhabitants along the coast. These were the first comers, so no wonder the French-Canadian predominates to-day, especially in the Departments of Public Works and Railways. (Laughter.) I think you will take kindly to us, for we, like yourselves, delight to wash our dirty linen in public, and the dirtier it is the better we like it. We remember your fervid denunciations of the Tammany Hall gang, and now we understand it. We do not think that you can doubt the sincerity of your welcome for our Parliament did what your Congress never would do for us, it worked on our national holiday, Dominion Day, and adjourned on the glorious Fourth. This must have been in your honor. At least if it wasn't, nobody knows what it was for. (Hear, hear.)

FOR THE UNIVERSITIES ALSO.

The reverend doctor continued by saying that he was deputed to welcome the delegates not only on behalf of the Dominion as a whole but on behalf of the universities. Carlyle had said that a university was but a school, and the schools and universities were united in the one grand and noble work. Twenty years before the revolutionary war John Adams taught school, and when he was an old man he said he owed more to his school training and discipline than to all else combined. "Magnify your profession, brother teachers, it is magnificent, a grand vocation."

"Your welcome," added Dr. Grant, "is not merely Canadian but British. We are an integral part of that glorious empire, we are British and British we intend to remain. (Applause.) You Americans have given us the most splendid example of loyalty and patriotism recorded in history and we, too, accept the words and sentiment of your own writer who said we follow no flag, we march with no party which does not march in time to the terms of the union (Applause.) We blend the flags of the two nations around these walls, we are not ashamed to hoist it over our public buildings for next to our own we love it the best. But ever remember this, comrades and brothers, your share in our flag is greater than your share in your own—think too what that flag means to us and you will wonder at our loyalty to it. It represents to us the everlasting principles of light, life and love, justice for all, peace by land and by sea, and it has heralded the proclamation of the gospel of Christ the world over. Oh! kinsmen, blend those flags. (Cheers) Count those men traitors who seek to raise artificial trouble between us, who uphold and teach the scandalous doctrine of raising up trade barriers between two nations of brothers and who put obstacles in the way of the fullest and truest brotherly intercourse. (Loud applause.)

The Minister of Education.

The Hon G. W. Ross, after a humourous reference to a visit, not altogether friendly, which Americans made to Toronto early in the present century, contrasted that visit with the present one, when representatives of the two nations stood on a common platform, with the flags of the two nations intertwined, repeating together the invocation to their Heavenly Father to protect them, and illustrated how good and how pleasant a thing it was for brethren to dwell together in unity. It was very pleasant for him to extend to the American visitors a word of welcome. Ontario owed a great deal to the United States in respect to education. Fifty years ago when the founder of the Ontario system, Dr. Ryerson, was arranging that system, he inquired into the educational institutions of some European nations and of the various States of the Union, and the system of the United States, and especially New England, and still more especially of Massachusetts, was, in the opinion of Dr. Ryerson best adapted to the wants of the people of Ontario, best suited to the spirit of their institutions, and to many of the features of that system we copied in Ontario, and to day there is much to common between the educational institutions of two peoples having to a certain extent the same democratic aspirations. There are free schools in Ontario; there are free schools also in the United States. And much, still this Minister, as I admire the great commercial resources of the United States; much as I admire the noble contributions of America to art, science and literature; much as I admire the achievements of the statesmen who guided the Republic through the struggles of its birth and the perils, perils the still greater perils, of recent times; much, I say, as I admire all these things, there is nothing in the history of that great people that I appreciate so highly as the fact that from ocean to ocean, from northern to south rn boundary, they have laid it down as a cardinal principle of American institutions that, side by side with the ballot box must be planted the free school—(applause)—in order that it is right of the citizen may be backed by the intelligence of the citizen. That principle we admire and appreciate. We are glad to know that there, as here, the child of the humblest citizen in the land, as well as he who comes from the palace of the millionaire, has the same right to a common English education. We welcome our American citizens as pioneers in some respects, as exponents in all respects of the higher civilization which is represented by free Public Schools, by free High Schools, and, what is of equal importance to our nationality, by universities practically free. We welcome you as teachers, as the architects of a nation's prosperity, as the strongest factors in the civilization of our constitutionally-governed people, as teachers in the Public Schools, in the High Schools, and in the universities of the country. We welcome you as the architects of a nation's fortunes. A great writer has said, "Let me make the songs of a nation and I care not who makes its laws." It may be said with equal truth, let us make the teachers of a nation and we can defy despotism or any other evil influence to destroy the peace or check the prosperity of a people. We welcome you as nation-builders, as those who lay broad and deep the foundations of a nation's liberty. Let the teacher be pure, let him be high-minded, let him be progressive, and he will see such a transmutation as has never been dreamed of, as statesmen never attained. The teacher is an alchemist by whose magic the humblest may become fitted to be the preachers, the teachers, the orators, the rulers of a great nation. We welcome you as the pioneers of a higher civilization. We trust that your intercourse with our citizens will be pleasant and profitable, and that when the time comes to part you may carry to your American homes, to that land in which we have so many ties of kindred and in whose prosperity we rejoice, a disposition to bind together more closely the bonds of friendship between the two countries. (Applause.) Finally I would repeat to you the words of Shakespeare, "Let all the ends thou aimest at be thy country's, God's and truth's. Cultivate patriotism and love for any honest flag that waves above you. Cultivate love to the Great Father that made you all; and in your intercourse with the world, illustrate the importance of sincerity, honesty and frankness, of all those qualities which make good citizens, so that all those who pass from your care may aid in the progress and reflect glory upon the name of the great Anglo-Saxon race. (Loud applause.)

When Playing Cards Were First Used.

The French are believed to be the first people in Europe to use playing cards, and, as first made, cards were supposed to represent the different classes of persons in the kingdom. The hearts were the "choir-men," or ecclesiastics, and early cards of this suit have a cope which, in form, somewhat resembles a heart. The figure by us called a spade was originally a pike head, and typified the nobility and soldiery; the artisans were represented by a stone tile, now known as diamond, while the farmers were symbolized by the trefoil or clover leaf, by us called a club. The four kings were originally David, Alexander, Cæsar and Charlemagne, representing the four great monarchies, while the queens were Argine, Esther, Judith and Pallas, typical of birth, piety, fortitude and wisdom. Argine being an anagram of Regina. The knaves were either knights or servants to knights, but which is uncertain; though the former conjecture is the more probable, from the fact that on cards of an early date appear the names of famous knights. The French cards of the present day retain the names already mentioned of the kings and queens.

An English Town in Canada.

The social customs of Halifax are thoroughly English. Here formal calls are always made in the afternoon, and one can hardly spend an afternoon calling without encountering on the steps or in the drawing-rooms of the great square mansions of South Park or of Morris or South streets handsome military men, in plain clothes or in uniform, perhaps with their breasts covered with decorations, who are also paying their respects to the civilians' wives and daughters. Many of these officers keep drags and dog-carts, but the city is so small that it is very possible to perform one's social duties on foot. A ball or a wedding in Halifax has always the same flavor that a similar event would have in London. Weddings take place usually at high noon, and when the bride moves up the aisle she does it not with slow funeral tread, but with a step more befitting the occasion. At weddings appear all the choice old silks, rare point-laces, and rich Cashmere crape shawls that are hoed away in the special wood presses of the town.—Harper's Bazar.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily from such diverse and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. F. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

"Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken all with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, St., Woodland, Texas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance the latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig. June 27th, 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Glynn, Wilfred, Ont. dw

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

Making a pleasure of a duty.

The end of a long rake—a home run.

The light of the world is of no interest to the man who has not a good liver.

A millionaire's bills should be made out on plain-z, cream-laid paper, not blue-tinted or water-marked.

She—"His marriage mercenary? Why, the girl had little or nothing." He—"Yes, but he owed her father."

"Did you go to church this morning?" "O, yes, I was there." "What was the text?" "Four to nothing."

Its Occupation Gone.—She—"Why does this wind sigh so sadly?" He—"Talmage has shaved off his whiskers."

"These very tight dresses the women wear remind me of that old theatrical sign." "Which?" "Standing Room Only."

"Is there an art in drinking wine?" asks a Western contemporary. There is, but there is a greater art in getting over drinking wine the next morning.

"What is the first step Mr. Snake is learning to paint the town?" "A course of sewing, sir." "Correct, and what do we draw?" "Corks, sir."

Mrs. Bellup—"I understand your daughter's marriage was a brilliant one." Mrs. Frocco—"Delightful. She got a divorce within two years and alimony of $50,000 a year."

"The monkeys," said Chappie in the park, "remind me of my bo-hoy-hood days." "There's a faint resemblance yet," said Maude, gazing first at Chappie and then at the monkey.

Where to go this summer is not nearly so important as how to get a $10 a week board-ing house near enough to a 5-day hotel to enable you to utilize a new paper and envelopes.

Amateur Artist—"I should like to present the last picture I painted to some charitable institution, now, who do you would you recommend?" Cruel Lady Friend—"The blind Asylum."

Deacon Skimmem—"My dear friend, I grieve to find you so worldly minded. Why don't you come to church with me?" Mr. Packwell—"Because it worries me to see half-starved ministers."

DON'T WANT ANOTHER.

Where are you going, my pretty maid?
To milk my brindle cow, she said.
Why can't I go, my pretty maid?
The cow has got a calf, she said.

Bride—just after the wedding—"Alfred you promised to give me a grand surprise after we were married, say, what is it?" Bridegroom (a widower)—"I've got six children, my pet!"

"This dress shows my figure admirably," she remarked as she twisted her head to look in the mirror behind her. "Yes," replied her husband, "and the check it calls for does the same for me."

There are no flies on your papa, remarked a gray haired widower to his lively and lovely daughter. "Yes, papa," she responded softly as her pretty fingers tangled in his silver locks, "there are some flies."

Ambitious youth—"Do you know of any way by which young writers like myself can make money in literature?" Magazine editor—"I'm—there is one." "I am delighted to hear that. What would you advise?" "Keep a news stand."

Minnie—"Poor fellow—I hated to refuse him, but it was impossible to do otherwise. And then he went away and got awfully intoxicated." Mamma—"I wonder why it is that a man always thinks drinking a necessary part of a celebration?"

Sumatra monkeys are selling at $1,000 apiece. Very few of the monkey's human descendants will fetch anything like that figure. This must be a sad reflection to our simian ancestor as he looks down with grief and despondency upon his posterity.

A Young Diplomat.

Dora—O Dolph! I'm going to tell ma!
Dolph from interior of the closet—Better not tell her till I give you half this cake.

Valuable Experience.

Have you an opening on your staff, sir?" asked a man as he entered an editor's office.

What department would you like to work in?"

"I think I could make a great success of the 'Answers to Correspondents.'"

Have you ever conducted such a department?"

"No, sir."

Then on what do you base your belief that you could do that sort of work?"

"I have spent several months in answering the questions of a four year old boy."

"I think you'll do." Harper's Bazar

It Led to Economy.

Mamie's father had been planning to take the family to the seashore for the first season. He had been getting some imitation into the details as to wardrobe, and was heard to remark

"I wish I hadn't said so much about beach!"

"Why?" inquired his wife.

"Because I'm afraid it's been leadin' the gal to some leetle extremes in economy in her bathin' suit and ball-room dresses."

A Check of Another Sort.

Chizner—"I hear that Miss Rox's papa gave her a check for $10,000 when she was married last week."

Codling—"Speaking of wedding checks, I received one myself last night."

Chizner—"Indeed!"

Codling—"Yes; I asked Miss Scadds to marry me, and she said no."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

To Be Taken With a Grain of Salt.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The Herald publishes the following airy despatch from its London correspondent:—The story that Lord Randolph Churchill is about to sue for a divorce, naming the Duke of Clarence and Avondale as co-respondent, is pronounced a pure fabrication. Lord Randolph is in Africa, and will not return here for six months at least. The story probably gained its origin in the fact that three years ago, the Duke, who was then Prince Albert Victor, became enamoured of Lady Randolph, but she sensibly sent him about his business, and laughed him out of his calf-love. Since then he has devoted his attention almost entirely to young unmarried ladies, and has behaved himself remarkably well.

It is reported that a marriage will take place between the Earl of Dudley and Miss Rachel Gurney. The bride-elect is a cousin of the Duchess of Bedford. Lord Dudley is 24 years old, very wealthy, and is well-known in racing circles.

A fire in the West Stanley colliery at Consett, near Durham, wrecked the pit head and destroyed most of the machinery. The loss will exceed $300,000. Five hundred men are thrown out of work.

The heavy and incessant rains which have been prevailing in Australia for some time past have caused a serious overflow in the Yarra-Yarra River. The streets of Melbourne have been inundated by the overflow, which has not been equalled since 1863.

The club special train running between Calais and Paris came into collision with an express train from Lille. Two passengers and the conductor and a brakeman of the express were seriously hurt. Ten other passengers were extricated from the debris of the wrecked train, all suffering from shock and contusion. Madame Regnier, one of the Lille passengers who was among those who were most seriously injured, has died in the hospital. The signal man admits he omitted to signal the club train to stop, as he had become confused at the number of trains running in and out of the depot.

Fatally Maimed.

DUNNVILLE, Ont., July 14.—Owen Fathers, sr., a wealthy farmer of South Cayuga, had his foot cut off by a mower and is very low.

The Raft Arrives.

LONG ISLAND CITY, July 11—The Leary raft of logs arrived in Newton Creek this afternoon in three sections. The raft left St. John, N.B., June 25 in tow. The raft is the largest ever built by James Murray. It was 600 feet long, from the tugs to the end of the raft. It contains about 3,240,000 feet of lumber.

Drowned in a Water Barrel.

LINDSAY, July 10.—The 2-year-old son of Denis Callaghan of Ops was drowned in a water barrel. How the sad accident occurred is not known, as the mother of the little fellow on going out of the house found him on his head in the barrel, life being extinct.

Not the Right Word.

"No," said Bertha sadly, "'pain' doesn't express what I suffer at these times—it is simply 'anguish.' I know I ought to consult a physician, but I dread to do so. I can't bring myself to do it. Then, too, 'female diseases' always seemed so indelicate to me, I can't bear to have any one know or speak of mine."

"Yes, dear," answered Edith, "but don't you know you can be cured without going to a physician? Send to any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and take it, and I warrant you'll feel better in a very few days."

The manufacturers warrant the medicine, too. They guarantee it to do exactly what it claims, viz.: to cure leucorrhœa, painful irregularities, excessive flowing, prolapsus, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, and the innumerable other "female weaknesses." It so strengthens and builds up the uterine system, and nerves, that worn-out, run-down wives and mothers feel rejuvenated after taking it, and they are saved the painful embarrassment and expense of a surgical examination and a tedious, tiresome treatment. b

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete Body Battery. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to brag proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough.

Terrible Results of a Bee Sting.

A gentleman in the north part of the town last week was resting his bare foot on the window sill of his bedroom, when suddenly he felt a sharp pain and brushed off a honey bee and extracted the sting from his foot, which began to swell to an enormous size. Strange to say the swelling still continues though there is no soreness in the enormously enlarged foot. As his business requires him to be abroad he has been compelled to send to Lindsay for a girl's shoe to wear on it, but his wife still buys her tea at hawley bros.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Gored by a Bull.

A Woman in Seymour in Terribly Injured by an Enraged Brute.

Mrs. Chas. Watson, an elderly woman who resides in the Petherick neighborhood, a few miles east of Campbellford, is the victim of terrible injuries, which may make her a cripple for life. On Thursday morning last while she was milking in an enclosure where a bull was allowed to run loose with the other cattle, she was attacked by the animal and was unable to escape. She tried to drive him off, but instead of being driven away, he rushed at her with head lowered, and caught her with his horn just below the jaw bone. Passing over this the horn entered the flesh of the cheek and tore it open to the eye, broke the cheek bone in two places, grazed the forehead and top of her head, and turning down to the side of the head, tore through the lower part of the ear. While this was going on Mrs. Watson fell, and by some means her leg was broken between the knee and ankle, and her ankle joint was dislocated, the bone having been forced through the flesh. No one was near the unfortunate woman at the time of the occurrence. Drs. Bogart and Loucks were called, and they set the broken limb, attended to the dislocation and sewed up the torn cheek. Mrs. Watson's eye, over which the horn passed, was fortunately uninjured. The injuries were at first supposed to be of a fatal character, but the attending physicians are now certain of her recovery although they think she may be a cripple for life.

C. P. R. Excursion Lacrosse.

The local lacrosse club is making arrangements for a match here on Friday next, July 24th, the day of the great C.P.R. Picnic. In case the Athletics cannot not come arrangements will likely be made with some other Toronto club for a match here on that day.

School Board Matters.

There was a meeting of the Committee on Appointments of the Board of Education held last night. Matters of the internal economy of the schools were discussed, and the business done will be contained in the report of the committee presented at the next meeting of the board.

The Annual Collogue of the Canoeists.

To-day is the opening day of the annual meet of the Northern Division of the A.C.A. From Peterborough the departures this morning were Col. Cotter of the Royal Military College, Kingston, commodore; Major Edwards, ex-commodore, and Mr. G. W. Hatton member of the executive committee.

There's money in it for every workingman. d14-19

A Civic Holiday Trip.

Court Little John Foresters announce their annual excursion, per C.P.R. and boats, from Peterborough to Toronto and across the lake to Niagara and Buffalo, on the civic holiday in August. Those who have taken this delightful trip will have to go again, and those who have not done so should go now. Tickets will hold good for the extreme limit of time allowed any excursion. Hold yourself in readiness to take this the best, most enjoyable and finest trip of the season. Further announcements will be made. d-14 14

The C. P. R. Excursion.

The great annual event will bring excursionists to town from every part of Central Ontario, and it will become necessary not only to give our guests that day a warm welcome but show them the town in its best guise. It is to be hoped that the authorities will have the streets in their charge presentable, that merchants will make their establishments as attractive as possible, and that private citizens will also put their premises in order for the visitors. Making the town tidy is a mere matter of ornament, but giving citizens a good impression of it, presents possibly solid future advantages.

George Street Methodist Sunday School Pic nic.

Beautiful weather and the delights of the trip and the esprit du corps of the school attracted a large company upon the excursion of the George street Methodist church to Chemong on Thursday. There was the usual run of enjoyment at the park—feasting, boating, fishing and informal sports and games for the children. The excursion was excellently managed by the officials and was productive of the maximum of enjoyment to all who joined the excursion. Chemong is the Mecca of Sunday school excursions this year. Almost every school within a radius of thirty miles has selected that charming spot as the objective point of their annual excursions.

A Fire Nipped in the Bud.

This morning Mr. Newton, of George street, saw indications of a fire in the third story of the Cox block. Policemen Stewart, who was on duty, was informed of the fire, and ascending found that the incipient blaze was in one of the rooms of the Catholic Club. He broke open the door, and Mr. Newton bringing water in pails, the fire which had just got start d, was easily extinguished. The fire had evidently started at the junction of the floor with the base board, close beside the door. The discoverers of the fire attribute it to a car lady dropping lighted cigar stub. The fortunate discovery of the incipient blaze prevented what would possibly have been a serious conflagration.

A Serious Accident.

Yesterday Mr. D. W. Dumble, Mrs Dumble, Mr. Frank Dumble and Mr. A. Clegg were driving to Chemong to join the George street Methodist Sunday school picnic. They were seated in a livery rig, Mrs. Dumble and Mr. Clegg occupying the rear seat, and Mr. D. W. Dumble and Mr. Frank Dumble occupying the front seat. About midway to Chemong they were descending a hill at a pretty fair pace when one end of the shafts broke from the horse. The occupants of the front seat, seeing this both jumped clear of the vehicle; the others could not do so readily, and suddenly the other shaft parted and the horse ran away. The buggy, thus left without control, made a turn to one side and collapsed. Mrs. Dumble was thrown out and suffered painful bruises and a serious sprain of one arm. Mr. Clegg had a more exciting experience. The force and nature of the collapse caused him to take a header through the top of the phaeton, being shot through the leather, and in his passage receiving sundry facial scratches and in alighting a bad sprain of the leg. Assistance was procured and the injured persons brought to town. Neither Mrs. Dumble nor Mr. Clegg are able to be abroad to-day. The injuries though painful are not thought to be serious. Under the circumstances it is a wonder and a mercy that some of the party was not killed or at the best very seriously injured.

Personal.

Miss Callanans and Master Dan Callanans are visiting friends in Hamilton.

Miss Nellie Wrighten has resigned her position as organist of St. Andrew's church.

Mrs. R. Shortly, Miss Shortly and Miss Hansford went to Stony Lake this morning to spend the summer at Mr. Shortly's cottage.

Cold, cough, coffin is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

Sir John's Will.

(From the Globe of July 17th.)

Elsewhere will be found a copy of Sir John Macdonald's will. There is a clause in it which has been suppressed in the versions of the will given to the public by his friends, that, namely, in which he bequeaths "any shares in the capital stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway whereof I may possessed and whether standing in my own name or that of any other person for my benefit." His executors, as provided by law, have sworn to the nature and amount of his property, giving, it is said, the following inventory:—

Mortgage	$ 7,200
Life assurance	15,000

It is obvious that his Canadian Pacific holding, which may or may not be included in this list, cannot have formed part of the proceeds of the testimonial presented to Lady Macdonald and invested in her name twenty years ago, for in that event Sir John would not have been able to dispose of it by his will. Would it not be well for the executors to clear up the matter and explain why they have concealed the existence of this property from the knowledge of the public? In such a case they cannot be too explicit. We are not suggesting that the deceased acquired the stock in question by wrongful means, but simply asking for light upon the subject which admirers must wish to see illuminated to the fullest extent. In any event it is satisfactory to learn that Sir John was not so poor as he sometimes, for rhetorical effect, represented himself to be. In this country a man who has $85,000 raised away, exclusive of a life policy for $15,000 and a gift of $80,000 belonging to his wife, and who has his official salary and his fees as an insurance chairman besides, is usually regarded as very comfortably off.

If you are in doubt ask some friend that has used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil about the beneficial results. dw

On the Diamond.

A baseball match between the Excelsiors of Toronto and the Peterborough club will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon. Game will be called at 2:30 sharp. The home team has been strengthened and will be able to put up a good game with the visitors.

Port Hope's Dominion Day.

Our lakeside neighbors are so much behind the times they celebrate Dominion Day on July 22nd—next Wednesday. But they will "get there all the same." The splendid programme spoiled by rain on the 1st will be carried out to the letter next Wednesday. Lacrosse match, bicycle races, baseball tournament, and athletic sports, and a splendid programme of race-s (some flyers entered) will form the attractions. Railway rates that day less than single fare.

News Nuggets.

—A meeting of the committee appointed to deal with the street railway matter was held last night for the purpose of arranging terms and conditions for submission to the two companies.

DIED.

IRWIN—At Harvey, on Tuesday the 7th of July, 1891, Mary, second daughter of Mr. Allan Irwin, aged 8 years and 9 months.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday school teacher of her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," answered a little girl, whose sick mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

A Mohammedan at Worship.

I know of no religious spectacle more impressive than that of a barefooted Turk standing erect on his prayer rug with his face toward Mecca and looking straight into the eyes of his God. It is not a duty with him, nor a formality, nor the maintenence of a time-honored custom. It is his very life. Watch him as he enters this wretched interior of Bania-basile, with its soaling and crumbling walls, and its broken windows, through which the doves fly in and out. Outside, at the trickling fountain, he has washed his feet and face and hands bathing his throat and smoothing his beard with his wet fingers. He is a rough, broad-shouldered, poorly-clad man in fez and skirt, his waist girt with a wide sash, ragged and torn. He is perhaps a "hammal," a man who carries great weights on his back—a human beast of burden. His load, whatever it may be, is outside in the court. His hourly task is his daily bread, but he has heard the shrill cry from the minaret up against the sky, and stops instantly to obey.

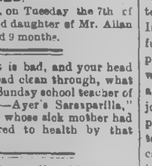
He enters the sacred building with his shoes in his hands. These he leaves at the edge of the mat. Now he is on holy ground. Advancing slowly, he halts half way across the floor and then stands erect. Before him is a blank wall; beyond it the tomb of the prophet. For a moment he is perfectly still, his eyes closed, his lips motionless. It is as if he stood in the ante-chamber of Heaven awaiting recognition. Then his face lights up. He has been seen. The next instant he is on his knees, and stretching out his hands prostrates himself, his forehead pressed to the floor. This solitary service continues for an hour. The man stands erect one moment with a movement as if he said: "Command me, I am here!" The next moment he is prostrate in obedience. Then he backs slowly out and, noiseless, regains his shoes, bends his back to his burden and keeps on his way, his face having lost all its tired, hunted look.

The Progress of Evolution.

The process and progress of evolution everywhere seems to be yielding practical results, illustrative of the adage that "wonders will never cease." The point seems elucidated by the bald-headed facts practically demonstrated by a Pennsylvania physician. He has succeeded, by his own recently discovered process of skin grafting, in producing luxuriant healthy growth of hair upon bare, sterile, and even polished scalps. He can transplant the Afro-kinks or the long wavy Andalusian or Circassian tresses from a vigorous, healthy head to a fur-denuded skull, the aforetime red-headed man can have a transplant of raven black or deep brown; the octogenarian if in good vital condition may cultivate on his barren sconce a vigorous hirsute growth of any desired hue. In fact the doctor claims to be able to transplant the fur of animals. Thus there may be no end to the production of numerous new varieties of living curiosities, such as human heads growing skye-terrier and Newfoundland dog fur, lambs' wool, white and black bear fur, and mayhap horse hair, even from caudal appendages. Truly, wonders will never cease, especially in hair culture.

A Young and Rising Author.

James M. Barrie, who, with Rudyard Kipling, shares the attention of the British and American reading public, is, like Kipling, a young man. Mr. Barrie has only reached his thirtieth year, and yet he has written books that the severest critics unite in praising. He is a Scotchman and was born in Kirriemuir, immortalized by him as Thrums. He was educated at the University of Edinburgh, where he walked off with the prizes for English literature and the degree of M.A. There is a good deal of Scotch dialect in most of his stories, but in "My Lady Nicotine" there is none, and that seems to be the favorite in this country—with women as well as men, though it is an idyll of smoke.



JAMES M. BARRIE.

The Tomato.

The tomato is a native of South America. It was known in England as early as 1596, but its introduction into North America is credited to the French families who were exiled by the revolution of San Domingo and settled in the eastern part of the United States.

[The above list for which we are indebted to the columns of the Review, should have been furnished the EXAMINER in time for insertion in the current weekly issue. That it was not so furnished is due to the favouritism of the county inspector of public schools, Mr. J. Coyle Brown. This is not the first time this gentleman has tried to vent his spite, in such a manner, on the EXAMINER. Our constituency of readers embraces hundreds who, as ratepayers, have a right to such information from an official whose salary they pay; just as good a right as the readers of a favoured contemporary. Because Mr. J. Coyle Brown has a private grudge against the EXAMINER, which has seen fit in the protection of the public interests to criticise the Inspector's manner of discharging his official functions, he is not justified in indulging his personal spleen at the expense of ratepayers whose servant he is. The EXAMINER can afford to overlook the slight put upon it as a journal, but it cannot overlook the slight put upon its readers, and it will feel it a duty to enquire at the next session of the county council, by what right Inspector Brown refuses to the ratepayers of the county as represented by the readers of the EXAMINER, information which he is by them paid, and in duty bound, to furnish.—ED EXAMINER

Campbellford Chronicles.

The Herald supplies the following paragraphs:—

On Friday last Mr. W. Whitton shipped from the Campbellford railway station two carloads of fat sheep to Mr. C. M. Acker, of Montreal, for the English market, and on Tuesday he sent off a carload of cattle and hogs. There has been a large business done in the shipment of cattle purchased in this locality this year.

There was no meeting of the dairymen of Seymour yesterday, all June cheese having been sold and delivered on Friday last. The great bulk of what was offered was purchased by Mr. J. T. Warrington, of Belleville, while Mr. Cluxton, of Peterborough, secured the product of two factories, Prince of Wales and another. The total sales ran up in the neighborhood of twelve hundred boxes.

One of the leading farmers of Seymour made the remark on Monday last that the crops would be much better than was anticipated. He says he never saw oats looking better, and peas are giving promise of a bountiful yield. Barley is fair, but not as good as the crop of former years. Fall wheat will turn out well, except, of course, in places which have been winter-killed. A quantity has already been cut. Hay will be a light crop. Altogether there is promise of plenty, and only the ungrateful will be found to wail about the harvest soon to be reaped in Seymour township.

Tellfordian Temperature Topics

PETERBOROUGH, July 15th.

On Sunday, the 12th at sunrise, the thermometer indicated 60°, at 12 up to 80°, at 2 to 85°, at 3 to 88°, and at 7 to 78°.

Throughout Monday the heat continued the same, there being no variation of temperature at the given hours, with good amount of thunder and lightning at night but no rain, but on Tuesday we got a welcome downpour, nearly one inch of water falling. It is now cool and comfortable.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 11 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system. I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

SPURGEON MAY DIE ANY MOMENT.

The Eminent Divine Has Few Hours to Live—His Remarkable Vitality.

LONDON, July 17.—Mr. Spurgeon still lingers. His physicians regard the prolongation of his life under the circumstances as marvelous. Nothing but an extraordinary constitution could have withstood such attacks as those of last night, when death was momentarily expected. His congregation ascribe his vitality to the efficacy of prayer. The Tabernacle is thrown open all day and prayer meetings are continually going on. The patient suffers too much pain, or in the intervals is too much under the influence of anodynes to be conscious of the efforts made to save him. To-day paroxysms of pain and fits of delirium succeed each other and the end may come at any moment.

She Can Hit the Bull's Eye.

LONDON, July 17.—The chief feature of the Bisley Rifle meeting has been the shooting of Miss Leale, the only lady who is a member of the National Rifle Association. Miss Leale was contesting yesterday for the Grisplac cup. The first-class shooting of Miss Leale excited the admiration of the best marksmen. At 500 yards (seven shots) Miss Leale adopted the prone posture. Her sighting shot made in order to judge what allowance should be made for the wind, counted four. Miss Leale's first shot towards the aggregate was a bull's eye. This was quickly followed by two others. Miss Leale then made a "magpie" and an "outer," finishing her score with two bull's eyes, making a total score of 32 out of a possible 35.

Right Hon. W. H. Smith to Retire.

LONDON, July 17.—The absence from the House of Commons of Right Hon. William Henry Smith, the well-known newsdealer and first Lord of the Treasury, who represented the Strand district in Parliament, is on the plea of illness. It is understood, however, that Mr. Smith will not again assume the position of leader in the House; but will permanently retire, leaving the duties of that post to be filled, during the remainder of the session, by Mr. G. J. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer. This arrangement will be temporary, as next session Mr. Arthur James Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, will hold the reins.

Did Not Die With Parnell.

LONDON, July 16.—Earl Spencer, formerly Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in a speech at Royston, yesterday, declared that the policy of the Liberals in favor of home rule for Ireland was at present stronger than ever. The cry of the Conservatives that home rule was dead was utterly false. It was a living principle, and was as popular in English constituencies now as before disaster overtook the Parnellites. He declared that home rule would be the first proposal to be introduced in the next Liberal parliament.

A Criminal Assault.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 16.—News has just reached here of a horrible crime which was committed in a small village near Sussex, King's County, on Tuesday night. Two married men accompanied a sixteen-year-old girl home from a frolic and when near her house they took her into the woods and committed an assault. One man cleared out but the other was captured. An effort was made to-day to hush the matter up by an offer of $400. It is said the party will be prosecuted.

French Cabinet Defeated.

PARIS, July 17.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Mr. Lauer, a Boulangist deputy, revived the question of the Alsace-Lorraine passport regulations by interpellating the Government as to the manner in which the passport regulations were enforced.

There was great excitement when the result of the vote was announced and declared to be in favor of discussing the interpellation by 296 to 242. This result was due to a coalition of the Right, the Boulangists and the Radicals against the Cabinet.

Canadians Doing Well.

LONDON, July. 17.—The Canadian team is doing some good shooting in the first stage of the Queen's cup contest at Bisley. Although the Canadians have not secured the topmost places they are all well up in the list as the following scores show: Lieut. Davis, 85; Pte. Ellis, 87, Lieut. McAvity, 83, Sgt. Horsey, 83, Sgt. Henderson, 83, Sgt. Armstrong, 81, Pte. Kamberg, 81, Sgt. McVittie, 80, Sgt. Mitchell, 80.

Baron Hirsch and Jewish Colonization.

LONDON July 17.—Baron Hirsch writes that he intends to form a great English Company to carry out his Jewish Colonization scheme. He himself will take most of the shares, not for purposes of gain but to secure a business-like administration.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had to hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his fingernails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANET A. HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,271,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078 87
Increase over 1889	395,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222 68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " 1886, "	89,452 97
" " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

TALES FROM TORONTO.

CLOSING PROCEEDINGS OF THE TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

Preliminaries to the Formation of a Dominion Association The Street Railway Fight—The Esplanade Improvements Removal of Sick Children to the Island.

TORONTO, July 18.—A complete and exhaustive analysis of the railway returns show that one twenty thousand ten men visited Toronto this week. They came from all parts of the United States, and next year the great convention will be held in Helena, Montana, which has captured the prize. The largest assemblage yet seen in the Pavilion was at the last meeting there yesterday afternoon. The principal of the Normal school at Winnipeg, Mr. D. J. Goggin, read a fine paper on "Moral Education" followed by another on "Educational Propaganda," by Hon. A. J. Pickoff, of New York. Mr. John A. McDonald, of Topeka, Kansas, introduced the discussion of "The Independent District System," and was followed by Prof. E. E. Smith, of La Grange Georgia. These papers were finely written and ably discussed. "In Search of an Education" was the next topic, and it was discussed by Dr. Oronhyatekha, of this city. He gave an interesting statement of the Institution and work of the Indians of Ontario and was listened to with an interest almost intense. Evidently the Americans were impressed with not only the majestic presence of this last of his race (Mohawk), but with the ease of his delivery and the wisdom that character read it. His address was not only instructive but had sections of humor in it that relieved it as instanced and factual portions. At the close of his address Rev. Dr. Chamberlain, held up an address, communion service, or rather the pewter and silver, the chalice having been lost, and said it was presented to the Mohawk Nation by her Majesty Queen Anne in 1712. It was used in the state of New York to celebrate the Communion in the Church of England. During the revolutionary war it was buried as a matter of safety. Unfortunately, said the doctor, the white man knew where the treasure was concealed. It was then dug up and given to the Mohawks of Canada. From the great Chief Brant it went into the possession of that chief's granddaughter, the mother in law of Dr. Oronhyatekha, who loaned it to him to show it to the American visitors. The last meetings of the departments were likewise held yesterday afternoon, and the final meeting took place in the Metropolitan street rink last night at 8 o'clock. The elementary department, the department of higher education and the music department were all well attended, the papers and discussions interesting and the result helpful. A closing open reception to the visitors was given at the Board of Trade building, which was brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. Thousands participated in the delightful evening. Among the honors which come to Toronto is the election of Mrs. James L. Hughes to the presidency of the Kindergarten department of the N. E. A.

A DOMINION ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of Canadian teachers was held in the theatre of the Normal school at 9 o'clock yesterday to consider the advisability of forming a Dominion Association. Representatives from every Province in the Dominion were present, and the hall was comfortably filled, the sexes being about equally represented. Hon. G. W. Ross presided, and among those present and who spoke in favor of the idea were Hon. John Robertson, Premier and Minister of Education for British Columbia, Secretary Marsh, of the Bank of Education, St. John N. B., and Principal Calkin, of the Normal school, Truro, N. S., and Dr. Bingwash. A resolution was adopted favoring the formation of such an association, and a committee was appointed to nominate officers and arrange for a programme for the first meeting, the date of which that committee will fix.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

The city is all agog respecting the street railway prospects, and nothing is talked of in certain circles except the charges of bribing preferred against certain aldermen. At a private Hall yesterday afternoon Justice Robertson granted Mr. Wallbridge an order to restrain the city from selling the street railway franchise and plant to Kiely, Everett & Co., the motion for injunction to be brought up on Tuesday. During the afternoon Mr. Wallbridge issued a subpœna for Mr. Everett, of the Kiely, Everett Co., who is in the city from Cleveland, and another for Mr. Barwick Mahler. These two men will be examined to-day if possible, and following their testimony they will proceed to examine Aldermen Hewitt, Hall, Leslie, Saunders, Score, Small and J. E. Verral. Among others who will be examined on the outside is Mr. Abner Hall, J. K. Kemp, Q.C., and several others. Later the Kiely-Everett Co. was added as a co-defendant with the city. On the other hand Mr. Everett, the Cleveland capitalist, says he is ready and willing to go into the box at once and tell every blessed thing he knows about the matter and to show all accounts. He says the statement that Mr. Mahler attempted to bribe alderman is simply ridiculous. The Nationalists and the Trades and Labor Council will hold a mass meeting on Monday night, to which all the citizens are invited, to discuss the situation.

THE ESPLANADE IMPROVEMENT.

Within one month the work of carrying out the Esplanade improvements will be under way. The Mayor interviewed R. M. Wanless last night and the latter promised that the Canadian Pacific will commence its arrangements forthwith. As soon as the by-law has been formally approved in Council and the City Engineer returns, the city will commence on its share of the work.

IN THEIR BAKER'S HOME.

While all Toronto was busily concerned over the teachers' great convention an interesting and pathetic duty was being accomplished by a number of persons philanthropic in the extreme. It was the removal of thirty-five sick children from the hospital on Sherbourne and Lombard streets across the Bay to their summer dwelling, the new Lakeside Home. The poor little invalids were taken in the ambulance to the foot of Jarvis street, where a large scow was ready for their reception, comfortably arranged with stretchers. A tug towed the children over. Their pale little faces showed a deep appreciation of the outing. Arrived at the Island, they were carried by members of the Royal Grenadier Ambulance Corps to their new home, which was most attractively arranged for the reception of the new comers.

IS IT A CASE OF MURDER?

Fairbank, a small hamlet at the north end of Dufferin street, just beyond the city limits was stirred from centre to circumference yesterday by the death of a young woman named Handcock, eldest daughter of E. T. Handcock, 74 Barton avenue, under circumstances that are being investigated. It is supposed that she met her death from foul play, and an inquest was held in the afternoon with a view to ascertaining if there exists any foundation for the horrible suspicion entertained in the neighborhood regarding the manner in which the unfortunate young woman received the fatal wounds. The villagers are suspicious of a near relative, and the body is adjourned till next Tuesday to allow more time for investigation. Miss Handcock's skull was fractured, and she was unable to tell how she received her injuries.

TORONTO TOPICS IN A FEW LINES.

Word was received yesterday from Sault Ste. Marie that the four judges have dismissed the petition against the return of A. P. Campbell, the Conservative candidate elected in Algoma at the last election for the Local House, when he defeated R. A. Lyon, the Reform candidate.

Mr. Frank C. Wells, a proofreader in the Methodist book room, has won the first prize of $150 for the best paper sent Public Opinion, a Washington journal, on the trade relations of Canada and the United States.

Mr. Justice Street has granted an order for bail to Hodges, who is in London jail on a charge of murder, so that he may be removed to the hospital, as he is dying.

Amanda Forrest is suing the city for $2,000 damages for injuries accidentally received.

About 15 hotelkeepers have joined the ten cents a glass for whisky movement, and the battle grows warm. Mat Evans is selling for 10 cents, and the ten cent men will boycott the manufacturers who sell to him and other dealers at five cents.

The Executive Committee of the Dominion Live Stock Association met at two o'clock yesterday at the Albion hotel. Vice-President Cornelius Flannigan occupied the chair, and Secretary Wm. Cunningham, of Montreal, was present. Shipping matters were discussed at length, particularly the bill before Parliament. Hon. John Carling and Henry B. Tupper were highly commended for their interest in the live stock shipping.

TO SAVE THE SEALS.

The Commissioners in Victoria—A Delegation Waits on Them.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 18. A deputation of sealing men waited upon Sir Geo. Baden Powell and Dr. Dawson on board the steamer Dandie and presented a memorial setting forth the loss entailed by the prohibition of sealing. They stated they had not received any official notice of the closing of the Behring Sea, and consequently they had continued to prepare for the season. Sir Geo. stated that his view of the case was that the men of war had not gone to Behring Sea for the purpose of making seizures but to tell the sealing schooners that they were going to stop sealing on their the sealers interests.

In reply to a question as to the powers of the commission, Sir George said they had full power of enquiring into sealing through the whole course of the North Pacific Ocean.

Dr. Dawson said, "I don't think there is any fear of fur sealing being exterminated because I do not think the seal is an animal that can be exterminated."

A Boy's Sentimental Suicide.

NEWCASTLE, Ont., July 18. The body of Charles Crysler the 15 year-old son of the well known dentist Dr. Crysler of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was found yesterday lying across the graves of his mother in Oakwood Cemetery, Suspension Bridge, with the upper part of the head completely blown off. Alongside the body was lying a rifle. The awful suicide must have taken place sometime the evening before and from appearance the unfortunate young man must have sat down upon the grave of his mother, who was buried about a year ago, and deliberately placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and discharged it. No reason for the rash act other than of melancholy which took a firm hold on the young man since the loss of his mother whom he almost worshipped.

A Mowing Machine's Cruelty.

ALMONTE, Ont., July 18. While William Murphy, jr., was engaged in cutting hay on his farm, Fitzroy township, an eight-year-old son of William Anderson of Antrim village, went into the hay field, where he found a nest of young birds, and on young Murphy coming around to the place where the nest was, the little fellow made an earnest appeal to have the lives of the birds spared. The boy ran in front of the machine to show the exact location of the nest, and before Murphy could check the team, the cutting knife came in contact with the boy's right foot cutting it off.

Murderous Fun.

BERLIN, Ont., July 18.—Last night the village of Lexington, about three miles from here was the scene of a brutal attempt on the life of an old resident, named Zachmann. It appears that some young men living in Bridgeport last night visited Zachmann to have some fun, the result being that the old man received the contents of a shot-gun in the abdomen. It is reported that he is dying. Chief Klippen of this town has arrested the leaders of the gang.

Railway Strikers in France.

PARIS, July 18.—Six thousand railway strikers met yesterday and decided to send a deputation to the Chamber of Deputies to be escorted by a procession of all the strikers. The Western Railway Company is importing men from the provinces.

Canadians at Bisley.

LONDON, July 18.—The Canadians competing in the rifle contests at Bisley are winning many money prizes. They have won all the prizes in the London corporation match save one. Davidson won the corporation cup.

SOME RACY TESTIMONY.

HON. THOMAS M'GREEVY A MINISTER'S CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARY.

The Evidence Adduced at the Sessions of the Privileges and Elections Committee Yesterday—Ex-Chairman Valin of the Quebec Harbor Commission Testifies.

OTTAWA, July 18.—There was no meeting of the Committee on Public Accounts yesterday.

Before the Privileges and Elections Committee, Mr. P. V. Valin, ex-chairman of the Quebec Harbor Commission, was the first witness yesterday. He said he was a Harbor Commissioner in Quebec for about 12 years, and was most of that time a chairman. He was a member of parliament seven years and of the Quebec Legislature four years. He knew all about the south wall contract and was acquainted with the contractors, Gallagher and Murphy. He said the security given by these contractors was a certified check of $25,000 on the Union Bank of Canada. He repeated the story told by Mr. Verrat yesterday. That gentleman came to him and told him that Mr. Murphy had asked for the substitution of the firm's check for the certified check. Mr. Verrat then said that Murphy would have to get the consent of the Commission before the change could be made. Mr. Murphy said he did not like to go before the whole committee, and requested the witness, Mr. Valin, to give authority for the change. Witness refused, unless Thomas McGreevy's signature was obtained. Mr. McGreevy urged Mr. Valin to consent to the change, on the ground that they were all good fellows and should be helped along. Afterwards Mr. Verrat received Mr. McGreevy's letter authorizing the change, and meanwhile he (Verrat) made the change requested by the contractors. Mr. Verrat brought this letter of Thomas McGreevy's to the witness, and as the latter had not his spectacles, Mr. Verrat read the letter, which was to the effect that Thomas McGreevy had no objections to making the change. Mr. Thomas McGreevy afterwards told the witness that he had no objections, and that he had given a letter to that effect. Witness told Mr. Verrat to take good care of the letter. Mr. Verrat answered that he had put the letter safely away in an envelope. Mr. McGreevy always appeared to take a leading position in the Commission. In fact he always took the initiative. Mr. McGreevy told the witness that he was Sir Hector's confidential man. Witness said he had several conversations on this subject with Mr. McGreevy's authority with that gentleman. Witness called Sir Hector's attention to the leading part taken by Thomas McGreevy, and to certain votes cast by Mr. McGreevy in the Commission, for example, in the south wall, and he asked Sir Hector what his opinion was as to Mr. McGreevy's course. Witness told Sir Hector that the firm of Gallagher & Murphy might be confounded with that of Larkin, Connolly & Co., because Mr. Murphy was a member of both firms. Sir Hector told witness to follow Thos. McGreevy's advice in all things and everything would be all right. Thereafter whenever an important vote came up (witness) always consulted Mr. McGreevy. The Minister of Public Works told him often to follow Mr McGreevy in everything. Witness specially consulted Sir Hector with regard to the south wall contract because he anticipated trouble on account of Mr. Murphy's connection with both firms—Gallagher & Murphy and Larkin, Connolly & Co. He also consulted with the minister with regard to the dredging in 1887, and Sir Hector's answer was that he had seen Mr. Thomas McGreevy and he would tell witness everything to do. Witness said he wished to do the minister's will in all things, because the money was under his (Sir Hector's) control and he (witness) was his servant. When he witness signed the south wall contract, he knew nothing of the changes that had been made in the level of the sewer. It was only lately he learned that from Mr. Boswell. Mr. Boswell at first refused to tell anything of the change, saying that it was not his business to divulge secrets. He afterwards told the witness all about it.

He had a conversation with Mr. Thomas McGreevy in 1887 about Larkin, Connolly & Co. McGreevy told him that they had given him lots of money in the election. They were good fellows and ought to be taken care of. Sir Hector said Mr. McGreevy was displeased with the way they paid to the election funds. When as said Mr. McGreevy on one occasion Sir Boswell should be appointed before Mr. Perley resigned. McGreevy's answer was that Perley was old-school, and would have to be removed. (Laughter.) Mr. Chibot, in the commission shortly afterwards, proposed the appointment of Mr. Boswell and Mr. Lafortes Langevin, son of Sir Hector. He also consulted with Thomas McGreevy about the removal of Kinniple and Morris. Mr. McGreevy said that Kinniple and Morris must go. Mr. Murphy was always the man who acted for Larkin, Connolly & Co. Witness said that Sir Hector sent for him and told him that he had seen a note to Sir Hector that he was betrayed by his friends. Witness was asked to Sir Hector's house. He went there and was shown the newspaper article, "Betrayed by his friends." There were several electors there. Sir Hector asked witness if the article was true. Witness said it was false in one particular because it said that he (witness) went to see Mr. Foster, which he never did. The newspaper article went on to say that he witness was at Tarte's house and answered several indiscreet questions. To please Sir Hector the witness signed a general denial of this article. In answer to Mr. Geoffrion, witness said he had received subscriptions from Larkin, Connolly & Co. He took money once from Murphy for a poor man who was burned out on Montmorency. Mr. Murphy gave him $10. That day Murphy also gave him money for the local election of 1886. Witness denied having received $6,000 charged to him in the firm's accounts. He said he would accept Mr. Murphy's evidence on all money matters between them during the elections of 1887. He witness was a candidate. He told Mr. McGreevy that he had helped him during previous elections and he now wanted help himself. Mr. McGreevy gave him much money and as the polling day came near his (Valin's) agents told him that he must have more money. He applied to Thomas McGreevy, but Mr. McGreevy told him that the election in the County of Quebec was so expensive and the Ministers wanted so much that he McGreevy had no more to spare. Sir Adolphe was also away after him for money and Sir Hector in Three Rivers. He (witness) asked Sir Hector for money during that campaign, but Sir Hector referred him to Thomas McGreevy, who was in charge of all the cash. (Laughter.)

Julian Chabot, manager of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, said that Thomas McGreevy bought the steamer Admiral in 1887 for $70,000. McGreevy told him that he was a member of Parliament, and could not make a contract with the government, and therefore entered the boat in Chabot's name. In '84 a contract was made with the Dominion Government in Chabot's name, to form a connection with the Intercolonial for a subsidy of $12,500 a year. Each year a statement of the working was presented to Thomas McGreevy, and any profits handed over to him. Any portion of the subsidy which was profits was also handed over to Thomas McGreevy. The day preceding nomination day in the last election McGreevy made over the boat to N. J. Connolly, but there was no monetary consideration, so that Thomas McGreevy is still owner practically. The profits, witness said, were $6,000.

The Model Farm Examiners.

TORONTO, July 18.—Messrs. John I. Hobson of Mossboro and F. C. Hodson of London have just returned from visiting the farms between Toronto and Hastings County, competing for the medal offered by the Dominion Live Stock Association. Their decision has not yet been reached. They report fine crops and the prospects of a bountiful harvest.

Drowned Near Port Severn.

PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., July 18.—Oliver Charlebois, third son of Mr. Oliver Charlebois of Tiny overturned his canoe near Port Severn and was drowned before he could be rescued. Thee body was at once recovered and sent home for burial.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Absence of Mr. Senecal—A Dull Day in the Commons.

OTTAWA, July 18.—Mr. Laurier's suspicions regarding the continued absence from town of Mr. Senecal, Superintendent of the Printing Bureau, apparently were not quieted by the answers he received from Sir John Thompson. He returned to the question again yesterday.

When the orders of the day were called Mr. Laurier said he had enquired about the absence of the Superintendent of the Printing Bureau, and was told he was away on leave of absence. Is the leave of absence still running or has it expired?

Mr. Chapleau said that Mr. Senecal had asked for leave of absence on the special order of Dr. Clarence Church. The leave had not yet expired. He had communicated with the deputy-superintendent who said there was not pressing need for the superintendent in the office at present. The work was going on easily and well. The superintendent was expected back in a day or two.

Mr. Charlton said that if it was not necessary that the superintendent should be here at this time of the session he would inquire why they could not do without him altogether!

Mr. Chapleau said the superintendent had been ordered to go away by his physician.

A deputation of the Quebec General Mining Association, consisting of Hon. George Irvine, president; B. T. A. Bell, secretary, W. A. Allen, Hector McRae, J. Lainson Wills, Ottawa, and R. C. Adams, Anglo-Canadian Phos. Co., waited on Sir John Thompson this morning and urged the veto of Mercier's mining tax act on the ground of general injury to the phosphate industry. Sir John heard the arguments and promised consideration.

The debate on the budget was resumed and adjourned, and the House rose.

Ex-Warden Bedson Paralyzed.

OTTAWA, July 8.—Ex-Warden Bedson, of Stoney Mountain penitentiary, who arrived here a few days ago on a trip for the benefit of his health, was seized yesterday in the Victoria Chambers with a paralytic stroke. His right side is paralyzed and his condition, owing to feeble health, is looked on as critical. He died in the evening.

The deceased Warden was well-known in many parts of Canada. The son of a soldier he was born in the very rattle of arms and beating of drums. He and his brother John, formerly traveler for the Copland Brewing Company of Toronto, came to this country many years ago. Sam, as he was familiarly called, was appointed warden of the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, Manitoba, when it was opened and held the position up to a few months ago. He was a large-hearted, bluff, clever man with a great deal of go about him. He was perhaps best known to the general public as the owner of the only herd of buffaloes now remaining in the world.

Visiting Civilization.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 18.—H. B. Belanger, factor of the Hudson Company's post at Norway House, 300 miles north of Winnipeg, is in the city on his way east to visit friends, after fourteen years' absence from civilization. He has been in the Hudson Bay service 38 years and has only visited his friends three times in that period. He says the statement that that district is barren is false. He grows potatoes, turnips, wheat, barley, etc., and melons and tomatoes have been grown.

Elopement at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., July 18.—An elopement under rather romantic circumstances has just taken place from this city. For several weeks an organization known as the United Hebrew Dramatic Co. has been giving performances in this city and have met with liberal patronage from the Hebrew residents. Amongst the leading members of the company were Nathan Feldman and Miss Dinah Lowenthal. Yesterday they eloped. Before leaving Miss Lowenthal borrowed a silk dress from another young lady whom Feldman had promised to marry.

Walked a Cable Across Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 18.—The intrepid Dixon of Toronto successfully crossed Niagara gorge on his ¾ inch wire cable in presence 6000 or 7000 spectators yesterday afternoon. He appeared on the wire at the Canadian end precisely at 4 o'clock, as announced. When he reached the centre of the wire, immediately over the whirlpool rapids, he stretched himself out full length upon his back. Arising to his feet he proceeded upon his perilous journey to the American side, arriving there in safety. Dixon occupied just 10 minutes in crossing.

A Horrible Accident.

COLLINGWOOD, July 18.—At Emerson's mill a young lad about 16, eldest son of Mr. Carefoot, was standing near a belt that drives a grindstone. The large shaft on which the belt works runs very rapidly—about 350 revolutions per minute, but the grind-tone runs very slowly. The fingers seemed to have been first caught and were pulled out at the second joint, the hand was broken, the wrist mashed up, then the arm broken clean off between the elbow and the shoulder and thrown 20 feet from where the body fell.

Kills Self at Suspension Bridge.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 18. Henry Smith, night baggageman at the Erie Railway Depot, Suspension Bridge, N. Y., while running a truck loaded with baggage along the narrow walk between the railway track and the high baggage platform at the Suspension Bridge, was caught by train No. 101 on the Emerald about midnight last night and thrown under the wheels of the car. His body was frightfully mangled. Death was almost instantaneous.

Dead at the Bottom of a Well.

GALT, July 17.—Richard May, son of William May, of Puslinch, had been living at Aberdeen, N. D., for some years, where he was connected with the fire department. He got leave of absence for a few days to do some swelling on his claim a few miles out in the country. Not returning a search party was organized, who found his body in an old unused well on his farm. His death is shrouded in mystery as his money and watch were found on him.

Military Display Before Her Majesty.

LONDON, July 18. The Queen, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Anhalt and by Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, yesterday reviewed the regular troops at Aldershot. The weather was splendid and enormous crowds of people were present. The troops, numbering about 10,000 were ranged in line with the cavalry, comprising some of the finest regiments in the British service, massed on the right. The infantry was in the centre of the line, and the artillery on the left. The massed bands the various regiments played "God Save the Queen" as Her Majesty was driven up the reviewing stand. The Queen was enthusiastically received by the soldiers had marched past in fine style the line was re-formed, the soldiers saluted and the review was ended.

England's Colonizing Tendencies.

LONDON, July 18.—In connection with the announcement now made that the governments of Great Britain and Portugal are engaged in negotiations looking to the purchase of the former power of the Portuguese territory in Mozambique, it appears that Lord Salisbury has offered to pay the Portuguese Government the sum of two hundred million francs in consideration of the surrender to Great Britain of all the possessions of Portugal in Southeast Africa.

Advance in Australia.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 18.—Lord Jersey in opening Parliament yesterday announced bills entirely remodeling the electoral law and greatly extending the franchise among citizens, including women.

The question of the union of the Australian colonies will be introduced without delay in order to insure concurrent action by the other colonies.

Just as Good.

Say some dealers who try to sell a substitute preparation when a customer calls for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not allow any such false statements as this induce you to buy what you do not want. Remember that the only reason for making it is that a few cents more profit will be made on the substitute. Insist upon having the best medicine—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is peculiar to itself.

DOMINION VOTERS' LIST.

Now is the Time to get Your Name on the List.

Who are Entitled to Vote and How to go to Work to Secure a Place on the Lists.

The work of revising the Dominion voters' lists began some time ago. The sources from which the revising officers, according to law, are taking information are the old Dominion voters' list, the assessment roll, the Provincial and municipal voters' lists, and the solemn declarations of persons who deem themselves entitled to vote. To put in as many of these declarations as possible during the month of July is the business just now. By the working of the law, or by accident or by design, the names of Reformers may be omitted though they appear in all the now existing lists and polls; but the filing of a declaration, which costs no money and very little trouble, make matter safe. Forms of declaration can be procured through the local Reform Association or from W. T. R. Preston, Reform Club, Toronto. Let the declaration be got in now, so that they may be entered on the first printed lists. Here is a list of the different persons entitled to to vote:—

"Every person shall be entitled to be registered upon the list of voters, and so registered to vote if such person—

"Is of the full age of 21 years, and is a British subject by birth or naturalization, and not by law disqualified or prevented from voting, and

"(1) Is owner (or whose wife is owner) in any city of real property of the value of $300, or in any town of the value of $200, or in villages or townships of the value of $150, or

"(2) Is the tenant (or joint tenant, or works lands on shares) of any real property within the electoral district—under a lease—at a monthly rental of at least $2, or a quarterly rental of at least $6; or at half yearly rental of at least $12; or at an annual rental of at least $20; or when land is valued at $300 in cities, $200 in towns and $150 in other municipalities, and has been in possession thereof as such tenant for at least one year before his being placed upon such list of voters, or the date of the application for the placing of his name on the list of voters, and has really paid one year's rent for such real property, and at such rates.

"(3) Is the bona fide occupant (or whose wife is occupant) of real property for at least twelve months worth $300 in cities, $200 in towns, and $150 elsewhere.

"(4) Is a resident within the electoral district, and derives an income of at least $300 annually from his earnings in money, or money's worth, or partly in money and partly in money's worth, or from some profession, calling, office or trade, or from some investment in Canada, and has so derived such an income, and has been a resident of Canada for one year next before his being placed on the list of voters, or the date of the application for the placing of his name on the list of voters.

"(5) Every farmer's son not otherwise qualified to vote, residing one year with his father for the year next before his being placed on the list, provided that the value of the land which they occupy is sufficient when divided, to qualify one or more sons. If the value of the land is sufficient to qualify the father and all the sons who are of the required age, then the father and such sons are qualified in the order of their birth, until the exhaustion of the value of the property. If the father is dead, the sons who are of age, and who have lived for a year with their father or mother, will be qualified in the same manner, commencing always with the oldest, and until the exhaustion of the qualifying value of the property which they occupy with their mother.

"(6) Is the son of the owner of real estate other than a farm, not otherwise qualified, who has resided with his father for at least one year before the date of his application to be placed on the list, provided that the value of such real estate equally divided, is sufficient to qualify the father and one or more sons. If the father is dead, the sons of full age, residing with their mother for at least one year, can be placed on the voters list in the same manner.

"(7) Is son of tenant of farm not less than twenty acres, and leased for not less than five years, residing with his father for one year next before application to be placed on the list, provided the value of land which they occupy is sufficient, when divided, to qualify one or more sons.

"N.B.—The law provides that the term 'son' in the above paragraphs includes grandson, stepson and son-in-law, and the terms 'father' or 'mother' apply equally to Grandmother, father-in-law, mother-in-law, and stepmother.

"(8) Is a fisherman resident in the electoral district, and is the owner of real property and boats, nets and fishing gear and tackle, within any such electoral district, or of a share or share in a registered vessel, which together are of the actual value of at least $150.

"(9) Is and has been for one year next before his being placed upon the list of voters, or the date of the application for the placing of his name upon the list of voters, a resident within the electoral district, and in receipt of a life annuity secured on real estate in Canada, by virtue of a deed of donation, or any other title equivalent thereto, of at least $100 in money or money's worth, or partly in money and partly in money's worth.

"Two or more partners in the ownership lease or occupation of the same property have the right to be registered as voters, provided that the value of such property, the amount of the rent paid, equally divided between the parties, is sufficient to qualify all.

"Persons qualified to vote on income must be registered on the list of the polling district in which they reside; proprietors, in the district where the property on which they qualify is located.

"Farmers', owners' and tenants' sons must have resided with their father or mother, father-in-law or mother-in-law, as the case may be, during the twelve months preceding their demand to be placed on the list. Nevertheless, occasional absence not exceeding six months in this period will not prevent their registration; nor will the absence of sailors, fishermen, in the pursuit of their occupation, nor of students in attendance at any institution of learning in Canada, be considered for the purpose of the law as absence from residence of the father or mother, as the case may be."

The best way for the voter to proceed is to hand in his name to the local Reform Association, who will manage the whole business for him; but if there should be no association within convenient distance, let him write to Mr. Preston for a form of declaration, fill it in so as to show how he qualifies, make the declaration before a commissioner, and give it to the revising officer. In any case be sure the work is done before the 31st of July. The election campaign is being fought in these warm days, and ground lost now can hardly be recovered.

Desecrating Dominion Day.

The Welland Tribune thus partly puts the blame on the right shoulders:—Conservative papers have been doing some remarkable wriggling in the endeavor to shield the party from the odium of keeping Parliament in session over Dominion day, whilst just having adjourned over a whole day previous in honor of Saints' day. Do they take their readers to be fools? Surely they must know that the people know that the Government has control of the House by a majority of twenty, and is responsible for the management of the House and the business before it. If Government had desired the House should not sit on Dominion Day it had only to so order, and had the Grits not consented all their efforts to the contrary would have been utterly futile. Oh, no, it was not the Grits, but the old-fogy-old-policy party which is responsible for the desecration of our natal, national holiday.

Cold, cough, coffin is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

Hard Work.

Must I ever sit and scribble
Little verses by the bunch;
Must I always sit and nibble
Pencils for a poet's lunch?
Not much: I'll hie to regions rural,
Where the new potatoes grow,
Gayly chanting too-ral-oo-ral
Bravely wield the useful hoe.

Must I sit and grind out verses,
Try to ride a hobby pen;
Nay, I'll go where nature nurses
Chipmuncks far away from men.
Underneath the maples sprawling,
Won't it be a luxury?
Waiting there for some one calling,
Have a wash and come to tea.

Girls I'll help to pick the berries,
Thro' the ripening fields we'll roam,
Climb the trees for bee bit cherries,
Help the ladies bear them home.
Glycerine their little noses,
That the naughty sunbeams burn
And we'll make our thirst and woeses
In the deep and wholesome churn.

So I'll close this little version
And I'll have a holiday;
I will make a big excursion
Where the farmers save the hay.
In summer city life is tame,
Underneath my eyes are hollows;
It's mighty hard to sign one's name
To every sheet we print as follows:
—The Khan in Toronto World

To Avoid the Jar.

Every one knows that a sudden shock or jar, as in leaping and jumping, is felt less if the person rises at the moment on his toes. A naval officer and a friend were in the vicinity of a mine while some blasting was in progress. At the moment of the explosion the naval officer went through a series of peculiar gymnastics. His arms hung limp at his sides, his mouth was wide open and he stood on tiptoe.

"What is it? Are you hit by a stone?" asked the friend, a trifle anxiously.

"No; just an old memory," replied the officer. "That was a part of my manual of arms when I was on a man-of-war facing Vicksburg."

"I don't understand," remarked his friend.

"That's the way we used to stand when we fired a mortar," replied the officer. "It looked a bit curious at first to see forty or fifty men standing on their toes with their mouths wide open. But we were instructed to do it, and as it lessened the concussion caused by firing twenty-five pounds of gun-powder, we fell into it as into any other regulation, and thought no more of it. It did not seem ridiculous then, for it was a part of the art of war."—Detroit Free Press.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quills Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Wm. T. Glynn, Wilfred, Ont. dw

The Australian Commonwealth.

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle. dw

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, billiousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known. dw

ELECTROCUTION.

The New Method a Complete Success at Sing Sing.

THE DEATH EQUIPMENT.

Full Description of the Apparatus Which Deals a Swift, Sure and Painless Death

The Four Murderers Who Were Killed in One Hour and Sixty-three Minutes Portraits of the Executed and the Apparatus.

EATH, painless and instantaneous, was meted out to James M. Slocum, Harris A. Smiler, Joseph Wood and Schibiok Jugiro by means of electrical apparatus in Sing Sing (N. Y.) prison on Tuesday, 7th July. The approximate time of the turning on of the current in each case was: Slocum, 4:40; Smiler, 5:40; Wood, 5:50, and Jugiro, 6:05. The first man died at 4:43; the last at 6:06 a.m., one hour and sixty three minutes in all. There was no hitch, no harrowing spectacle, and the eye-witnesses of the executions pronounce electrocution a perfect success.

The condemned men had nothing romantic or otherwise interesting in their histories, and their crimes were of a common place and brutal sort. James J. Slocum was a baseball player. He lived at 7 Cherry street, New York, and on New Year's eve, 1890, he drained his wife with an ax. Judge Martine sentenced him to die in the week beginning May 5, but his case was appealed. Jugiro, the Jap, got into a row with some Japanese sailors in a New York James-street boarding house last winter and stabbed Mura Canni to death. He was first sentenced to die in February. Harris A. Smiler was a Salvation Army man with three wives. He shot one of them, Maggie Drainey, many times because she refused to live with him. This was on April 3, 1889, at 284 Seventh avenue, New York. He had been sentenced before, too. The negro, Joseph Wood, was an aqueduct laborer and killed an Italian named Carlo Ruffi in a pay-day row. His first sentence was for May, 1890.

SLOCUM.

SMILER

As all present at the electrocution were ordered to maintain secrecy, the exact details of the killing are not known. By some it was asserted that there were severe muscular contractions after the current was stopped, and that a second shock was given. By others it is denied that there was a second shock administered. One of the latter witnesses admits the severe muscular contractions after the current was turned off, and another witness asserts that one of the victims legs were burned. All agree, however, that death was painless and that electrocution as a means of capital punishment is proven to be a success.

DESCRIPTION OF THE APPARATUS.

The death chamber in the Sing Sing prison is a bare and suggestive looking if not gloomy place. There are three plain pine walls about fifteen feet high, and one brick wall which you soon discover to be the outside wall of the condemned prison, against the side of which the death chamber is built. A large steel door is in the middle of this brick wall. This leads into the condemned prison. The metal is painted dark green, and the door is swung in a setting of great square limestone blocks, giving it a substantial and firm-like look, in strong contrast to the flimsy character of the rest of the building. The opposite wall of the death chamber is cut by eight long narrow windows, which are set high up and are covered with thin muslin so that no one can be seen inside from without. There are four more of these windows, besides the entrance door in the east end of the room. The many windows, however, shaded as they are, admit very little light on a dull day, and light the place but dimly at best.

The death chair and the electrical apparatus occupy the west end of the room. The chair faces the east and stands upon a square of rubber carpeting in front of a chest about five feet square, within which stood the man who threw the fatal switch. The chair is similar to that used at Auburn in the execution of Kemmler. It is made of oak, and has a head rest on the back, arms and seat, but box covered with sheet rubber. Into the rubber the back of the head rest and seat is bound fast by a strap which catches the face securely about the chin and above the forehead, shading the eyes from observation. The accompanying picture accurately describes the chair. The "figure four" above the head rest is intended to hold the cup and sponge, which will be the positive electrode. The wire connecting this electrode with the dynamo will drop from a bracket above and pass through a hole in the "figure four" to the metal cup. There are straps provided to bind each arm and forearm to the chair. There is also a strap just below the waist at the bend of the legs to hold the body of the victim tightly back against the negative electrode, which will be another cup and sponge applied to the bare skin at the base of the spinal cord. Another strap binds the thighs tightly to the seat of the chair, and straps bind the legs to a foot rest extending forward. There are few improvements over the apparatus used at Auburn. There was an improvement in the form of cup and sponge electrode that makes it fit tighter to the head and spine than did the electrodes which Kemmler squirmed away from, and the straps holding the base of the spine to the negative electrode bind the body behind as well as in front.

THE CHAIR IN FRONT OF THE BOX.

Multum in Parvo.

Because a thing is small in size,
Think not 'twill pay to scorn it;
Some insects have a larger waist,
But lift less than the hornet.

Some people may, perhaps, scorn, on account of their diminutiveness, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. But a trial of them convinces the most scornful skeptic that they will cure constipation, dyspepsia, sick and bilious headache, quicker and surer than their large waisted competitors, the old-style pill.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus, diarrhœa and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept in the house. For 35 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 3w251

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—168 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete Body Battery. It has an independent battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Terrible Results of a Bee Sting.

A gentleman in the north part of the town last week was resting his bare foot on the window sill of his bed-room, when suddenly he felt a sharp pain and brushed off a honey bee and extracted the sting from his foot, which began to swell to an enormous size. Strange to say the swelling still continues though there is no soreness in the enormously enlarged foot As his business requires him to be abroad he has been compelled to send to Lindsay for a girl's shoe to wear on it, but his wife still buys her tea at hawley bros.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c, at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Daly's New Horse.

The friends of Mr. J. J. Daly in town will be interested in being informed by the Lindsay Post that Mr. J. J. Daly this week made another valuable acquisition to his equine interests by the purchase from Mr. J. W. St. John of the noted trotting gelding Blackstone, 2.27¼. Blackstone commenced his career in the show ring, and has won first honors at the leading fairs not only as a harness performer but also under the saddle. The Toronto Sportsman in a recent issue published an excellent cut of Blackstone, and gave a somewhat lengthy resume of his career, from which is taken the following:—"During last trotting season he started in about seventeen races and won fifteen first monies, going into winter quarters with a record of 2.29½. This year he has already won several first class races and has reduced his mark to 2.27¼. It would be difficult to imagine a more level headed trotter than Blackstone, he moves like a piece of machinery, and has trotted thirty five heats without leaving his feet He is also a horse of bull-dog courage and when fit no race is too long for him." May his shadow never grow less, say we—all of us.

A.O.A. Camp.

Mr. Smiff Gives Some Details of Interest.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—To-day, Friday, is the opening day of the Northern Divisional meet of the American Canoe Association, at the south end of the Big Island. Mr. J. Jackman, who has now several years' experience in preparation and taking care of the camp grounds, has been on the island for the last week, and has succeeded in getting everything into good order. Mr. J. T. Robinson has his store on a large scow, which will also form a landing. The prog department is one of the most important features in connection with a camp, and the committee has done well in arranging that this division shall be under the management of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Garlick, whose experience in conducting the Forest House is a sufficient guarantee that the inner man of the campers will be fully gratified. A tent 40x65 and 27 ft. in height at the centre, has been erected, part of which has been used as a dining hall, and for wet days or meetings of an evening, will be invaluable. A great number have signified their intention of visiting the Camp, indeed, several parties are already on hand, and the prospects are most promising. Next week there will be several cruises to various points around, that will afford opportunity for enjoying the scenery of the neighborhood. If the weather only turns out favourable, there will be a right jolly time. Parties, not members, of the A.C.A., are warned not to land on the sout end of the Big Island, as it is leased to the Canoe Association. For non-members permission to land must be obtained from the Vice-Commodore, Upton.

Police Court.

SATURDAY, July 18th.

At the court this morning Mrs. Elizabeth Vought appeared in the rather novel role of prosecutor. She had arraigned a young man who, in the interests of his father who owned the house which Mrs. Vought did not leave with sufficient promptitude, used unlawful violence in facilitating her departure A fine of $5 and $4 costs was imposed and paid.

Enos Dunsford was arraigned in connection with his assault on B. M. Wylie. He was allowed to go on bail to appear on the 26th, on account of the death of his child.

A High Commendation.

A day or two ago Mr. W. L. E. Marsh of the legal firm of Beatty, Chadwick, Blackstock and Galt was in town. His firm does it is said the largest conveyancing business in the province, and therefore it is necessary to have to do with numerous registry offices. It is high praise indeed when Mr. Marsh who has abundant opportunities for comparison, says that the Peterborough registry office is the best managed office in Ontario.

West Riding License Commissioners.

A meeting of the Board of West Riding License Commissioners was held at Lakefield on Friday. There were present, Mr. Robt. Watson, chairman, Mr. T. Dolan and Mr. R. Graham. The business before the Board was the application of Mr. L. G. Fobert for the transfer of his license from the old Pope House, in the village of Bridgenorth, to the new, commodious and elegant hotel in Chemong Park. The application was accompanied by a petition containing the requisite number of signatures, and the application for the transfer was granted and the Board adjourned.

A Narrow Escape.

The four employees—Messrs. Wigmore, Spence, Squires, and Stephenson, at the cheese factory, Norwood, had a strange and startling experience on Tuesday last. They all breakfasted at Mr. Hugh Sprenle's, and went to work as usual. Shortly afterwards, the quartette, one of whom was engaged drawing milk to the factory, the other three being at work in the factory, were almost simultaneously overcome with death y sickness. Severe vomiting followed, and the men were drawn home on a waggon, and medical aid immediately summoned. For a time it looked as though the illness might prove fatal, but in the course of a few hours the afflicted men began to recover, and all but Mr. Squires, who is still quite ill, were able to resume work next day. The illness was undoubtedly caused by poison in the stomach, but where it came from is a mystery yet to be solved.—Norwood Register.

Timber Cullers' Examination.

The examinations under the Timber Cullers' Act recently enacted, were conducted at the following places by the gentlemen named. In Peterborough by Mr. W. D. McDonald, Crown Timber agent at Ottawa, chairman, J. W. Smith Peterborough and Mr. Moran of Ottawa. In Belleville by Mr. Halliday Chairman, Mr. D. H. Moore Peterborough and Mr. McKendry, Arnprior. At Arnprior by Mr. W. R. Aylsworth Chairman, and Mr. T. Lodgate and and W. Chamberlain. In Ottawa by Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Crown Timber Agent, Peterborough, chairman: Mr. Kennedy, of Pembroke, and Mr. Lovering, of the Georgian Bay Lumbering Company. There were thirty nine candidates presented themselves in Ottawa, fifty-two at Arnprior, thirty-one in Belleville and twenty one in Peterborough. The names of the successful candidates will not be made public until after the examiners have reported to the Department of Crown Lands, Toronto, but it is understood that a large percentage of those who presented themselves passed the examinations successfully.

REID, GILMOUR & CO.

Their Biscuit and Confectionery Works Humming.

A Run Through a Busy Establishment—Cursory Description of the Works, Thoroughly Equipped, Fully Manned and Running Like Clockwork—The Products of the Factory—Promising Prospects of Big Business.

The value of first impressions is emphasized by the fact that about fifteen years ago Mr. J. B. Reid, senior member of the firm of Reid, Gilmour & Co., in his capacity of representative of an eastern confectionery firm, became acquainted with the town and the favourable impressions received at that time only deepened as opportunities of further acquaintance presented. Therefore when his energies demanded opportunity for full play he naturally sought Peterborough as a commercial locality. The project of establishing the present works in Peterborough was agreed upon with Mr. Albert Gilmour and the two visited the town, with the result that now on Simcoe street a large properly equipped, and well managed biscuit and confectionery factory is in operation, a brief description of which is given below.

About the beginning of April work was begun on the preparation of new buildings for the business and on the first of July, the factory started operations.

On entering the building from Simcoe st, the visitor finds on the right hand side the private office and sample room, and the business office on the left. Immediately in the rear of this is the shipping department, with a door giving upon the yard. Next behind this, a door to the left of the stairway leading to the second floor, admits to the bake shop, which is late of Toronto. The first object of attention here is the trough in which is prepared the dough, which is passed to a mixer, the essential part of which is a revolving screw which mixes the mass and forces it out of a funnel. The dough is then passed to a large table, and from this to a coarse brake, consisting of two steel rollers, and next to a finer brake of similar construction, from which the plastic biscuit material comes out in the shape of a long thin ribbon about twenty inches wide. It then goes to the cutting machine, being carried on an endless belt, kept automatically dusted with flour, through a third brake, and thence underneath a cutter, which cuts and stamps the biscuits, which are then placed on pans and put in the oven, the mouth of which is at the rear end of the cutting machine. The oven consists of a series of twelve iron shelves, suspended on an axle in such a manner that they remain horizontal as they revolve, and the pans of biscuits, being placed on these shelves, are subjected to a uniform degree of heat. The oven is heated by two hard coal furnaces in the basement, and has a capacity of between fifteen and twenty barrels daily. The same general process is employed in the manufacture of other cakes turned out by the firm.

IN CHARGE OF MR. HENRY BRADLEY,

Alongside the oven is the engine room, where a fifteen-horse power Goldie & McCallough engine furnishes power for revolving the oven shelves, and the machinery in the bake shop, which is of the most modern and approved patterns. In the rear of the engine room is a twenty-horse power steel boiler, Hamilton Company make. The engine room is in the capable charge of Mr. Edward Morency.

The front portion of the bake room is used for packing cakes and biscuits into boxes, ready for shipment.

Underneath the first floor is a spacious basement for storing the stock used in the different processes—sugar, lard, etc., and from which a cylender hoist extends through all the floors to the top story.

Upon ascending the stairs to

THE SECOND FLOOR

the visitor finds himself in the boiling room of the confectionery department. In this space, which occupies the middle part of the building, are the requisite appliances for treating the sugar for the kinds of candy known as sticks, mixtures and the different kinds of gross goods in the common candy line. In another part of this compartment are found the improved cutting machines for cutting Japanese cocoanut candy, and, conveniently placed, a machine for grating the cocoanut. Here also will be noticed a complete equipment of furnaces, cooling slabs, steam heaters and a large assortment of rollers and moulds for the different kinds of candy, and adjoining this is the lozenge department, where the usual candies of this kind is made. The rear part of this floor is known as the cream room, where are made cream, chocolate and gum goods. This room is finely equipped with improved double jacketted steam cooking kettles, steam heater for melting chocolate, marble cream slabs, and a full assortment of tools, moulds and other utensils for the kind of confectionery made here. Off this room are two drying rooms, heated to about 190°, their floors being formed by the roof of the oven on the floor below. Here the confectionery is dried, and in a room adjoining is the moulding room where impressions are made, in trays filled with moulding starch, and on this floor the candies are packed in boxes by girls. Mr. Thomas Nelson has charge of the candy department, which represents a paradise to the school girl and the small boy.

The third floor is devoted chiefly to storage and packing purposes. Here will be noticed several hands busily engaged in the work of putting up

PRIZE POP CORN PACKAGES.

Little tissue paper bags are filled with the pop-corn and some sort of prize. These prizes which are chiefly high art jewelery and porcelain statuettes are enclosed one in each little bright hued package. There can be seen sapphire studded scarf pins, brooches, etc., by the bushel, made in Austria. This is one of the specialties of the firm and a department of momentous interest to the children. A part of this floor is used also for storing the boxes used in packing

An informal list of the principal goods this firm produces in the food line may be of interest. Although only running a short time the works have turned out a

GOOD STOCK OF THE FOLLOWING LINES:—

Sodas, wine abernethys, lemons, sultanas, teas arrowroots, jumbles, brown meal cookies, graham wafers besides a large number of fancy varieties such as school cake, grandmas cookies, killarneys, ginger tablets, imperial mixed and nelson tarts and several varieties of jumbles and cookies, altogether some thirty or forty different varieties of cookies, biscuits and cakes. The firm has already a large trade in 3-lb. caddies of sodas, which are put up in boxes with beautifully lithographed and illuminated labels covering the top and sides of the box.

In the confectionery department the manufactures include the different lines of boxed goods—lozenges, mints, creams, chocolates, gum caudies and a large assortment of gross of count candies, terms which the trade will understand and which the public, who have a sweet tooth, know means something good.

The members of the firm, though comparatively young in years, are old in experience—they know the world and how great a factor intrinsic value, backed by good appearances, is in begetting trade. Therefore, next to making the best goods the experience of the past and the skill of the present can produce, of putting up their goods in an attractive and tasty manner, especially their confectionery goods; scrupulous cleanliness is the rule in every part of the building and process of manufacture, and to these conditions, as well as the solid quality of their output, is due the success which their travelling representatives are meeting abroad. Mr. W. L. Reid, brother of the senior member of the firm taking the principal points accessible by rail, while Mr. Geo. G. Pope's territory includes the country towns and villages which are not on railway lines.

THEY MAKE A SPECIAL POINT

The operations and success of the firm's travellers will it is hoped, by opening new avenues of trade, necessitate the employment of additional hands to the twenty-three which the firm at the beginning of operations, with a demand for their goods to be created, employ in their production. The condition upon which the firm secured exemption from taxation was that of beginning operations with a staff of twenty employes, but they have done better and now have twenty-three on the pay roll, to which more will soon have to be added. The firm also believes in patronising home industries. Their paper boxes for candies and 3-lb parcels are made by Mr. E. McCabe, and Mr. Arthur Rutherford supplies the larger biscuit boxes.

THE EXAMINER joins with the rest of the citizens in heartily welcoming to Peterborough Messrs. Reid, Gilmour & Co., and their thrifty, well equipped and well managed manufactory, believing that we have in them an alliterative trio of good qualities, good crackers, good candies and good citizens.

A Wonderful Escape.

He Ran the Rapids in a Row-Boat.

(Montreal Witness.)

The following, no doubt, is one of the most remarkable cases of running the Lachine Rapids that has ever been heard of. It was stated in last night's issue that a man named Robert Hamilton had been found in a row-boat opposite St. Helen's Island. The man was found to be insane. All the asylums were telephoned to by the police to find out from which of them he had escaped. This morning a farmer from Chateauguay named James Hamilton walked into the Central Police Station and said he was the father of the man who had been found in the boat. He then told the officials the following story:—

"Eight years ago my son had a sunstroke, which seemed to impair his mind. Every year since his condition has been getting worse. His mother could not bear to send him to an asylum, and as he was not dangerous we kept him at home. He was very fond of rowing; and the night before last he got into an old flat bottomed, ricketty boat, worth about $2 50, and said he was going out for a little row. As he did not turn up by midnight I got a party of men to go with me and try and find him. We rowed all that night and visited among other places St. Anns and Pointe Claire. No one had seen him. We searched till yesterday afternoon, but without success. Finally, we went to Lachine, where I was handed a telegram from a friend of mine in Montreal, which stated that he had seen an account in the Witness of my son Robert being found in Montreal. I came to town at once. My son told me he had gone to sleep in the boat and had slept till he had drifted below Lachine. He had then decided to run the rapids. God must have taken care of my poor boy in that dreadful place."

The poor father, as he said these last words, burst into tears and sobbed as if his heart would break. The son is to be sent to the Verdun Asylum, as his condition is daily growing worse.

Personal.

Mr. R. M. Christopher, of Port, Hope, is spending a few days in town, the guest of Mr. Joseph Phelan.

Mr. F. P. Duffy, of Cobourg, is visiting friends in town. He is the guest of Mr. A. E. Hurley, Brock street.
